[Text] Since the beginning of the victorious Moharram operations, more than 150,000 mines and 1,500 drums containing explosives have been found and defused in the Moharram operation zone. An informed official in the Karbala' Headquarters told an IRNA correspondent: The cowardly and demoralized enemy planted about 600,000 various types of antitank, antivehicle and antipersonnel mines and large numbers of 20 to 220 liter drums containing explosives to be detonated when the forces of Islam launched an attack. However, the lightning attack launched by Islam's combatants was so rapid that the defeated Iraqi forces did not have time to detonate the drums.

IRAQI POSITIONS SHELLED EAST OF AL-BASRA

LD172036 Tehran IRNA in English 1938 GMT 17 Nov 82

[Text] Ahvaz, Nov 17 IRNA -- Thirty Iraqi soldiers were killed over the past 24 hours as the enemy's positions east of Al-Basra and in the Ramadan theatre of the southern fronts came under the fire of the Islamic combatants.

Also, eight more Iraqis were killed or wounded and the enemy's vehicles movements on the Al-Faw-Al-Basra logistical route were halted when the Iranian artillery fire smashed three Iraqi group bunkers, seven dug-outs and one lookout post on the Kushk's southern axis and beyond the Arvand Rud.

Meanwhile, two innocent people of Abadan were wounded and four houses were demolished by the Iraqi artillery fire which also caused fires in two sectors during this same time.

At 12:20 hours local time today, two Iraqi war planes violated Abadan's air space but were immediately repulsed, without carrying out any mission, by the Iranian air defence fire.

CLERGYMEN SENT FROM QOM TO BATTLEFRONTS

LD171756 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1430 GMT 17 Nov 82

[Text] According to IRNA, following the religious edict issued by the imam of the umma' and on the basis of the suggestion of Ayatollah Montazeri about the need for the active presence of the committed clergy on the battlefields of the imposed war, more than 350 brother clergymen and jurisconsults from the Qom religious seminary were sent to the battlefields of the war between truth and falsehood by the religious publicity bureau in Qom.

According to the same report, a group of fighters from the mobilization units of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps also left Qom this morning for the battlefields amid an enthusiastic send off by the martyr-nurturing people of that town.

OPERATIONS AGAINST 'COUNTERREVOLUTIONARIES'

LD171744 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 17 Nov 82

[Text] A dispatch from the Hamzeh Seyyed as-Shohada Headquarters following the liberation of the important strategic Piranshahr-Sar Dasht highway reports that the Islamic combatants have embarked on consolidating their positions on both sides of that axis and are defending it with might and main.

Islam's victorious combatants in a series of coordinated operations this morning succeeded in liberating another 15 km of the Sar Dasht-Mahabad axis and also the (Hamran) heights in the region occupied for a considerable time by counterrevolutionaries subservient to world arrogance and in completely mopping up 15 villages on the same axis.

Yesterday, the self-sacrificing combatants defending the Islamic revolution also succeeded in attacking a group of people from the pro-U.S. hypocrites minigroup on the run, who imagined that Kurdestan was a safe haven from the arm of justice, in the [word indistinct] region 35 km from the Sar Dasht-Mahabad axis. They destroyed two vehicles, killing a number of these people.

CLANDESTINE: KURDISH RADIO STILL OPERATIONAL

GF171805 (Clandestine) Free Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1500 GMT 17 Nov 82

[Text] We start our news today with a report from Kurdestan. The radio of Iranian Kurdestan continues to broadcast its programs against Khomeyni's regime. Our correspondent in Azarbayjan in a dispatch sent to us this afternoon -- we received it at our clandestine headquarters moments ago -- states that he has heard the Democratic Party radio and thus the report by the dishonored radio of the Islamic Republic is a lie.

The occupied Tehran radio, the voice of the dishonored regime of Khomeyni, had reported that guards had taken 90 km of Sar Dasht-Piranshahr road and while pushing the Kurdish fighters back, had managed to destroy the Democratic Party's transmitter. Our correspondent reports the regime's guards in their battle with Kurdish fighters destroyed one transformer and its associated distribution system and then reported that they had destroyed the Democrat's radio transmitter. The radio cannot be heard in most parts of the country and can only be heard on the border areas. This radio has been broadcasting programs against the antinationalist regime of Khomeyni for nearly 3 years.

EMIGRE PUBLICATION LOOKS AT PLOT AGAINST ARMY

GF161744 Paris ARA in Persian 7 Oct 82 p 1

[Text] Khomeyni's cronies intend to weaken the Iranian Armed Forces and destroy the remainder of the large and nationalist Iranian army. They started with the murder of the generals and commanders and then a rumor that the lower echelons are of the masses and innocent and will not be harmed. This trick and the lies continue.

The truth is that the Khomeyni regime cannot stand one armed forces member and secretly is trying to destroy the 100,000 officers, commanders and NCO's. The imposed war between Iran and Iraq is the result of Khomeyni's sense of personal revenge.

Khomeyni is trying to take his revenge on Saddam Husayn and every single Iranian army member. He is trying to kill two birds with one stone, that is, to destroy the Iranian army using Saddam's army and to destroy Saddam through the Iranian army. Khomeyni's stupidity was in not realizing that a mobilization of the army against Iraq would become some form of nationalist Iranian mobilization. He did not understand that by attacking Iraq, he would be strengthening Iraqi nationalism and when he realized that his trick was not working and the Iranian army was defending each part of the homeland with ultimate sacrifice and had recaptured its position and self-esteem, he started to use other means to get rid of this victorious and honorable army.

He started his work by infiltrating the mercenary and sly guards into various parts of the army and daily added to their false power. This reached the level that these illiterate ruffians now think themselves fit to make decisions on strategic and very important military issues. However, this trick of the regime failed and caused reactions in the army, which ended in unity, cooperation and secret or open resistance.

Guards who gradually began to realize the depth and intensity of military issues began to compare their job on the fronts with idleness and an easy time in Tehran and their extortions in Tehran and other cities. They started to return to the towns and cities, using the excuse of the victory in the war and began their complaints.

Some of them even started feigning illness to avoid going to the fronts and for the sake of continuing their highly paid illegal businesses in Tehran and other cities. Others started to doubt the basis of the need for the war with Iraq and openly started arguing with their parasitic masters in Tehran.

A worried Khomeyni announced that the guards are not allowed to shirk responsibility and the mullahs set them in highly paid jobs in the cities. They sent a new bunch to the fronts. This time, the armed forces on the basis of their natural self-esteem stopped them from any intervention and thus took the initiative from the guards. This, of course, is intolerable to Khomeyni and his selfish regime.

We have definite information concerning plans designed by extremist groups, directly connected to Khomeyni, against all Iranian Armed Forces personnel at every level. These traitorous plans are based on the massacre of garrisons using the excuse of coup attempts, uprisings, cooperation with the hypocrites and counterrevolutionaries and insulting Islam and the imam. The various types of plans and their parts are clear to us and some of them follow:

-- Deliberate explosions at garrisons
-- Poisoning food in the mess kichens of the garrisons
-- Causing an uprising of the soldiers against officers and NCO's
-- Arson in armories
-- Creating private arguments and clashes and using the opportunities as they arise
-- Planting anti-Khomeyni publications in the garrisons, discovering them and using the excuse to destroy targeted people in garrisons
-- Infiltrating regime's elements among the military ranks by branding them counterrevolutionaries and then arresting people for contact with such counterrevolutionaries

These are parts of an extensive plot that may at any moment endanger the lives of hundreds of thousands of Iranian officers and NCO's. Of course, some of these plots take on a nationalist color such as the plan for attacking Baghdad. We are certain that the awareness of the armed forces will neutralize all such plots. We are certain that the wolf of Jamaran and his cronies will go to the lowest level of hell before they succeed in weakening the Iranian army and its personnel.

However, we warn the sacrificing people of Iran to intensify their cooperation and unity with the armed forces and honor, be kind and look after these dear and zealous soldiers. We warn the families of armed forces personnel to keep a vigil and look after their houses and their lives. We warn the people of Iran that the army is the backbone of the country and they have to stand behind it and watch events.

The army and armed forces personnel never pointed a gun at their own people. They are the children of Iran who ensure its security and development. Cut off the hands of Khomeyni's cronies, leftist Moscowvites and leftist Islamists from the holy body of the garrisons. The army is the recapturer and the reconstructor of Iran.

Egypt

President Husni Mubarak declared in a NEW YORK TIMES interview reported by MENA that the recall of Egypt's ambassador from Israel was the least he could do after Israel's actions in Lebanon. Turning to Egyptian-Soviet relations, Mubarak said it is natural for Egypt to have diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union, which has an embassy in Cairo but lacks an ambassador. The exchange of ambassadors between Egypt and the Soviet Union would not necessarily impair Egypt's relations with the United States, with which Egypt has a special relationship that cannot be abandoned, Mubarak added.

The Cairo paper ASH-SHA'B reported on 9 November that Egyptian-Soviet consultations are currently underway regarding the exchange of ambassadors between Egypt and the Soviet Union.

PLO

Fatah Decisions -- Noting that the restoration of relations with Egypt will be one of the items on the agenda of the 19 November PLO Central Council meeting in Damascus, the Kuwaiti paper AL-ANBA' said the Fatah Central Committee recently approved such a restoration of relations and decided to appoint Fatah Central Committee member Hayil 'Abd al-Hamid as the new PLO representative in Cairo, subject to Central Council approval. According to the AL-ANBA' report, which cited Palestinian sources, the Fatah leadership also decided to suspend the membership of one of its Central Committee members because of his "noncommittal stances."

DFLP on Reagan -- Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine (DFLP) leaders met with the Syrian prime minister and both sides reaffirmed that President Ronald Reagan's peace plan contradicts the Palestinian people's right to self-determination, to return and to establish their own independent state, a DFLP statement broadcast by Damascus radio announced. The DFLP and Syrian leaders also stressed the importance of the Palestinian-Syrian alliance in resisting U.S. and Israeli plans, the statement added.

Lebanon

U.S. Mediators -- U.S. Assistant Secretary for Near Eastern Affairs Morris Draper returned to Beirut from Tel Aviv on 18 November and U.S. special envoy Philip Habib is scheduled to arrive in Beirut on 19 November, according to Voice of Lebanon and Beirut radio reports.

Security Situation -- An IDF patrol in Sidon came under fire on the morning of 19 November, Voice of Lebanon radio reported. The previous day, an explosion injured five people in the Ash-Shiyah area of Beirut and two more people were injured by a handgrenade in the Al-Hamra' area, the radio said. Meanwhile, armed men continued to block roads in the Ash-Shuf hills, where "a state of caution and anxiety prevails," according to Beirut radio. The clandestine Radio Free Lebanon said the Phalangist Lebanese Forces have warned Druze militia to withdraw from positions around some of the Christian villages. In a statement reported by Beirut radio, Prime Minister Shafiq al-Wazzan again criticized the Israelis for making the Lebanese Army's entry into the Ash-Shuf hills impossible and he claimed that "alien hands" are attempting to stir up sedition in the area. While Ash-Shuf was quiet throughout the Israeli invasion even though local leaders disagreed strongly, the area is now simmering despite the accord among its leaders, he pointed out.

Israel

The United States has decided to increase its direct intervention in West Bank and Gaza Strip affairs, MA'ARIV reported on 19 November. Noting U.S. contacts with Arab notables in the occupied territories, MA'ARIV said the United States is trying to expand its relations with Palestinian figures who may participate in the autonomy negotiations.

Iran-Iraq Conflict

Iraqi Opposition -- Deputies of Iran's Majlis issued a statement declaring that the formation of the Supreme Council of the Islamic Revolution of Iraq heralds the imminent victory of the Muslim Iraqi nation against Satan and the downfall of the Saddam Husayn regime, Tehran radio reported. According to IRNA, the Iraqi Islamic opposition Ad-Dawah Party has announced support for the new council.

Claimed Execution of Prisoners -- Following Iraqi reports that Iran has executed Iraqi POW's, IRNA announced that Iran has captured documents proving that all Iraqi military units have been instructed to execute captured members of Iran's Islamic Revolution Guards Corps.

Iran

Relations With UAE -- During a visit to the UAE, an Iranian envoy told a news conference that the UAE is a "progressive country led by wise men who recognize the importance of Iran in the region," the Dubayy daily KHALEEJ TIMES reported.

Khomeyni on Council of Experts -- Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni stressed in a speech broadcast by Tehran radio that all should participate in the forthcoming election for the Council of Experts. Khomeyni criticized "a number of gentlemen" who have opposed establishing the council. According to IRNA, the election is scheduled for 10 December.

Afghanistan

A BAKHTAR announcement broadcast by Kabul radio admitted that a recent traffic accident in the Salang Pass tunnel caused "loss of human life" but denied Western news reports about the accident.

GCC

Kuwait has submitted "comprehensive and clear" proposals on the GCC's recently postponed security agreement, QNA reported citing the Kuwait paper AL-QABAS.

OAU

No agreement has been reached on which of the rival Chadian delegations will occupy Chad's seat at the OAU ministerial conference in Tripoli, AFP reported. The foreign minister of Hissein Habre's government in Ndjamena, Idriss Miskine, accused Libya of preparing to occupy northern Chad and said the Libyans aim to use the OAU to legalize their military interference in the country, AFP noted.

BK190812 Hong Kong AFP in English 0750 GMT 19 Nov 82

[By Dilip Ganguly]

[Text] New Delhi, Nov. 19 (AFP) -- Hours before the opening ot the ninth Asian games here this afternoon, police cordoned off a Sikh temple in central Delhi where 300 to 400 Sikh separatists planned to march at 1300 local (0730 GMT).

Sikh leaders told AFP that they were determined to go on with the procession, despite a ban last week on the assembly of more than five people in public places, carrying of arms and rumormongering in the federally administered Indian capital.

However, the striking staff of the state-owned radio and television networks in India took some of the pressure off the games organisers when they decided last night to suspend their action for a bonus and other demands. The strike would have affected the games coverage severely.

As hundreds of policemen, backed up by unspecified number of paramilitary forces, were guarding the temple routes, area Police Chief Hari Dev said he had "orders from the top" not to allow the Sikhs "to proceed either to the main stadium (the venue of the games' opening ceremony) or the prime minister's residence."

In addition the administration here has empowered the security forces manning the main stadium and other points in the city to shoot at sight anyone "throwing explosives or creating trouble during the Asian games period," an official statement said late yesterday.

The administration, when contacted did not deny the statement which appeared in local English-language daily STATESMAN, but a spokesman said he pleaded with Indian newsmen who were given the statement yesterday to change the expression "being fired at" to "be dealt with severely."

The statement read: "Any person found throwing explosives or any other substance or material capable of endangering human life or disrupting public order would expose himself to the possibility of being fired at by security personnel."

Officials confirmed another report in the English-language daily HINDUSTAN TIMES that commandos have been stationed inside the main stadium with an order to "take action" at anyone including in "any kind of violent act."

The commandos will mingle with the 75,000 spectators who will witness the games being inaugurated by President Zail Singh in the afternoon.

Meanwhile, commenting on local press reports today that a last minute accord was in the offing, Prakash Singh Majitha who will lead today's march said: "There has been no instruction to the contrary from our party high command."

Police Chief Mr Dev said that Sikh demostrators could be arrested for violating the assembly ban, but "the police today will not take any kind of action other than arresting the demonstators, but then it will depend on the Sikhs... They should not become violent.

However, a federal intelligence report said the Sikhs who had taken a hard stand yesterday climaxing in a party directive to its deputies in the Punjab assembly and in the parliament to resign, might not resort to violence. "They may take out the procession and might not resist when the police will arrest them." an official said.

Police shot dead five Sikhs in the Indian capital last month when they clashed with the police near the parliament house here. The Sikhs who dominate India's northern Punjab state which borders Pakistan, had come here to back their demands for greater autonomy and religious concessions.

Meanwhile, in a last minute bid the federal government of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi sent a senior official to the Sikh holy city of Amritsar last night to persuade the Sikhs to come to a settlement. A special plane flew the official and Sikh leaders from here. There was, however, no report on the fate of the mission.

Sikh sources said that over 100 people have died in police firing and related incidents Over 45,000 Sikhs have so far courted arrest -- a traditional Indian way of protest. However, majority of them were released as a goodwill gesture by Mrs Gandhi last month.

The Sikh political party, the Akali Dal, had threatened earlier this month that thousands of its supporters would descend on New Delhi during the Asian games period to draw international attention to their autonomy demand. There are over 13 million Sikhs in India.

POLICE ARREST 150 SIKH 'MILITANTS' 19 NOV

BK191040 Hong Kong AFP in English 1033 GMT 19 Nov 82

[Text] New Delhi, Nov. 19 (AFP) -- Police today arrested about 150 Sikh militants after they came out of a Sikh temple here shouting slogans in support of their demand for an autonomous Punjab, police said.

Armed policemen, aided by an unspecified number of para-military forces had cordoned off the temple, where 300 to 400 hard core Sikhs had taken shelter to take part in a schedule march today -- the opening day of the ninth Asian games here.

The militants did not resist arrest. Sikh leaders appeared relaxed and did not raise any slogans hostile to the federal government.

Observers said the leaders were asked by the leadership of the Sikh political party, Akali Dal, to maintain peace as Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's federal government officials were holding talks with party leaders in Amritsar for a settlement of the Sikh issue.

News agency reports said talks were on and a solution may come out later tonight.

Sikh leaders here showed restraint and persuaded their young followers not to break the police cordon today set up at all exit points of the temple situated in the heart of the Indian capital.

The Sikhs released hundreds of gas ballons with leaflets tied and the wind direction took the balloons towards the main stadium where Indian President Zail Singh declared the games open.

Police were still on alert here as the Sikhs plan to organize more demonstrations during the Asian games period unless a settlement is reached, a police source said.

In a separate incident police arrested 100 members of the Democratic Socialist Party. They were protesting the "wastage" incurred by the federal government on Asian games.

300 ARRESTED DURING ASIAD PROTEST 18 NOV

BK181304 Hong Kong AFP in English 1257 GMT 18 Nov 82

[Text] New Delhi, Nov. 18 (AFP) -- About 300 people were arrested here today during a joint protest organised by various opposition parties and a non-political organisation protesting against the ninth ASIAD.

Opponents of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government have persistently questioned the propriety of a "poor country like India" spending such a large amount of money on the games.

The ASIAD, which opens tomorrow, has so far cost some 90 million dollars.

The youth wings of Janata, which ruled India during 1977-79, the "Lok Dal" (People's Party) and the People's Union of Civil Liberties (PUCL) were the sponsors of today's protest near parliament house. There was no violence and the demonstrators were booked for violating the prohibitory orders operating during the ASIAD.

DAWN VIEWS FOREIGN MINISTER'S TEHRAN VISIT

[Text] Islamabad, Nov 13: The foreign minister of Pakistan, Sahabzada Yaqub Khan, will pay a 2-day visit to Tehran between Nov 20 and 22, in response to an invitation from his Iranian counterpart, Mr 'Ali Akbar Velayati, which was extended when Mr. Velayati visited Islamabad in March and April this year. The invitation was renewed a number of times since then.

Both Iran and Pakistan attach great importance to these talks. As immediate neighbours, the two countries have had indentity of interests on a number of regional and world issues. They have always had a good understanding of each other's position on regional as well as world affairs. Some of the rough patches which had appeared immediately after the revolution in Iran have been overcome. But, for obvious reasons, the viewpoints of the two countries are not identical on a number of issues.

However, the two countries have developed very strong commercial and economic relations. Iran perhaps wants a comprehensive discussion on these relations. If it is so, Pakistan would suggest further discussions at a later date with the participation of economic experts.

The talks between Sahabzada Yaqub and Mr. Velayati are expected to concentrate on political matters and bilateral and regional issues.

Sahabzada Yaqub in his 2 days' stay in Tehran is also expected to call on the president and the prime minister of Iran. He is expected to deliver to the president of Iran a message conveying sentiments of good wishes on behalf of President Ziaul Haq.

Agency adds: The foreign minister will fly to New York from Tehran to participate in the debate on the Afghan resolution in the UN Assembly.

Because of Sahabzada Yaqub's pressing engagments in the United Nations, the talks would concentrate more on political matters and other subjects, including the strengthening of economic ties, would be taken up during later contacts.

The sources said the main purpose of the coming visit was to give depth to bilateral relations. Issues like Afghanistan and the Iran-Iraq war will also be discussed and Pakistan would try to understand the Iranian thinking in this regard though no mediation in the war is contemplated.

Sahabzada Yaqub Khan's visit would provide a chance to understand the Iranian thinking on the Afghan issue and share Pakistan's views with Iran. Pakistan has remained in close touch with Iran on the issue on which the perception of the two is not very different even if it is not identical. Pakistan fully appreciates Iran's deep concern for the people of Afghanistan and their forthright stand in this regard.

POLITICAL LEADER SUGGESTS SOLUTION TO IMPASSE

[Text] Pir Pagaro, president of the defunct Pakistan Muslim League [PML], yesterday reiterated his call for the formation of, what he called, a political government at the centre charged with the primary task of holding general elections in the country. That was the only way out of the present political impasse, he emphasized.

Talking informally to newsmen at his Karachi residence, he recalled that in June/July, 1980, he had sent a communication to President Gen Ziaul Haq impressing upon him the need to induct a "political government" to facilitate the process of democratic rule. "The political formula enunciated in that letter to the president remains to this day my party's basic standpoint", he maintained.

Replying to questions on the proposed roundtable conference [RTC] of political parties, Pir Sahib said he had told Maulana Shah Ahmad Noorani, president of the defunct JUP, [Jami'at ul-Ulema] to invite all such parties which had won seats in the provincial or national assembly in the 1970 general elections. "Personally, I have no objection to any party coming over to participate in the RTC," he said. He said he did not expect any decision to emerge from the first meeting of the RTC. He would like each party's representative to bring forth his party's policy declaration and have it circulated among the representatives of other parties for their assessment at a later stage.

To a question, he said he did not visualize any constitutional role for the army other than remaining on guard at the borders.

"There is no substitute for a democratic, parliamentary system", he told another questioner, adding that this system had not been allowed to work in the past.

Though his party was opposed to elections being held on a non-party basis, Pir Sahib said if there was no other alternative "we will take part in it under protest." The principle of proportional representation "is unacceptable to us", he said in the same context.

Pir Pagaro agreed with Mr Abdul Hafeez Przada that the 1973 Constitution was no longer valid. He said he had already pointed out that the said Constitution had been placed on a library shelf. That was why he had been demanding that elections be held "according to, and not under" the 1973 Constitution, he affirmed, saying that the constitutional position of the National Assembly, Senate, the federation and the centre should be retained.

Pir Pagaro's attention was drawn to the latest statement of President Ziaul Haq, apportioning responsibility to the political parties for the twice postponement of nationwide polls. He said the president should name the parties which had advised him to defer elections.

The PML chief was critical of the curtailment of the independence of judiciary, and said he had every sympathy with the lawyers in their present struggle. At the same time, he said, he would condemn any party's attempt to politicise the issue or to exploit the lawyers' case to its self-aggrandisement. He doubted whether the way justice was being dispensed was in accordance with the Islamic precepts.

Pir Pagaro told a questioner: "Even if Begum Bhutto is not that seriously ill, so what? Let her go abroad. What harm can she do to Pakistan or, for that matter, what harm have her two sons been able to do? However, if Begum Bhutto is such a dangerous person, than why keep her as a free citizen?"

PAPER EXAMINES 'TRIBAL POLITICS' IN BALUCHISTAN

GF161630 Karachi NAWA-I-WAQT in Urdu 8 Nov 82 p 9

[Quetta correspondent Aziz Bhatti article: "Why There Is No Cabinet in Baluchistan"]

[Excerpts] Traditional tribal politics are bifurcating. Well-known political leaders who are not tribal leaders are beginning to feel that, whatever their political stature, they cannot, so to speak, reach the level of the "turban" of the tribal leaders. Therefore, they feel that, instead of hanging around them, it would be of greater advantage to "set up house" themselves. On the other hand, the tribal leaders are realizing that they cannot hold their social or tribal sway in isolation and efforts are being made to bridge the gap.

The present state of affairs is that those political leaders and workers who are setting up fronts against the authority of the tribal leaders have begun calling themselves "socialists" out of sheer necessity, habit, or as an expedient or a fad. This causes a conflict in the mind of the common man as to with whom he should side.

The people of Baluchistan want economic prosperity but they don't want to obtain economic benefits in this manner -- the way a feudal landlord bestows remuneration or charity on his serfs. They want to gain economic benefits for participating in the country's economic progress and profit. This is the pivotal question in the context of which "the problems of Baluchistan" are discussed everyday. Instead of solving this problem , the authorities try to satisfy their "serfs" in many ways and to keep them happy, with the result that no concrete solution is achieved.

It is fallacious to say there is no cabinet in Baluchistan because there are many different tribes and if the members of one tribe are not included, then the leader of that tribe or the tribesmen will be antagonized.

In other provinces also, such hierarchies exist with "headmen" and 'elders.' Besides, provincial cabinets have been formed three times in the past and the question of including a particular leader or tribesman did not arise. When, in 1972, the first provincial council was formed, headed by Sardar Ataullah Mengal, the representatives of the Marri, Rind, Kurd, Raisani, Zehri, Kaktar, Tareen, Achakzai, Gachki, Naushirwani, Shahwani, Ahmadzai and Mengalzai were not included. However there was no protest. The second cabinet was formed by Jam Mir Ghulam Qadir Khan which included no minister from the Marri, Bugti, Mengal, Gachki, Nashirwani, Zehri, Tareen, Achakzai, Ahmad Zaki, Durrani, Rind and Kurd tribes. The third cabinet was formed by Sardar Mohammad Khan (Baruzai) also set up a cabinet in Baluchistan. It may be said, however, that Sardar Ataullah Mengal's cabinet was dissolved in an undemocratic and unconstitutional manner following which the defunct People's Party seized power on the basis of an "enforced" majority.

Therefore, in the event of future elections, a cabinet should be set up. One reason [for not having a cabinet in Baluchistan] seems understandable: Those who the "authorities" want to include in the cabinet do not want to be ministers while those who want to be ministers are not approved by the "authorities".

SRI LANKA

MINISTRY BEGINS PROBE OF SEPARATIST GROUPS

BK181403 Colombo SUN in English 15 Nov 82 p 1

[By Ranil Weerasinghe]

[Text] The Defence Ministry yesterday initiated an immediate probe on the northern separatist movement's foreign fundings and connections with religious groups.

This directive came after security forces in the north yesterday took three members of the clergy into custody for allegedly having a large stock of subversive literature in their possession.

The security teams which launched a pre-dawn raid on a house in Colombaturai, near Gurunagar, recovered literature and a number of long playing records which contained songs and speeches calling for an armed struggle.

The records which had been pressed in Canada and the United States were found in covers of records made by the late country and western singer Jim Reeves.

Intelligence teams which were questioning the three members of the clergy yesterday morning have learnt that the three "missionary" priests had been abroad on several occasions.

Defence Ministry sources told 'SUN' that steps were being taken to determine whether members of the clergy were being used to collect funds, set up youth cells and even bring in subversive literature and material from abroad. Inquiries will also be conducted to ascertain whether members of this religious body had been behind attempts to forcibly settle Tamil families on state land in the north.

Information regarding the use of certain foreign non-governmental organisations with religious connections to further the cause and siphon money to the separatist movement is also being collated.

'SUN' learns that of the large number of separatists groups functioning abroad many were only interested in making money for themselves. But there were others who were utilising the funds collected for the promotion of separatist activity.

Defence Ministry sources said that there was reason to believe that the money was also being used to purchase arms and explosives.

The use of a calibre .30 carbine by the terrorists at Chavakachcheri appears to confirm this.

The fact that they were resorting less to robberies and more to arms confrontation indicates they were well backed financially at present, they added.

Meanwhile, the army also took into custody a joint secretary of the Tamil Eelam Liberation Front (TELF), Elai Vedan, and detained him at the Gurunagar Army Camp for questioning.

KHOMEYNI ADDRESSES RELIGIOUS GROUPS 18 NOV

LD181700 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 18 Nov 82

[Excerpts] A large number of people -- members of the religious minorities from all over the country -- comprising the Armenian Church Council, Zoroastrians, Assyrians, Chaldeans and Jews, accompanied by their deputies, met this morning at the Majlis with Imam Khomeyni, leader of the revolution and founder of the Islamic Republic of Iran.

During this meeting, Mr (Beykhishana), Majlis representative of the Assyrian minority, presented a report to the imam of the umma' about this meeting of religious minorities. Imam Khomeyni, leader of the revolution and founder of the Islamic Republic of Iran, addressing the religious minorities, then made some gracious comment. Broadcasting the text of the proceedings at this meeting, we end this hour's news bulletin of the Voice of the Islamic Republic of Iran. God be with you and good day.

In the name of the one and only God. Your holiness, the great leader and founder of the Islamic Republic, His Great Eminence Ayatollah Imam Khomeyni, may your lofty shadow remain on earth for a long time. In paying tribute to martyrs of the path of the revolution and martyrs of the battlefronts of truth against falsehood and in offering congratulations on the great victories gained by the zealous Iranian combatants in the imposed war, it is a great honor to us all to be received in audience by this great leader.

The official religious minorities have been living in this sacred land for thousands of years and, by living with their Muslim brothers for 1,400 years, they have automatically become familiar with all the righteous humane and revolutionary regulations of Islam. Therefore, they have a firm belief in the decisive leadership of the militant clergy of Islam to achieve its popular, anticolonialism and antiarrogance goals and to safeguard the rights of the oppressed, meek and deprived people of our dear country and the oppressed and deprived people of the world. We also have tasted the bitterness of tyranny, oppression and domination of the arrogant and oppressors under different names during the 2,500 imperial years. Thus, we clearly understand the value of freedom, independence and justice offered by the Islamic Republic. A man with a broken leg knows the value of a crutch. Therefore, we believe it is a religious and national duty to endeavor and to wage jihad for the glorification of the Islamic Republic of Iran.

[Begin Khomeyni recording] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. We are all united under the flag of monotheism. Iran belongs to all and monotheism is our common religion; and God and the day of resurrection is the idea shared by everybody. We have these things in common and we are one nation. It is necessary for all of us to be present on the scene when Iranian issues are concerned and we should all join forces, cooperate with each other to prevent others committing acts of tyranny under the garb of Islam or other religions, and to find a way of stopping oppression against everybody in the world. The great prophets from Adam until the last, peace be upon them, all had a mission to promote justice and monotheism among the nations. Throughout history the prophets were missioned not for preaching alone, rather for refining people's morality; they came to encourage people to do good things and to improve their behavior.

You can see that some countries of the world today are beset by leaders who claim to be Christians, Jews or Muslims. The trouble these nations are going through at the hands of these leaders. This was also true during the prophets' era: They suffered at the hands of criminals who treated them so badly, criminals who blackened the face of history with their bad behavior.

Today also, some nations are beset by leaders who blacken the face of history and embarrass the prophets in front of Almighty God, God forbid. You should know that if the prophet of Islam is summoned by God to explain the treatment given to people by some regimes which claim to be Islamic and is told to look at how these regimes are working against the interests of their countries, he will have no answer. He can only say: I preached to them but they did not listen. If every prophet is summoned by Almighty God the same way to question them about the behavior of their followers, if he is asked to look at what the United States is doing under the cloak of Christianity -- that Christian, whose entire existence was spiritual -- that Christianity, the entire basis of which has been to make the people spiritualistic. [sentence as received] Today those who claim to be Christians are treating the world worse than the infidels. There is no difference between those who do not believe in God and resurection and those leaders who claim to be Christian or Jewish. Unbelievers may even be better since they respect the world and do not tread the meek under their feet.

Today you can see how badly the regime, which claims to be Jewish although the Jews do not accept it, is treating the people and claiming to follow Moses. Still worse than this regime is the way those Christian governments are treating the people despite the spiritualism of Christ. Look at how they are treating their own nations and others. They have blackened the face of Christianity. Of course, their own faces are blackened. The same is true of others and of those who claim to be Muslims.

Nobody has suffered as much as our Muslim nation is suffering under Saddam's atrocities today. Who has suffered as much as the Christian and non-Christian nation of Lebanon under the tyranny of the Zionists? They claim to be Jewish but you can see what they are by their actions. We will not be able to stand against this continually increasing flood of blasphemy that is threatening to wash away the whole world unless all of us -- the nations united under the flag of monotheism -- come together and unite as one nation and be present on the arena. The reason behind our victory so far is that during the past 4 years we have resisted. Our combatants have fought for more than 2 years despite all the difficulties, and the nation has stood behind the combatants. These are the reasons for our victory.

You should know that the Islamic government, if it rules in accordance with its Islamic duties, has respect for all strata and official religions in Iran. The government respects all other strata just as the Muslim strata, because this is an Islamic tradition.

Today, despite all the problems, despite the economic pressure placed on our nation and government by major powers, and despite the military aggression against our nation and government by other governments, we have done much work for the needy. What has been done for the poor during the past 2 or 3 years, despite all the problems, is more than what was done during the the reign of that father and son.

I assure you that the Islamic government is a servant of all strata of the nation. It is not monopolized by this or that stratum. We have been given the mission by Islam to be like this. We are assigned and dutybound to serve all people as long as they remain faithful to the Islamic Republic and carry out their commitments to the Islamic government.

I hope that the nation, the Muslims and the non-Muslim strata which have been officially recognized in the Constitution and by Islam, will pay attention to the fact that our victory depends on a union among all of us.

Our victory, that is your victory, is possible if we all remain on the arena and solve minor discords among ourselves. There should be no discord. We must all cooperate in affairs related to the law, to the government and to the Majlis. The entire nation must stay together.

Today, the issue which is being discussed by our nation is the formation of the Council of Experts to determine the leadership. This issue should not be treated lightly by our nation. At the moment, a number of gentlemen have announced that the Council of Experts should not be formed because it will weaken the leadership. The Council of Experts will be a source of strength to the leadership. These gentlemen should not say such things. All should take part in the elections. It is a duty. Islam has enjoined this duty upon all of us. In a monotheistic country, it is the duty of all strata of the nation. If all the people do not take part, if all the people are not present upon the scene, if they do not vote for the deputies, if they do not vote for the Council of Experts, and if the deputies which are to be elected do not receive sufficient votes, this will weaken their position. All the people should be upon the scene and all should take part.

I also say this to the members of the clergy. If you refrain from participation, in the same way that the nonparticipation of the religious leaders of various sects resulted in our nation to be separated from politics, and the governments did whatever they wanted, and the governments were left to their own devices and did whatever they wanted, if in the same way the clergy, the learned and the ulema leave the scene, it will result in the repetition of the former situation. This is a duty. The Council of Experts is a duty upon all. Those wishing to become an expert and those capable of the job should register their names and the nation should vote for them.

In any case, if all of us are not upon the scene and if all of us are not determined to save this country from the evil of the wicked people; if we are not aware, even if under the present circumstances, at present, this may not have much effect; God forbid. This will affect the future state of the nation. God forbid that our nation will be afflicted with the same people who showed no mercy to the old or young.

I hope that God Almighty will enable all of us to serve this nation, to serve this country, that all of us are together and will maintain our unity against all those who are against this nation and against the interests of this nation. May God help us not to be afflicted with those governments who throughout history regarded themselves to be separate from the nation and who occupied positions of authority.

May God's peace and blessing be upon you. [end recording]

MAJLIS DEPUTIES ON IRAQ SUPREME COUNCIL

LD181142 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 18 Nov 82

[Text] According to a Central News Unit report, following the formation of the Supreme Council of the Islamic Revolution of Iraq, a Majlis deputies' statement declared the formation of this council as being the precursor of the imminent victory of the Muslim Iraqi nation against the Zionist regime of Saddam.

The statement reads: At a time when Zionist suppression and dictatorship has filled the air of the holy fraternal country of Iraq -- and while, to safeguard their own interests in the Persian Gulf and Middle East, the Eastern and Western superpowers have become closer and with all their might are trying to strengthen the shaky foundations of the Zionist regime of Saddam and their other mercenaries in the region -- the news about the formation of the Supreme Council of the Islamic Revolution of Iraq is the harbinger of the imminent victory of the Muslim Iraqi nation against satan, and heralds the end of the last breaths of the disgraceful and bloodthirsty government of the infidel, Saddam.

In this statement, the Majlis deputies regard the formation of this council -- with the assistance of God and under the guidelines of clerical rule -- as a sign of the imminent death of the rule of the superpowers in the fraternal country of Iraq. They express their congratulations to the holy presence of the lord of the age -- may God hasten his glad advent -- and to his rightful heir, Imam Khomeyni, and the Muslim nation and the Muslim revolutionaries of Iraq. They express their hope that with greater cohesion, the council will be able to raise the banner of the Islamic Republic of Iraq upon that holy land.

IRNA: DOCUMENTS PROVE IRAQIS EXECUTING POW'S

LD182312 Tehran IRNA in English 1912 GMT 18 Nov 82

[Text] Ahvaz, 9 Nov (IRNA) -- Contrary to the claims of the Iraqi regime that Iran has been executing Iraqi POWs, documents discovered from enemy positions taken over by the Iranian forces during the latest offensive, "Operation Moharram" proved that the Ba'thist regime of Iraq has been executing Iranian POWs.

According to a document found in an enemy command position, all Iraqi military units have been given instructions to execute any member of the Islamic Revolution Guard Corps (IRGC), captured by the Iraqi troops. The order which is issued by Iraqi unit No. 4, in January 1981, said "apparently still some of the wounded IRGC members who are captured are given medical treatment. This is to emphasise that IRGC captives are considered war criminals and must be executed on the scene."

Such documents prove falsity of claims of the Iraqi ruler, Saddam Husayn, that the Iranian POWs are kept in good conditions. It further proves that the Iraqi Ba'thist regime has trampled upon all internationally recognized laws and regulations vis-a-vis POWs. Such crimes take place at a time when all Iraqi POWs in Iran enjoy all welfare facilities and security.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE NO 1,126

LD181800 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 18 Nov 82

[Communique No 1,126 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. May the auspicious birthday anniversary of Imam Muhammad al-Baqir, peace be upon him, be full of blessings for the lord of the era -- may God hasten his noble advent -- his rightous deputy, Imam Khomeyni, and the Iranian Muslim and militant umma'.

With gratitude and appreciation for the personnel and the indefatigable pilots of the transport unit of the Air Force of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran for their uninterrupted efforts and with appreciation for their service and their role in carrying out support and supply missions, some of the events and operations on the fronts of the fight between truth and falsehood in the last 24 hours are brought to your attention.

According to received reports, at 0930 yesterday, one enemy aircraft in the Muslim ibn 'Aqil operational region was hit by the fire of the air defense unit of our forces and downed.

By opening fire on enemy positions in this region, our combat units succeeded in destroying one personnel carrier and one ammunition depot of the Saddamist forces and in killing a number of them.

Exchanges of sporadic fire continued in the Musian area. In the Marivan area, the Islamic combatants opened artillery fire on enemy positions in Tutman, halted his activities and inflicted effective losses and casualties on the Iraqi military.

Exchanges of fire between our forces and the enemy continued in the Moharram operational region; they were more intense in the Zubaydat area. In the Moharram operational area, enemy helicopters approached the frontlines several times with the intention of destroying the armored equipment of the forces of Islam. However, each time before they carried out any activities they were forced to flee by our air defense units' fire. In the same area, the vigilance and fire of our forces also halted the activities of the enemy's construction units.

Residential areas of Abadan yesterday came under the heavy weapon fire of the Saddamist mercenaries, which resulted in losses and casualties.

VELAYATI TALKS WITH SIERRA LEONE DELEGATION

LD112308 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 11 Nov 82

[Text] The Sierra Leone commerce minister who is visiting our country with an economic delegation this evening met Foreign Minister Velayati. According to the Central News Unit, the under secretary, economic deputy and the Foreign Ministry deputy in charge of international affairs also were present at this meeting.

During the meeting, the Sierra Leone commerce minister expressed his country's desire to expand economic relations with the Islamic Republic of Iran.

In reply, our country's foreign affairs minister said the basic foreign policy of the Islamic Republic of Iran is the policy of "neither East nor West" and the country's policy is to expand its relations with the Third World and Islamic countries. Here, Sierra Leone is given special priority.

Velayati added: If we can find the goods we require in Third World countries, with the minimum acceptable standard, we prefer to purchase from such countries under compatable circumstances; 25 percent of our imports currently come from Third World countries: previously, only around 9 percent of our total imports were purchased from Third World countries. This increase shows the eagerness of the Islamic Republic of Iran to expand its trade links with the world oppressed.

Sierre Leone's economic delegation started the first round of talks with the Iranian petroleum minister this afternoon. During these talks, Iran's possibilities in the field of oil, expansion of relations between the two countries and possible ways to supply Sierre Leone's crude oil requirements were reviewed.

Meetings Held

GF131849 Tehran IRNA in English 1705 GMT 13 Nov 82

[Text] Tehran, Nov. 13, IRNA — The governors of the Central Banks of Iran and Sierra Leone announced in a meeting today the dissatisfaction of their countries towards the recent decision of the International Monetary Fund for granting loan to South Africa. They also stated that such decisions would have maleffects on the economies of the Third World countries.

The IMF has recently decided to grant a one billion dollar loan to the racist regime of South Africa.

The Iranian governor, Dr. Mohsen Nurbakhsh, also explained the economic and political policies of the Islamic Republic.

Meanwhile, the Sierra Leone's delegation also held a meeting with Iranian minister of commerce, 'Asgar-Owladi, this morning.

In another development, the delegate met and conferred with Iranian minister of industries, Mostafa Hashemi, about the expansion of relations in economic and industrial fields. Hashemi expressed the hope in the meeting that the two countries would assist each other in further utilising the wealth of the two countries, including both manpower and natural resources which have not yet been utilised. The Iranian minister continued that after the culmination of the Islamic revolution, Iran succeeded in putting into operation its factories without the assistance of foreign experts.

The Sierra Leone presidential advisor replied that with the knowledge they had about the Islamic Republic and its mission toward the Third World countries, they were willing to expand their economic relations with Iran. He added that his country was rich in gold, diamonds, timber, coffee, and cocca and that the Islamic Republic could establish commerical relations with his country for purchasing these goods. In conclusion, he said that establishing cooperation with Sierra Leone can be beneficial to both countries and be in the framework of Islamic principles and thoroughly just.

The Sierra Leone delegation arrived here Thursday Nov. 11 headed by that country's Trade Minister Kamara. The trip is aimed at exploring possibilities for the assumption of trade and economic ties with the Islamic Republic.

CLANDESTINE ON POSSIBLE IMPEACHMENT OF BAZARGAN

GF070914 (Clandestine) Voice of Iran in Persian 1805 GMT 6 Nov 82

[Text] According to the Voice of Iran correspondent, the regime mullahs' campaign to denigrate Bazargan continues. Informed sources say that the turbaned rulers intend to defame, ostracize and impeach this (?irreligious) friend in the manner of 'Abbas Entezam, Ebrahim Yazdi, Sadeq Qotbzadeh Abolhasan Bani-Sadr and others.

According to our correspondent, following the virulent attacks by Sheykh Sadeq Khalkhali, Hashemi-Rafsanjani, Karubi and Mullah Meshkini, and their criticism of Mehdi Bazargan in the mullahs' Majlis and on other occasions, the Mullah Nateq-Nuri, the interior minister of the present regime, has now condemned the prime minister of Khomeyni's interim regime.

In the political display of Friday prayers at the former Tehran University, Mullah Nateq-Nuri said Mehdi Bazargan and Abolhasan Bani-Sadr implemented measures in the early days of the Khomeyni revolution, which enabled the merchants of Iran to take large sums of Iran's foreign exchange and put it in European banks. According to political observers, the interior minister of the mullahs, who was assigned to make such utterances, accused Bazargan of saying things at the advent of the accursed regime which inspired insecurity in and alarmed the people and traders of Iran. When Mehdi Bazargan held the portfolio of prime minister of the Khomeyni interim regime, he persistently repeated that the treasury was empty and that the economic structure of the regime was due to collapse soon.

According to Nateq-Nuri, such utterances were instrumental in the hasty and large-scale transfer of foreign exchange by Iranian traders and merchants to the major international banks. Political observers say they believe the statements of Mullah Nateq Nuri, and earlier of Sheykh Sadeq Khalkhali, Hashemi-Rafsanjani, Karubi and Meshkini are a precursor to the arrest and later trial of Mehdi Bazargan, in the manner of Qotbzadeh and other secular associates of the mullahs who were dismissed and later executed. A foreign diplomat in Tehran observed that the speech of Mullah Nateq-Nuri on Friday is to prepare the groundwork for [word indistinct] and the arrest and, possibly, subsequent execution.

NVOI COMMENTARY ASSAILS SUPPRESSION OF PRESS

TA102044 (Clandestine) National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1730 GMT 9 Nov 82

[Unattributed commentary: "The Chaotic State of the Press"]

[Text] Dear compatriots: Some time ago, KEYHAN raised an important and sensitive subject, namely, soliciting the views of readers about the press. In this connection Majlis Deputy (? 'Atari) warned that both newspaper circulation and the number of newspaper readers have decreased. (?'Atari) added that the (?prestige) of the press is high when it is uncensored and when it writes the truth. The imam has said: This year is the year of law, but we are observing that no one is heeding the law.

Hojjat ol-Eslam Mojtahed Shabastari said: From the political viewpoint, the press must be a mirror reflecting all the different ideas and opinions expressed within the framework of the Constitution. When I say the opinions of the people, the objective is all strata and classes of society for whom the Constitution has maintained the right of life and progress in the Islamic Republic, not a specific group or class.

People expected and expect that this opinion poll will be a good beginning for terminating the unhealthy situation our press is facing. Is it in the dignity of our Islamic Republic and our nation's popular and anti-imperialist revolution that they overtly tie the tongue of truthful people committed to the revolution and break the pen of the true friends of the revolution and the sincere followers of the revolution's and imam's line?

Hojjat ol-Eslam (?Shojuni) said: We have four newspapers all of which say the same thing. Majlis Deputy (?'Atari) rightly pointed out: When you read one newspaper after the other, you do find nothing new. If in our revolutionary homeland, the Islamic Republic's Constitution -- this blood money of the best children of this land -- had been respected and its principles had not been overtly and crudely violated, today our press would not have faced such a painful and critical situation.

Principle 24 of the Constitution of the Islamic Republic declares that periodicals and the press are free to express themselves except when they harm the principles of Islam or the rights of the public. Yet this explicit principle of the Constitution is overtly violated. It is amazing that this principle is violated with regard to the true forces loyal to the revolution and the Islamic Republic of Iran.

Imam Khomeyni, Hojjat ol-Eslam Hashemi-Rafsanjani, head of the legislative branch; Hojjat ol-Eslam Khamene'i, head of the executive branch; and Ayatollah Musavi Ardabili, head of the judicial branch of our homeland repeatedly have recommended the need for precise and untampered implementation of the Constitution's principles. Respect for the nation's rights and freedoms, particularly respect for freedom of the press and freedom of activity of parties and organizations committed to the revolution are among instances whose strict observance repeatedly has been emphasized by all government figures of the Islamic Republic. Yet we all know that in our emancipated homeland the principles of the Constitution, particularly those pertaining to the people's rights and freedoms -- freedom of the press and freedom of activity of revolutionary political parties and organizations -- openly are being violated.

The people and the million-strong masses of our homeland's town and villages rightly are saying: Those who order the ban of newspapers which have defended the revolution and Islamic Republic of Iran with loyalty, sincerity and total consistency and have exerted all their efforts toward the timely exposure of the plots of the counterrevolution, headed by the great satan, and which by presenting constructive, creative and positive proposals endeavored to expand the revolution, cannot justify this unlawful act of theirs by any excuse and alibi.

Our homeland's ever-on-the-scene people and million-strong masses firmly demand the immediate abolition of the order banning all newspapers and periodicals that are the organs of the true revolutionary forces loyal to the Islamic Republic and the imam's line. They consider delay in this vital matter to be only in the interest of the counterrevolution and the great satan.

MIDDLE EAST AND SOUTH ASIA REVIEW

Iran-Iraq War

Military Activities -- Iraq sank five oil tankers anchored at Khark Island on 20-21 November, a military communique broadcast by Baghdad Voice of the Masses radio reported. The communique warned other ships against approaching Khark Island and Iranian territorial waters. Monitored Tehran media have not been observed to comment on the incident.

While a military communique broadcast by Tehran radio claimed that five Iraqi planes were downed on 20 November, an Iraqi military communique broadcast by Baghdad radio insisted that all Iraqi planes had safely completed their combat missions.

An Iraqi Ba'th Party official denied that Iran had either seized or advanced toward Mandali, Baghdad radio reported. However, an Iranian military commander told IRNA on 21 November that Iraqi artillery fire had devastated part of the town after Iranian forces entered. He added that Mandali and the main road leading to the town are completely within firing range of Iranian artillery.

Volunteer Fighters -- A group of Popular Army volunteers including fighters from Sudan, Egypt, Syria, Tunisia and Jordan left Baghdad for the battlefront on 19 November, INA reported. The Popular Army commander told the group that Iraq will continue to receive Arab volunteers as long as the war continues, INA added. Iraqi President Saddam Husayn told the London-based AL-MAJALLAH magazine on 20 November that it is an Arab duty to support those who fight to defend the Arab nation, Baghdad radio reported. The president asserted that the war is almost over.

Syria

Israel's superiority over Syria in weaponry should not and will not be allowed to continue, President Hafiz al-Asad declared in a speech to the Syrian Trade Union Federation Congress broadcast live by Damascus radio. The destruction of the Syrian SAM batteries in the Al-Biqa' Valley last June was not a surprise to Syria since the Israelis "knew everything about the missiles which we had," Al-Asad asserted. However, the Israeli supremacy only applies to some technological fields, he said, and on the one occasion when Syria deployed a formation of T-72 tanks against Israeli tanks, the IDF lost 30 tanks and retreated 10 km. It is a "big lie" to speak of effective, invincible arms in the hands of the Israelis and ineffective Soviet arms in the hands of the Syrians, Al-Asad contended. Syria agreed to cease fire on 11 June on condition that the Israelis would begin to withdraw from Lebanon, the president continued, but the Israelis did not implement the agreement which Al-Asad had reached with U.S. envoy Philip Habib. Regarding the subsequent PLO-Syrian withdrawal from Beirut, Al-Asad explained that Syria was not a party to any of the contacts or negotiations that led to the evacuation of the Lebanese capital. He reaffirmed that as soon as the IDF withdraws from Lebanon, there will be "no problem" about withdrawing Syrian forces at the request of the Lebanese Government. Turning to the wider issue of Middle East peace negotiations, Al-Asad criticized attempts to drag the Arabs into granting concessions under the pretext of peace, asserting that this will make them concede their rights even before the start of negotiations so that when the talks take place there will be more concessions and "complete surrender." The Arabs are asked to recognize Israel while the latter is not asked to give anything except its agreement to negotiate, he complained.

Lebanon

Israeli Withdrawal Conditions -- Israel's proposals are not confined to a peace treaty but contain "embarrassing" demands including the right to supervise Lebanese territorial waters and airspace and to have access to a position on Al-Baruk mountain, which overlooks the Al-Biqa' Valley from the west, Voice of Lebanon radio reported on 19 November. However, after attending the 20 November meeting between President Amin al-Jumayyil and U.S. special envoy Habib, Prime Minister Shafiq al-Wazzan said in remarks broadcast by the radio that Israel has not yet officially forwarded its conditions to the Lebanese Government. Informed Lebanese sources cited by Beirut radio meanwhile stated that Lebanon refused to negotiate under "the so-called conditions from this or that party."

Independence Day Address -- President al-Jumayyil told the nation in an Independence Day address broadcast by Beirut radio that the Lebanese will regain their independence and land by all means available to them. Promising that the army will expand and be from all and for all Lebanese, Al-Jumayyil said military service will be introduced within a few months.

Security Situation -- Gunmen from a local organization stormed and occupied the government house in Ba'labakk on 21 November, Beirut radio reported. The Voice of Lebanon said armed Iranians were responsible for the incident; the clandestine Radio Free Lebanon attributed it to Syrians, Palestinians, Iranians, communists and leftists. The men subsequently evacuated the building, according to Beirut radio.

Earlier, five people were killed in another Druze-Christian clash in the 'Alayh area, the Voice of Lebanon reported. Meanwhile, in a statement carried by ITIM, the IDF spokesman announced that one IDF soldier was killed and two others were wounded in the previously reported 19 November attack on an Israeli patrol in Sidon.

In another development, AFP cited a Lebanese news agency report that Lebanese security forces have arrested 12 people, most of them southerners, suspected of participating in the September massacres of Palestinians in Beirut.

Israel

Massacre Inquiry -- Testifying before the commission of inquiry into the Beirut massacre, Prime Minister Menahem Begin's military secretary denied that the Foreign Ministry deputy director general had telephoned him on 17 September to convey U.S. reports about irregularities in the military operation in West Beirut, as stated in the deputy director general's testimony to the commission, Jerusalem radio reported. According to the radio, another Foreign Ministry official told the commission that he first learned of the massacre on 18 September when U.S. Assistant Secretary for Near Eastern Affairs Morris Draper told him over the telephone that the Israelis must stop the "obscene" massacres.

Work Permit Conditions -- Following controversy over the Israeli regulation requiring foreigners working in the West Bank to sign a pledge that they will not aid or support the PLO, a Defense Ministry spokesman announced in a statement carried by ITIM that the civilian administration for Judaea, Samaria and the Gaza Strip has decided to adjust work permit regulations to "what is acceptable in certain Western countries." While applicants for the new permit will not be required to sign any pledge, permits will be granted on condition that recipients refrain from acts harming security and observe all legislation forbidding aid or support to the PLO.

Tel Aviv Bomb -- Police arrested 21 Arab suspects in connection with a 21 November bomb explosion at a Tel Aviv train station in which one person was injured, Jerusalem radio noted.

Egypt

Mubarak Interview -- In an interview with Kuwait's AS-SIYASAH cited by MENA, Egyptian President Husni Mubarak asserted that tension in Arab-Egyptian relations "has ended," even though some people occasionally try to recreate the tense atmosphere that previously prevailed. Mubarak affirmed that Egypt intends to honor its peace agreement with Israel. He pointed out that the Reagan initiative contains positive elements and urged the Arabs not to reject it, but to exploit any available opportunity to solve the problems in the Middle East. He said the negative aspects can be discussed at the negotiating table with Jordanian and Palestinian participation. Since Egypt has stopped radio propaganda campaigns against the Arab world, it is "out of the question" for the PLO to open a radio station in Egypt, Mubarak declared. Mubarak said he supports establishing diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union and is convinced such a relationship will develop. Asked about his government's stand on Egyptian opposition activities, the president indicated that a vigilant opposition poses no political dangers. Mubarak added that he is against taking any official measures against the opposition, because the government has nothing to hide.

Ghali Interview -- Foreign Minister Butrus Ghali stressed in an interview with THE JERUSALEM POST published on 19 November that Egypt remains firmly committed to peace with Israel. Despite the crisis of confidence created by the invasion of Lebanon, Egypt is doing its best to overcome the difficulties and is convinced that negotiations and "a new political atmosphere" that might encourage the Palestinians and other Arab countries to enter the peace process are necessary for success to be achieved, Ghali stated. He opined that Jordan and some form of Palestinian representation should be included in any future autonomy talks. Israeli, Arab and Palestinian moderates should be given more confidence and should be told that the only solution is to "sit around the negotiating table and talk," Ghali asserted. He added that Egypt has the patience to wait for the "moderate forces" in Israel to gain power, because it believes the moderates will prevail.

PLO Delegation Visits -- A PLO delegation led by PLO Executive Committee member Ahmad Sidqi ad-Dajani met with Egyptian Foreign Minister Kamal Hasan 'Ali in Cairo on 21 November to discuss the various efforts being made to achieve a comprehensive peace in the Middle East, Cairo radio reported. Ad-Dajani stated that one of the specific reasons for the meeting was to coordinate Egyptian-Palestinian relations, the radio added. He said important ideas were crystallized during the meeting that will help to achieve a just peace.

PLO

Relations With Syria -- PLO Executive Committee member Yasir 'Abd Rabbuh stressed that Syria and the PLO have common bonds that are "much stronger than any hypothetical differences," KUNA reported. The official indicated that the Palestine Central Council meeting scheduled to be held on 19 November in Damascus was postponed for several days because of the Palestinian leadership's new engagements.

Radio Transmitter -- Baghdad Voice of PLO was heard on 1035 khz on 19 November, a frequency which had been relaying Baghdad Voice of the Masses immediately before the PLO radio program began. During the program, the radio announced that it was being relayed by Iraq's "most powerful transmitter." Following the Voice of PLO program, 1035 khz was heard relaying the Baghdad Voice of Palestine program.

Inter-Arab

Saudi Arabia's King Fahd arrived in Algiers for talks with Algerian President Chadli Bendjedid on ways to promote bilateral relations and preserve Arab solidarity, SPA reported. In an arrival statement, King Fahd emphasized the importance of promoting cooperation, understanding and joint Arab action, SPA added. Riyadh radio speculated that during the consultations Saudi Arabia will try to mediate between Algeria and Morocco on the Western Saharan conflict and will urge Algeria to mediate in the Iran-Iraq War.

Oil Affairs

Saudi Arabia's petroleum and mineral affairs minister and Kuwait's oil minister told SPA that their countries support OPEC's current price level and want it to be maintained. However, the Saudi minister indicated in a 17 November interview with Kuwait's AL-WATAN that while Saudi Arabia prefers the current price level, they are open to all suggestions and solutions in order to preserve OPEC unity. The paper added that many Gulf countries believe they are carrying an unfair burden because some OPEC countries are not following the pricing and production guidelines; Gulf countries have asked other OPEC countries to follow the guidelines or face punitive measures.

BK200500 Hong Kong AFP in English 0438 GMT 20 Nov 82

[Excerpts] Karachi, Nov. 20 (AFP) -- Begum Nusrat Bhutto, ailing widow of executed former Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto, was given a massive sendoff by thousands of her supporters last night as she left here for Paris en route to Munich and Essen for medical treatment of suspected lung cancer.

Mrs. Bhutto, who leads the banned Pakistan People's Party of her late husband, fainted and fell off a wheelchair when some of the estimated 15,000 people rushed here while she waited to board her plane.

Before leaving her seaside villa for the airport, Mrs. Bhutto issued a press statement bidding farewell to the people of Pakistan for a "temporary period."

She said she was leaving the coutnry with a heavy heart and "under medical duress," and also repeated her call for the restoration of democracy.

"I hope to return soon to continue to contribute to this noble endeavour," she said, charging that political detainees "have been deprived of their liberty without any charge."

CRISIS IN DEFUNCT PARTY RANKS CONTINUES

GF201134 Karachi DAWN in English 17 Nov 82 p 12

[Text] Lahore, Nov 16: The crisis in the ranks of the defunct Tehrik-i-Istiqlal continues to brew and indications are that some more active members and office-bearers of the party may either attract disciplinary action or decide to quit on their own.

Mr Eitezaz Ahsan, a prominent member of the National Committee of the Party, who issued a strong statement questioning and criticising the expulsion of the information secretary, Mr Nafees Siddiqui, from the primary membership of the organisation without giving him proper opportunity to defend himself, has been summoned to Peshawar by the acting chief of the party, Mr Munir Shah, and secretary general, Mr Mushir Pesh Imam, and would be proceeding to the NWFP [North West Frontier Province] capital tomorrow.

Indications are that he would be asked to explain his position before a charge-sheet was issued to him. In the meantime the Tehrik leader from Baluchistan, Mr Khudai Noor, discussed the party affairs with Mr Ahsan this evening.

It may be added that following the action taken against Mr Siddiqui, notice has also been issued to the acting secretary-general of the NWFP Tehrik, Mr Yunus Khan, while a central councillor from Quetta, Agha Farooq Shah, has already tendered his resignation from the party to register his protest.

Another significant development is that quite a few office-bearers are openly debating the issue in the press columns without bothering to wait for the decision of the central working committee on the subject.

MINISTRY OFFICIAL RETURNS FROM MIDEAST TOUR

GF191608 Tehran IRNA in English 1507 GMT 19 Nov 82

[Text] Tehran, Nov. 19, IRNA -- Deputy Foreign Minister Hoseyn Sheykh ol-Eslam said Thursday that his trip to a number of Arab countries was useful and fruitful.

Upon his arrival here after a visit to Syria, Algeria, Libya, the People's Democratic Republic of Yemen, and the U.A.E., Sheykh ol-Eslam said that the victories of the Islamic forces had put the Islamic Republic in a very strong position. He added that successive victories had introduced us as a force which held the key to the (?Iraqi imposed) war.

Sheykh ol-Eslam said that during his meetings with Arab officials of the said countries, he explains the policy of the Islamic Republic in the region, which was aimed against Saddam and Zionism. He added that it was unfortunate that the U.S. had been successful in moving the treacherous Camp David accords ahead stage by stage. He said that in his meetings with the Arab authorities that issue too had been discussed and good results had been achieved.

Concerning joing anti-U.S. and anti-Zionist strategy with the said countries in the international organisations, the deputy foreign minister said that Libya, Syria, Algeria, the People's Democratic Republic of Yemen (PDRY) and the U.A.E. supported the contents of President Khamene'i's call for the formation of a fund with the help of the non-aligned nations in order to provide for the needs of the movement.

During his trip, Sheykh ol-Eslam met with Syrian President Hafiz al-Asad, Syrian Foreign Minister 'Abd al-Halim Khaddam, Libyan Prime Minister [as received] 'Abd as-Salam Jallud, Algerian President Chadli Bendjedid, PDRY Foreign Ministry officials and the crown prince of the U.A.E., Shaykh Khalifa ibn Zayid ibn Sultan.

Comments on War Aims

LD200058 Tehran IRNA in English 2019 GMT 19 Nov 82

[Text] Tehran, Nov. 19, IRNA -- The Islamic Republic of Iran, as the most powerful country of the region, is an advocate of peace, said Foreign Ministry political undersecretary, Hoseyn Sheykh ol-Eslam, Wednesday in United Arab Emirates.

The Foreign Ministry undersecretary who was in UAE, in a press conference on Wednesday said that the Islamic Republic, at the zenith of power and stability, would warmly welcome the friendship of any country which tries to counter the influence of superpowers in the region. It would also forgive (?those countries') past errors of political misjudgements, said Sheykh ol-Eslam, while warning those countries which were used to materialise U.S. conspiracies to be rational. He also said that the Islamic Republic adamantly believed that the security of the region should be provided by the regional countries, further saying that those who wanted to allow their countries to be used as launching pads for U.S. military should not talk about procuring peace and stability in the region.

The Iranian official once again reiterated that the Islamic Republic did not cover even one inch of another country's territory whether Iraq or any other country.

Discoursing on the assistances of several reactionary governments to Saddam in the Iraqi-imposed war, Sheykh ol-Eslam said that the U.S. strategy to change this war into a war between Iran and Arabs was fortunately foiled through the awareness of some Arab countries. He then said that the Islamic defenders would, God willing, soon expel the aggressor enemy and would recover their territories still under enemy occupation.

Repeating once again Iran's terms of ending the Iraqi-imposed war, the Foreign Ministry undersecretary said that Iran advocated the punishment of Saddam because it believed that otherwise the origins of aggression and blackmail would not be rooted out in the region and that "we do not want that tomorrow Saddam or another person launch on an aggression and then through collecting assistances from the U.S. and other reactionaries and through mediation of some others vindicate itself," he added.

Referring to the shaky situation of Saddam's regime, he said that the regional countries should know that there was no hope for Saddam's survival and their assistances would only prolong the war. If they truly desire to end the war, he said, they should stop their unsparing aids to Saddam.

Sheykh ol-Eslam then commented on Saddam's claims six months ago, that Iraqi forces had withdrawn from Iranian territory, adding that although some parts of the occupied Iranian lands have been liberated since then by the Islamic defenders, still some quarters of the Iranian territory including Naftshahr, in Bakhtaran Province, were still under Iraqi occupation.

This indicated the falsehood of Saddam's statements in all aspects, whether the withdrawal of Iraqi forces or his co-called peace-loving statements.

In conclusion, he said that the Iranian nation would soon liberate the remaining territories and would teach a lesson to the aggressors so that no one in the future would dare violate or attack upon another country.

The Foreign Ministry undersecretary left Tehran heading a delegation to five Arab countries two-weeks ago. He travelled to Syria, Algeria, Libya, People's Democratic Republic of Yemen and then to the United Arab Emirates. The trips were aimed at explaining Iran's stands regarding the regional issues. He returned to Tehran Thursday.

In his remarks, our country's president referred to the importance of good relations between our two countries: After the victory of the Islamic revolution and in accordance with Islamic principles, we respected our neighbors' integrity. However, some of our neighbors did not reciprocate. On the basis of those same principles, we tried to maintain a brotherly and friendly approach with all brother countries in all international arenas. Khamene'i added: We have not based our foreign policy on anything but our national interests.

Referring to the inauspicious U.S. designs in the region, the president said: Great treachery has taken place in the Middle East. Through assistance rendered by certain reactionary regional governments, the United States has been able to achieve most of its aims in that region. Concerning this development, we have assumed a policy of guidance and revelation. We could not afford to remain silent on the issue of Lebanon, just as we could not remain silent on the issue of the Palestinians. These are issues of concern to us, to the entire world of Islam and to the Islamic countries.

Meanwhile, the commander of the 81st Armoured Division of Bakhtaran told IRNA, today, that the Iraqi artillery tire have [as received] recently devastated a part of the town of Mandali, some 100 kms northeast of Baghdad, after the Iranian guerrillas penetrated into this Iraqi border town.

Noting that Mandali and the paved road leading to the town were completely within the range of the Iranian artillery fire, the commander added following the second stage of the massive Muslim ibn 'Aqil offensive, the enemy launched five counterattacks which have all been severely crushed by the Islamic troops.

The second thrust of the Operation Muslim ibn 'Aqil was launched successfully in the Sumar region of the western fronts at 21:45 hours local time Monday, Nov 15.

Also, an Iraqi war plane violated Ilam's air space at 12:15 hours today but the Iranians forced it to flee.

Further Details

GF211616 Tehran IRNA in English 1600 GMT 21 Nov 82

[Text] Tehran, Nov 21, IRNA -- Head of the Civil Aviation Department, Mr Nurian, in an interview with IRNA today gave more details concerning a fire at Tehran's Mehrabad International Airport yesterday afternoon which caused some damages. He said that fire broke out in office of one of the airline companies and immediately spread to other parts. However firemen controlled the fire and it was put out after two hours.

As for the reason behind the fire, the head of the Civil Aviation Department said that it was still under investigation and fortunately there were no casualties. Following break-out of the fire, the airport was closed down and arriving planes were asked to land in a nearby airport.

Both domestic and international flights have been resumed since this morning. There may be a slight change in the flight schedule of certain domestic flights because a number of planes which were to take off this morning were prevented from parking in Mehrabad last night to avoid any probable danger, he added.

When asked about degree of the damage caused, Nurian said that the offices of a number of airline companies were damaged but one of the terminals was not affected at all.

The minister of roads and transport, Mohammad Hadinezhad-Hoseyniyan, visited Mehrabad Airport today and gave necessary instructions for the immediate repair of the damaged areas.

Group Claims Responsibility

GF211719 (Clandestine) Free Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1500 GMT 21 Nov 82

[Text] We start today's newscast with a report about a fire in Tehran's Mehrabad Airport. In a big fire, parts of Tehran's Mehrabad Airport facilities were burned. The armed Nehzat-e Pyrovan-e Shari'at has announced responsibility for the fire. The fire lasted for hours and burned many of the regime's documents, including some in terminal No 1. offices of some of the foreign airlines also were burned in the fire.

Nehzat-e Peyrovan Shari'at in a pamp let distributed in Tehran last night, while apologizing to some of the employees of Iran National Airlines and those of the civil aviation organization -- who can be considered among the regime's opposition -- announced that this act was committed as a warning to the regime. The armed organization also states that for the mullahs and their cronies to realize that the threat of the revolutionary executions of the candidates for the Council of Experts is serious, they will cause a series of fires and explosions. The organization stressed that it opposes any bombing that endangers the lives of innocent people.

The organization again has asked all compatriots not to participate in the contrived elections for the Council of Experts.

KORDESTAN 'CLEANSED' OF 'COUNTERREVOLUTIONARIES'

GF210856 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0430 GMT 21 Nov 82

[Text] According to the Hamzeh Seyyed ash-Shohada Headquarters, the center of the combined operations of the Islamic Republic of Iran's Armed Forces and the Islamic revolution guards, the victorious defenders of the Islamic revolution purged the (Banadireh) heights 36 km from Sar Dasht and six surrounding villages in a series of successful operations. This was a befitting sequel to the pride-inspiring victories of the courageous combatants of Islam in Kordestan and a continuation of the complete purging of the Mahabad-Sar Dasht axis of the counterrevolutionaries' filth affiliated with the East and West.

The Islamic combatants succeeded in arresting a number of counterrevolutionaries linked to the world oppressors during this campaign.

MAJLIS SESSION DISCUSSES DOMESTIC ISSUES

GF210854 [Editorial Report] Tehran Domestic Service in Persian at 0440 GMT on 21 November carries the proceedings of the open Majlis session.

The (Bamian) deputy speaks first and launches into a tirade against the United States, saying that "the shah with all his wealth and support from the United States could not save himself from his fate." The abortive coup in Tabas shows that the revolution will continue despite the conspiracies of the superpowers, he says, adding that the aggressor Saddam will meet the same fate.

The Babol deputy next takes the rostrum and after copious recitation of verses from the Koran, says that no one can harm the Iranian nation with its dauntless courage and thirst for martyrdom. Regarding the election of the Council of Experts, he says people should carefully choose candidates as it will have repercussions on the future of Iran. He then elaborates on the problems in his constituencies where roads are closed during winter due to heavy snowfall and avalanches. He also asks for fixing of meat prices because of a "shortage of consumer goods in such inclement weather aggravates the problems of the people."

The Tabriz deputy appeals to all Afghans to unite under a common banner to fight the usurpers. He says the revolution in Iran was not only on the political but also on the cultural and religious fronts. He asks all deputies to maintain closer rapport with the people so that they may be aware of their problems and should try to eliminate them. He advocates an increase in the enrollment of students at religious seminaries.

An unidentified deputy declares that "as a member of Iran's minority group he condemns the attack on Palestinians by an Armenian."

Speaker Hashemi-Rafsanjani then reads the agenda and the names of the deputies who will discuss the conditions of roads, the water supply, housing and educational problems, discrepancies in health and postal department facilities, repair of mosques and more telephone exchanges in districts. He announces that a letter has been received from the Bakhtaran deputy thanking Imam Khomeyni for the appointment of a Friday imam in Bakhtaran.

The Majlis then begins a debate on domestic issues which continues until 0706 GMT when the Majlis adjourns for an hour's tea break. The session is resumed at 0810 GMT and continues until 0832 GMT when the speaker announces that the next session will be held on Monday at 0800.

TEHRAN ARABIC ANALYZES POST-BREZHNEV ERA

GF211853 Tehran International Service in Arabic 1245 GMT 21 Nov 82

[Text] It is premature to predict what the post-Brezhnev era in the Soviet Union will be like and what developments Soviet policy will undergo after Yuriy Andropov's election as CPSU general secretary. However, the election of Andropov, the man who headed the Soviet intelligence service known as the KGB, and the statements he made to members of the CPSU Central Committee immediately after his election, are worthy of study.

In truth, there are many theories about the post-Brezhnev era in the Soviet Union. One of them predicts the escalation of rivalry between the two superpowers due to the new policy the Soviet Union will adopt after Andropov's assumption of power and the role the Soviet Government will play in the international political theater, which certainly will require more moves by the Soviets.

We have here to recall that late President Leonid Brezhnev adopted, during his tenure of 17 years, the principle of coexistence; he used to affirm that he would not budge an inch his [word indistinct] foreign peace policy. However, the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan and the Soviet intervention in Poland proved these claims of the late President Brezhnev to be false. On the other hand, Soviet foreign policy sprang from emotional stands due to the expansion of U.S. military policy, particularly after the Republicans came to power in the United States. These emotional Soviet stands were evident during the events in the Middle East and Latin America.

However, the Soviet leadership was aware of the weaknesses in these stands and thus elected Andropov as CPSU general secretary, despite the fact that there are eminent leading figures close to late President Brezhnev, including Constantine Chernenko. Andropov was elected instead of Chernenko to put an end to the emotional policy Brezhnev adopted on the foreign level and to charge the Soviet international policy with new military strength. The best example of this is the first statement Andropov made during the CPSU Central Committee meeting after his election as general secretary. He said: We know very well that we cannot beg peace from imperialism and that is why relying on the striking power of the Soviet Armed Forces is the only means to safeguard and maintain international peace. The new general secretary emphasized the determination of the new Soviet leadership to increase the Soviet defense capability to the greatest degree possible. However, we can say that Moscow will be forced to adopt a reasonable policy or claim to adopt the policy of late President Brezhnev, at least for a certain period of time.

Despite these speculations, we can say that Andropov's police past, the siege of Moscow by the Red Army and the Soviet police during Brezhnev's funeral and the election of the new party leadership show that the Soviet Union will adopt a more ambiguous and violent policy. Thus, we can expect more collision between the two superpowers following the recent changes in the Soviet leadership.

There is another theory regarding expected developments in the Soviet Union after the election of the new Soviet leadership. The theory sees that no basic changes will take place in Soviet policy after Andropov's election as CPSU general secretary and that Andropov's election came at the recommendation of Brezhnev himself shortly before his death, regardless of the fact that the conflict within the Soviet leadership has abated during recent years after the leadership adopted a specific and clear policy compared to that of previous leaderships. Therefore, changing one of the leaders in the Soviet Union will not greatly affect Soviet policy.

The same theory affirms that Andropov's views during his meeting with the Soviet leaders after his election as CPSU general secretary are only a continuation of the policy of late President Brezhnev and that what Andropov emphasized is no more than an information media game to affirm the striking power of the Soviet military machine. Besides, some political observers see a secret agreement between the two superpowers on Middle East and Near East issues. It is ruled out that new Soviet leader Andropov will abolish or reconsider this agreement, at least in the near future. Hence, we can say that this agreement is the basis of relations between East and West, which justifies the Soviet silence over the blatant U.S. intervention in the Middle East in general and in Lebanon in particular, and also justifies the indirect U.S. support to the Soviet efforts to achieve a solution to the Afghan issue in a way that might preserve the dignity of the Soviet Government. A good example of this is the bill the U.S. administration passed cancelling the U.S. economic blockade on the Soviet Union immediately after Andropov's election.

Lebanon

Protest to Iranians, Ba'labakk Situation -- Foreign Minister Elie Salim portested to the Iranian ambassador over the recent actions of armed Iranians in Ba'labakk and warned that Lebanon will break diplomatic relations with Iran unless the latter immediately withdraws its armed men from Lebanon, the clandestine Radio Free Lebanon reported. After his meeting with Salim, the Iranian ambassador nevertheless denied that Iranians were among those who recently attacked the government house in Ba'labakk, according to Beirut radio. Meanwhile, the Syrians reinforced their positions in Ba'labakk, where the security situation was calm, the radio noted. The bodies of five Iranians were discovered in a nearby village, according to Voice of Lebanon radio.

Ash-Shuf Situation -- Eight bodies were found in a well in the Ash-Shuf township of 'Ayn Zhalta, Beirut radio reported. Radio Free Lebanon blamed the killings on Druze militia from Walid Junblatt's Progressive Socialist Party, asserting that the dead were among a number of Christians kidnapped from Kafr Nabrakh village about 2 weeks ago.

Israeli-Syrian Contacts -- Voice of Lebanon said it has learned from high-level diplomatic sources in Beirut that Israel and Syria have recently held secret contacts through Iranian businessmen in an attempt to achieve "a kind of coordination" over the situation in Lebanon.

MA'ARIV on Lebanon -- The assessment in Jerusalem is that the IDF will remain in Lebanon through and even beyond the winter in view of Syria's "rigid position" in the political negotiations over the evacuation of foreign forces, the Israeli daily MA'ARIV reported. A senior Israeli political source cited by the paper opined that President Amin al-Jumayyil is subject to Syrian influence and will follow the dictates of Damascus in the negotiations. In the same issue of MA'ARIV, a commentary expressed support for those Israeli Cabinet ministers who have proposed a unilateral IDF withdrawal to a security strip 40 km from the Israeli border.

PLO

'Arafat in Damascus -- PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat arrived in Damascus to preside over the PLO Central Council meeting scheduled to convene 25 November, Radio Monte Carlo reported.

PLO-Egyptian Talks -- PLO Executive Committee member Ahmad al-Yamani stated that the "so-called" Palestinian delegation which recently met in Cairo with the Egyptian foreign minister did not represent the PLO and was not commissioned by the PLO Executive Committee, SANA reported. The official strongly condemned any attempt to remove Egypt from its isolation, SANA added. A Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine-General Command spokesman also criticized the talks, another SANA report noted. A "responsible source" in Cairo termed the criticism of the talks by "a number" of Palestinian movements "charlatanism" and a reiteration of Syrian slogans that will not solve the Palestinian issue, MENA reported. PLO Deputy Military Commander Khalil al-Wazir stated that Yasir 'Arafat will go to Egypt only when Cairo takes practical steps to distance itself from the Camp David policy, Voice of Lebanon radio revealed.

Inter-Arab Affairs

Algerian-Saudi Talks -- A joint statement issued at the end of Saudi King Fahd's talks with Algerian President Chadli Bendjedid noted that the two leaders discussed bilateral relations, Middle East issues and the situation in Africa, SPA reported. The talks were held in an atmosphere of "complete understanding" and "mutual confidence," the statement stressed. The Algerian foreign minister told SPA that the talks included a discussion of the Arab Maghreb, according to another SPA report.

King Fahd left Algeria on 23 November for a private visit to Morocco; he was accompanied by the Saudi ministers of foreign affairs, petroleum, labor and planning, MAP reported.

Tripartite Meeting -- A second summit meeting was held in Algiers consisting of President Bendjedid, King Fahd and PLO Executive Committee Chairman 'Arafat, APS reported. The PLO leader revealed that the summit dealt with a number of subjects "of extreme importance," including the Palestinian issue, Algiers radio reported.

OAPEC Meeting -- The oil ministers of the Organization of Arab Petroleum Exporting Countries are meeting in Kuwait, KUNA reported.

GCC

The joint defense plan adopted by the recent GCC summit conference provides for the establishment of a massive air defense network financed by Saudi Arabia to cover the entire region, the Paris weekly AN-NAHAR AL-'ARABI WA AD-DUWALI reported. The network will use the most advanced early warning devices and will be capable of protecting the oilfields and the Strait of Hormuz. The defense plan also aims at establishing joint training for the armies of the GCC states, the magazine added. The report also said the GCC leaders decided to continue supporting Iraq in its war with Iran; however, this support will not go beyond increasing material aid and obtaining or paying for arms supplies to the Iraqis.

Iran-Iraq War

Military Activities -- More than 1,300 Iranians were killed during clashes on the Maysan front, a military communique broadcast by Baghdad radio claimed. A military communique broadcast by Tehran radio stated that Iranian forces continued to consolidate and maintain their positions on various fronts.

Hashemi-Rafsanjani Comments -- Majlis Speaker 'Ali Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani told PASDAR-E ISLAM magazine that Iraq is in "big trouble" since Iran has recaptured most of the strategic border heights and that Iraq does not have the resources to defend itself on all the four main war fronts, IRNA reported. Iran cannot accept peace with Iraq until compensation is paid and it could take 10 years after a cease-fire is established for compensation to be settled, the Majlis speaker added.

Egypt

Noting Israeli media reports that Israel will not start negotiations on Tabah before Egypt returns its ambassador to Tel Aviv, President Husni Mubarak said in an interview with French television carried by MENA that the departure or recall of the ambassador is an act of Egyptian sovereignty and "we will accept no prior conditions under any circumstances."

Jordan

Security authorities believe that a fire which broke out at Al-Yarmuk University on 20 November was caused by a small explosive charge placed by a saboteur, Amman radio reported. Jerusalem radio's Arabic service claimed that Syria was behind the explosion and also said that Jordanian circles have expressed concern at recent Syrian reconnaissance overflights of Jordanian territory.

AFP: GUERRILLAS RUPTURE SOVIET OIL PIPELINE

[By Sami Zubeiri]

[Text] Islamabad, Nov. 23 (AFP) -- Afghan guerrillas blew open a Soviet oil pipeline this month, disrupting Afghanistan's main fuel artery at two points, Western diplomatic sources here said today.

The resistance forces succeeded in rupturing the pipeline on both sides of the Hindu Kush mountains, first on November 4 and again on November 7, the sources said. Using land mines they first blew apart the line at Dashte Kalagia, in Afghanistan's northern Samangan Province, and three days later scored a hit near the Bagram Airbase outside Kabul. Citing travellers, the diplomats said Soviet troops watched helplessly as residents in the area rushed forth to fill buckets as fuel gushed from the broken line. A number of Soviet workers sent to repair the damage were said to have been killed by guerrilla-laid mines.

Diplomats here also reported an increase in guerrilla attacks in the Afghan capital where government alerts and frequent house-to-house searches had failed to stop their activity. They reported four Afghan military officers killed in broad daylight in Kabul earlier this month and said the bodies of five infantrymen were found in Kabul's central Shor bazaar. Guerrillas also rocketed a Kabul military high school, diplomats said, but gave no casualty figures.

Meanwhile, fierce fighting was reported in the Logar Province south of Kabul where the government launched a military offensive earlier this month, flying in a large number of troops. Diplomatic sources said a "large and unspecified number" of casualties occurred where Soviet helicopters bombed the province last Thursday in a retaliatory strike for the loss a day earlier of six helicopters, destroyed by guerrillas. They said the Soviets accidentally hit their own troops in the raid.

Western sources also gave accounts of destruction caused by bombings last summer in the town of Shomali north of Kabul. They said most of the population had fled the area for Kabul following massive bombing of crops and irrigation systems, leaving Shomali virtually deserted. Diplomats said the Soviet policy of free-fire zones had left nothing intact in Shomali where they described the effect of bombing as "indelible."

They also reported fighting between different rebel groups in the Istalif region north of Kabul. They said 40 guerrillas were killed during factional clashes which broke out on November 10.

GANDHI VIEWS MITTERRAND VISIT, FOREIGN TIES

[By Dilip Ganguly]

[Text] New Delhi, Nov 23 (AFP) -- Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi today described the forthcoming trip of French President Francois Mitterrand to India, beginning Saturday, as a "good-will visit" and showered praises on the French policy of more cooperation with the developing world.

"We do not have any special outstanding problems with France, they view our problems with sympathy. We will try to find and enlarge areas where there can be cooperation." Mrs Gandhi told AFP in an interview here on the eve of President Mitterrand's visit which will run through November 30.

"The French realise there is tremendous and growing potential in India," Mrs Gandhi said.

On the French policy of increased cooperation with the Third World, Mrs Gandhi was all in praise for the present French Government. "President Mitterrand has spoken up in various conferences about global negotiations and helping the developing world", she said.

Replying to criticism that the French promise had been merely in words, Mrs Gandhi said: "We have the words at least. We do not even have words from other countries. This is at least the beginning", she said.

On the issue of France supplying enriched uranium to run the U.S.-aided Tarapur atomic power plant in the west coast, Mrs Gandhi said that since official level talks were underway, she would not comment. France has agreed to maintain fuel supply after the United States backed out.

"It is better that I do not say anything at this stage. Our own newspapers have been writing a lot of guess work and it has not helped us", she said.

On the Soviet policy after the death of President Leonid Brezhnev, Mrs Gandhi said "the policy of a country is governed by what they called national interest. The Soviets are anxious for peace because of their own economic problems and the memories of the wars are still very vivid and real to them."

Replying to a question if there was a change in New Delhi's policy after the Soviet armed presence in Afghanistan as manifested in India buying French arms and her visit to the United States, Mrs Gandhi denied that the Indian foreign policy was not balanced before.

"The Soviet Union had been a good friend to us. They stood by us when we wanted to build our industries after we were first refused by the United States and West Germany," she said.

She had met all but two American presidents during her decade-old rule and it was not proper to say that her foreign policy was imbalanced, she added.

She defended her invitation to the new chief of the Soviet Communist Party Yuriy Andropov to visit India saying that she had invited him as successor of Mr Brezhnev.

On Afghanistan, Mrs Gandhi said the all around condemnation of the Soviet Union had not helped solve the Afghan issue. She was defending her government's policy of abstaining from condemning Moscow on Afghanistan.

"Condemnation can never be successful. Now there is no question of persuasion succeeding in making the Soviets withdraw. They (Soviets) are anxious not to stay in Afghanistan. They have plenty of difficulties of their own, but they have to stay while the Afghan Government wants", she said.

She denied that Soviet presence in Afghanistan was a destabilishing factor for the region and India's sphere of influence. However, she said Pakistan was taking advantage of the Afghan issue. "It gives them a very good excuse for acquiring arms," she said. She said India had been seeking normalization of relations with Pakistan. "Let us wait and see", she added.

On the Non-aligned Movement, which she will head after the scheduled New Delhi summit in March next year, Mrs Gandhi said although there were differences, the movement had emerged stronger.

On the alleged pro-Soviet tilt of the 9-member movement, Mrs Gandhi denied that the movement had tilted towards Moscow during Cuban President Castro's chairmanship. "There is pressure from both sides (Soviet and Western) and they have increased in recent times," she said.

On domestic issue which has lately climaxed in Sikh demands for autonomy for Punjab and emergence of regionalism in other parts, Mrs Gandhi said it was natural in a democratic and vast country like India to have "small explosions." But it is not true to say that the whole of Punjab is not satisfied. It is only a political party which wants to come to power," she said, referring to the Sikh party Akali Dal, which is spearheading the present Sikh stir for autonomy.

Commenting on her rebel daughter-in-law Maneka Gandhi, who is likely to form a new political party early next year, she said "she has never been political but it seems that she is becoming ambitious".

Mrs Gandhi, who turned 66 last Friday, said that her "very strong sense of duty allows her no time to be tired. The work is too exciting, too challanging and too exacting".

She said she would like to see her only surviving son Rajiv Gandhi doing a "good work for the country, but whether he takes over or not after me should be decided by the party and the nation".

REPORT ON COMMUNIQUE ON BANGLADESH TALKS

BK181603 Delhi ISI Diplomatic Information Service in English 1527 GMT 18 Nov 82

[Text] The first meeting of the Indo-Bangla joint commission "injected a fresh impetus and new directions to the existing friendly relations and economic cooperation between the two countries" a joint statement said on 18 November. The statement, issued at the end of the 3-day visit of Bangladesh Foreign Minister A.R.S. Doha said the commission reviewed existing trade relations and identified measures to be taken on a priority basis to expand trade and reduce the trade imbalance.

The statement said India would send a team of experts to Bangladesh early to formulate a medium term plan for cooperation.

The commission decided to hold its second meeting at Dhaka during the first half of 1983.

Regarding transit railway facilities for the transport of Indian goods through Bangladesh territory, it was decided that representatives of the respective Railway Ministries would meet by the end of January 1983 to make firm recommendations for joint commission consideration at its next meeting.

The commission constituted four new committees headed by senior officials of the two countries on economic and financial matters, trade and commerce, industries and science and technology, the statement said, to ensure effective functioning of existing and new bodies and to follow up commission work.

The standing committee headed by the secretary of the Indian External Affairs Ministry and the secretary of the Bangladesh External Resources Division of Finance had been set up. It would meet not less than twice a year.

Referring to the creation of better infrastructural support between the two countries, the statement noted that the draft agreement on the regulation of motor vehicular traffic now under consideration would be finalised soon.

Both sides reemphasised their sincere desire to expand trade, improve economic and technical cooperation in the best spirit of bilateral, regional and international cooperation. In this connection they reaffirmed their commitment to the concept of ECDC and TCDC and expressed satisfaction over the progress already achieved in launching South Asian regional cooperation.

Both sides agreed that government-level consulations now under way regarding the marketing of jute goods abroad by India and Bangladesh were advantageous and should be continued.

To promote the establishment of industrial and infrastructure projects in Bangladesh India would provide government-to-government credit of rupees 200 million which will be used for the import of Indian capital goods and equipment. India would also provide credit of rupees 400 million from the export-import -- Exim -- bank to finance the import of Indian capital goods and equipment for projects in both public and private sectors.

India agreed to procure 50,000 tonnes of urea and 20,000 tonnes of newsprint annually from Bangladesh for next 3 years. India will also purchase 20,000 tonnes of bitumen next year. In addition, India would explore the possibility of import of Jamdani sarees and with blue leather, pulp, paper, viscose, yarn and timber from Bangladesh.

India expressed its willingness to continue exports of 100,000 tonnes of high grade steam coal annually and offered to supply 300,000-500,000 tonnes of special low volatile coal to Bangladesh.

Both sides agreed to set up joint ventures and the range of industrial projects discussed included sponge iron and steel, cement, concrete sleepers, modernisation of railway workship, manufacture of coaches and wagons, textiles, machinery and spares in the Bangladesh machines tool factory as well as modernisation of four sugar mills.

Feasibility studies for new projects would be undertaken by India. India also agreed to extend its fullest cooperation in the field of small scale industries.

To give a boost to their bilateral trade they agreed to further improve telecommunications, railways, roads, shipping and waterways links between the two countries.

It was also agreed to expand collaboration in banking and insurance, grant tariff concessions and settle payments through the Asian clearing union.

It was decided that telegraph and telephone circuits would be increased by about 100 percent on a priority basis. The microwave link between Bombay and Dhaka would be established and expanded.

A decision was also taken to increase the flow of information between the two countries.

It was felt that contacts among state trading organisations and visits by representatives of government-recognised chambers of commerce and industry should be promoted.

They agreed to evolve financing arrangements to ensure the viability of joint venture projects. In this connection the possibility of obtaining funds from third country and multilateral sources would also be explored.

They expressed satisfaction at the signing of a scientific and technical cooperation agreement.

Zia Hosts Banquet

BK221222 Karachi Domestic Service in Urdu 0200 GMT 22 Nov 82

[Text] President Gen Mohammad Ziaul Haq has said that mutual concern and convergence in the respective positions of Pakistan and Romania on many international issues have served to strengthen our bilateral relations in the larger interest of peace and security in the world.

He made this statement while addressing a banquet in honor of Romanian President Ceausescu in Karachi last night. President Mohammad Ziaul Haq said the fact that Pakistan and Romania to a large extent hold identical views on basic issues of interstate relations testifies to the friendship of the two countries.

The president said: It has been a matter of grave concern for us that the principle of noninterference has been violated in our closest neighboring country, Afghanistan, resulting in unlimited misery to the (?common) people of that country. [passage indistinct] He said: We sincerely desire an early end to this tragedy; we are participating with utmost sincerity in the indirect talks held through the UN secretary general's representative on Afghanistan, which is aimed at a comprehensive settlement of the issue in accordance with UN General Assembly resolutions.

The president said that the (?world) has expressed deep anguish and grief over Israel's brutal aggression against Lebanon and the continued sufferings of the Palestinian people. He said: All countries, particularly the big powers, who hold considerable influence and weight, should fulfill their responsibilities in connection with ending the Israeli expansionism and aggression.

President Mohammad Ziaul Haq reiterated that Pakistan extends full support to the Fes resolutions of the Arab summit. He said: We also recognize the positive aspects of President Reagan's peace plan. However, we understand that the establishment of a durable peace in the Middle East calls for a comprehensive settlement based on the restoration of the Palestinian people's right to self-determination.

The president referred to his visit to Romania earlier this year and to his exchanges of views on bilateral relations and several other international issues. He said the meeting of the Pakistan-Romania intergovernmental commission in Islamabad this month has strengthened further the mutually beneficial economic relations and has provided a new impetus to continue our joint efforts. He said: Although President Ceausescu's visit is a very short one, it has, however, provided an opportunity for us to renew our existing friendly and cordial relations and to express the determination to strengthen them further.

In reply, President Ceausescu said Pakistan and Romania are both determined to attain their social and economic progress and cooperation between them is of great significance. He said Romania attaches special importance to the development of relations with Pakistan and the Pakistan president's visit to Romania this year and his talks assume great importance in the future development of these relations. On the international level also, the close cooperation between the two countries is on the rise.

President Ceausescu said Romania favors solving issues between countries only through negotiations. Romania holds this point of view on various issues, including the Afghanistan issue. He said the Afghanistan issue should be solved in a way that ensures independence and sovereignty for Afghanistan and creates the means for Afghanistan's economic and social progress, in accordance with the desires of the Afghan people.

On the Middle East situation, the Romanian president agreed with the views of President Mohammad Ziaul Haq that Israel's aggressive acts in Lebanon have created a situation of grave concern. He demanded the withdrawal of Israeli troops from Lebanon and a comprehensive peace in the region. He said Romania supports convening an international conference in connection with the solution of the Middle East issue and the formation of an independent Palestinian state to be attended by all parties, including the Palestine Liberation Organization.

President Ceausescu expressed the hope that the important decisions made by the Pakistan-Romania intergovernmental commission will create new areas for further promotion of cooperation between the two countries.

HASHEMI-RAFSANJANI: IRAQ IN BIG TROUBLE

LD232348 Tehran IRNA in English 1928 GMT 23 Nov 82

[Text] Tehran, Nov 23 IRNA -- In an extensive analysis of the Iraqi imposed war and the (?present) state of the two countries, Majlis Speaker Akbar val-Moslemin Hashemi-Rafsanjani said that Iraq also (?had a) greedy eye on strategic border heights between the two countries.

In an article published in the latest issue of the monthly magazine "PASDAR-E ISLAM", Rafsanjani said that the Iraqis had made a strategically correct analysis when they decided to retreat from the positions inside Iranian border territory and position (?themselves) on the important Iranian border heights, places where they could defend themselves. He said that now with the recapture of most of these heights from the Iraqis following the two latest offensives of the Islamic forces, Iraq was in big trouble.

During the first Operation Muslim ibn 'Aqil, which started on October first, the Majlis speaker said that the Islamic forces were only less than 1 [word indistinct] from [word indistinct] when the Islamic combatants advance 50 kms in a straight line. Baghdad can no longer defend itself because a capital cannot possibly [word indistinct] when it is within artillery range."

Operation Moharram, begun November first, resulted in the gain of more Iranian heights and the Islamic forces advanced some 10 to 30 kms into Iraqi territory. [Words indistinct] been put into a bad situation, he added, since it had to defend a vast valley with the Iranian forces on top of the heights. Rafsanjani [words indistinct] a border for Iraq to defend itself in this area it needed several well equipped divisions in the [words indistinct] areas, in Iraq's Nissan Province.

The representative of Imam Khomeyni in the Supreme Defence Council said that Iraq was therefore faced with four fronts, around Khanaqin, around Mandali, around Ali Gharbi and Al-Amarah and around Basra. He said that (?it cannot), have the personnel or the facilities to [word indistinct] troops needed to defend these fronts all at the same time." [Words indistinct] severely vulnerable," he said.

Rafsanjani commented that there was no way that the Islamic Republic of Iran could make peace at a time when Iraq had (?not) paid compensation for its damages and destructions. He said that if a cease-fire was established, settlement (?could) take as much as ten years, and moreover, Iraq would become a rallying point for the enemies of the Islamic (?revolution).

"In such a circumstance they would blackmail us and stand against us and on the other hand we will not obtain our rights from Iraq and our revolution would be in danger."

Further commenting on the consequences of a cease-fire between Iran and Iraq, Rafsanjani said that Iran would then have to be always in a state of alert to keep up its military strength, and basically it would be forced to stay away from developmental activities. "Also [words indistinct] would disappear since in this situation they would not feel threatened, as they do now, then [words indistinct] the war effort will have to continue until we become certain that we would obtain our rights."

However, he said that Iran's insistance on gaining its demands from Iraq had created a situation under (?which it could) not speak of anything but a conditional peace. On the other hand he said that Iraq had the propaganda media in its control and it was difficult for Iran to make the deprived people of the world know about the innocence of the Islamic forces.

He added that at the present time Iran needed to invest in its ability to prove its righteousness and innocence. In the meantime he said that it was apparent that Iran had to get its word through by its strength because today's (?world) is an ugly world, without anyone speaking the truth. If they did speak of truth they could easily understand our positions.

From the economic point of view, Rafsanjani said that Iran was in a much better condition to continue the war while Iraq was having trouble convincing the reactionary Arab countries to hand over more loans. He said that these countries were seeing that their enmities toward the Islamic Republic of Iran would not be left unanswered. He also praised Syria's pressure being exerted on Iraq.

In conclusion Rafsanjani said that it must [word indistinct] its propaganda problems since it could not shout the slogan of peace when it had no other choice but to continue the war until Saddam's overthrow.

KHAMENE'I DISCUSSES ELECTIONS, IRAQI COUNCIL

LD231838 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 23 Nov 82

[Excerpts] President Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i, who went to Esfahan yesterday to take part in the memorial meeting honoring a number of Esfahan martyrs, granted an exclusive interview to the correspondent of the Central News Unit from Esfahan. He explained his views on the election of the Council of Experts and on the formation of the Supreme Council of the Islamic Revolution in Iraq.

The question was asked: What are your views on the elections to the Council of Experts and the Islamic Consultative Assembly?

Khamene'i answered: The elections to the Islamic Consultative Assembly are very clear. They are mid-term elections. The Council of Experts is one of the most basic organizations in our Constitution and it should always exist in society. Of course, the existence of this organization does not mean that it should always have special duties. The duties of the Council of Experts belong to a special time and occasion which has been specified in the Constitution. For a long time, there was talk about electing this organization but it was postponed. However, the Interior Ministry and the Council of Guardians, who are responsible for these elections, have now taken the initiative and, God willing, this council will be formed.

The best definition and the most complete description of the Council of Experts were given by our esteemed imam. The Council of Experts will strengthen the leadership and its formation will bring an organization into being that has been foreseen in the Constitution and that will be acting according to the Constitution. The people will feel secure in that the experts of the nation have been elected and are ready to serve and to work. Of course, the enthusiasm shown by the people and the candidates has been very good. We foresee that, in these elections, as in past elections, the people actively will participate and many ballots will be cast. God willing, the Council of Experts will achieve its dignity and authority as the result of the decisive vote of these people.

Concerning the situation in the battlefields after the victorious Moharram operations, the chairman of the Supreme Defense Council said: The situation of our forces each day is better than the day before. The commanders of our fighting forces, both the armed forces and the Guards Corps, wanted a number of recuits. They asked the people to help them and the people responded with even much more than they needed and left for the fronts. Our commanders have no difficulty concerning human resources.

The situation of our forces in the fronts is very good. In the Moharram operational zone, our fronts are consolidated and the enemy has no chance to make any movement harmful to our forces. Thanks to God, the situation in our fronts is very good both from the viewpoint of human resources, from the viewpoint of morale and the desire for fighting and from the viewpoint of equipment.

Concerning the Supreme Council of the Islamic Revolution in Iraq, the president said: This council is a popular move by our Iraqi Muslim brothers. As you know, according to the announcement of the council itself, it is formed of both clergy and nonclergy brothers, of Shi'ite and Sunni. According to their statement, their intention is to start their great and grassroot movement against the usurping regime in Iraq, to mobilize the people against it and to continue their struggle until the downfall of the present usurping regime and the establishment of a popular and Islamic order. This is a blessed move. As the Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran, we have not interfered in any way in this movement. This concerns the Iraqis themselves. It is natural that we welcome such a movement. We take it as a good omen and, if they ask our views, we will encourage them to continue this movement.

Concerning the degree of the success of this council, Khamene'i said: I am very hopeful about its success because successful movements are based on two basics: One is to have a deep, well-founded and divine ideology and, second, the support of the masses of the people. This council can enjoy both these conditions. If those individuals busy working within this council increase their reliance upon Islam and the people and if they continue on this path, we have no doubt that their movement will be successful. Even at the moment we can see signs of a popular movement in Iraq.

'FARCE OF SINKING OIL TANKERS' SCORNED

GF231939 Tehran International Service in Arabic 1800 GMT 23 Nov 82

[Unattributed commentary]

[Text] The farce of the sinking of oil tankers in Khark is repeated with every heavy blow that breaks the Iraqi rulers' backs. It is not the first time the world has heard such a farce. The lost and defeated regime has harped on this tune several times, but to no avail. All the regime's attempts have failed to extinguish the great battles waged by the Islamic forces with rare valor -- battles in which the enemy was like a terrified mouse looking for a hole that would save it from death and protect it from swords and arrows.

It is truly a farce to be added to the series of farces on which the aggressors of Baghdad have embarked -- aggressors who have replaced reality with illusion and turned the battle for which they had prepared themselves into an ignoble defeat, not only for the rulers of Iraq, but also for the agent Ba'th Party and for all hirelings who have allowed themselves to be led by conspiring imperialists.

Among the many farces in which the vile Iraqi regime indulges is its flimsy claim every now and then of sinking oil tankers or merchant ships so as to divert attention away from the deep wounds it sustained in its losing battles with the Islamic Republic of Iran -- battles that are the tax which the regime is compelled to pay for its treacherous aggression against an innocent people without any prior warning or justification other than implementing the orders of the White House.

While the world hears the reports of the resounding defeats inflicted on the Iraqi ruler on all battlefronts, the Iraqi rulers try to demonstrate their bravery in other fields.

We wish they had done something to regain their dignity -- if they have any. The only thing in which the Iraqi rulers excel is lying, and only lying. When their tanks and artillery fail to face the Islamic advance, they replace all their weapons with this cheap weapon -- cheap because it is possessed by any vile and trivial person: the weapon of lies. It is a short-lived weapon doomed to failure.

With the boisterous clamor of war, we hear meek and weak voices broadcast by Saddam's media and trumpeted by imperialist radios. We hear of illusory courage and we hear of a tiger -- but it is a paper tiger. In the honorable battles of Ramadan, when our valiant heroes forged epic-making history and when the Saddam regime was soundly defeated, the vanquished fabricated the farce of sinking merchant ships and oil tankers so as to cover up for its enormous losses. Ever since then, that regime has been resorting to the same tactic.

Now, having been dealt successive blows on the Al-'Amarah and Mandali fronts, it resorted to the same old lifeline. However, the Iraqi regime did not think that this is a short lifeline that will not take it to the shore of safety because lies are not a durable life-preserver -- lies make their perpetrators falsely believe that they have saved them from one imbroglio, only to put them in another.

Gentlemen, this is what Saddam and his regime are like: Every day they are in an imbroglio; no sooner do they manage to find a way out of one imbroglio than they find themselves in another. Saddam, who has demonstrated to the world that [words indistinct] such lies to depict himself to the world as a man of strategy who knows where to strike and how to enter a battle. He opts for the economic battle instead of waging other battles. This is what this idiot wanted to delude himself, and the world, into believing. He did not pause to ask himself: What is the use of an economic battle when he is daily sacrificing hundreds of dead at the altar of his lusts and rancor? What is the use of lies when his forces constantly are retreating on his fragmented and disoriented front? What is the use of the radios that support him and trumpet for him in the war that he is unable to wage despite all the assistance he has received?

This illusion will kill Saddam sooner or later. That he should hold on to this illusion is a great possibility, but that he should live on this illusion forever is an impossibility. Tyrants have resorted to all the weapons that their successor, Saddam Husayn, is now using. They resorted to these weapons and they had more intelligence and greater eloquence than Saddam. However, the result of all their experiences has demonstrated the failure of (?vile) methods to maintain their domination over peoples.

Let Saddam learn from the experiences of those who preceded him, whether in the contemporary age or in bygone times. Let him not repeat the records of Hitler, Stalin and other tyrants who established their power on these pillars: lies, lies, and lies.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE NO 1,131

LD231732 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 23 Nov 82

[Communique No 1,131 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. By offering our best greetings on the glorious birthday of the seventh bright star of Velayat and Imamat His Great Eminence Imam Kusa Kazem, may peace be upon him, we are bringing the situation on the battlefronts of the imposed war to the attention of the Muslim and grateful umma' of Iran.

During the past 24 hours, the combatants of Islam on the southern fronts further consolidated their defensive positions and prevented the Saddamist mercenaries from carrying out any aggression or operations. The combatants of Islam, maintaining their superior firepower against the Saddamist infidel forces, opened timely fire on the positions and units of the Iraqi invading forces and inflicted blows on them

At various times yesterday morning, the disintegrating Saddamist mercenaries launched three desperate attacks. The victorious and proud combatants of Islam smashed the enemy attacks, repulsed their operations and inflicted considerable losses and damages on the Saddamist aggressors. During these operations, the Iraqi forces suffered heavy losses and casualties in every attack and were forced to retreat.

The brave warriors of the gendarmerie on the Abadan fronts returned the enemy fire and pounded their positions and fortifications on the other side of the Arvand Rud, killing or wounding a number of the Saddamist mercenary troops and inflicting damage on their trenches and bunkers.

During the exchange of fire on the Western fronts, the combatants of Islam inflicted loss and damages on the Saddamist forces and silenced their fire. The exchange of fire was more intense on the Muslim ibn 'Aqil operational fronts.

Thanks to the artillery and heavy weapons fire of the warriors of Islam on the Marivan front against the enemy positions in the Tutman and Panjwin sectors, several enemy mortars and bunkers were destroyed and a number of Saddamist troops were killed. Also in the same sector, the continuous artillery fire by the ground forces combatants on several Iraqi garrisons inflicted heavy losses and damage on the Iraqi forces stationed in these garrisons.

One enemy ammunition depot was set ablaze on the Paveh front.

[Signed] The Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran

NVOI: U.S. AIMS TO SEPARATE IRAN FROM NEIGHBORS

TA221126 [Editorial Report] The clandestine National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran at 1730 GMT on 21 November carries a commentary entitled: "America Is Creating a Quarantine Around Iran." It says: America intends to separate Iran from its neighboring countries. In connection with this U.S. policy, during recent months, it has devoted special attention to the Indian Ocean region and particularly to the Persian Gulf region.

Many of the Pentagon's high-ranking military officials have visited these areas. The U.S. secretary of defense recently visited the eastern part of this region. Up to that time, his deputy, Frank Carlucci, had visited some of the region's countries.

What do these gentlemen want from the Indian Ocean region, especially its northwestern part, and the Persian Gulf? The unprecedented attention of the Reagan administration's high-ranking officials to these regions is because U.S. imperialism intends to revive its military and strategic positions following the revolution's victory in our homeland and the disintegration of CENTO. All of us are aware that the Reagan administration loves the formation of alliances more than its predecessors. The Reagan military clique is striving to form another military agreement by the name of strategic alliance with the participation of some of Iran's neighboring countries. In Mr Carlucci's view, this alliance should take the form of a quarantine that will envelope Iran from the south, east and west.

The foundation has been laid for the setting up of this alliance. About 1 and 1/2 years ago, as a result of the frantic activity of the current U.S. Government, Saudi Arabia took the initiative in organizing a so-called cooperation council among the Arab countries of the Persian Gulf with the participation of Kuwait, Qatar, Bahrain, the UAE and Oman.

In Washington, they view this organization of Arab feudalists as a first step toward the establishment of an anti-Iranian front in the south. Numerous indications prove this claim. For example, during all last year, America sold substantial amounts of military hardware to Saudi Arabia. Moreover, as you are aware, since last year, the U.S. Corps of Engineering has been engaged in carrying out extensive programs in connection with military facilities on Saudi Arabian soil at a cost of $21 billion.

The United States aims to impose the sale of its weapons on other countries of the so-called Arab cooperation council. For example, it is forecast that the Northrop Corporation will start the sale of its F-5 aircraft to Bahrain. In the U.S. plans, Bahrain is one of the strategic areas for the stationing of the Rapid Deployment Forces. Moreover, the possibility of the sale of F-16 aircraft not only to Bahrain but to Oman also is under review by the Pentagon.

The Reagan administration intends to involve our neighboring countries, that is Turkey and Pakistan, in its anti-Iranian alliance. Specifically, the Pentagon is striving to impose on the Turkish Government the signing of an agreement pertaining to the construction of several U.S. military bases in the northeastern part of Turkey and in the vicinity of its borders with the Islamic Republic.

The Americans frantically are engaged in selling military hardware to Pakistan. In Washington, the prevailing opinion is that one can use Pakistan against the Islamic Republic of Iran. Thus, U.S. ruling circles want by the threat of direct intervention in our homeland's internal affairs to revive their lost positions and to bring to power in our country a system compatible with their plundering interests. Undoubtedly, the united struggle of all our homeland's true and revolutionary forces will foil this treacherous U.S. plan.

Inquiry Commission -- After examining the evidence, the commission of inquiry into the Sabra and Shatila events warned the prime minister and eight other high-ranking civilian and military officials that they could be "harmed" by the inquiry or its results, THE JERUSALEM POST reported. The sources added that Begin is confident of being reelected. A MA'ARIV editorial cited by Jerusalem radio stated that the commission's conclusions may cause a "strong political tremor." Iranian forces defended their positions "deep inside Iraq" east of Basra and halted Iraqi traffic on the Al-Faw-Basra road, according to IRNA. A military communique broadcast by Baghdad radio asserted that 3,500 Iranians were killed during a "fierce battle" on 25 November.

Khark Incident -- The commander of the Iranian Navy said that "no foreign oil tanker has been hit in the Khark or Bushehr regions," according to Tehran radio.

Hashemi-Rafsanjani Interview -- Following a Supreme Defense Council meeting in Tehran on 24 November, Majlis Speaker 'Ali Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani said in an interview with Tehran radio that Iran controls almost all of the territory from the Persian Gulf to the common border in northern Iraq. The speaker revealed that the council approved the funding and formation of a "large number" of volunteer battalions to be composed of veterans and those with military training. Following a 6-month training course, the battalions will be used as independent units at the fronts, and will greatly increase the manpower at the disposal of the armed forces, the speaker added. In addition, the council assigned the guards corps with the task of establishing training bases and providing "lawful facilities for the Supreme Council of the Islamic Revolution in Iraq, according to the speaker. The speaker stated that the council emphasized that the guards should not interfere in the Iraqi group's affairs.

Iraqi Opposition

A spokesman for the Supreme Council of the Islamic Revolution in Iraq said that his group is not a government-in-exile or a coalition of different political groups; it is comprised of Muslims who follow the same policy, IRNA reported citing an ETTELA'AT interview. However, the spokesman claimed that the group is willing to cooperate with "all forces" to overthrow the Iraqi regime. Only armed struggle will help the group achieve its aims, the spokesman added.

DEFECTOR COMMENTS ON POLICE DESERTION

BK201255 Karachi Domestic Service in English 1005 GMT 20 Nov 82

[Text] In Afghanistan, the Karmal regime has reduced the duration of police training course from 3 years to only 3 months in order to pass out policemen in larger numbers in a bid to make up the depletion in the police force because of continued desertion.

This has been stated by Brig (Mohammad Aiyub Nangal), who was an instructor at the Kabul Police Academy before taking shelter in Pakistan. He defected after performing haj as deputy leader of an official Afghan haj delegation. He said the police personnel are always on the lookout for an opportunity to join hands with the mujahidin in the struggle for freedom. The Kabul regime, he said, has turned Afghanistan into a police state. Brig (Aiyub Nangal) said the police academy in Kabul is run under the supervision of 12 Soviet advisers.

AFP: ERSHAD EXPECTED TO SEEK ARMS IN PRC

[By Golam Tahaboor]

[Excerpt] Dhaka, Nov. 25 (AFP) -- Bangladesh Chief Martial Law Administrator [CMLA] Lt. Gen. Hussain Mohammad Ershad leaves for Beijing tomorrow on a week-long official visit which officials said here would reaffirm and renew Dhaka's already close friendship with China.

The general is expected to seek modern Chinese arms for his country's defense arsenal. China became Bangladesh's chief arms supplier in 1975.

The coming visit would be first highest level contact with Beijing by the new military regime in Dhaka since the 52-year-old general since he came to power last March. [as received]

General Ershad is thought to have signed an agreement with Beijing for the supplies of heavy arms to Bangladesh in 1979 when he headed a military delegation to that country.

As active members of the non-aligned, Bangladesh and China have closely similar views on many international issues, officials here said.

The eight member party to Beijing includes Foreign Minister Shamsud Doha.

Officials here said General Ershad would discuss with Chinese leaders the situation in West Asia (Middle EAst), Kampuchea, Afghanistan and also South Asia.

Talks in Beijing are expected to cover the gamut of their "excellent" bilateral relations as well as regional and world issues, including Cambodia and the prospect of a Sino-Soviet thaw officials here said.

As active members of the Non-aligned Movement, Bangladesh and China have a close affinity of views on many international issues and problems.

Premier Zhao Ziyang paid a brief visit to Dhaka in June 1981.

Informed sources here said at least 10 Chinese delegations have visited Bangladesh during the last year, including one high level military delegation.

Currently, Chinese Vice-Minister for Forestry Dong Zhiyong is in Dhaka and the Chinese agriculture minister is scheduled to arrive here on November 26 for an official visit.

In an interview published today, Foreign Minister Shamsud Doha said, "We want closer ties with China still."

[Excerpts] Chief Martial Law Administrator [CMLA] Lt Gen H.M. Ershad has said institutions have to be built under which a democratic system can function without any chance of being destroyed. He was inaugurating a 2-day conference of the divisional commissioners, deputy commissioners, district judges and superintendents of police and Dhaka today.

The CMLA said preparations of the voters list will start from January next and the elections to the thana [police station] and union parishads [councils] will take place toward the end of next year. GANDHI COMMENTS ON USSR'S AFGHAN POLICY

NC250915 Paris AFP in English 0904 GMT 25 Nov 82

[Text] Paris, Nov 25 (AFP) -- Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi said in an interview published here today that she did not think the Soviet Union wanted to remain in Afghanistan, and described foreign aid to Afghan rebels as "substantial".

The Socialist daily newspaper LE MATIN de Paris, on the eve of President Francois Mitterrand's visit to India, asked what her impression was of Moscow's policy towards Afghanistan after talks last week with Yuriy Andropov, who succeeded Leonid Brezhnev as secretary-general of the Communist Party.

Mrs Gandhi replied that she saw no change there. Noting that India was for the withdrawal of foreign troops from Afghanistan and the halting of all other influences, she said there was no doubt that the rebels were receiving foreign aid.

Asked whether this could be described as "limited aid", she said she considered it substantial, putting the Afghan Government in a difficult position. The prime minister said that she did not think the Afghan regime would allow the Soviets to leave until it could prove that it was capable of beating off rebel attacks.

The prime minister said that the new aspect of the Afghan problem was that Afghanistan and Pakistan were talking to each other.

She added that she did not think the Soviets wanted to remain in Afghanistan, and that if they were still there it was because they felt that a week Afghanistan would harm Soviet national interests.

Mrs Gandhi said that the Soviets had been looking for a way out "for a long time."

Asked about her impressions of her meeting with Mr Andropov, Mrs Gandhi said she had the feeling that the Kremlin was being less rigid than formerly with some foreign countries with which relations had not been too good, though she did not feel this depended only on the new party secretary.

ZIA DISCUSSES REGIONAL, DOMESTIC ISSUES

BK241142 Karachi Domestic Service in English 1700 GMT 23 Nov 82

[Text] President Gen Mohammad Ziaul Haq said we have consistently believed in the peaceful settlement of interstate problems and our approach has always been that of peace with all and, more especially, with our neighbors.

In an interview with THE DEFENSE JOURNAL of Karachi, the president referred to the geopolitical situation in the region. In this context, he mentioned the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan, the Iran-Iraq conflict and the recent blatant aggression committed by Israel and Lebanon.

The president said our approach to the Afghanistan problem has been that a political solution based on recognized principles of international law is the only answer. We do not believe that a military solution is possible. The same approach, he added, was the right one to create a climate of confidence in our relations with our eastern neighbor, India. That is why we took the initiative to banish the spector of war from the horizon. We will continue our sincere efforts from both fronts to promote peace and stability.

The president said he was encouraged by the fact that Pakistan today stood out as a haven of stability, despite the convulsions in the region of west Asia, which adjoins us. He said we must blend our efforts not only toward preserving our stability, but also restoring and promoting stability of the entire region.

Replying to a question about domestic affairs, the president pointed out that during the past 5 years policies have been made by institutions set up by the present government including the council. These organizations have played their due role in preparing development programs. Answering another question, the president said the government has maintained a continuous rapport with the people at all levels. Moreover, the federal council has played an important role in maintaining a close rapport with the government and the people. Hence, the policies and the initiatives of the government on national and international issues are framed in the light of the people's aspirations. In addition, the local government system has played an important part in maintaining continuous dialogue between the people and the government. All these measures have brought about a good deal of political stability in the country. It was because of this stability, the president added, that investment in the private sector was coming forth, which was encouraging.

He said he would like to see greater participation by the private sector. The president referred to the accelerated pace of economic development in various fields and also measures taken for the Islamization of the different sectors of the country's economy. These achievements, he said, reflected the participation of the entire nation.

About the political process, the president said we are consciously and progressively preparing for the restoration of democracy in the country which will conform to the Islamic principles. The president said as far as the restoration of the normal political process is concerned, we are committed to the restoration of civil rule. We are moving in that direction step by step. He said he had already promised to indicate the future political system by the next independence day. He hoped to move quickly thereafter to implement it. To restore civil rule, he said, there is a need to create objective conditions to facilitate this transition. He said his government was trying hard toward this end. The president said another condition was the prevalence for peaceful conditions within the country. He said his government had been able to restore the confidence of the people. He was not unaware of the existence of certain elements who were out to create chaotic conditions in the country for their own vested interests. They do not want elections to be held in the country. The president said we shall frustrate their efforts and restore civil rule, insha Allah [God willing].

THE MUSLIM COMMENTS ON ZIA-ANDROPOV MEETING

GF231134 Islamabad THE MUSLIM in English 17 Nov 82 p 4

[Editorial: "President Ziaul Haq's Moscow Journey"]

[Text] The talks between President Ziaul Haq and Mr Yuriy Andropov, the new general secretary of the Soviet Communist Party, held in Moscow on Monday are the first at the level of head of state since the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan. According to earlier news reports it had been indicated that the Soviet president would, in all probability, be unable to meet world leaders, other than those from the East European countries, who have assembled in the Soviet capital to attend the funeral of former President Leonid Brezhnev.

The Pakistan and Soviet presidents are reported to have had an exchange of views on the situation in Afghanistan. It is hoped that this initial exchange, although brief, will in some measure provide a fresh opportunity for both sides to tackle the long-outstanding problem. For some time now there have been strains in the relationship between Pakistan and the Soviet Union because of the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan. Although it is felt that there are unlikely to be major shifts in Soviet foreign policy on major international issues, there is, however, reason to believe that Mr. Andropov might be prepared to take a fresh look at some of the questions including the possibility of Sino-Soviet rapprochement and the wisdom of Soviet intervention in Afghanistan. A positive indicator of getting out of the old grooves is the visit to Moscow of the Chinese Foreign Minister Huang Hua to attend Mr. Brezhnev's funeral. It is the first time in 18 years that such a high-ranking Chinese delegation has visited the Soviet capital. According to reports Mr Andropov has also had a meeting with Mr. Huang.

The initiative taken by the president of Pakistan to attend the funeral of President Brezhnev was a positive one; and it is hoped that the exchange of views with the new Soviet leader will lead to a better understanding of each other's positions and will facilitate the progress of the Geneva peace talks. It is in the best interests of both countries as well as the entire region to reach an early, peaceful and negotiated settlement of the Afghanistan problem is consonance with the wishes of its people.

President Ziaul Haq has reiterated on several occasions that Afghanistan is the only point of conflict in Pakistan-Soviet relations. In any case, Pakistan's stand on this issue has been consistent as well as principled one. The relations between two countries have had a chequered past and for a number of reasons these countries have not been able to forge a cooperative relationship befitting neighbours. As President Ziaul Haq's gesture clearly indicates that despite our political intimacy with China and our 3.2 billion package deal with the United States, Pakistan is rightly determined to pursue a policy of equi-distance from both super-powers and an unambiguous commitment to the principles of genuine non-alignment. Now that contact has been established between the two countries at the highest level, this should serve as a great impetus to better understanding each other's perceptions of the region and should help in contributing to a political settlement on Afghanistan. Such a move is in the interest of peace in the region and well-being of the two countries, who are practically neighbours now.

SRI LANKA

AFP: TAMIL MILITANTS SUSPECTED IN SHOOTING

BK250656 Hong Kong AFP in English 0638 GMT 25 Nov 82

[Text] Colombo, Nov. 25 (AFP) -- Separtist Tamil militants are thought to be responsible for today's shooting of the municipal commissioner of Jaffna, C.V.K. Sivagnanam, reports reaching here said.

The commissioner was bathing at a well in front of his residence when four armed youths on bicycles shot him with a revolver seriously wounding him. The reports said Mr. Sivagnanam underwent an emergency operation at the Jaffna hospital. He is a Tamil by race and the motive for the shooting is not known. The technique adopted by the assailants suggested they belonged to a militant section of the separatist movement, the reports added.

Meanwhile in Jaffna, a student boycott is being organised for November 29 to protest against the detention of a university lecturer and his wife and two Catholic priests for alleged involvement with the separatist movement, the island newspaper reported today.

JAYEWARDENE DENIES SUPREME COURT DOWNGRADED

BK191352 Colombo International Service in English 1045 GMT 19 Nov 82

[Text] Sri Lanka's chief justice, Neville Samarakoon, has written to President Jayewardene complaining that the post of chief justice has been devalued and that the powers of Supreme Court judges have been eroded gradually by executive orders.

In his reply, President Jayewardene has emphasized that, on the contrary, the position of chief Justice, far from being devalued, has been revalued constitution-wide, money-wise, status-wise, independence-wise and in many other ways.

President Jayewardene stressed in his rejoinder that for the first time in the history of Sri Lanka the two highest courts -- the Supreme Court and the Court of Appeal -- have been entrenched in the Constitution. He could not, therefore, understand the chief justice's reference to devaluing, erosion, executive action and insult. He had always treated all members of the judiciary with greatest respect and had never attempted to interfere with their independence.

The president could not accept Samarakoon's interpretation of the Constitution as consisting of three main divisons. He said that the president and parliament elected by the people are supreme subject to the sovereignty of the people expressed through a referendum.

LD242142 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 2030 GMT 24 Nov 82

[Text] The Supreme Defense Council held a session tonight. It was chaired by Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i, president of the republic and chairman of the Supreme Defense Council.

Participating in this session were: Hashemi-Rafsanjani, the imam's representative on the Supreme Defense Council; Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi; Brigadier General Zahirnezhad, chief of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran; Colonel Salimi, minister of defense; Mohsen Reza'i, commander in chief of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps; Hojjat ol-Eslam Haj Seyyed Ahmad Khomeyni; Velayati, minister of foreign affairs; Colonel Sayyad-Shirazi, commander of the ground forces; Captain Afzali, commander of the navy; other navy officers; Shamkhani, deputy commander of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps; and Kharrazi, supervisor of the war propaganda headquarters.

The meeting studied latest developments on the battlefronts and discussions were held on future war plans, the results of the Moharram operations, the condition of the enemy forces, the formation of the Qods reserve battalions by the army, the role of the Hamzeh Headquarters in routing counterrevolution and the extent of the resources the Islamic Republic of Iran will put at the disposal of the Supreme Council of the Islamic Revolution of Iraq. Some decisions were made on the matters.

At the end of this session, Hashemi-Rafsanjani, the imam's representative on the Supreme Defense Council, gave an interview to our correspondent and answered his questions. Details of this interview will be broadcast in later news bulletins.

Hashemi-Rafsanjani Interview

[Interview with Hojjat ol-Eslam val-Moslemin 'Ali Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani, Khomeyni's representative on the Supreme Defense Council, by unidentified correspondent, following the 24 November Supreme Defense Council session in Tehran -- recorded]

[Text] [Question] How do you evaluate the Moharram operations of the fighters of Islam?

[Answer] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. This was one of the topics at our discussions. Both the ground forces and the Guards Corps and the chief of the Joint Staff presented a comprehensive report and we discussed it. The report was very encouraging. Certain results have been achieved, but it is still early for us to announce them. Due to military considerations, it is not appropriate to announce them. Those things thought to be effective in other operations also have been effective in these operations. The enemy has realized this and during the past few days it has engaged in some futile operations. Nearly every day, or every 2 days, there have been some counteroffensives. However, the enemy has sustained great material and personnel losses every time it engages in a counteroffensive. The positions our forces have occupied are very good. They can be defended very easily. The council was very pleased with the results of the operations.

[Question] If possible, please describe some of the other issues discussed in this session.

[Answer] Many issues were discussed. We had two (?new) issues. One was the formation of the Jerusalem reserve battalions proposed by the ground forces and approved by the Joint Staff. It is a very interesting move. They have decided that the ground forces should form certain battalions on a voluntary basis, comprising those who have received military training and former conscripts, something similar to the mobilization units that are at the disposal of the Guards Corps. However, they will comprise those who have done their military service and are familiar with the armed forces.

It has been decided that a large number of these battalions should be formed throughout the country, wherever we have military facilities. A 6-month course will be organized for them so that they can be used as independent units at the fronts. However, they will act on a voluntary basis and receive the salary approved for them. Of course, tonight the budget for their facilities and equipment and so on was studied and approved. I think this is a very interesting move by the armed forces and enables the armed forces to have access to a vast voluntary force which will greatly increase the forces at the disposal of the armed forces. The gentlemen themselves [as heard] will provide the people with further information.

Another issue we discussed and which took a lot of our time was the issue of the forces stationed in Syria. As you know, these days there is a great clamor in the imperialist media to the effect that Iranian forces were present and participated in the recent operation in Bal'labakk when the barracks of the Lebanese forces were surrounded. We inquired about this with the Guards Corps and they provided us with an official explanation. It was made clear that this claim is totally false and that our forces do not interfere at all in such activities. These forces were sent to fight against Israel, to take part in the battle against Israel. This battle has come practically to a standstill and the forces have remained there in anticipation of events. They are undergoing training courses there. Out investigations show that a movement has started there by the people and by the revolutionary Muslims. Israel, America and the Phalangists have become frightened. They don'twant to ascribe it to the people because they are frightened that this will boost the morale of the people. To break up these movements and to justify the suppression of the movement, they mention the name of our forces. We strongly deny it. We ask those who make such claims to produce evidence so that this lie may be clarified for the people of the world.

[Question] (?What other decisions were reached)?

[Answer] Another decision made at tonight's session of the Supreme Defense Council concerns the merging of the staff command training schools which various forces -- the air force, the navy and the ground forces -- use and which have acted separately in the past. At least 50 percent of the training courses that have elements in common should be amalgamated very soon and those specialized courses should be concentrated in one place as much as possible so that they can make use of the joint facilities. In this way, it will be possible to economize and the facilities will be concentrated in one place providing better training. This was approved and the forces were instructed to act as soon as possible.

[Question] How do you evaluate the position of the enemy forces after the recent victories of the forces of Islam? Could you also give us some details about the future plans of the fighters of Islam?

[Answer] One cannot reveal the plans as they are military secrets of which the people should be informed after they have been carried out. You should feel confident that at the moment we have the initiative from the Persian Gulf up to the most northern part of Iraq where we have a common border. In all places, we are positioned over the heights, except in one of two places where the Iraqis are in our territory. We studied the entire region tonight. We studied the areas where we can launch operations in the future and we made certain decisions. You should just wait and see. At the movement, the field is so open and the work is so easy that one hesitates about choosing the best spot as there are so many good spots. What has to some extent prevented us from staging further offensives in that we are very reluctant for our forces and the Iraqi forces to be killed. They are all Muslims whom we do not wish to be killed. We try to achieve the best results with the least number of clashes. However, if the need arises, when they are not prepared to sumbit to our demands, we will deliver them a blow so that they may come to their senses.

[Question] Could you give us some details about the Saddam regimes situation and of the position of the counterrevolutionaries?

[Answer] What I said about the Iraqi counteroffensives indicates their situation. On the whole, Iraq has no strength to move, maneuver or launch offensives. As a result of the pressure and intimidation that their forces feel, they only carry out very simple operations that are crushed with our serious defense. We see no danger on our borders, neither in the short term nor in the long term, except for some destructive, antihuman operations such as the launching of missiles against our cities or acts of sabotage against economic installation. Iraq still has the ability for such actions which cannot be called war. They are deceptive, antihuman acts aimed at boosting the morale of its forces and which encourage those who support Iraq to offer more money.

[Question] Ever since its formation, the Hamzeh Seyyed ash-Shohada based has been very active. Please tell us how effective the activities of this base have been in destroying the counterrevolutionaries and how effective it will be in the future.

[Answer] One of the reports presented tonight concerned this matter. Colonel Sayyad-Shirazi, who had come from that region, gave a lengthy report about the situation there. He was very satisfied with the cooperation between the fighting forces, the governors-general and government organizations, and also with the progress of the work which, in the views of these gentlemen, has broken the back of the counterrevolutionaries. Of course, terrorist and sabotage activities are not like battles that can be decisively resolved. It will take a long time. We will have disturbances later on as well. The people will experience disturbances that should be solved by pursuing the struggle against the counterrevolutionaries.

[Question] Please let us know what facilities the Islamic Republic of Iran will place at the disposal of the Supreme Council of the Islamic Revolution in Iraq for carrying out activities on the borders.

[Answer] We made some decisions tonight. One of the decisions was that the Guards Corps is entrusted with the task of making preparations to set up bases for them and train and organize them. However, we recommend and emphasized that they should not interfere in their affairs in any way. They should let them gather their forces by themselves and carry out their operations whenever they want. We should not interfere in the affairs of the Iraqi nation. The guards were given the task of making provisions for them and to provide them with lawful facilities.

LD241746 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 24 Nov 82

[Communique No 1,132 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. Two enemy offensives in the Moharram operation zone were foiled yesterday by the powerful Islamic combatants who enjoyed effective artillery support. The Saddam forces which suffered heavy losses and casualties were forced to retreat.

The enemy's first offensive was launched at 1200 on 23 November in Shahani region and was repulsed 2 and 1/2 hours later. The enemy's second offensive started at 1530 on 23 November in the same region and was foiled at 1800. During these operations, three enemy brigades and a number of commandos were deployed.

Enemy offensives in the regions between the Batiliyah and Abu Ghurayb and Kharaf border posts also were quickly repulsed by the forces of Islam.

In the Muslim ibn 'Aqil operational zone, there were exchanges of fire and our combatant units fired on enemy positions, destroying one Iraqi tank, one artillery post and one mortar.

In the Qasr-e-Shirin region there also were exchanges of fire and the forces of Islam stationed at (Chugha Hammam) and (Khan Beygi) destroyed a number of enemy infantry bunkers and set on fire one Iraqi tank.

[Communique No 1,133 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. The Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran congratulates all beloved and Muslim compatriots and particularly the members of the pride-creating mobilization group on the anniversary of the oppressed mobilization headquarters of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps and begs the Almighty for honor and increasing glory for this revolutionary and Islamic institution.

The results of the battle and constant exchanges of fire carried out by the combatants of Islam on the fronts of the battle between truth and falsehood are brought to the attention of the beloved compatriots:

Sporadic exchanges of artillery and heavy weapons fire continued yesterday on most of the western fronts. On every front, the powerful combatants of Islam silenced the fire of the Saddamist forces and inflicted losses and casualties on them. They also set fire to part of the Saddamists' oil installations in Banmil and inflicted damage on them.

The combatants of Islam on the Paveh front stopped the trench digging and construction activities of the Saddamist mercenaries and killed a number of them.

On the Qasr-e Shirin front, the heroes of the gendarmerie inflicted considerable losses on the Iraqi forces based on the other side of the border.

Battles and exchanges of fire continued sporadically on the southern fronts. They were more intense on the Moharram operational fronts. At 1300 yesterday, the defeated Saddamist mercenaries tried to launch a counteroffensive against part of the Mohharam operational front. However, the powerful and victorious combatants of Islam, as always, stood firmly and strongly against them and after 5 hours of heavy fighting they finally pushed back the falling Saddamist mercenaries and inflicted considerable losses and casualties on them, preserving their superiority in the region.

During the series of exchanges of fire on the Abadan and Khorramshahr fronts, the heroes of the navy and the combatants of the gendarmerie returned fire on the enemy trenches and positions on the other side of the Arvand Rud, destroying 5 observation posts, several trenches and foxholes and killing or wounding more than 15 of the Saddamist forces.

A number of the intruding aircraft of the Iraqi aggressor yesterday tried to violate the airspace of the some southern regions. However, they were forced to flee by the tactical measures of the fighter aircraft of the Air Force of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran.

600 IRAQIS REPORTED KILLED IN 23 NOV CLASH

LD241210 Tehran IRNA in English 1050 GMT 24 Nov 82

[Text] Ahvaz, Nov. 24 (IRNA) -- In a 3-hour hand to hand fighting in the Marom theatre of the southwestern fronts yesterday afternoon Iraqi forces were compelled to withdraw from the scene leaving behind 600 dead and a yet undetermined number of captives.

Heavy weaponry losses were also inflicted upon the enemy during the operation.

Military experts believe that the fighting was one of the severest during the 26 months of the imposed war following an equally important offensive that took place last year on February 11 in Tang Chazzabeh, north of the border town of Bostan.

Iraqi forces in their desperate effort attacked the Iranian defensive position through Infantry Brigades Nos 504, 704, 701 and three special commando battalions with a support of seven other artillery battalions.

During the fighting Iraqi forces lost 90 percent of their Infantry Brigade No 504, 70 percent of the Brigade No 705, and 60 percent of Brigade No 701.

The latest reports from the scene indicate that the axis of Iraqi Sharhani outpost was filled with the dead bodies of Iraqis.

Military experts believe that Iranian combatants repulsed the counterattack in an outstanding way.

Meanwhile during another counterattack launched by the enemy troops in the Marom theatre Tuesday morning some 300 Iraqis were killed or wounded. Latest report indicate that the Islamic combatants holding the upper hand, checked all enemy movements in the region.

Meanwhile, 17 enemy troops were killed or wounded when the Iranians destroyed 14 Iraqi bunkers and five observation posts beyond the Arvand River during the preceding 24 hours.

Also, artillery fire exchanges persisted in the southern fronts of Kushk, (Shalamchen), east of Basra and on the Arvand River banks while the Iranian defenders, holding the upper hand checked all enemy's movements on the Al-Faw-Basra axis in the aforementioned time.

KHOMEYNI URGES KURDISH-PERSIAN UNITY UNDER ISLAM

LD241202 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 24 Nov 82

[Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni speech to armed forces, gendarmerie and Guards Corps personnel and their families, who are stationed in Kordestan, in Hoseyniyeh Jamaran on 24 November -- recorded -- duration 6 minutes]

[Excerpts] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. I was not planning to speak today. However, I will say a few brief words and will pray for you. I believe words are inadequate to praise you beloved young people and all organizations serving on this path, including the armed forces, the Guards Corps, the committees, the mobilization units and all others.

I want to say a word to you and to the people of Kordestan. You, the people of Kordestan and others in those regions, should not be deceived by the minigroups. They have raised an issue contrary to the blessed Koran and to Islam. It is a racist issue. They say the Kurds, the Lors and the Persians should be separate from each other and that each of them should be independent. Islam has come to get rid of this. Islam has come to destroy these barriers.

All of you, all of us and and all Muslims should be united and should be partners under the banner of there is no god but Allah and under the banner of monotheism. We should try to advance Islam. I hope you will be able to implement Islam in all Islamic countries and to implement Islamic teachings in all parts of the world. Thank God, you are a model for all other countries. You can be certain that the eyes of all Muslim in other countries and all the oppressed people in other countries are turned toward you, and you are the objects of our prayers.

O God, we beseech you for the sake of all saints to safeguard our loved ones, to bring victory upon the friends of God and the friends of the lord of the age. May God's peace and blessings be upon you.

KHAMENE'I PRAISES ROLE OF FRIDAY IMAMS

GF240910 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1430 GMT 24 Nov 82

[Text] According to a report from the Central News Unit, the Friday imam of Mashhad along with the other Friday imams in Khorasan Province yesterday afternoon met with Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i, president of the Islamic Republic and member of the country's body of Friday imams.

The president, during his talk with the Friday imams, described the (?eminent) presence of the Friday imams in the field as equal to the presence of the people in the field. And with reference to various plots of the enemies of the Islamic revolution aimed at ousting the clergymen from the field, he said: Those who have been making the greatest efforts to achieve this objective have been unsuccessful.

The president in another part of his talk in reference to the political importance of the Friday prayers said the Friday prayer is an institution that reaches the individual citizen. This institution in view to the importance of those leading it has very important and heavy responsibilities.

The president added that the enemy to oust these people from the field uses various political tactics and approaches from various directions. To neutralize these plots, the people should be educated politically. To achieve this, the Friday imams should not only carry out their religious functions, but should also impact political education; this is the responsibility of all of us.

Khamene'i further said that the Friday prayer should be a mass prayer and all social and class differences should be resolved at the Friday prayer. The president, while referring to the upcoming elections for the Council of Experts, said the enemy's plots against this council consist of spreading rumors that the Council of Experts would work against the leadership. He said the imam addressed this when he had said that this is not only not opposed to the leadership but will, in fact, strengthen it. The president said the Council of Experts is a very important institution which has been provided for in the Constitution and is a powerful organ that will go down in our history as a source of reverence and satisfaction for our peace.

NVOI WARNS AGAINST 'CREATORS OF MALCONTENT'

TA192017 [Editorial Report] Clandestine National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran at 1730 GMT on 19 November in a commentary entitled: "Expel the Creators of Malcontents -- These Foes of the Revolution," says: The creation of discontent is one of the basic methods of the wide spectrum of the opponents and foes of the revolution to strike at the foundations of the revolution.

The creators of malcontent, by sowing the seed of discontent among our homeland's million-strong masses, separate these masses from the Islamic leadership.

As officials of our homeland themselves have warned, the creation of malcontent is carried out in different ways. Up to now, the creators of malcontent have been engaged in their task with complete freedom and day by day their number is increasing. For example, let's look at the situation of our homeland's workers. Since the first day the labor minister assumed his post and until this very day, one can dare say that the amount of discontent among the workers has increased considerably, and this is something natural. The labor minister and others of the same mind have risen with all their might in defense of the major captialists and employers and, with the utmost crudeness, violate the rights of the workers. Our homeland's workers demand the drafting and approval of a labor law with the participation of their true representatives.

At a recent meeting with the Cabinet, Imam Khomeyni warned that the masses must not be disillusioned with the government. Unfortunately, it should be said that sufficient attention is not being paid to this warning by the imam and the creation of discontent among the million-strong masses is proceeding with utmost intensity. One must struggle against this dangerous development, and the creators of malcontent -- in every guise and garb -- must be identified and dismissed.

MIDDLE EAST AND SOUTH ASIA REVIEW

29 NOVEMBER 1982

PLO

PCC Meeting -- At the end of its 25-26 November meeting in Damascus, the PLO Central Council (PCC) issued a statement declaring that U.S. President Ronald Reagan's Middle East peace plan does not fulfill the Palestinian people's "inalienable rights" to self-determination and an independent state. The statement, which was read by Palestine National Council (PNC) Chairman Khalid al-Fahum and broadcast by Baghdad Voice of PLO radio, also stressed the need for Egypt to rejoin Arab ranks by breaking with the Camp David accords and announced that the PLO leadership would immediately start intensive consultations to draw up political, administrative and military plans and fix a venue and date for the planned PNC meeting.

PLO Deputy Military Commander Khalil al-Wazir subsequently revealed in a Radio Monte Carlo interview that the PCC had stressed that the PLO should pay more attention to the situation of Palestinians living in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip, which will be the main arena of struggle against Israel in the forthcoming stage. The PCC also talked about the need to adopt a firm stand against "unilateral political trends or moves in the occupied territories," emphasizing that the PLO is the sole organization leading Palestinians everywhere and that anyone who violates Palestinian unity will be "confronted," al-Wazir added.

Rejection of Recognition -- A 27 November Voice of PLO radio commentary declared that the PLO "categorically and collectively" rejects the idea of unilaterally recognizing Israel. While the PLO cannot ignore "international variables," the radio said, Palestinian military action remains a primary alternative, supplementing political and diplomatic action.

'Arafat Activities -- After attending the PCC and related meetings in Damascus, PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat traveled overland to Jordan, where he met with King Husayn on 27 November, according to Amman radio. 'Arafat and Husayn discussed the work of the Arab League's seven-man committee as well as Jordanian-PLO relations, the radio said. During his visit, 'Arafat told a journalist that the PLO will be happy if the PNC meeting is held in Amman, Radio Monte Carlo reported. While in Damascus, 'Arafat met with the Soviet ambassador to Syria, Baghdad Voice of PLO noted. The PLO leader also attended a eulogy ceremony for assassinated Brig Gen Sa'd Sayil, sharing a platform with Syrian officials and lauding the steadfastness of Syrian and PLO-Lebanese forces, according to SANA.

Arab Comment on PCC Meeting -- Syria's daily TISHRIN said the PCC's resolutions have dealt a "slap in the face" to those who are calling for capitulation and recognition of Israel, Damascus radio reported. On the other hand, Egypt's AL-AHRAM expressed "astonishment" over the PCC's rejection of the Reagan initiative, according to MENA. Meanwhile, a Riyadh radio commentary on the PCC meeting said PLO and Arab political pressure has caused the United States to recognize openly the legitimate rights of the Palestinian people and propose negotiable and positive concepts on their future that should not be disregarded.

Jordan on Negotiations -- Jordan will not join any peace negotiations with Israel on the Palestinian issue without the PLO's consent, the Jordanian information minister announced in an interview reported by Amman radio on 26 November.

Arab Committee

The Arab League's seven-member committee issued a statement announcing the cancellation of its scheduled 1-2 December meetings with British officials in London, Rabat radio reported on 27 November. The Algerian Foreign Ministry subsequently announced in a statement transmitted by APS that the committee's decision not to go to London is because of the British Government's refusal to receive a PLO representative. Palestinian sources cited by the Moroccan paper AL-ALAM, revealed that the cancellation also stemmed from Britain's insistence that the committee issue a statement confirming its commitment to the Fes summit resolutions, recognizing Israel, denouncing terrorism and declaring its readiness to resolve the issue only by peaceful means, MAP reported. Other Palestinian sources cited in an earlier report by INA described the United Kingdom's behavior as "tactless."

Arab-Soviet Bloc Relations

The Beirut-based Kuwaiti magazine AL-MAJALIS stated that CPSU Central Committee Secretary General Yuriy Andropov will visit an Arab country "shortly," if there is a shift in Soviet Middle East policy, QNA reported. Noting that Saudi Foreign Minister Prince Sa'ud al-Faysal will participate in the Arab seven-member committee's visit to the Soviet Union, KUNA pointed out that this will be the first official visit by a senior Saudi official to the Soviet Union.

Romanian President Nicolae Ceausescu arrived in Kuwait on a 2-day official visit, KUNA reported on 27 November. A Romanian-Kuwaiti joint statement issued at the end of the visit and transmitted by KUNA noted that the amir of Kuwait has accepted an invitation to visit Romania.

Lebanon

Lebanese-Israeli Negotiations -- The Israeli Cabinet decided unanimously on 28 November that Israeli-Lebanese negotiations are of a political-security nature and will include arrangements to prevent any possible activity from Lebanon that would harm Israel and its citizens, the Israeli Cabinet secretary announced in a statement broadcast by Jerusalem radio. The Cabinet also stipulated that the heads of the two delegations will be authorized civilian representatives and that negotiations will be conducted in Beirut and Jerusalem. According to the radio, this formulation represents a compromise proposal by Prime Minister Menahem Begin to bridge a gap in the Cabinet between those, like the defense and foreign ministers, who oppose concessions and other ministers who favor them. The Cabinet accordingly accepted Begin's proposal that Israel show flexibility on the level of Lebanese representation in the talks, but insist on holding the negotiations in Beirut and Jerusalem.

However, Beirut radio described the new Israeli position as "hardline" and stated that Lebanon will not fall into the Israeli "trap", whether it be the designation of Jerusalem and Beirut as the venues for the negotiations or other Israeli conditions. Lebanon adheres to its demand for Israel's unconditional withdrawal and for the Lebanese Government's complete sovereignty over all its territory as well as the "Lebanization" of security throughout the country, the radio stated. Earlier, in a 27 November meeting with U.S. Assistant Secretary for Near Eastern Affairs Morris Draper, President Amin al-Jumayyil informed the United States that Lebanon absolutely rejects the Israeli stand as conveyed to it by Draper, Beirut radio reported. The Lebanese consider the Israeli demands to be aimed at retaining a military presence in Lebanon, the radio noted. Prime Minister Shafiq al-Wazzan, who attended the meeting with Draper, said afterward in remarks reported by Voice of Lebanon radio that the Israeli position had not changed in any way sufficient to allow the Lebanese Government to start the contacts it is seeking.

Phalangist Commander Remarks -- The commander of the Phalangist Lebanese Forces, Fadi Afram, declared in a Phalangist Party anniversary speech reported by Voice of Lebanon radio that the continuation of the state of enmity between Lebanon and Israel will delay the withdrawal of the foreigners from Lebanon and will keep the security situation there unstable. Asserting that the Phalangists will henceforth not permit any areas to become the property of parties or communities, Afram said the only reason for the Phalangist presence in the Ash-Shuf hills is to remove any ambiguity about the identity of this area.

Military Situation -- Three IDF soldiers were wounded by a mine north of Bhamdun, IDF radio announced on 28 November. Beirut radio said the IDF has brought armor, artillery and sophisticated radar equipment into the Al-Baruk mountain area.

Israel

Alignment Leadership -- Jerusalem television said Labor Party Chairman Shim'on Peres informed party activists that he is willing to resign the Alignment leadership in favor of President Yitzhaq Navon if the latter wishes to return to political life; however, Peres subsequently declared that his remarks were taken out of context by the television, according to Jerusalem radio.

West Bank -- The defense minister has approved the appointment of Col Shlomo Ilya as head of the civilian administration in Judaea and Samaria, THE JERUSALEM POST reported. Meanwhile, Jerusalem radio reported that Arab students demonstrated in Ramallah and Nabulus to mark the 29 November anniversary of the UN partition resolution.

Egypt

Foreign Relations -- Egypt wants normal, not lukewarm, relations with Israel, Foreign Ministry First Under Secretary Usamah al-Baz announced in a press interview reported by MENA. Earlier, the Kuwaiti paper AL-WATAN reported that Egypt and the Soviet Union are expected to soon normalize relations, according to INA. Following his talks with French President Francois Mitterrand, President Husni Mubarak met with Sudanese President Ja'far Numayri in Aswan on 27 November, MENA noted.

As-Sadat Travel Ban -- The ethics court ruled that 'Ismat as-Sadat and some members of his family will not be allowed to leave the country because they have committed "harmful" acts and are a danger to society, MENA reported.

Libya-OAU

Following the second failure to convene an OAU summit in Tripoli because of the lack of a quorum, Col Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi praised the 31 African leaders who had attended and blamed the failure of the summit on those who "lacked the courage" to come to Tripoli, JANA reported. Noting that the failure to achieve a quorum resulted from the dispute over Chad's representation, Rabat radio said many of the African delegations blame Al-Qadhdhafi for his "stubborn" attitude during attempts to save the summit.

Iran

The government is studying proposals to allow greater freedom of travel so that those who wish to leave the country may do so, "provided they are not connected to anything," Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi announced in an interview broadcast by Tehran radio.

Iran-Iraq War

Iraqi forces attacked enemy positions in the Maysan sector early on 28 November, killing 756 Iranians, an Iraqi Armed Forces communique broadcast by Baghdad radio claimed. However, Tehran radio said the Iranians held their positions and killed or wounded over 450 Iraqis. Iran also claimed to have shot down an Iraqi helicopter on 27 November and an Iraqi jet on 26 November, according to IRNA and a military communique carried by the radio.

Afghanistan

Kabul Bombing -- Two bombs exploded in Kabul on 24 November, killing 4 people and injuring 23 others, Kabul radio reported. The radio said over 44 private shops were destroyed by the bombs, which it blamed on "criminal counterrevolutionaries." According to a related AFP report, the explosions were at a building housing Khalq and Parcham Party members in the modern Pamir area of the capital.

Pilot Defects -- An Afghan civil airline pilot has requested political asylum in the FRG, DPA reported on 28 November.

Press Statement

["Text of Indo-France Joint Press Statement" -- ISI headline]

[Text] You have in your hands the agreement that was signed on the night of November 26 by Doctor H. Sethna and Ambassador Andre Ross. This is an agreement between India and France within the framework of the 1963 agreement between India and the USA, in terms of which France substitutes the United States as the supplier of enriched uranium fuel for the Tarapur nuclear power plant.

Both governments are deeply satisfied that the question of the supply of nuclear fuel for Tarapur has been satisfactorily resolved.

The agreement marks yet another important area of cooperation between the two countries and constitutes a further stage in the development of this cooperation.

Both the govenments take particular satisfaction that, as a result of this agreement, the Tarapur power station will work at full efficiency since our two governments attach great importance to the question of energy, including nuclear energy for civil consumption in metropolitan centres.

Officials' Comments

BK271632 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 27 Nov 82

[Text] Supplies of enriched uranium for the Tarapur powerplant by France are to be within the framework of the 1963 Indo-U.S. agreement on the subject. This was officially announced in New Delhi this evening by French Ambassador Andre Ross and an official spokeman of the Government of India. This agreement was signed late last night and Ross signed on behalf of France. The agreement was released at a joint press briefing in New Delhi.

Under the agreement, France has agreed to supply the fuel in place of the United States which was the original supplier under the 1963 agreement. The supply will start as soon as commercial formalities regarding the purchase of the fuel are finalized. As a result of the agreement, the Tarapur power station will work at full efficiency. The French ambassador said his country's decision is based on the opinion of the legal advisers. It is perfectly in conformity with international law.

Replying to a spate of questions, Ross and the government's spokesman stressed that yesterday's agreement is entirely within the 1963 Indo-U.S. agreement. France only becomes a substitute supplier of fuel. The supplies will continue until 1993 as laid down in the Indo-U.S. agreement.

The text of the agreement says that the French nuclear fuel or the byproducts from it will be used only for peaceful purposes and research for production of electrical energy as laid down in the 1963 agreement. This commitment will be subject to the safeguards provided for in the original cooperation agreement with the United States and in the trilateral agreement of the 1971 between India, the United States and the International Atomic Energy Agency.

About reprocessing of the waste fuel, the Indian spokesman said that it should be also undertaken in terms of the 1963 and 1971 agreements. He reaffirmed that India's position remains as stated all along.

Asked why it took so long to reach an agreement, he replied that detailed considerations have to be given by experts, diplomats, legal advisers and policymakers to the issues involved.

[Text] Paris, Nov 27 (AFP) -- France will doubtless deliver some 20 tons a year or slightly enriched uranium hexafluoride to India under the Franco-Indian nuclear agreement signed shortly before the arrival today in New Delhi of French President Francois Mitterrand, reliable sources here said today.

This would represent a contract of about 44 million francs (about six million dollars) a year. The quantity would be equivalent to 50,000 separation work units as used in the uranium industry. This quantity is what would be required to make combustible elements to feed the two boiling water reactors, each of 200 megawatts, at the Tarapur power station.

This American-built plant, which went into service in 1969, supplies Bombay with electricity.

But India will have to transform the uranium hexafluoride, which is in gaseous form, enriched by between 2.72 and 2.8 per cent, firstly into uranium oxide and then, into uranium metal, before making the combustible elements. India has the necessary facilities to do this.

The Franco-Indian agreement, which was the result of difficult negotiations begun a few months ago, succeeds the American-Indian agreement launched in 1963 for 30 years. This accord has not been active since 1978 since the U.S. Congress voted the Nuclear Non-proliferation Act which banned U.S. nuclear co-operation with any country pursuing a nuclear military programme if it had not agreed on surveillance of all its installations.

India carried out its first nuclear weapons test on May 16, 1974.

After four years of diplomatic negotiations between America and India, the two sides reached an agreement in principle on July 29 whereby France would replace the United States as a supplier of the necessary enriched uranium to keep the Tarapur plant in operation.

During the talks between France and India, the question of controls on the use made by India of French uranium was discussed at length.

MITTERRAND ARRIVES ON 4-DAY VISIT 27 NOVEMBER

BK270920 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0830 GMT 27 Nov 82

[Text] French President Francois Mitterrand was accorded a warm welcome when he arrived in New Delhi this morning on a 4-day state visit to India. A 21-gun salute boomed as he alighted from a special aircraft. He was received by President Zail Singh, Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi, her Cabinet colleagues and others. Mitterrand is accompanied by his wife and a high-power team which includes Foreign Minister Claude Cheysson and the ministers of foreign trade and culture.

In his speech on arrival, the French president hoped that his visit will open a new page in the history of France and India. Describing India as the largest democracy in the world, he appreciated its great achievements in various fields. He said agriculture is making considerable progress and Indian industry has become one of the most powerful areas of development. Speaking about many common ideas, President Mitterrand said the two countries are deeply attached to democracy and share a great concern for peace and the development of the world. Both the countries want to escape from the control exercised by military and political blocs.

Welcoming the distinguished guest, Zail Singh spoke of the need for both the countries to work together to bring about a more equitable international economic order. We must try to strengthen world peace and cooperation. The world today is beset with many acute political and economic problems. India and France face a common challenge to reduce tension and restore confidence and harmony among nations.

The notions of liberty, fraternity and equality, first pioneered by France, were a source of inspiration to us during the freedom struggle. India, he said, shares with France many common ideas and interests.

Soon after his arrival, the French president visited Rajghat and laid a wreath at the samadhi of Mahatma Gandhi. He also planted a sapling. Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi will have talks with President Mitterrand later today.

Madame Mitterrand called on President Zail Singh at Rashtrapati Bhavan in New Delhi soon after her arrival.

Gandhi-Mitterrand Talks

[Excerpts] This afternoon, French President Francois Mitterrand had private talks with Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi for more than an hour in New Delhi. The foreign ministers of the two countries later joined them. Mitterrand, accompanied by a high-level delegation, arrived in the capital this morning on a 4-day visit to India. The delegation includes the ministers for external relations, foreign trade and culture, besides top-ranking officials.

Simultaneously with President Mitterrand's meeting with Mrs Gandhi, delegations of the two countries met separately and discussed bilateral, economic, commercial and cultural relations. One of the major subjects was the question of transfer of technology. The French side said there is considerable potential for cooperation in this area because India already has sophisticated industrial, technological and scientific infrastructure and is capable of absorbing advanced technology developed in France. India can make good use of it. The two delegations also examined how India can make optimal use of French bilateral credit and also practical problems connected with obtaining credits from the European Investment Bank set up by the European Economic Community.

Another matter taken up was better access for Indian goods to the EEC market.

With regard to joint ventures in third countries, the French side felt that India can be a useful partner in such undertakings because of its developed economy and its natural endowments.

The Indian side at the talks included External Affairs Minister Narasimha Rao, Finance Minister Pranab Mukherjee and Minister of State for External Affairs A.A. Rahim. The French delegation was led by Foreign Minister Claude Cheysson.

During the day, Mitterrand called on President Zail Singh. Later, External Affairs Minister Narasimha Rao had a meeting with President Mitterrand.

Zail Singh Address

BK271652 Hong Kong AFP in English 1623 GMT 27 Nov 82

[Text] New Delhi, Nov. 27 (AFP) -- India today called on France to work with India and other non-aligned countries to build bridges between East and West and North and South.

Speaking in Hindi at a banquet in honour of visiting French President Francois Mitterrand, Indian President Zail Singh expressed India's readiness to work with France and other nations to strengthen international peace and cooperation in order to ensure the progress of all countries.

Extending a "warm and friendly welcome" to Mr. Mitterrand on his first state visit to India, the president said cooperation between the two countries was acquiring a new and larger dimension, which he believed was good for both nations and for peace, harmony and cooperation in the world. He said the French presidential visit was a stage in strengthening this cooperation.

Expressing concern over international tension and conflict and the confrontation between superpowers, Mr. Zail Singh said the virtual breakdown of detente and the growing gap between developed and developing countries had aggravated fear and mistrust among nations. He urged world leaders to make a common determined effort to reverse the current trend.

The president thanked France for the valuable cooperation and support it extended to India in its task of building "a new India."

"We value our relations with France... and the renewed dialogue" that began when the present government came to power in India, he said. The visit of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi to France last year accelerated the process of revitalising contacts, he said.

The president said both India and France had a vital stake in ensuring a more peaceful world and added that a new international economic order was imperative for restructuring the network of present world economic relations.

Mr. Zail Singh said India appreciated the role played by France under Mr. Mitterrand's leadership in espousing the cause of developing countries in international forums. As a seed bed of new and revolutionary ideas and movements in politics, technology, art, literature and philosophy, France made outstanding contributions to contemporary history, and French creativity and social conscience received a new impetus under Mr Mitterrand's leadership, he said.

"The ultimate test of a civilisation is not its material opulence nor its might, but the way it nourishes the soul and its humaneness," Mr. Zail Singh said. He added that he had no doubt the world would continue to look to France for enrichment of the spirit.

Mitterrand Banquet Speech

[All quotation marks as received]

[Text] French President Francois Mitterrand emphasised that it is essential to halt without delay increasing confrontation between rich and the poor countries. This, he said, was true about global negotiations like the famous energy affiliate which exists only on paper, question of indebtedness and the adaptation of resources of the international institutions bringing them in line with the requirements or again reconstruction of the monetary system. [sentence as received] Speaking at a dinner hosted in his honour by President Zail Singh on November 27, Mitterrand stressed that India and France could pursue together the most useful kind of efforts in the North-South dialogue.

"Being conscious of our responsibilities we have in fact encouraged our respective partners along the path towards a more conciliatory attitude and towards moderation," he added.

Asserting that France and India should have their say in all world affairs, Mitterrand said, if on important international issues of the day "our assessments are not always the same but are the logical consequences of the facts of geography" the two countries should intensify their reflections on these issues and others which might develop in future.

Touching on bilateral relations Mitterrand emphasised that these had, during the recent years step by step, become "more active and more promising." "Our political dialogue has taken on an entirely new dimension and indeed Prime Minister Mrs Indira Gandhi's visit to Paris and this present visit in New Delhi, Mitterrand thought, bore witness to this. Stating that there existed "no matter of serious dispute and no particular difficulty" in relations between the two countries, Mitterrand stressed that France, on its part, was trying to convince other industrialised countries of the necessity to reestablish more equitable and therefore more stable world order. And India, on its part, was striving "to give or to restore to the concept of nonalignment its true and genuine content and increased influence."

The visiting president pointed out that economic and industrial relations between India and France were developing fast. "Well, let us increase them still further because the possibilities open to us are enormous and let us base them on two-way cooperation and especially on the transfer of technology which will be essential at the turn of the century," he stressed. Mitterrand also called for greater promotion of cultural exchanges in all spheres of communications: books, television, films. The French president declared that closer ties with France could provide way of reestablishing "certain equilibrium and of giving perhaps certain new orientations." "It is not so much a question of talking about the balance of brute force in the world but the balance of the more subtle kind of force which both our countries, I think, exemplify," he added.

At the outset Mitterrand, who was on his first official visit to this country, said it was true that India and France belonged to different groups but there were many things which brought them together. Elaborating this point he said both India and France adhered to democracy, valued national independence and were equally concerned that confrontation between the two military blocs should not be perpetuated. Mitterrand recalled Mahatma Gandhi's struggle for independence and Jawaharlal Nehru's untiring efforts to establish unity in diversity and build India as a modern nation and said these great figures were familiar to the French because they waged struggle for causes which evoke in us very profound resonance."

Mitterrand TV Interview

BK280821 Hong Kong AFP in English 0805 GMT 28 Nov 82

[Text] New Delhi, Nov. 28 (AFP) -- President Francois Mitterrand said here France would be glad to associate itself with any move for total disarmament, but such disarmament was impossible without any initiative from the United States and the Soviet Union.

Speaking in a television interview, Mr. Mitterrand, who is on an official visit to India, also insisted that France could not ignore its own protection.

The nuclear strength of the two superpowers had reached such magnitude that the balance of these destructive forces worked as a deterrent which had probably preserved peace, he said. But he regretted that the setback to the process of detente had led to a situation akin to cold war.

Expressing hope for the reactivation of North-South dialogue, Mr. Mitterrand said France was very concerned about the reduction in aid to the Third World and the fact that there was no move to do anything about this. The absence of an international monetary system was adversely affecting the developing countries with everything subject to the fluctuation of the dollar, he said. The developing countries were also not getting fair prices for their products, like coffee, cocoa and timber, he said.

On the question of Afghanistan on which France and India have differing views, Mr. Mitterrand insisted that the basic question was that the Soviet Union had sent its troops into an independent country. He said there were forums for discussing international issues, and all the problems in Afghanistan could have been discussed instead of troops being sent in.

Regarding Franco-Indian relations, Mr. Mitterrand said these were good and had improved markedly over recent months. There had been close collaboration regarding industry, agriculture, scientific research and military matters, but there was scope for further improvement, particularly in the cultural field.

He said under the joint economic, trade and scientific committee, they should set up a subcommittee on agriculture which would hold periodical meetings to review the pace of agricultural development and coordinate activities in the agriculture and relevant fields in both the countries.

He also referred to his visit to an Afghan refugee tented village and said they admired very much the humanitarian work being done by Pakistan in this regard.

KHOMEYNI URGES STUDENTS TO VOTE IN ELECTIONS

LD271430 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 27 Nov 82

[Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni speech to students and members of the Unity Consolidation Bureau at the Jamaran Mosque in Tehran on 27 November -- recorded -- duration 21 minutes]

[Excerpts] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. I am grateful to you, dear students and the future hope of the Islamic country, for coming here on this cold day to see me.

I would like to stress and remind you, dear young people, to watch for and prevent the infiltration of deviant individuals in Islamic associations. You should know for certain that these deviant individuals, the hypocrites and others who have been thrown out of the country, are employing every possible trick to infiltrate various places in the country, particularly universities which are centers of science and centers for developing human (?values) to perfection. It is even possible that some individuals might try to infiltrate your ranks by disguising themselves as very pious Muslims who pretend to you to be more religious than yourselves. Such individuals might be deviationists, God forbid.

When choosing members for these societies, be careful and study the records of your new members. Their records, both before and after the revolution, should be clear and members should be admitted to these associations after being completely cleared. The associations' activities are very valuable and they also should shoulder the burden of this great responsibility. This is an important issue and great care should be taken to ensure that no deviant professor enters the university, God forbid, and that those in charge of university affairs are not deviants either.

However, you should note that you, the hezbollahis, must not discard pious individuals for minor matters. For instance, they may have made mistakes or may have done something they were obliged to do. You should not discard such individuals. You should attract people with your behavior and individuals who are working well at present and who are useful should remain at the universities and should continue their task of training and teaching under the observation of all sutdents in various affairs.

Anyway, it is an important task and a great responsibility is attached to this important task. I hope you, dear brothers and dear children of the nation, will succeed in performing this Islamic and humane task and I hope our universities will open to continue their work and to provide the services required by this nation.

Of course, there are many problems ahead of us all. The satans are at work again to prevent us from finding solutions to these problems. One issue is the Council of Experts, of which everyone is aware. The Council of Experts is the backbone of the country. You and the nation should know this. It is the backbone for maintaining the country's security, independence and freedom. Any negligence on this issue is a sin [taqsir], and you may not be able to compensate for it in the future. When it is announced that the candidates have been chosen by the eminent ulema and when the people are asked to go and vote for these gentlemen, people must go and participate in the voting. They are free to cast their votes for anyone they want. However, they should take part and should prevent the realization of desires and aspirations of colonialism in Iran, God forbid. Refusal to take part in this issue will help in the realization of the desires of those individuals trying to divert our Islamic country and to plunder our resources. So I recommend to the entire nation, to all men and women who have reached voting age, to go and take part in the elections for this council. They may vote for any person who has been nominated. The important point is to take part.

This is one of the important issues facing us today and they [as heard] are trying to prevent this task. They create obstacles and disrupt affairs. These obstacles are placed because they are afraid of this council.

MAHDAVI-KANI ON COUNCIL OF EXPERTS ELECTIONS

LD241244 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 26 Nov 82

[Excerpts] Ayatollah Mahdavi-Kani, member of the Council of Guardians, gave a speech before Friday prayers in Tehran. He talked about the formation of the Council of Experts.

Elaborating on the conspiracies of the enemies of the revolution since its victory and their vain thoughts concerning the reasons for the formation of the Council of Experts, he said: Our enemies are pinning their hopes on there being a void in the revolution after the imam. It is for this same reason that they have so far martyred our great ones, the pillars of our revolution. The formation of the Council of Experts is, in fact, aimed at preventing a probable void.

Referring to the principles of the order of the Islamic Republic of Iran, he said: Our revolution is an ideological revolution and it has religious and divine foundations. It should continue in the same way. The issue of feqahat and velayat [rule of the jurisconsult and the vice regency of the hidden imam] is natural for our nation and for Muslims. He added: Throughout the world, you will see that leadership is given to someone who can lead the people in accordance with the ideals and organization of that government. When we refer to relayat-e faqih, it means that the government is the government of the experts; those who are better acquainted with the Constitution, the organization and the program of this government. Therefore, we have not invented something new in the issue of the Islamic government.

This organization should be in keeping with the program that has been accepted by the people. In the absence of the imam, a just, learned, brave and wise jurisprudent is placed at the head of this group. [as heard] Of course, in practice, and usually when a government is formed, it is possible for a number of jurisprudents to be equally eminent from a theological point of view or that one of them may be superior to another. However, it is certain that the running of a country also needs other qualifications, namely, leadership qualities.

While elaborating on the duties of the Council of Experts, Ayatollah Mahdavi-Kani said: Our enemies think our imam is sick and the formation of the Council of Experts is to appoint the imam's successor. The imam is -- thank God -- very well and the formation of the council is for the sake of the future of the country and the revolution. The Council of Experts will be made up of a number of learned people and jurisprudents who can appoint a leader unless, of course, he has not already been chosen.

Concerning candidates for the Council of Experts, the speaker said: Approximately 168 learned clergy and jurisprudents have registered as candidates for the council. About 83 of them will be elected. After the elections and the referendum held to decide the order of the Islamic Republic of Iran, these elections are the most important elections since the victory of the revolution. All strata of the people are asked to nullify the plots of the enemies of the revolution by their participation in these elections.

MUSAVI VIEWS EMIGRATION, MITTERRAND COMMENTS

LD271240 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 27 Nov 82

[Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi interview with a Central News Unit correspondent on 27 November -- place not given -- recorded]

[Text] [Question] In his Friday prayer sermons, Hashemi-Rafsanjani said the country's borders would be opened for those who want to leave. Has the government yet made any decision in this respect?

[Answer] The matter has been reviewed by the government. Proposals have been made and presently are being studied. We have no objection to those who want to leave the country -- provided they are not connected to anything -- and to take up residence abroad, if they like, in American, France or Britain. Naturally, (?they can leave). However, we are trying to set criteria for this issue. Regarding facilities for traveling abroad, this is a country in which we have staged a revolution. We must, therefore, observe criteria according to the nature and identity of our revolution. [sentence as heard] At the moment, we are compiling these criteria and, God willing, they will be clarified. We are moving toward more freedom for traveling.

[Question] In a gathering of reporters after his recent trip to Egypt, French-President Mitterrand declared that Western governments are working toward the preservation of a balance between Iran and Iraq in the war. What is your view on this?

[Answer] Western -- and also Eastern -- powers are trying to keep Saddam's regime alive. After the recent outstanding victories by our combatants, they have been freightened. That is why they are talking about balance. The downfall of the Ba'thist, 'Aflaqist regime would be a fatal blow to the interests of the superpowers. The interesting point is that during a recent trip to Persian Gulf countries, the French external relations minister said France is prepared to help maintain peace in the Strait of Hormoz and in countries along the Persian Gulf coast. At that time, it was said that those countries themselves could maintain their security.

Our policy regarding the Persian Gulf and the surrounding region is based on fighting the influence of the superpowers, the influence of blasphemous and [word indistinct] powers in the region. We believe the fate of the region should be determined by the nations in the region. Mitterrand's comment is in the form of overt interference in the fate of these nations and in their internal affairs. It will definitely have no effect on the outcome of the war or on our nation's firm resolution to crush the aggressor, God willing.

VELAYATI OPPOSES HABIB LEBANON WITHDRAWAL PLAN

LD281722 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 28 Nov 82

[Text] In an interview with the Central News Unit, Foreign Minister Velayati commented on the plan proposed by U.S. special envoy Philip Habib on the simultaneous withdrawal from Lebanon of the forces of the Jerusalem occupiers and Syria. He said: Like other plans of the American and Zionist regimes, this one is yet another calculated plot aimed at eliminating obstacles to facilitate the presence of the Zionist regime in Lebanon. We are convinced that Syria will not submit to this plan.

The aggression launched on Lebanon by the Jerusalem occupiers last summer and the occupation of West Beirut, contrary to the agreements reached following the departure of the Palestinians, showed everyone that American plans are always deceptive and unreliable. These American plans serve no purpose but to further the domination of occupying Zionists and to bring defeat and indignity on the Islamic and Arab nation.

Velayati then added: Unlike the Zionists' presence, the Syrian presence in Lebanon is not a forced and encroaching presence. The Syrians entered Lebanon at the request of the then Lebanese Government, on the decree issued by the Arab League, and to give support to the Lebanese people against the aggressions by the regime occupying Jerusalem.

The foreign minister emphasized: We condemn the plan calling for the simultaneous withdrawal of Zionist and Syrian forces and believe the Syrian forces must remain in Lebanon and carry out their duties until the forces occupying Jerusalem are forced out.

GROUND FORCES COMMANDER EXPLAINS NEW BATTALIONS

LD281428 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 28 Nov 82

[Ground Forces Commander Colonel Sayyad-Shirazi interview with unidentified correspondent -- date, place not given -- recorded]

[Excerpts] [Question] Colonel Sayyad-Shirazi, in the last session of the Supreme Defense Council, Mr Hashemi-Rafsanjani announced the formation of the Jerusalem Reserve Battalions. Can you offer more information to the people on this matter?

[Answer] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. The Ground Forces of the Islamic Republic have been fighting side by side with our combative people on the battlefronts of the imposed war for more than 2 years. The ground forces today should employ more modern methods in order to use the popular forces for organizing themselves. You are aware that the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps organizes our popular forces in the mobilization forces. They are equipped in the mobilization forces and go to the battlefield. However, to date, there has been no suitable method to mobilize combative army forces through the people. There was no useful method in the past. Therefore, after lengthy investigation, we succeeded in forming a new organization named the Jerusalem Reserve Battalions which will enable us to use the volunteer popular forces with their revolutionary morale in the battlefield. By implementing this plan, we will be more powerful, God willing, to continue the battle.

For the better formation of the Jerusalem Reserve Battalions, we have tried to attract them from the regions where people take part. [sentence as heard] So, we divided these regions -- the regions in which we attract forces for the Jerusalem Reserve Battalions -- into 11 zones. These divisions are the same as those adopted by the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps because there will be coordination between the forces absorbed by the Jerusalem Reserve Battalions and those absorbed by the oppressed mobilization forces. The only difference between these two forces is that the forces volunteering for the Jerusalem Reserve Battalions to be mobilized in the ground forces for the battlefields should have completed their military training as draftees. This is the only prerequisite; we have introduced no other limitations.

We have made arrangements for the organization of these battalions. They will organize themselves and take part with popular organization. [sentence as heard] These battalions will serve for 6 months. After 6 months, these battalions will be dismissed temporarily, keeping their number and the Jerusalem insignia. The people then can pursue their normal profession. They will be called up for 3-day training every 3 months. This will help to maintain the organization of these battalions.

The important point is that all our popular mobilization forces, those who have done the 2-year military training, can take part in the war by going either through the oppressed mobilization or through the Jerusaalem Reserve Battalions in the ground forces. Of course, necessary provisions are made for payment of salaries and other privileges to the dependents of those who join the Jerusalem Reserve Battalions. These were approved in our last session of the Supreme Defense Council, thanks be to God. With the help of God, we will strive to implement them carefully.

[Text] In His exalted name, all along the western fronts of the country sporadic exchanges of artillery and heavy weapons fire continued yesterday.

Due to the gendarmerie combatants' fire on enemy positions in the Naftshahr region, one 50-caliber machinegun and a vehicle were destroyed and a number of enemy personnel were killed. Several of their entrenchments were set on fire. In the Marivan region, more than 10 Iraqi entrenchments and 4 of their vehicles were destroyed by the fire of the combatants of Islam. More than 45 Iraqi mercenaries were either killed or wounded.

In the battles and exchanges of fire on the southern fronts, which was fiercer on the Moharram operational fronts, the victorious combatants of Islam returned the enemy fire and succeeded in stopping the Saddamist forces' fire and prevented them from moving about. Also, while consolidating their defensive positions, our forces kept an eye on the enemy's activities.

On the Abadan and Khorramshahr fronts, the combatants of Islam comprised of the heroes of the navy and the combatants of the gendarmerie, returned the Saddamists' fire, inflicted casualties and damage on enemy positions situated on the other side on the Arvand Rud and killed a number of enemy soldiers.

The criminal Saddamist mercenaries opened artillery and heavy weapons fire on Abadan and Khorramshahr and wounded three of our compatriots and destroyed several residential houses. During the past 24 hours, all violations of the airspace and southern and western border regions of our country by Iraqi forces were repelled by fighter planes of the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the fire of the antiaircraft defense units.

[Communique No 1,136 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. The Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran commemorates Navy Day on 28 November. While praising the bravery and commendable efforts of the epic-making noble-hearted frontliners of the Islamic homeland, the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces sends greetings to the pure souls of the dear martyrs of the navy and all other martyrs of Islam.

During the past 24 hours on the western fronts, exchanges of heavy weapons fire continued and, because of the supremacy of the forces of Islam, the enemy was prevented from making any move.

In the Paveh and Marivan regions, our fighting forces opened fire on the positions occupied by the Saddamist forces and inflicted damage and casualties on them.

In the Qasr-e Shirin region, a fierce exchange of fire continued. Due to the fire of the units of the gendarmerie of the Islamic Republic of Iran stationed in this region on enemy positions, an observation post and two vehicles carrying Iraqi personnel were destroyed and a number of enemy soldiers were either killed or wounded.

On the southern fronts, the exchanges of fire between our units and those of the enemy continued in the Abadan and Khorramshahr regions and the forces of Islam, returning the enemy fire, destroyed enemy positions on the other side of the Arvand Rud.

Abadan yesterday came under enemy heavy weapons fire and, as a result, a residential unit was destroyed and several others caught fire. Three of our compatriots in Abadan were wounded. At 2139, an enemy super [name indistinct] helicopter was hit by the fire of one of the fighter planes of the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran and was downed.

In the Moharram operational region, our combatants, while consolidating and establishing their defensive positions, returned enemy fire.

GUARDS CORPS COMMANDER DENIES IRAQI CLAIMS

GF271754 Tehran IRNA in English 1702 GMT 27 Nov 82

[Text] Qom, Nov 27, IRNA -- Commander of the Islamic Revolutionary Guards Corps (IRGC), Mohsen Reza'i, Friday denied the Iraqi regimes claim to have recaptured areas liberated by Islamic defenders during the Moharram operations inside Iraqi territory (started on Nov 1st), adding that Iraq had made such claims several times before.

Our positions are completely fortified and our combatants are firmly safeguarding the liberated areas inside Iraq, he said.

Reza'i who travelled here to visit the prominent theologian Ayatollah Montazeri further refuted in a televised press conference the propaganda of foreign mass media about the involvement of the IRGC members in Ba'albakk incident which occurred last week. He added that he had also informed Ayatollah Montazeri that the Ba'albakk incident was a move by the Lebanese people on the independence day of that country to show there was no independence there. They had besieged garrisons there and the IRGC forces were not involved in that affair.

The IRGC commander continued that the Iraqi Revolutionary Council had asked for assistance from the Islamic Republic and since such aids had been allowed for in the IRGC's policy planning it (IRGC) was delegated the responsibility of meeting the requirement of the IRC in military and other fields. He then expressed the hope that IRGC's combatants would soon commence utilisation of the garrisons made available to them.

COMMANDER DISCUSSES NAVY EQUIPMENT, POWER

LD251746 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 25 Nov 82

[Text] On the occasion of Navy Day, the commander of the navy and navy political and ideological directors of the Islamic Republic this morning took part in a press conference.

The navy's political and ideological director, while emphasizing the strength of the navy and the influencial role of the Islamic revolution on this force, said: The navy has close cooperation with the guards corps and mobilization units and has undertaken to train some of the members of those organizations. He said: It is planned that in the near future a political-ideological department will be formed in the navy.

Captain Afzali, commander of the navy, while referring to the heroic deeds of navy personnel in the war, said: The blow delivered by the heroic navy personnel to the Iraqi mercenaries was so powerful that Iraq still has not been able to compensate.

Concerning the naval equipment imperialism gives to Iraq, Captain Afzali, referring to the skill and experience of the personnel of the Navy of the Islamic Republic of Iran, said: It is possible for Iraq to buy the equipment with the money of the oppressed Iraqi people. However, how can they acquire expertise and experience?

Concerning the self-sufficiency of the navy and denying the claims of the Zionist Iraqi regime, the commander of the navy said: [Begin recording] Before the revolution, the Iranian Navy was greatly dependent upon Western countries for equipment and training. After the victory of the revolution, a number of officers, NCO's and nonmilitary personnel who were subservient to the former regime were expelled, while a number of people left on their accord. The vast majority of those left are working with complete sincerity and with their entire being in the path of the order of the Islamic Republic of Iran and for the Islamic revolution, which rose from the wishes of our own people. With the unceasing endeavors of these personnel, we have been able to make all the equipment we need -- not only construct it, but to construct it at a much higher standard -- construct it and use it. And this is according to [words indistinct]. At the moment, despite (?the great propaganda), we are still the greatest naval power in the region. God willing, by implementing the plans we have under consideration, we will preserve this strength.

[Question] What are your views about Iraq's recent claim?

[Answer] Iraq's recent claim officially has been denied by an international organization in charge of shipping affairs. The esteemed oil minister also has denied it. No foreign oil tanker has been hit in the Khark or Bushehr regions. [end recording]

SPOKESMAN DESCRIBES IRAQI REVOLUTIONARY COUNCIL

GF250550 Tehran IRNA in English 1630 GMT 24 Nov 82

[Text] Tehran, Nov 24, IRNA -- The spokesman for the Iraqi Revolutionary Council said in an interview published here today that he had no doubts about the Iraqi people's desire for the establishment of an Islamic government, but nevertheless he said that the issue should be put to a national referendum.

Hojjat ol-Eslam Seyyed Mohammad Bakr Hakim said in an interview with the daily Persian ETTELA'AT published today that the Iraqi Revolutionary Council (IRC) was not a government in exile but a gathering of committed Iraqi religious personalities which would lead the struggle for the overthrow of the ruling Iraqi regime.

He said the IRC was not a coalition of different political groups rather it was a collection of Muslim personalities who followed a specific aim, ideology and policy. However he added that the members of the IRC could be from a political group but they were only considered as an individual in the council and not as a representative of that group.

The IRC had actually been formed a number of months ago, Hakim said. The first official announcement of its formation came on November 17th.

He told the paper that the IRC was willing to cooperate within a serious way with non-Islamic groups who were honest and genuine in their struggle against the Iraqi regime. We are prepared to cooperate with all forces who are making an effort to achieve the objective, i.e. overthrowing the Baghdad regime, Hakim said.

Concerning its plans to be followed after Saddam's fall, Hakim said the IRC was making efforts towards the establishment of an Islamic government in Iraq which would follow a neither East nor West policy in its relations with other countries of the world and revive Iraq's agriculture, which had been destroyed despite its suitableness and potentials. He said that the overproduction of oil would only serve the interests of foreign powers and is of no benefit to the Iraqi people.

On relations with regional Arab countries, the Iraqi spokesman said the people of the region had common interests since all had been victims of military, cultural and economic aggression by imperialism. The countries which defended the interests of the people of the region and which had a policy of confronting world arrogance would be in a single front with us...but those countries which had a hostile position against the interests of the people and which worked to increase the influence of world arrogance in the region would naturally compel us to have a different policy towards them, he said.

Commenting on Majlis Speaker Hashemi-Rafsanjani's recent call for the granting of military bases to the Iraqi exiles near the border with Iraq, Hakim said that Saddam could not be overthrown by mere political means but he added that, the red line of martyrdom and an armed struggle for the sake of the Iraqi regime's destruction should also be paved and therefore the existence of military bases can be viewed as a necessary demand. He said from the point of view of this council the realisation of these determined aims is not possible but through armed struggle.

He also said that the Iraqi people should pay attention to Imam Khomeyni's guidances because he was an example of a true Muslin leader.

HASHEMI-RAFSANJANI CRITICIZES SUPPORT FOR IRAQ

[Majlis Speaker 'Ali Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani Arabic sermon during Friday prayers at Tehran University on 26 November -- live]

[Text] In the name of God, the merciful, the compassionate. I must talk a little today to the Muslim masses in the Muslim countries of the southern Gulf and in other countries that have given support to the atheist Ba'thists of Iraq, stained their hands with the blood of the forces of Islam and entered the black record of aggression against Islamic Iran and the occupation of its territory.

Brothers and sisters, although we have so far always put forth our stands to the leaders of these countries directly and indirectly, yet regrettably we have not reaped any result from this (?appeal). At the present time, as we stand on the threshold of the final defeat of the 'Aflaqis, we believe it is necessary for us to say our final words and to complete our argument to these countries through the Muslim masses of these countries, and call on the peoples to resort to any method they believe fruitful and useful to convey our message to the ears of their (?rulers) and to their black hearts which spurn righteousness -- these leaders who have no jurisdiction. O peoples, ask your leaders:

First, why did you join with the 'Aflaqis in plotting prior to the war? Why did you agree to the occupation of the territory of the Islamic Republic and participate in the achievement of this occupation?

Second, what is the justification for placing vast sums of the funds of your deprived peoples and their weapons, hardware and ammunition at Saddam's disposal so that he can use them in fighting our Islamic revolution?

Third, why did you galvanize your countries' media to serve the aggressors? Why did you throughout the past 2 years resort to lies and falsehood to mislead the masses?

Fourth, why did you use all ports, roads, railways and ships to serve Saddam's war of aggression? These things that belong to your peoples.

Fifth, why did you mobilize a part of the mercenary forces for the sake of the 'Aflaqi aggressor and directly participate in the crimes being perpetrated on the fronts and in the occupation of territory and the destruction of cities and in the mass killings of Muslims in Iran, whose only crime was that they were defending their sanctities? Today there are a number of these among the Iraqi prisoners in Iran.

Sixth, why have you made yourselves a toy in the hands of Western criminals, particularly the Americans, and become an instrument in their conspiracy to sow divisions in the Muslim world and to prevent the cohesion of peoples in a unified Islamic front to confront the usurper Israel? Indeed, you yourselves have played a part in sowing the seeds of divisions, disputes and failure in the Islamic front.

Seventh, why did you spurn those Muslims who have turned toward you and toward the Palestinians and completely severed all relations which the buried shah had established with Israel, instead of welcoming their Islamic revolution and exploiting the great opportunity of this gigantic force joining your ranks and supporting the Arabs against Zionist aggression?

Eighth, why did you fight Islam in the conspiracy of the occupation of Lebanon and the striking at the Palestinians and the strengthening of the positions of the Phalangists and the isolationists, thus forgetting all claims you have been making for a long time throughout the struggle against Zionism and succumbing to humiliation and weakness and agreeing to capitulation and to participate in the conspiracy?

Ninth, as the consequences of Saddam's defeat is being felt on the fronts and as revolutionary and Islamic Iran, which has achieved victory, is demanding its legal rights, why don't you facilitate the punishment of the aggressor and encourage the just rewarding of each party?

Tenth, O peoples beware and warn these countries that have participated with the aggressors in their aggressions that in view of our serious efforts to strengthen the ties of unity in our Muslim world we have so far not responded in kind and have not responded to these aggressions with what they deserve. We have been very patient for the sake of Islam and the Muslim peoples. However, patience and [word indistinct], regardless of such agression, have limits. Do not persist any further in your tyranny and sinful acts. Turn a little to the right path. Do you blame us because we believe in God and what has been sent down to us, and what was sent down before, and that most of you are ungodly?

I hope that this advice will be accepted. I hope that this advice is accepted. Peace be upon you. In the name of God, the merciful, the compassionate. When the help of God and victory come, and you see people entering God's religion in throngs, then praise your Lord and seek His forgiveness, for He is oft-returning. Peace and God's mercy and benedictions be upon you.

MONTAZERI PRAISES KURDISH 'COOPERATION'

LD261323 Tehran IRNA in English 0915 GMT 26 Nov 82

[Text] Qom, Nov 26 IRNA -- Ayatollah Montazeri Thursday urged the government and all responsible officials to further attend to the needs of the Kordestan region of Iran and augment their efforts in rooting out economic and cultural poverty in the said region.

The leading jurisprudent of the Islamic Republic also advised the ulema to be attentive enough to the warfront needs in the west of the country, with special emphasis on Kordestan in so doing.

IRNA REPORTS SUCCESSFUL 'PURGING' OF VILLAGES

LD272136 Tehran IRNA in English 2007 GMT 27 Nov 82

[Text] Bakhtaran, Nov. 27 IRNA -- Imam Khomeyni's representative to the western provinces of Iran said here today that operations for purging outlying villages of the counterrevolutionary elements have been successful and that thus far a large number of villagers in the liberated villages have joined with the Kurdish peshmergas. He said once such operations have ended, welfare programmes would be implemented for the rural people in the province.

He also invited the people to contribute to the welfare of the oppressed Kurds in whatever way they can afford.

GF231625 (Clandestine) Radio Iran in Persian to Iran 1330 GMT 23 Nov 82

[Text] According to the French news agency, two powerful bombs were defused a few minutes before explosion in Tehran today. This report, released prior to the citing of Tehran government releases, indicates that one of the two bombs weighed 70 kg and was planted in Zaleh Square. The other smaller one was planted in Fowzieh Square. According to the French news agency, the discovery of the bombs by the regime seems to be a rather suspicious act, because no group opposing the Tehran regime has claimed responsibility for planting these bombs. The Radio Iran correspondent has reported that the citizens of Tehran believe the bombs were planted by the Islamic Republic regime in order to suppress the opponents of the candidates for the Council of Experts.

REPORTAGE ON PRESIDENT MITTERRAND'S VISIT

Mitterrand Press Conference

BK291611 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 29 Nov 82

[Text] French President Francois Mitterrand said in New Delhi this evening that his visit would foster much better relations between India and France and give them much more substance. He was addressing a crowded press conference at the end of his formal discussions with the Indian leaders.

Mitterrand stressed that India and France have very good relations and the purpose of his visit is to improve them still further. The two countries have similar positions on important world issues like the developments in west Asia, disarmament and the North-South dialogue. Bilaterally, there can be much more trade and extensive cultural exchanges.

President Mitterrand made it clear that the agreement for the supply of French fuel for Tarapur is within the framework of the 1963 agreement. There are no conditions. In reply to a question, he denied that the supply has anything to do with India's purchase of Mirage aircraft or other arms from France.

Asked whether France has been requested to attend the coming nonaligned summit in New Delhi as an observer, President Mitterrand pointed out that his country is a member of a military alliance and is not a nonaligned country. Because of its security requirements and the need to defend itself, France has to be a member of NATO.

Replying to a question on the Franco-Egyptian proposals for resolving the west Asia crisis, Mitterrand said anyone is free to support them. He asserted that India's position is not very different from these proposals. The fact that President Husni Mubarak is arriving in New Delhi tomorrow is merely a coincidence. He reiterated that the people of Palestine should have a right to self-determination and build institutions of their choice.

Gandhi-Mitterrand Meeting

BK291621 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 29 Nov 82

The two countries also decided to set up a committee which will go into various aspects of cultural cooperation. The French minister for culture, Jack Lang, discussed with Information and Broadcasting Minister of State Salve the possibilities of closer cooperation in cinematography.

Mitterrand Parliament Address

BK291705 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 29 Nov 82

[Text] Mitterrand has made a powerful plea to stop the arms race and said military blocs should not continue forever. Addressing members of Parliament in the historic central hall of the house in New Delhi today, the French president said the people of the world are not happy with the existing arrangement. France has suffered in two world wars and she strongly supports all efforts to bring peace to humanity. He described the Nonaligned Movement, of which India is a notable member, as a significant and important force.

Underlying the urgent need for global negotiations to establish a new and just world economic order, he said Paris favors greater aid in transfer of technology to developing countries.

About Indi-French relations, he said there has been longstanding affinity. It was Napolean who first founded a chair for Sanskrit and Vedic studies in Europe. However, the relations had not been too strong. When India achieved freedom 35 years ago, it took France a long time to realize the importance of India. There is now an atmosphere which favors strong and close relations.

When the French president arrived at parliament house, he was received by Vice President Hidayatullah, Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi and Speaker Balram Jakhar. As he was conducted into the hall, the members gave him a standing ovation. Hidayatullah welcomed him in French and said the ennobling French belief in republicanism influenced India's strong struggle for liberation.

Mitterrand on Afghanistan

LD291950 Paris Domestic Service in French 1800 GMT 29 Nov 82

[Text] Today is the next to last day of President Mitterrand's visit. Addressing Parliament in New Delhi this afternoon, Francois Mitterrand pleaded for nonalignment and denounced the policy of blocs.

The French head of state had a long talk with Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi on the new strongman in the Kremlin, Yuriy Andropov, and the possible consequences of his taking power -- among others, as far as Afghanistan is concerned. India has never condemned Red Army interference in Kabul. However, you will hear Mitterrand speaking to Ralph Into. Francois Mitterrand hopes that with Andropov in power there will be some changes to the good in Afghanistan.

[Begin Mitterrand recording] I have arrived at the conclusion that the Afghan affair is a poison in the Soviet body. This Afghanistan affair has moved the Soviet Union away from the nonaligned countries, from the Muslim countries, form Third World countries. This was the first of this kind since Lenin and it is not progressing militarily as the initiators of this operation doubtlessly imagined it would. This is embarassing. At present, when there is a change in power in the Soviet Union -- within the same system, of course, but still a change -- one can suppose that when making an assessment and wanting to start again, one seeks to abandon -- of course taking into account the principal interests of the power concerned, that is, the Soviet Union, one seeks, or so I think at least, a solution to the situation, an outcome. This is a reckoning not an analysis of facts since I don't know them. I have not sounded the conscience of Mr Andropov. [end recording]

GANDHI SPEAKS ON SOLUTION TO AKALI PROBLEM

BK261615 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 26 Nov 82

[Text] The prime minister has said that the government is prepared to adopt any course to find a solution to the Akali problem without causing any hardship to anybody. Mrs Gandhi was releasing a set of books on the Sikh religion in New Delhi today. The books were brought out by the Delhi Sikh Gurdwara Prabandhak Committee.

Mrs Gandhi said the center has accepted the religious demands of the Akalis, but they have added more demands involving other states. She said without consulting them a decision cannot be taken.

Mrs Gandhi pointed out that while trying to solve the problems of the Akalis, the interests of others have also to be considered. She recalled that the Akalis started an agitation and then they said they will not talk at all. Later, they said they were ready to talk to Swaran Singh. She said all problems have to be looked at from the long-term view. The views of the Sikhs living outside Punjab should also be ascertained.

Mrs Gandhi pointed out that there was no morcha [demonstration] or agitation for any demand when the Akali Dal was in power in the state.

The prime minister stressed that in reality there is no quarrel between the center and the states. If the center is weak, anyone can create problems.

Mrs Gandhi said the sacrifices and teachings of the Sikh gurus should serve as an example to everyone. She praised the courage and valor of Sikhs. She said several Sikh sportsmen have won medals in the ASIAD and the country is proud of their achievements.

Punjab Chief Minister Darbara Singh has appealed to the Akali leaders to give up the path of confrontation and respond favorably to the statement of the prime minister made today in Delhi. Talking to newsmen in Chandigarh today, he said they should accept her advice and not mix up their religious and other demands. He hoped that the Akalis will not lose this opportunity and will immediately approach the prime minister for settlement of their demands.

Darbara Singh said while the people of Punjab are winning laurels for the state at the national and international levels, more so in the ASIAD, the Akali leaders are trying to impede the progress of the state at home. He accused the Akalis of trying to tarnish the image of the country through their efforts to obstruct the holding of the ASIAD in Delhi.

LD291724 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 29 Nov 82

[Communique No 1,137 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. The situation at the fronts of the imposed war and the results of the operations of the combatants of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran are brought to the attention of the dear compatriots.

At 0400 yesterday, the dying Saddamist forces mounted a feeble offensive on one of the fronts of the Moharram operation. The victorious and mighty combatants of Islam opened heavy artillery fire on the enemy forces and engaged them in combat, killing several Saddamist mercenaries, capturing 25, injuring several and destroying a considerable number of tanks and armored personnel carriers. Eventually, at 0730, the proud combatants of Islam forcefully repelled the enemy counteroffensive and maintained their superiority over the dying Saddamist forces by maintaining the initiative.

Again, at 0930, on another front in the same sector, the defeated enemy mounted an offensive. However, the mighty Islamic combatants bravely crushed the ineffective efforts of the Saddamists and forced them to flee.

During exchanges of fire on the Abadan fronts, the self-sacrificing combatants of Islam brought under fire enemy positions on the other side of the Arvand Rud, destroying four bunkers with their crews and silencing their fire.

Exchanges of fire continued sporadically yesterday on most of the western fronts. In the (Koqahaman) sector, thanks to artillery and heavy weapons fire of the combatants of Islam on an enemy armored column, enemy movements were halted and considerable losses and casualties were inflicted on the Saddamist forces.

During their recent successful operations in the western part of the country, the brave Muslim, Kurdish tribesmen killed eight Iraqi soldiers and captured two vehicles and one weapon.

Yesterday, thanks to antiaircraft fire and tactical measures taken by the fighter planes of the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran, Iraqi planes intending to violate the airspace in western and southern border regions were forced to flee.

STATEMENTS ISSUED ON PALESTINIAN SOLIDARITY DAY

Foreign Affairs Ministry

GF291800 Tehran IRNA in English 1713 GMT 29 Nov 82

[Text] Tehran, Nov 29 IRNA -- The Foreign Affairs Ministry of the Islamic Republic of Iran today, in a statement issued on the occasion of the solidarity day with the Palestinians, Nov. 29, pledged the people of Iran's support for the Palestinian cause.

The statement said that 35 years ago the United Nations through its resolution (partitioning of Palestine) caused the homelessness of hundreds of thousands of Palestinians.

Ever since, the oppressed and Muslim people of Palestine have been victims to all kinds of injustice, savagery and atrocities committed by the Zionist regime, the statement added. The regime occupying Quds was founded on the committing of inhuman acts and presently has gone even further and massacred the Muslim people of Lebanon. Human history will not forget crimes committed by criminals such as Begin and Sharon, in Sabra and Shatila refugee camps of Beirut, the statement stressed.

In another part of the statement it was pointed out that as long as the Zionist regime existed in the region, massacre, bloodshed and aggression would continued and the reactionary leaders of the region and United States plans and proposals concerning this issue will not solve the problems of Palestinians nor of Muslims.

The Foreign Affairs Ministry condemned desperate moves of Arab reactionary heads including the Fes conference resolutions as well as U.S. plans and proposals aimed at giving recognition to the Zionist regime. The Foreign Ministry, added the statement, considers these moves as efforts towards destruction of the Palestinian cause. The Islamic Republic of Iran, as it has been repeatedly announced, will not fail to extend any sort of assistance to the oppressed people of Palestine and Lebanon, the announcement added.

Khamene'i Message

LD291822 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 29 Nov 82

[President Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i message on the occasion of the day of solidarity with the Palestinian people, 29 November]

[Text] In His exalted name. The conscience of the world public is still wounded by the cruelty and savagery of the usurping Zionists in the Sabra and Shatila camps. The treason and collusion of some of the unpopular regimes in the region enabled imperialism and Zionism to expel the Palestinian fighters from Beirut and to scatter them to various countries. The bitter experience of humanity concerning the usurping occupation of Zionism during the past 35 years has shown that aggression is part of Israel's nature. It is contrary to any logic to compromise with such an element. The slaughter of the PLO fighters demonstrated the validity of our position in opposing the conspiracy to expel them.

It should not be doubted that the Israeli criminals will not stop at slaughtering people. They instead would make this a prelude to their great conspiracy to threaten and destroy the Palestinian aspiration and to establish the influence of the world-devouring America throughout the region. Their goal is to convince the countries in the region that the only solution to the Middle East crisis is to accept Camp David plans and to come under U.S. domination. We believe the expulsion of Palestinian fighters from Lebanon not only was not the end of the affair, but it will be the beginning of a new stage in the long struggles of the Arab and Muslim nations.

Due to its antityranny and antiarrogance characteristics and its policy of supporting the oppressed nations inspired by the exalted teachings of the Koran, the Islamic Republic of Iran once again announces that it will strongly support the Palestinian nation's rightful and legitimate struggle to return to its usurped land, to expel the occupiers of that land and to root out the Zionist occupiers whose regime is based on Zionist racism. Despite our 2-year involvement in the imposed war, we have never refrained from performing our Islamic and humane duties toward the Palestinian issue.

We are a country which, despite our involvement in the war imposed on us by Iraq, has dispatched its forces to the battlefronts of the war against Zionism. We believe the only fundamental solution of the Palestinian problem and the entire Middle East crisis is a serious confrontation with the policies of world arrogance and a sincere attempt to create unity among the Muslim countries, as well as emphasizing the Islamization of the Palestinian issue.

From this viewpoint , the Islamic Republic has always tried to emphasize the Islamic dimension of this issue. We believe a correct approach to the issue of Jerusalem will be a prelude to the salvation of the oppressed people who for many years have been subjected to the aggression, death and plunder of their enemies. Therefore, wherever the issue of Palestine is raised, we will be present. We believe fighting against bullies and aggressors such as the Zionist regime and its imperialist supporter, America, is the Islamic duty of all world Muslims and the human duty of all honorable members of the human family. We expect everybody who supports justice and international peace and security to take practical steps toward solidarity with the oppressed Palestinian people.

Having before us the blood which has been shed unjustly in Sabra and Shatila and which has stained the jackboots of the usurping Zionists, we announce to the conscience of the world that the mere expression of solidarity will not cure any ills. The professional criminals of the Zionist regime like Begin and Sharon who are responsible for these crimes should receive punishment for their deeds so that human conscience may be comforted. The Islamic Republic of Iran rejects appeasing plans which with a deceptive appearance and seemingly humane slogans wish to destroy the aspirations of the Palestinian people and to trample on that nation's most basic rights. It condemns the acquiescence of the superpowers concerning the Israeli crimes in Lebanon and believes it is only through the real and practical solidarity of the nations of the world with the deprived Palestinian people, their confronting of the inhuman activities of the aggressive Zionists and cutting off the nands of their imperialist supporters that true justice will be established and the oppressed Palestinian people will achieve their usurped rights.

TEHRAN TO HOST GLOBAL PRAYER CONGRESS 28 DEC

[Text] Tehran, Nov 24, IRNA -- The first global congress on Friday and congregational prayers will be held here during "Unity Week", Dec. 28 to Jan 2, 1983, at the invitation of the prominent religious scholar Ayatollah Montazeri, it was announced Tuesday.

Minister of Ershad Islami (Islamic Guidance) Mohammad Khatami, Imam Khomeyni's representative in the reconstruction Jiad Abdollah Nouri, and Majlis Deputy Hadi Khamene'i will be members of the headquarters to supervise over the congress.

Khamene'i, who is also responsible for holding the congress said Tuesday that the indisputable principle of the spread of the message of the Islamic revolution necessitated to make utmost efforts to further increase the effect of revolutionary context of Friday prayers on world's opinion especially in the Islamic world.

Some 200 to 300 Friday and congregational prayers leaders had been invited from various countries, a number of whom would be deprived of by their governments to attend the congress since they would convey spiritual effects to their people after their close contacts with the Islamic revolution, which would be dangerous for their governments, Khamene'i added.

He said that even the guests from Iraq, the U.S. and Egypt had been invited although these countries had no relations with the Islamic Republic.

Khamene'i noted that the congress will meet annually and that Iran will be the center for its formation because if it was to meet in other countries where Islamic revolution had not taken shape, it might be affected by deviating stimulation of the regimes there.

He was welcomed by the minister of agriculture and the acting foreign affairs minister of our country.

The Central News Unit reports that the delegation this afternoon met and conferred with the agriculture and rural development minister. Mohammad Salamati welcomed the deputy chairman of the Bulgarian Council of Ministers and thanked him for his proposal regarding the [word indistinct] participation of that country in reconstructing the war-stricken regions of our country. He said: Because of our common traditions and culture with the people of Bulgaria, we try to expand our economic, social and [word indistinct] relations with it.

The deputy chairman of the Bulgarian Council of Ministers said: We have reviewed the changes which have occurred with the Islamic revolution in your country and we understand Iran's anti-imperialist stand. We know imperialism tries to blackmail and corrupt authentic revolutions in order to defeat them. Finally, praising the continued struggle of [word indistinct] and the Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran against American imperialism, he expressed the hope that the Islamic Republic of Iran, after dealing with the imposed war and in a peaceful environment free from foreign aggression, will be able to strengthen the Islamic revolution and reconstruct the country.

According to our correspondent, the Bulgarian delegation and experts of the Agriculture and Rural Development Ministry will form four committees dealing with agriculture, industry and energy, commerce and culture to study possibilities for expanding economic relations between the two countries.

Planning Discussed

LD281312 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 28 Nov 82

[Text] According to a report by the Central News Unit, the Bulgarian deputy chairman and ambassador to the Islamic Republic of Iran met and conferred this morning with Dr Mohammad Taqi Banki, Iranian minister of state and head of the plan and budget organization.

During the meeting, Dr Banki said: You have come to a country unique in the world and whose youths have proved they are ready to make any sacrifice for their ideology. An outstanding example of this is the performance of the soldiers of Islam on the battlefronts.

The Bulgarian deputy chairman expressed his pleasure over traveling to the Islamic Republic of Iran and asked about the planning in Iran. Dr Banki explained the planning issue and the first 5-year plan of the Islamic Republic of Iran. He referred to this plan's priorities, particularly the agricultural sections. With the imam's guidance, agriculture is the axis of development in the first 5-year plan of the Islamic Republic of Iran. He added: In this plan for Iran's self-sufficiency and development, special attention has been paid to industry, education, health and the other sections.

Memorandum Signed

LD291650 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 29 Nov 82

[Excerpts] The Central News Unit reports that Iran and Bulgaria have signed a memorandum of understanding in Tehran, expressing their interest in establishing extended economic cooperation in agriculture, industry, commerce, oil, finance, energy and transportation. This memorandum of understanding was signed by Mohammad Salamati, Iran's minister of agriculture and rural development, and Lukanov, deputy chairman of the Bulgarian Council of Ministers in charge of economic affairs, at the end of the talks between high-ranking officials of the two countries today.

At the same time, the director general of consular affairs at the Foreign Affairs Ministry and his Bulgarian counterpart signed a consular agreement to provide visa facilities.

Our correspondent has talked to the agriculture and rural development minister about this memorandum of understanding.

[Begin recording] [Question] Mr Salamati, in the past, economic relations between Iran and Bulgaria, especially in agriculture, were extensive. Would you please tell us what new cooperation is included in the memorandum of understanding signed today?

[Answer] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. The memorandum of understanding that we and the Bulgarian economic delegation have signed covers agriculture, commerce, oil financial affairs, industry and energy. Various grounds for cooperation in these fields are included in the memorandum of understanding. As far as agriculture is concerned, the memorandum deals with the expansion of cooperation in research and training in agricultural industries, food industries such as canned food and preserves, as well as the timber industry, forestry and grazing land. It also mentions the exchange of information in connection with agriculture, exchange of improved seeds and assistance in this respect.

The petrochemical industries, construction of different petrochemical plants, chemical and pharmaceutical industries and the import of technology involved in making drugs for people and cattle are mentioned in the memorandum. We are interested and Bulgaria is willing to export the technology involved in making drugs to our country. Dams also are included. Bulgarian experts helped us in the past and worked here. In view of our 5-year plan to meet the energy requirements of agriculture, we hope the difficulties regarding dams under construction will soon be resolved and new contracts are to be signed with Bulgaria to help build new dams. This is reflected in our memorandum of understanding.

Other fields of cooperation include construction of transmission lines, distribution networks, thermal generating plants, technology for manufacturing metalware, such as iron and other metals, and communication, which comes under the section of industry.

Regarding commerce and trade between the two countries, they are going to provide the foods we need. We are going to buy more fertilizer from Bulgaria, as well as tires, drugs, nonferrous metals, equipment and machinery.

An important point referred to in the memorandum, which we insist on, is the export of our nonoil goods to Bulgaria. In this memorandum, on our proposal, they agreed and undertook to increase their import of our nonoil goods five fold.

[Question] There have been many joint projects, especially in agriculture. Could you tell use how successful these have been?

[Answer] They have been fairly successful. In Neyshabur, Golpayegan and Garmsar, they have projects in operation. Of course, there have been small technical problems and these small problems will, God willing, be discussed and solved just like the understanding we have achieved now. The work will, God willing, have the desirable success and speed. [end recording]

SPEAKER ON ABUSE OF IRANIAN STUDENTS IN INDIA

GF251800 Tehran IRNA in English 1500 GMT 25 Nov 82

[Text] Tehran, Nov 25, IRNA -- Majlis Speaker Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani on Thursday hoped the Indian Government will view the affairs of the Iranian students studying in India on the basis of the facts.

Rafsanjani was talking to the students who recently completed their education from the universities from the sub-continent. Referring to the inhuman treatment of the Indian police against the Iranian Muslim students in Bangalore, south India, Majlis speaker said such behavior is not new for the Iranian students who want to convey the message of the Islamic revolution (?abroad). He said the Iranian students who have pledged for serving Islam are bound to face these difficulties and sufferings. He said the Iranian students have healthy objectives and no one could accuse them of being linked to the unhealthy channels.

Rafsanjani said that recent Zionist regime's massacres and attacks on Lebanon led to the Lebanese Muslims resistance. But, he said, the imperialist media attributed such resistance of the Muslims to the Islamic Republic of Iran.

He said the Iranian students' sufferings in India are similar to those they faced in the United States, France and England. Rafsanjani said Iran deplores the fact that the Indian Government is threatening the Iranian students in such a way because India is a country which has a long history of struggle against the exploitation by colonialism and imperialism. He said he feels sorry that Indian Government did not pay attention towards the views presented by the Iranian officials. He said Iran may expect such behaviour from the United States and the Zionist regime and not from those calling themselves representatives of the Indian nation.

The speaker, however, hoped that the Indian officials will listen to the words of the Foreign Ministry of the Islamic Republic and they will not be influenced by satans who just want to destroy the bilateral relations of India and Iran. He said that Iran does not want to harm its relations with India just because of these acts and hoped that the Indian Government will listen to him for better ties.

HASHEMI-RAFSANJANI 26 NOVEMBER SERMONS

LD261710 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 26 Nov 82

[Excerpts] Since early this morning, the fervent and ever present people of Tehran filed towards the University of Tehran, meeting place of the vast multitudes taking part in Friday congregational prayers. Side by side with long lines of heroic members of moblilization units of the oppressed, they met to honor the memory of the heroic deeds of the fighters of Islam in battlefronts of the war against the mercenaries of arrogant satans.

The Friday sermons were given by the provisional Friday imam of Tehran, Hojjat ol-Eslam val-Moslemin Hashemi-Rafsanjani.

Hojjat ol-Eslam val-Moslemin Hashemi-Rafsanjani said: Those who do not possess illegal wealth should not feel frightened. The Islamic Republic is dutybound to protect this wealth. However, those who know that their wealth has been acquired through illegal means, such as vast benefits through government transactions, should prepare themselves to pay the price and be accountable. Of course, this will be done cautiously and orderly and with the judgment of the courts. If God forbid, someone's wealth is confiscated without reason, the Islamic Republic should return it to him. This will be the basis of the Islamic Republic's dealings concerning illegal wealth.

The provisional Friday imam of Tehran devoted his second prayer sermon to current issues and problems. Concerning the gains of the Islamic Republic, he said: One of the very important gains of the revolution has been the fact that the revolution has been able to turn this country into the strongest order and the most stable and powerful government system in the region. This is at a time when our enemies are trying to portray the country as unstable and the order as shaky. With their propaganda, they are trying to deceive the people concerning this stability.

Referring to the fact that toward the end of the shah's reign Iran was called an "island of stability," he said: It is interesting that these days Western propaganda refers to Iraq as the "island of stability."

Hojjat ol-Eslam Hashemi-Rafsanjani then described the factors that lead to stability: The most important factor keeping a system stable is if the relationship between the government leaders and the people is based on friendship and trust. A regime dependent upon the people and the views of the people and that has the means for its existence cannot be destroyed, even by foreign occupation. With our revolution, we have been able to bring about conditions in our society under which people are confident that the officials want to set up order in the Islamic Republic. The most important factor in our society is the relationship between the people and God. No other factor is so profound and influential on our people as this.

Referring to the fact that about 4 billion people in the worldare concerned with religion and that even in the Soviet Union after 60 years of fighting against religion and God the vast majority of people still think about spirituality, he said: This is clear proof that religion is an axis to retain the people's allegiance. The provisional Friday imam of Tehran added: If the Islamic Republic had wanted to ignore Islamic principles and teachings and if it had wanted to deviate the people from the original relationship between the people and God for the sake of which they took part in the revolution, it would have been toppled by now.

Referring to the fact that the continuation of the Islamic revolution of Iran is not as dependent upon the existence of the imam -- in the sense of the dependence upon the shah in the former regime -- and that the Islamic revolution is fully reliant upon the people themselves, the provisional Friday imam of Tehran said: The imam is an old man of 80-odd years and his life is limited. The enemies had pinned all their hopes on this and had kept their forces in reserve for the day when, God forbid, the imam will no longer be alive. Even that small window of hope -- thinking that our stability is only dependent upon the person of the imam -- has been denied our enemies.

In another part of his speech, referring to the false claims that Iranian forces participated in the siege of a garrison in Ba'albakk, Hojjat ol-Eslam Hashemi-Rafsanjani said: [Begin recording] This allegation is an excuse to suppress the people of Lebanon even further. No, this was done by the Lebanese people themselves. They waited for a time, got organized and formed underground groups.

We also help them. I announce here: If they want weapons, we will give them weapons. If they want money, we will give it to them. If they require guidance, we will provide them with it. If they require propaganda, we will do it for them. Our radio is at their disposal.

However, it is a lie that Iranian soldiers surrounded the barracks of the Lebanese forces. On that day, the Lebanese forces were supposed to take part in a march in Ba'albakk to demonstrate the presence of the armed forces there. However, the Lebanese fighters said that we wanted to prevent them from going into the streets and telling the people that the armed forces were in charge. The Lebanese people themselves went and surrounded the barracks and prevented the march.

The main point is that not only is the Islamic Republic fully consolidated but it has even started its offensive stage -- not that we mean to be offensive. No, Islamic thought has started its offensive moves, the same thought that has maintained us here, something which they cannot understand. Western military analysts have gone to Baghdad, asking why the Muslims have become victorious but the Iraqis have failed. The Iraqis have not been able to provide them with an answer. Let us answer you. The reason for it is very clear: As already explained, our people prefer not to have life, not to have bread or house, but to have their faith.

Statistics given us by our brothers from the mobilization units are a source of pride. They are great. They say that since last year -- in only 1 year -- over 410,000 of this country's children, all of whom are volunteers, have taken part in training courses and have been sent to the fronts one or two or three times. These 410,000 volunteers are equal to 4 million ordinary soldiers.

You know that volunteers fight in a different way. Who has given us this? How can you account for it? In the car, Mahdavi-Kani was telling me that according to statistics of the mobilization headquarters, 2.5 million people have been trained during the same period. By God, if a regime is a little shaky does it dare to provide 2.5 million people with military training or to place weapons in the hands of these children? It means the regime is so confident that it opens the doors of the mosques to all people, to whoever wants to come and be trained. Of course, not the minigroups because they are traitorous. However, from among the ordinary people, whoever wants can come there and be trained, learn about weapons, about revolvers, about explosives. This is a sign of the confidence and the strength of the republic.

Just think about the mobilization itself. It is very simple and we have not spent a lot of money for it either. They have been mobilized with the least budget. For instance, if the Iraqis have spent so much to bring 2,000 Sudanese mercenaries, we have spent half that amount for sending 50,000 mobilization forces to the fronts and you know how they fought. We have not spent half the amount on these 50,000 as they have spent on the 2,000 brought from Jordan or Sudan. The people come by themselves and learn.

In the official mobilization statistics, it is stated that there are nearly 9,000 -- nearly 9,050 -- military groups formed from the mobilization forces. There are 6,000 resistance bases. It means at the moment 6,000 armed resistance bases have been formed by these children in the mosques and without any expenses. They even have some income through donations from their families. When I say without any expense, it may be a bit exaggerated. There is some expense.

There are more than 9,000 resistance groups, each of which has between 20 or 30 believing young men. They are mobilized so that they can suppress the slightest anti-Islamic and antirevolutionary movement in any part of the country. They are in the forests, in the villages, in the cities, in the towns. They have been organized by the people themselves. This is the source of the strength of the order. Its strength does not lie elsewhere. These children assist the gendarmerie in the towns, they assist the police in the cities, they assist the guards and the armed forces in the battles. In Kurdistan, they go and throw out the armed-to-their-teeth counterrevolutionaries to the mountains and the caves.

During this mobilization week, listen to their words, listen to their programs, encourage them. Especially in the mosques, the ulema, the Friday imams should guide, advise and encourage these young people who have gathered in the houses of God, in the mosques. Encourage them, teach them morality and make up for their shortcomings in their training. If this society is strong, if this republic has produced these gains, if our enemies are frightened, it is due to the embodiment of this strength which they witness but they are unaware of the basis of their work. GF291430 (Clandestine) Free Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1500 GMT 28 Nov 82

[Text] The head of Tehran's Committee No 14, Pakzad, has also escaped the Islamic Republic of Khomeyni. He is the son-in-law of one of the famous Iranian clergymen and he had sent around 27 million tumans of currency abroad before escaping to France accompanied by his wife and children.

He came to Paris on an Iranair flight and announced in the city that the regime's harshness forced him to flee Khomeyni's hell. Pakzad at first claimed that he escaped via the Pakistani border and had asked the French Government for political asylum. He is responsible for the murder of hundreds of people in Tehran and many of the confiscations were carried by guards under his command with his approval. The French Government has not yet granted Pakzad, the son-in-law of an imminent Qom clergyman, political asylum.

FINANCE MINISTER LEAVES FOR USSR 5 DEC

LD051840 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1600 GMT 5 Dec 82

MINISTER DISCUSSES SETTLEMENT PROSPECT

PM021003 Paris L'HUMANITE in French 1 Dec 82 p 7

[Yves Housson report]

[Excerpt] The Democratic Republic of Afghanistan is in favor of a "political settlement without preconditions." At a press conference in Paris yesterday, Afghan Education Minister Fakir Yaqubi reaffirmed, in terms devoid of ambiguity, his government's desire to succeed in restoring a normal situation in his country and in the region.

With that in mind, Fakir Yaqubi recalled, "we have made sound, constructive and realistic proposals several times (in May 1980 and August 1981). We are proposing bilateral or trilateral negotiations with Pakistan and Iran, which could take place under UN auspices." "We are ready," the minister added, "to start preliminary talks."

However, the path to that settlement is not easy. Initial contacts were made in Geneva last June between Afghan, Pakistani and Iranian representatives, under the aegis of the United Nations. "That is a first step, but a great deal still needs to be done," according to Fakir Yaqubi, who appealed for "good will from our neighbors."

In any case, the Kabul authorities believe a solution would emerge more quickly if the counterrevolutionaries ended their activities that they are able to conduct, the education minister stated, from "85 training camps on our borders," and with U.S. imperialism's support. However, after being "dispersed," the counterrevolution is now indulging in "acts of terror." Witness the bomb attack last Wednesday on a building in the capital which destroyed 37 stalls and caused injuries.

As for Soviet troops, Fakir Yaqubi once again explained that their presence would no longer be justified once the reasons for it had disappeared: "guarantee of independence, and of territorial integrity, and an end to the interference in internal Afghan affairs," which had motivated the appeal to the USSR at the end of 1979. He also rejected, as the Soviets themselves had done, the Americans' allegation that chemical weapons are being used by the Red Army.

100 DIE DURING 'HEAVY SHELLING OF VILLAGES'

BK071722 Hong Kong AFP in English 1707 GMT 7 Dec 82

[Text] Islamabad, Dec 7 (AFP) -- At least 100 civilians died during heavy shelling of villages surrounding Kabul by Soviet-Afghan forces in the past two weeks, according to Western diplomatic sources and information from resistance fighters.

More than 50 were killed during a raid on three villages north of the capital on November 22, which was among several raids carried out by MiG fighter jets and Soviet helicopters. Later the same day troops smashed down doors and ransacked houses, taking radios, jewelry and all objects of value.

The sources said the raids followed the same pattern of shelling heralding the arrival of convoys of armoured cars and troops, and were intended to spread confusion among the rebel bases and recruit any available able-bodied men.

Villagers whose homes had been destroyed were being forced to seek shelter in Kabul or flee to Pakistan. This continual exodus was seen here as weakening the mujahideen resistance, which relies on the local population for food.

Other similar raids were reported in the Paghman region, west of Kabul, and around Jalalabad to the east, where resistance, according to Pakistan-based resistance circles, is strong. The mujahideen fear that if these lightning raids continue all winter, they will be forced to restrict their activities to the capital.

But in the Kandahar region they carried out two spectacular attacks on military convoys last month, according to diplomatic sources. In one ambush on the road to Herat, 20 kms (12 miles) west of Kandahar, a column of 30 armoured cars was destroyed.

In Kandahar, the southern capital, the mujahideen have been stepping up their guerrilla operations against military posts inside the city. Only a year since the Soviet raided raided rebel strongholds in the heart of the city, the resistance fighters seem to have regrouped and are putting government troops on the defensive.

There is fighting every night and the rebels captured a "substantial" number of Afghan officers during November, said diplomatic sources.

Meanwhile in Kabul bomb attacks have been steadily increasing over the past month, with several explosions last week, said the diplomatic sources.

Breaking their costomary silence, the Afghan authorities have given maximum publicity to some of the explosions which claimed lives, and to the arrest and execution of those responsible, described variously as anti-social elements and counter-revolutionaries.

105 CIVILIANS 'BURNED TO DEATH' IN MID-SEPTEMBER

[Text] Islamabad, Dec. 7 (AFP) -- Soviet authorities burned to death 105 Afghan civilians including old people and children hiding in an underground irrigation canal in mid-September, a three-man commission of the Russell Tribunal has concluded.

EDITORIAL ON ERSHAD'S RECENT PRC VISIT

BK091158 Dhaka THE BANGLADESH OBSERVER in English 6 Dec 82 p 5

[Editorial: "Bilateral Relations"]

[Text] Chief Martial Law Administrator [CMLA] Lt General H.M. Ershad returned home Saturday completing his 6-day official visit to China.

The CMLA described his visit as "successful and satisfactory." The frank and fruitful talks he had with top-ranking Chinese leaders included nearly all bilateral, regional and global issues of interest to Bangladesh and China, and the unanimity of views characterising the exchanges marked not only the background of traditional friendship and mutual understanding between the two countries but also pointed to the way such ties would develop in the days to come.

Commenting on such prospects, General Ershad observed that he and his country had full "trust in China" and that the latter had assured all possible help to Bangladesh "in times of need." In fact over the past years a viable base of cooperation and friendly relations has been built up between the two countries through reciprocity and understanding in diplomatic and other areas.

The CMLA's 6-day visit, devoted to meaningful exchanges and discussion of problems, both internal and external, has gone far to strengthen that base and opened new vistas of more expansive cooperation and bilateral action in economic and other fields.

The pragmatic aspect of the exchanges is reflected in such agreements as relate to the formation of a joint economic commission and the soft-term loan ($12.5 million) promised by China to Bangladesh. It need hardly be said that China, one of Bangladesh's neighbours in this region and one of the most technologically advanced countries of the same, is in a position to help, both by cooperation and example, the on-going development process of Bangladesh. And the restrengthened relations between the two countries augur remarkably well for all time to come. In the economic field particularly, the scope and opportunity is immense for joint ventures and exploration and exploitation of the hitherto untapped and ill-used resources of the country. Chinese expertise and cooperation, once made available for such purposes, particularly along technological lines, are expected to be one of the most important contributions to the economy of Bangladesh.

In such contexts General Ershad disarmed possible fears of any unfavourable impact on his country's relations with her other neighbours, nor, as he visualised, could these developments in China-Bangladesh relations stand in the way of friendly relations with India, nor prejudice a just and amicable settlement of outstanding issues, including Farakka, with the latter. These assurances were given by him in the course of his answers to questions from newsmen on his arrival at the Zia International Airport.

The CMLA also referred to Bangladesh's diplomatic stance in regard to such problems as Middle East, Afghanistan and Kampuchea. The Kampuchea issue received special mention as Bangladesh accorded recognition to the Democratic Government of Kampuchea and decided to establish diplomatic relations with it. This was done, as he explained, in accordance with the principles on which Bangladesh's foreign policy is based.

To symbolise the growing process of relations between the two friendly countries a viable symbol has been proposed by the CMLA, namely, a "monument of friendship"; which is obviously designed to emphasise the dimensions of increasing bilateral friendship between Bangladesh and China and the latter's assurances of continuing support and assitance to Bangladesh and its socioeconomic development.

FINANCE MINISTER RETURNS FROM MOSCOW TALKS

GROUP REPORTS ON SOVIET USE OF CHEMICAL WEAPONS

NC091711 Paris AFP in English 1700 GMT 9 Dec 82

[Text] Paris, Dec 9 (AFP) -- An investigating team returning from Afghanistan said today it appeared as though Soviet forces had used chemical weapons there, but warned it was difficult to obtain sure proof.

Sent by the Peoples Permanent Tribunal, a continuation of the Russell Tribunal on Vietnam and South America, the investigators said signs "tended" to confirm the use of chemical warfare, but emphasized the difficulty in obtaining evidence.

The tribunal is scheduled to hold its second session here from December 16 to 20. During its first session in Stockholm in May of 1981, the tribunal qualified Soviet intervention in Afghanistan as an aggression.

During a press conference today, members of the tribunal's investigating team spoke of mass evacuation of Afghan villages following bombing by Soviet aircraft.

They also cited eyewitness accounts of an incident last September in which a hundred villagers were said to have been burned alive in an irrigation ditch by Soviet soldiers. The witnesses, interviewed by the commission during a secret visit to Afghanistan from November 26 to December 4, said the 105 civilians had been discovered hiding in the underground irrigation canal near Padkhwab-e-Shana village, 60 kms (36 miles) south of Kabul, by Soviet soldiers on September 13. The Russians reportedly dammed up one end of the canal, causing the water to rise, then injected an inflammable substance. An enormous explosion ensued, which burned everyone inside to death, the commission reported. Commission members Michael Barry, Ricardo Flaile and Michel Baret visited clandestinely the site of the reported massacre on the night of December 3 and found the canal wall blackened, apparently by an inflammable substance.

(In Peshawar, Pakistan, resistance sources said a young rebel leader was killed Tuesday during an attack on a government outpost in the eastern province of Nangarhar.)

MUJAHIDIN ATTACK 3 MILITARY POSTS 23 NOV

LD102008 Riyadh SPA in English 1351 GMT 10 Dec 82

[Text] Islamabad, Dec 10 (SPA) -- Twentyone Afghan soldiers were killed when the mujahidin wiped out three communist government military posts in central Afghanistan on November 23, the London-based Agency Afghan Press (AAP) reported here today.

The agency said the mujahidin launched simultaneous attacks on three military posts along Kabul-Qandahar highway located at Kabani, Gandakhel and Achujan. [placenames as received] It added that the mujahidin made effective use of their rocket launchers and destroyed two tanks by land mines.

The agency said the crew of a military truck was killed on November 17 when the mujahidin attacked a large military convoy coming from the Soviet Union at Herat-Towraghondi road in southwestern Afghanistan. It added five lit-tankers [as received] and two tanks were also destroyed during the mujahidin's attack.

The agency said a "grave situation" had developed in and around the historical Ghazni City in central Afghanistan and that the Soviets were intermittently bombing mujahidin hideouts in the area using MiG's and helicopter gunships. It added that despite bombing the Soviets had till early December failed to dislodge the mujahidin and stop their operations on the outer fringe of Ghazni.

GUERRILLA POSITIONS IN PAKTIA 'HEAVILY BOMBED'

BK170045 Hong Kong AFP in English 0030 GMT 17 Dec 82

[Text] Islamabad, Dec. 17 (AFP) -- Soviet war planes heavily bombed anti-communist guerrilla concentrations in eastern Paktia Province last Tuesday, killing at least 12 mujahedeen and wounding 14 other Moslem fighters, the rebel-run Afghan Islamic Press (AIP) reported yesterday.

The massive bombing raids followed reports from Western correspondents who secretly visited parts of Paktia Province last month that Afghan rebels were preparing for an offensive against Dargai District, near Khost. The guerrillas had captured Lieza, 15 km (9 miles) southwest of the provincial capital Khost, they said after the clandestine visit.

The Soviet bombing raids set afire seven mujahedeen tents, so that ammunition burned and some explosions occurred, causing unusually high rebel losses, AIP added. The agency said the casualties included the guerrilla group leader, who was a member of the Peshawar-based resistance organisation Hezb-e Islami Afghanistan, headed by Mohammad Yubis Khalis.

The leader, Mohammed Anwar, is the third commander Hezb-e Eslami has lost within one month. Khalis group men, who are reportedly active in Nangarhar Province, also suffered severe losses last month when the Soviet troops pounded their main centers, Tura Bura and Khogiani, in that province. The agency said the area's chief commander, Fatehulla Haqqani, "miraculously escaped" the raids.

The agency said the same day, Moslem rebels attacked a 30-vehicle convoy carrying ammunition to Bari military post, near Khost. The guerrillas killed or wounded five soldiers and destroyed two tanks and one military truck in that ambush, it said.

Meanwhile in Kabul, Jaji tribesmen staged a protest strike last Monday, suspending transport and closing down shops to protest against the regime's new conscription laws, AIP said. About 200 shopkeepers suspended business in Shoba Bazaar, Kalachi and Jada Maiwand in downtown Kabul, demanding repeal of the new draft laws, which withdrew concessions enjoyed by the Jaji tribesmen belonging to Paktia. Western diplomatic sources said this week that the regime had reached a compromise on the issue after several similar strikes in past few months.

The tribesmen hailing from Paktia Province were exempted from conscription during exiled King Tahir Shah's time. But the current Afghan regime, concerned over large-scale defections, modified the rules -- making it compulsory for Jaji tribesmen living outside Paktia Province to join army service. This caused unrest among people residing in Kabul, it said. Jajis want their men living outside their hometown also to be exempted.

DOST HOME FROM OPENING CONSULATE IN TASHKENT

LD230740 Kabul BAKHTAR in English 0417 GMT 23 Dec 82

[Text] Kabul, Dec. 22, BAKHTAR -- Shah Mohammad Dost, minister of foreign affairs of the DRA, returned home from the Soviet Union today.

He had gone to Tashkent at the head of a delegation to open the DRA General Consulate in the capital of Soviet Uzbekistan.

OFFICIAL CRITICIZES PAKISTAN'S ROLE IN WAR

LD221048 Kabul BAKHTAR in English 0448 GMT 22 Dec 82

[Text] Kabul, Dec. 21, BAKHTAR -- "Undeclared war is a form of invasion in which regular groups and armed mercenaries are despatched by a state or in its name in order to carry out armed operations against another state." This was stated by Mohammed Salim Majas, deputy minister of justice, in an interview with [word indistinct] correspondent.

He added that the war which is being waged by [word indistinct] imperialist circles headed by U.S. imperialism in collusion with the reactionary circles of the region especially the militarists of Pakistan against the people of Afghanistan is an undeclared war in accordance with the definition of the U.N. organisation. This undeclared war has caused thousands of catastrophes and affected thousands of victims.

Today the people of the world are witnessing the ruthless annihilation, the arousing of schools, mosques, religious places, the destruction of hospitals, bridges and roads in Afghanistan perpetrated by the mercenary bandits exported from across the country especially from Pakistan.

As is shown by the vivid facts and reliable documents, these bands are receiving military training and are being armed in over 80 military camps in Pakistan. The imperialist and reactionary circles have embarked upon large-scale misleading propaganda and the launching of counter-revolutionary activities against the DRA. The Pakistani experts and the trainers of imperialist countries headed by USA and Chinese hegemonists are trying hard in Pakistan to teach and impart the techniques of terrorism and destruction to the hired bands of Afghan counter-revolution and then to arm and send them to the soil of Afghanistan for subversive actions.

Responding to another question, the deputy minister of Justice Ministry said that today's Pakistan has changed to a centre of instigations against the revolution of Afghanistan. We were and are desirous of the peaceful solution of the situation around Afghanistan with the neighboring countries, and want to see that the Governments of Pakistan and Iran take steps regarding the peaceful solution in accord with reasonable and principled proposals set out by the DRA in this connection. But it should be said with regret that today the military regime of Pakistan has become a tool at the hand of U.S. imperialism and therefore the imperialism in collusion with the Chinese hegemonism see their interests in the continuation of war and fratricide in Afghanistan. The militarists of Pakistan were and are incapable of becoming prepared on their own for discussion for the peaceful solution of the issues around Afghanistan.

KARMAL, KESHTMAND RETURN FROM USSR 26 DECEMBER

LD270002 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1600 GMT 26 Dec 82

[Excerpt] Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA Central Committee and president of the DRA Revolutionary Council, and Soltan 'Ali Keshtmand, member of the PDPA Central Committee Politburo and chairman of the DRA Council of Ministers, after taking part in the 60th founding anniversary of the USSR, returned to Kabul this morning. They had gone to the Soviet Union at the invitation of the CPSU Central Committee, the USSR Supreme Soviet and the USSR Council of Ministers.

The aircraft carrying Babrak Karmal and Soltan 'Ali Keshtmand landed at 1155 at Kabul International Airport and a number of pioneers welcomed them with bunches of flowers. They also were welcomed by Politburo members, secretaries of the PDPA Central Committee, deputy presidents of the Revolutionary Council and of the Revolutionary Council Presidium, the ministers of foreign affairs and transportation, and the charge d'affaires of the Soviet Embassy in Kabul.

RESISTANCE TO STEP UP BOMBING CAMPAIGN IN KABUL

BK250636 Hong Kong AFP in English 1528 GMT 24 Dec 82

[Text] Islamabad, Dec. 24 (AFP) -- The Afghan resistance will step up its bombing campaign against government targets in the country's capital, Kabul, the chairman of the fundamentalist mujahadeen alliance Abd ar-Rasul Sayyaf claimed here Sunday.

Official reports said about 40 people died in a series of bombings over the last month in Kabul.

Mr. Sayyaf refused to say whether the resistance was planning a spectacular action for December 27, the third anniversary of the entry of Soviet troops into Afghanistan. He rejected any political solution to the conflict and said his movement's "holy war" would continue until an Islamic government was in place in Kabul. He added that even if agreement was reached between Afghan authorities and Pakistan for the return of refugees and the banning of political activity by resistance groups in Pakistan, the mujahadeen would continue the fight on Afghan soil.

Mr. Sayyaf rejected an alliance with the other, more moderate resistance groups, whose leaders, he said, "represent only themselves." He admitted there had been fighting recently between different factions of the resistance, but that good relations were now reestablished.

MINISTRY OFFICIAL CITES 'BETTER SECURITY'

LD231556 Kabul BAKHTAR in English 0429 GMT 22 Dec 82

[Text] Kabul, Dec 22, BAKHTAR -- Better security prevails today all over Afghanistan and the ground is paved for peaceful living conditions every day due to the revolutionary efforts and vigilance of the security forces and the Army of the DRA with honest cooperation of the noble people of Afghanistan, said Mohammad Faruq, general president of political affairs of the Interior Ministry to BIA correspondent.

He said that our police force is fully staffed and equipped with the most up to date weapons and other combat equipments.

Faruq added that in Badakhshan, Laghman, Nangarhar, Kandahar, Herat, Kunduz and Faryab Provinces considerable victories have been achieved in crushing the counterrevolutionaries.

MIDDLE EAST AND SOUTH ASIA REVIEW

1 DECEMBER 1982

Egypt

Tabah Protest -- Foreign Minister Kamal Hasan 'Ali sent an urgent message to the Israeli Government protesting the deterioration of the situation in the disputed Tabah area and informing the Israelis that Egypt reserves the right to take any legal measures deemed suitable to protect its rights in Tabah. The message, which was carried by MENA, accused Israel of further violating the agreement of 25 April 1982 by introducing military and police personnel into the area. Describing this development as a new link in a chain of violations of that agreement, the message reiterated Egypt's contention that Israel blatantly violated the April agreement when it sanctioned the opening of a new hotel in Tabah.

Mubarak in India -- The Nonaligned Movement should draw up a new system to guarantee the security of its member states, President Husni Mubarak declared in a New Delhi banquet speech transmitted by MENA. Mubarak called for an end to the Iran-Iraq war and also said the current "golden opportunity" to embark on an Arab-Israeli peace settlement must not be missed. The Palestinian people should be allowed to participate in the peace process, provided that the objective is to find a new pattern of coexistence and harmony, Mubarak said. The Egyptian-French plan, President Ronald Reagan's initiative and the Fes declaration are all "tributary streams that flow into the same river," the Egyptian leader added.

Lebanon

Military, Security Situation -- The Al-Biqa' Valley cease-fire was violated on 30 November when shells were fired from the Syrian-controlled area at IDF positions, Jerusalem radio reported citing the IDF spokesman. No one was hurt and the IDF returned fire. Noting the possibility of a new war with the Syrians in Al-Biqa', the radio said Syria is maintaining 1,100 tanks in Lebanon. The radio also reported that the IDF has completed its Lebanon deployment for the winter. Citing "informed sources," Jerusalem television said hundreds of "terrorists" have recently returned to Beirut to reestablish a political and military infrastructure there.

Reporting on the Ash-Shuf situation, Beirut radio said that gunfire and explosions were heard in 'Alayh and that armed men seized and occupied the government house in Bayt ad-Din. The Progressive Socialist Party claimed that Christian militia were responsible for the Bayt ad-Din incident, AFP reported.

Al-Jumayyil Remarks -- President Amin al-Jumayyil told Lebanese newspaper editors in a 29 November interview reported by Beirut radio that Lebanon is not prepared to discuss the Israeli proposal to make Jerusalem a venue for Israeli-Lebanese negotiations. Asserting that Israel's continual changes in its demands are making things impossible, Al-Jumayyil said that unless the Israelis submit their conditions in "clear and final form," the Lebanese Government will hold no further talks. He also accused the Israelis, Syrians and Palestinians of being "difficult" and of being in no hurry to leave. Each side adheres to slogans to perpetuate its presence in Lebanon, Al-Jumayyil said. Regarding the Ash-Shuf situation, he claimed "a certain party" has fired at both Druze and Christians and is encouraging both sides to arm themselves. The president deplored "fifth columns" who tamper with Lebanese public opinion and make statements that are overwhelmingly emotional and lacking in objectivity.

Christian Leader in Israel -- The leader of the Christian "Guardians of the Cedars" organization arrived in Israel to meet with Prime Minister Menahem Begin and other Israeli officials, IDF radio reported.

These factors are Israel's withdrawal from all occupied Arab territories and recognition of Palestinian rights and the PLO, Qaddumi said.

U.S. CLAIM OF CHEMICAL WEAPONS USE REJECTED

LD010616 Kabul BAKHTAR in English 0432 GMT 1 Dec 82

["Commentary by BAKHTAR" -- BAKHTAR headline]

[Text] Kabul, Nov 30 BAKHTAR -- The authorities in Washington have once again resorted to an old and filthy accusation against the Democratic Republic of Afghanistan and the Soviet Union. The U.S. State Department yesterday published a report supposedly proving that the Soviet Union has allegedly used chemical weapons in Southeast Asia and Afghanistan.

This is not the first time that the USA makes such a false accusation against the DRA and the Soviet Union.

Particularly in the past two years the United States of America has made tremendous efforts to make this very false accusation appear as true and has made this false accusation occasionally here and there. But as the very fine proverb of our people say: The dry clay will not stick to the wall.

The falsehood of this accusation appears from the report itself. The authorities in Washington, without being able to present the smallest document or evidences have relied merely on the words of unknown witness and criminal counter-revolutionary bands of Afghanistan.

Could there be anything more baseless and false than these documents? This accusation is so ridiculous that even the bourgeois press of the USA were compelled to admit that the authorities in Washington did not have any reasonable document to prove this claim.

Our people say, take him before he takes you.

Is it not the U.S. imperialism itself that has put chemical weapons at the disposal of Afghanistan's criminal counter-revolutionaries for use in mass murder of civilian people? Has anybody forgotten the dangerous S.C. type of chemical weapons made in the USA, being discovered from the counter-revolutionaries of Afghanistan in Herat? Do the world peoples not remember that it was the U.S. imperialism which dropped hundreds of thousands tons of chemical bombs on the innocent people of Vietnam which resulted to the bareness of thousands of hectares of land and that still there are thousands of crippled births in Vietnam? Is the world people unaware that the puppet regime of El Salvador, the henchmen of the U.S. imperialism, is using right now the most lethal chemical weapons made in the USA against the patriotic forces of that country?

Washington wishes so wickedly to justify this filthy lie as truth that it even does not pay heed to the results of the factfinding mission of the UN team in this regard.

The UN team spent several weeks in Peshawar last year and at the end of its mission announced that not the slightest evidence had been obtained concerning the use of chemical weapons by the Soviet Union in Afghanistan.

The time chosen for the publication of this report is not accidental either. In a few days the 98th session of the U.S. Congress will begin. The Reagan administration tries on the one hand to convince the congressmen by publishing such false reports when they discuss the question of allocation of hundreds of millions of dollars for the increased production of chemical and biological weapons and on the other hand to justify itself as right in the minds of the world people especially the U.S. people.

The world people know that the United States of America, contrary to the international ban of production and storing of chemical and biological weapons, under the umbrella of such false reports, has madly increased production and storage of chemical and biological weapons.

In fact Washington via such false accusations against the Soviet Union tries to hide the fact that Washington itself is the greatest producer, accumulator and user of biological and chemical weapons. As confessed by the press of the United States, over 150,000 tons of chemical bombs have been stored in the USA right now.

Now, the United States has stored over three millions of cannon shells, mines and aerial bombs containing dangerous chemical and poisonous materials in Johnston in the Pacific Ocean and in its bases in West Germany.

According to the plan published by the U.S.A., it will spend over 6000 million dollars for the production of chemical weapons and other mass murder weapons during the next five years. The construction of a big factory for producing chemical weapons and other mass murder weapons in the state of Arkansas cannot be covered from the eyes of anybody.

As admitted by the U.S. Ministry of Defence, the U.S. plans to place the U.S.-made chemical weapons in its bases in England.

Washington daily reported that the U.S.A. would equip its cruise rockets deployed in Western Europe with war heads containing lethal chemical materials. The exposing of the activities of the so-called American Institute of Malaria Research in Lahore have in fact exposed the plans of U.S. imperialism and as admitted by experts working in this institute under the cover of researching Malaria in reality that institute is producing biological and bacteriological weapons.

All these facts and confessions prove who is resorting to the unforgiveable use of biological and bacteriological chemical weapons; who is spending thousands of millions of dollars for producing war materials and weapons for massive killings, and who has committed the crime causing such lethal weapons. The facts show that it is the United States.

The DRA is firmly rejecting the false and slanderous accusations fabricated by USA aiming at defaming the DRA and the Soviet Union. The Afghan people are well acquainted with the nature of such false accusations from long ago and refute them.

Report on 30 Nov Banquet

BK010355 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0240 GMT 1 Dec 82

[Text] India and Egypt have stressed the need for a just and comprehensive solution to the West Asian problem. President Zail Singh and President Mubarak of Egypt have said that the settlement to the problem should be found as early as possible involving all parties concerned, including the Palestinians. They were speaking at a banquet hosted by Zail Singh in honor of the visiting Egyptian president in New Delhi last night.

Zail Singh reiterated India's stand that the inalienable rights of the Palestinians for self-determination must be recognized. Expressing concern at the dangerous situation in West Asia, he said there is always a risk of escalation of the conflict unless it is defused early.

President Mubarak welcomed India's support to the Palestinian cause and said it is a testimony of the solidarity and unity of purpose between India and Egypt. He condemned Israel for its recent actions in Lebanon and demanded immediate withdrawal of their [as heard] forces from the area. Mubarak said the Nonaligned Movement can play a vital role in lessening the world tension. As founders of the Nonaligend Movement, India and Egypt, he said, can effectively contribute to world peace and security.

Mubarak will have talks with the prime minister, Mrs Gandhi, today. The external affairs minister, Narasimha Rao, will also call on him. The Egyptian president's discussions with Indian leaders will be wide-ranging. Besides political issues, cooperation in economic and other areas are also expected to figure in the discussions.

Text of Mubarak Speech

NC301759 Cairo MENA in Arabic 1735 GMT 30 Nov 82

[Text] New Delhi, 30 Nov (MENA) -- President Muhammad Husni Mubarak has announced that Egypt and India together established the Nonaligned Movement as an enlightened force for peace and security in a world beset by tribulation. The two states also have called for the establishment of a new economic system based on justice and equality. The Nonaligned Movement alone is qualified to play a vital role for the welfare of mankind.

In a speech delivered at a banquet held in his honor by Indian President Zail Singh tonight, President Mubarak said imperative is the need to set up an effective system for resolving disputes within the Nonaligned Movement. He called for ending the futile war between Iran and Iraq, saying the security of the Gulf area and West Asia is a matter that has our great attention.

The president pointed out that all peace-loving states have adopted a firm stand against the Israeli invasion of Lebanon and the horrors that resulted from it. He called for the immediate withdrawal of the Israeli forces from Lebanon.

The president said the regrettable events in Lebanon have reaffirmed that the Palestinian problem is the basis of the conflict and that it is the only key to a comprehensive settlement. He added that there is a golden opportunity, which should not be missed, to embark on a new dynamic move for peace. An opportunity must be given to all parties concerned, including the Palestinian people, to participate in the peace process.

He said the framework of peace in the Middle East became stronger when the Egyptian-French draft resolution, the Reagan plan and the Fes declaration were put forward.

The text of the president's speech:

President Singh, dear friends: I would like to express my thanks for the friendly reception and sincere hospitality you have accorded us. Every Egyptian has the same profound feeling toward the Indian nation and its inspired leadership, as you have shown toward the Egyptian people.

For centuries, a sacred task has been placed on the shoulders of India and Egypt -- a task that has gone beyond their political boundaries. Foremost and most important has been the task of establishing great civilizations on the basis of science and knowledge.

Our philosophy has defined exquisite criteria for human conduct when it emphasized the spiritual values and moral rules and when we took it upon ourselves to build bridges of friendship and cooperation among nations.

The peoples of our two countries had faced, in the not too distant past, the same challenges with vitality and resolve. We have struggled against imperialism and foreign domination. The 1919 revolution in Egypt received its strongest support from Gandhi's struggle. Once again, the 1952 revolution found a natural ally in the Indian movement under Nehru. All this did not take place by chance.

Together we have established the Nonaligned Movement as an enlightened force for peace and security in a world where disturbances prevail. We have done this not only as a reaction to the world situation but basically to achieve a joint goal, namely, to provide a better world for all nations.

Together we have called for the establishment of a new economic order built on justice and equality. The developing countries have suffered a great deal from exploitation and the time has come for the establishment of a just system that will guarantee our rights to improve the living conditions of the struggling masses in our countries.

Our joint heritage does not remain in the past; it is being profoundly expressed in the present. The challenges are still here although perhaps in different forms. However, our resolve still exists -- the resolve to stand together until we reach our goals and attain our dreams. No obstacles will stand in our way and no impediments will dissuade us from our resolve.

President Singh, today the world is passing through a period of crises and increasing tension. Moreover, what is being spent on armaments and the instruments of destruction far exceeds the sums allocated for development. The efforts exerted to limit and supervise weapons up to now have had no tangible results.

The Nonaligned Movement alone is qualified to play a vital role for the good of humanity. It should draw up a new system to guarantee the security of its member states. It also can introduce more vitality in the arms reduction talks and lessen tension among blocs. Foreign interference must be confronted so as to guarantee security and independence for our countries.

The North-South dialogue up to now has not had the results we had hoped it would achieve. We must concentrate our attention on dialogue among the South's states. We can reap a great deal from the establishment of a new partnership for exchanging technology and scientific information. And if we collect our resources and coordinate our efforts for the sake of development, we can reach new dimensions in our movement aimed at achieving economic security and prosperity.

Establishing an effective system for solving disputes inside our movement is imperative. Seeing differences among the member states turn into armed conflicts that do not serve any purpose is unacceptable.

We demand the ending of the futile war between Iraq and Iran because no one will benefit from the continuation of the war and the escalation of destruction. The security of the Gulf area and West Asia has our highest attention.

The peace-loving states have adopted a firm stand against the Israeli invasion of Lebanon and the horrors that resulted from it. We cannot allow this flagrant violation of the sovereignty and unity of the territory of a small state that seeks to live in peace and security, nor can we allow absolute force to destroy a system that we have set up on the basis of law and legitimacy. The Israeli forces immediately must withdraw from Lebanon. Peace cannot be achieved under military occupation and domination and it must be a true reflection of the popular will.

The regrettable events in Lebanon have confirmed what we have always advocated, namely, that the Palestinian problem is the basis of the whole conflict and, therefore, it is the only key to a comprehensive settlement. We believe there is a golden opportunity to embark on a new dynamic move for peace. An opportunity must be given to all parties concerned, including the Palestinian people, to participate in the peace process, provided that the objective is to find a new pattern for coexistence and harmony. This requires the two parties to accept the principle of reciprocal and and simultaneous recognition. No state can deny another state's rights to self-determination and dignity. The continuation of the present situation is absolutely unacceptable.

Several initiatives recently were made with a view to facilitating movement toward peace and strengthening the framework of peace in the Middle East when the Egyptian-French draft resolution, the Reagan plan and the Fes declaration were put forward. All of these are tributary streams that flow into the same river. This opportunity should not be missed. Our areas' history is replete with missed opportunities.

The stand you have adopted in support of the Palestinian people's rights is received with appreciation by every Egyptian and it is proof of our true solidarity and unity of goals.

Dear friends, it pleases me to attend this banquet held by President Singh. I look forward to the discussions we will hold tomorrow with the prime minister and her colleagues. We will seize the opportunity to increase our cooperation in all fields.

I ask you to stand to greet President Singh, Prime Minister Mrs Indira Gandhi, all friends present here tonight and all the Indian people -- a greeting to the friendship that is constantly growing between the peoples of our two countries.

Mrs Gandhi said this during her meeting with the chief editors of Egyptian newspapers on the occasion of President Muhammad Husni Mubarak's visit to India, which began today.

Replying to a question on the proposed solutions to the Middle East issue, Mrs Gandhi said what is important is the reaction of the parties concerned. She said: We are interested in peace but we are not happy with what is going on, especially after the deterioration of the situation, particularly in Lebanon.

The Indian prime minister emphasized her support for the Palestinians' right to a homeland. Replying to a question as to whether the Nonaligned Movement is going to do anything or present an initiative on the Middle East issue, Mrs Gandhi said she does not believe so. She added that the U.S. and Israeli stand on this particular issue is a very important one.

Asked whether the Soviet Union can play a role in resolving the issue, she replied in the negative. She said the Soviet Union cannot influence Israel. To a question about the identity of views between French President Mitterrand and President Mubarak and their opinions on the Middle East problem, Mrs Gandhi replied: Everyone wants peace in the area and a national homeland for the Palestinians.

Replying to a question about her last meeting with PLO Chairman Yasir 'Arafat, the Indian prime minister said 'Arafat is a reasonable man and his views are reasonable but the problem lies with the Palestinian extremists and whether he can convince them.

Regarding U.S. President Reagan's initiative, Mrs Gandhi said it depends on the extent of the parties' acceptance of this initiative and, specifically, on Israel's stand.

Asked her opinion about the Iraqi-Iranian war and whether the Nonaligned Movement can play a role in halting it, Mrs Gandhi said she does not see any sign of this at present and that she does not believe the Nonaligned Movement will be able to do much.

LEADERS' MESSAGES TO INTERNATIONAL MEETING

BK290449 Karachi Domestic Service in English 1700 GMT 28 Nov 82

[Text] President Gen Mohammad Ziaul Haq has said Pakistan's policies are geared toward creating an environment conducive to durable peace and security in the region. He said this in a message to the 3-day international conference on the strategy for peace and security in South Asia which opened in Islamabad today. The conference, the first of its kind, is being attended by distinguished scholars, experts and analysts from Pakistan and 14 other countries, that is, Bangladesh, Bhutan, Britain, China, the Federal Republic of Germany, India, Indonesia, Japan, Malaysia, Maldives, Nepal, Sri Lanka, the Soviet Union and the United States.

The president in his message said the conference comes at a time when the problem of peace and security in our region has acquired an impelling sense of urgency for the international community. The president said Pakistan's strategic and geopolitical location at the crossroads of South Asia, Central Asia and West Asia places it in a pivotal position to contribute toward stability of the region. We are actually aware of the immense responsibilities such a position carries. It is only in an environment of durable peace and security that the Third World countries can devote their full attention to their economic development and to the improvement of the quality of life of their people. He said we cannot afford the luxury of war; our struggle is against hunger, poverty and disease.

Foreign Minister Sahabzada Yaqub Khan in his message to the conference said the countries of South Asia face an enormous challenge in the economic and social fields. With a combined population of nearly 1 billion, the task of providing basic necessities like food, shelter, health and education takes on staggering dimensions. He said to enable the countries of South Asia to harness all their energies and resources to meet this challenge, peace and security in the region become a pressing need. It is fitting, therefore, that distinguished scholars from all over the world should address themselves to this vital issue.

He said recent developments in West Asia have created conditions of acute instability stretching from the Mediterranean coast to Afghanistan. An urgent responsibility now develops upon policy makers of South Asia to prevent this instability from spreading to our region. The foreign minister said he was confident that the conference will contribute significantly toward the promotion of peace and security in our region.

Former Foreign Minister Agha Shahi, addressing the conference, expressed the opinion that the principles of nonalignment and peaceful coexistence to which the South Asian countries are committed provide a basis for the viable strategy of peace and security in the region. Agha Shahi said President Mohammad Ziaul Haq's meeting in Moscow with Soviet Communist Party General Secretary Yuriy Andropov had reinforced the hope of serious negotiations in the near future for a political settlement of the Afghanistan problem.

Conference Statement Cited

[Text] The first international conference on the strategy for peace and security in South Asia ended in Islamabad this evening with a call to the South Asian countries to consider ways of increasing cooperation with each other.

A joint statement issued at the end of the 3-day conference said the participants welcomed the increasing contacts between Pakistan and India. They also welcomed the proposed creation of a joint Pakistan-India commission and said that more such meetings of specialists in suitable fields should be encouraged.

The statement said considering the wide range of national perceptions in the South Asian region, there emerged a considerable understanding of each other's view. Participants said that the peace and security of South Asia is the responsibility of the states of the region themselves and its maintenance and promotion required faithful observance of the principles of peaceful coexistence. The participants agreed that through better mutual understanding, the states of the region could also strengthen an environment free of outside intervention or interference in the internal affairs of any of the countries of the region. It was suggested that the policy of nonalignment provides a framework conducive to the avoidance of outside involvement in the peace and security of the region.

The participants urged the South Asian nations to consider ways of increasing cooperation with each other and suggested that this could reduce the expenditure on an intraregional arms race and lead to solution of other outstanding regional problems. The participants welcomed the increasing cooperation among the South Asian countries in the fields of science, technology, educational exchanges, commerce, tourism and culture and said there was room for increased regional cooperation among them. They reaffirmed their commitment to the principles of self-determination and the ideals of the United Nations Charter. They expressed their warm appreciation to the initiative taken by Pakistani scholars in convening the conference and said that this conference should be followed by other conferences to be held in different South Asian countries to consolidate and promote the understanding generated by this pioneering venture.

The conference was cosponsored by the Pakistan Institute of Strategic Studies and the Area Study Center of the Qaid-i-Azam University, Islamabad. Besides Pakistan, distinguished scholars, analysts and researchers from 11 countries, namely, Bangladesh, India, Nepal, Sri Lanka, China, Indonesia, Japan, Britain, the United States and the Soviet Union and Federal Germany took part in the conference.

PREMADASA DISCLOSES OPPOSITION'S CONSPIRACY PLANS

BK271205 Colombo International Service in English 1045 GMT 27 Nov 82

[Text] Prime Minister R. Premadasa made further disclosures in parliament yesterday of plans, he claimed, had been made by a section of the opposition to unleash waves of violence on two occasions in the past 2 years. The first occasion was 15 October 1980, the day preceding that on which parliament resorted to strip Mrs Sirimavo Bandaranaike of her civic rights. The next was 21 October this year, the day following this country's first presidential election.

Premadasa commenced his address with a reference of the special report of the parliamentary select committee to examine the events of October 1980, described by the prime minister as a conspiracy to commit acts of violence against the state. He said the conspiracy involved the execution of acts of violence in retaliation for the action proposed to have been taken by parliament the next day, October 16, 1980, to deprive Mrs Bandaranaike of her civic rights. The conspiracy was unmasked by the publication of a letter by Maitripala Senanayake in August last year in the newspaper, DAILY MIRROR.

Premadasa then explained the situation that had prevailed immediately before the election and plans for violence on election day and the two subsequent days. He had also detailed information gathered since then. He said a thousand politically related incidents have occurred between the nomination day and the election. This included murder and unlawful assembly. Investigations made after the declaration of emergency had resulted in the discovery that certain groups had stockpiled large quantities of explosives, guns and ammunitions. Investigations had also disclosed a plot to assassinate the president and stage widespread violence immediately after the first count of the presidential election was over and if a second count was deemed necessary or the Sri Lanka Freedom Party candidate had won.

The prime minister then read a statement from the secretary, Ministry of Defense on the conspiracy to unleash violence during and after the presidential election.

GUARDS CORPS COMMANDER COMMENTS ON IRAQI LOSSES

LD291158 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 29 Nov 82

[Text] Mohsen Reza'i, commander of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, attended a press conference this morning and answered foreign and home correspondents' questions concerning the war, the Quds Reserve Battalions, terrorism and the role of the Guards Corps in the future of the Islamic revolution.

According to a Central News Unit correspondent's report, the commander of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps estimated the military losses suffered by the Zionist regime of Iraq. He said: The minimum amount of equipment losses suffered by the Ba'thist regime of Iraq in its imposed war against the Islamic revolution is $30 billion. This includes the loss of 5,500 tanks and personnel carriers, 400 artillery, a large number of antiaircraft guns and considerable ammunition. On the number of casualties, he said: So far we have taken approximately 50,000 POW's and the Iraqi 9th Division has been completely destroyed.

Commenting on the situation at the fronts, the commander of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps said: Our forces currently are enjoying superiority on all fronts. For example, Iraq yesterday launched a counteroffensive using three brigades and two tank battalions, but later retreated suffering numerous casualties. In fact, Iraq is suffering most of its casualties in these counteroffensives.

Commenting on the regions that would be made available to the Muslim Iraq revolutionaries as their bases, the commander of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps said: At the moment, those bases are located inside Iranian territory, but as soon as some regions are liberated which could strategically accept and receive the Iraqi mojahedin, they will be transferred immediately.

On the formation of the Quds Reserve Battaltions, Reza'i said: This is a very good idea because the aim behind it is to strengthen the army. These battalions will be formed from former conscripts. Another reason for the formation of these battalions is the existence of numerous volunteers. We haven't needed to call up the existing reserves.

Commenting on the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps' liberation movements unit, Reza'i said: This unit originally was formed as a result of encouragement given by His Eminence Ayatollah Montazeri and the efforts of Martyr Mohammad Montazeri. Its basic task is cultural activity; this unit has no intention of armed activities in foreign countries, except in Iraq and Israel. If we could introduce Islamic culture and the Islamic revolution throughout the world, then there would be no need for armed activities.

Referring to the fact that the Constitition separates the Guards Corps' tasks from those carried out by the armed forces, the commander of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps said: In just the same way that the Defense Ministry is responsible for logistics and supply of the armed forces so too the Corps Ministry has been formed on the same lines, pursuing the same aims.

Commenting on the Guards Corps troops in Lebanon, the commander of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps said: Initially, our forces went to Lebanon with the aim of fighting Zionism along with the troops of other Islamic countries. However, as a result of the refusal by other countries to participate in the war, our forces' task currently is limited to publicity and training and they do not interfere in Lebanon's internal affairs.

LD301844 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 30 Nov 82

[Communique No 1,138 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. During the past 24 hours, exchanges of artillery fire continued in the western operational sector. Our heroic combatants, defending their own positions and returning enemy fire, destroyed Saddamist forces' fortifications and positions.

According to a report, the aggressive enemy, backed by artillery fire and air support, launched operations against our combatants in the Marivan sector. These recent operations were aimed at capturing our positions. The Saddamist forces, however, were soundly defeated. After 4 hours of clashes, the combatants of Islam forced the enemy to retreat. In addition to the considerable supply losses suffered by the Iraqi units, 54 enemy troops were killed and 32 were wounded.

Exchanges of artillery and mortar fire continued yesterday in the Paveh and Qasr-e Shirin regions. Our forces enjoyed superior firepower. Thanks to their fire, one enemy mortar was destroyed and several bunkers were set ablaze.

During exchanges of fire in the southern operational sector, our combat forces pounded enemy positions on the other side of Arvand Rud with heavy artillery. As a result, enemy movements were halted, engineering activities of the Iraqi military personnel were disrupted and seven trenches and foxholes and three machinegun emplacements were destroyed, as were the troops deployed in them.

In the Moharram operational sector, our forces observed and limited activities of the enemy infantry and armored units. Our forces defended the regions under their protection with full superiority and control.

[Signed] The Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran

Meanwhile, the Iraqi positions beyond the Arvand River were subjected to the fire of the Iranian troops which pounded nine enemy bunkers, two machine gun positions and two lookout posts over the past 24 hours.

The Islamic forces halted the Iraqi vehicles movements on the Faw-Basra logistical route and checked the enemy's movements and canal digging operations in the Umm ar-Rasas region inside Iraq during the afore-mentioned time.

COMMENTARY ON 'VOLUNTEERS' PRESENCE IN LEBANON

GF270734 Tehran International Service in Arabic 1730 GMT 26 Nov 82

[Unattributed commentary]

[Text] The Lebanese Government has taken advantage of the Ba'labakk incident to demand ejection of the Iranian volunteers sent by the Islamic Republic of Iran to Lebanon to defend the independence and the dignity of this country. Here we have vast differences. Lebanon -- which became an arena for U.S., French and Italian troops in addition to the Israeli invasion forces, and which receives every day a new group of U.S. and French troops -- has become subject for the frivolous behavior of all aggressors who spread corruption in its territories and kill and destroy without consideration for the sanctity of this people and this afflicted country. Lebanon -- which has become a camp for imperialist forces and whose territories have become an abode for spies and agents of various nationalities and inclinations -- needs somebody to protect it and to stand up to the Israeli aggressors.

The presence of the volunteers from the Islamic Republic of Iran is designed only to protect the Lebanese people against the invaders. It could be that Israel currently is thinking of perpetrating another massacre in another place by exploiting the absence of full protection for the Lebanese and Palestinian peoples. This massacre may be similar to the massacres of Sabra and Shatila. Leaving the arena for Israel is an unforgiveable sin. Moreover, leaving the Lebanese people without full protection is another sin against this people.

Thus, the Iranian volunteers decided to remain in Lebanon to prevent any Israeli aggression in the Al-Biqa' region and to protect the oppressed people in the Al-Uirmil region and its vicinity. The [volunteers] entered Lebanon only to confront the Israeli aggression. They will not remain there unless strongly asked to do so by the Lebanese citizens who have regarded these forces as a sincere force that can be counted on at critical times. These forces did not go to Lebanon to become Lebanese nationals and remain there indefinitely [words indistinct] and with the end of we will leave Lebanon quickly.

This is the stand of the Islamic Republic of Iran, and as announced by President 'Ali Khamene'i, this is a firm stand based on the will of the Al-Biqa' masses who received the envoys of the Islamic Republic of Iran with [word indistinct].

As for the stand of the Lebanese Government, which is demanding the withdrawal of these troops, it is an illogical position that does not agree with the actual situation nor with the hard times which the Lebanese territories are experiencing. With the presence of the Israeli troops in Lebanon, the Lebanese Government has no right to demand that the Iranian volunteers leave the country. Israel must be given priority attention and before demanding anything else, the Lebanese Government must demand the ejection of the Israeli aggressive forces, which invaded the land of Lebanon and caused damage and destruction. Afterwards, the Lebanese Government must demand the withdrawal of the U.S., French and Italian troops from the country. The troops that arrived in Lebanon to protect its people and defend its dignity will not leave the country as long as there are Israeli and U.S. troops present. Although these forces are few in number and do not have much equipment, they actually succeeded in balancing the power against the big U.S. and Israeli armies.

As for the Ba'labakk incident, all reports indicate that this incident was carried out by the oppressed masses who reject the Phalangist hegemony in Lebanon and who had no other way to express themselves but to demonstrate on national day by attacking government departments, tearing up photos of Amin al-Jumayyil and pulling Phalangist slogans off the walls. As for displaying the photos of the leader imam during this demonstration, this doesn't imply that the demonstrators are Iranians. This implies that the imam is the pioneer of all divine revolution. He is the defender of all the oppressed. He is in the heart of every Muslim human being. Displaying his photos and expressing support for his wise leadership does not mean that those who took part in the aggression were Iranians. This fact has to be grasped by the Lebanese Government before it makes charges against the Islamic Republic, and this government has to understand another fact: The envoys of the Islamic Republic of Iran came to Lebanon to confront the Israeli aggression and not to demonstrate or-shout slogans or display photos. They will remain as long as the Israeli aggression continues and as long as the souls of thousands of the children of Lebanon are subject to threats of death by the knife of the Israeli grudge.

INDIAN PETROLEUM OFFICIAL DEPARTS 29 NOVEMBER

LD291438 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 29 Nov 82

[Text] According to the Central News Unit, the Indian deputy minister for petroleum left Tehran this morning at the end of a 6-day visit during which he held talks with our country's economic and industrial officials.

Before leaving Tehran, the Indian deputy minister for petroleum told our correspondent that during his stay in Iran and his talks with our country's officials, the two sides arrived at a number of fruitful agreements on economic and industrial exchange and on the exchange of technical and industrial manpower experts. He said: We hope that in the near future we can transform these agreements into action and thus take a positive step toward the desire of both nations for self-sufficiency and independence.

The correspondent also talked to our country's deputy minister for petroleum. He was asked to elaborate on the results of his Indian counterpart's visit to Iran. We draw your attention to this interview:

[Begin recording] [Question] Would you please tell us about the results of the talks with the Indian deputy minister for petroleum?

[Answer] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. We don't see India as only a good customer, but as a good friend. The agreement we signed this time for the sale of crude to India is for the same amount as last year, that is, about 3.4 million tons. We also had other discussions concerning Iran's current investments in India and the Indian Government's investments in Iran before the revolution. We arrived at some conclusions, the ratification of which depends on officials at higher levels. After their approval, we will announce how far we will go with our investment in India and what will happen to the agreement reached between the two countries before the revolution on the extent of Indian participation in exploration and exploitation in the Persian Gulf. During the meeting, Khamene'i, welcoming the establishment of relations between the two countries, said: As a mark of profound Islamic ties and because of the issues of interest to the two states of Iran and Comoros, it is appropriate that these relations should be established. Our country's president, referring to Iraq's imposed war on Iran, said: If we are inclined toward punishing Saddam, it is not simply for our own benefit, but in the interests of the region. If this aggressor is not punished tomorrow, he or any other person would permit himself to commit aggression against and impose a war on any other country.

MUSAVI MEETS WITH NEW ZEALAND, SFRY OFFICIALS

LD011056 Tehran IRNA in English 0910 GMT 1 Dec 82

[Text] Tehran, Dec. 1 (IRNA) -- The New Zealand minister of foreign affairs and trade for overseas, Warren Cooper said on Tuesday that contrary to the reports of imperialist news media, he found life in Iran normal.

He was talking to Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi. While discussing matters of mutual interest, Cooper said his stay in Iran was useful and he will convey facts to his nation. In that meeting, also attended by Foreign Minister 'Ali Akbar Velayati, Musavi appreciated New Zealand's refusal to take part in the economic sanctions against Iran. The sanctions call came from the U.S. in 1979 when the Iran students put a halt to the activities of the U.S. den of espionage.

In another meeting yesterday, with the visiting Yugoslav mission, Musavi explained Iran's policy of wanting to have close ties with the Third World countries and the Non-aligned Movement to sever dominance of the superpowers.

The Yugoslav delegation headed by the president of the Economic Council, Nedeluko Mandic arrived here early this week. Minister of economic affairs and finance, Hoseyn Namazi and Iranian ambassador in Yugoslavia, Mahmud Ahmadzadeh were also present in the meeting.

MONTAZERI ON SUPPORTING LIBERATION MOVEMENTS

LD262314 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 26 Nov 82

[Text] Mohsen Reza'i, commander of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, and Ratiqdust, minister of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, accompanied by the supervisor of the liberation movements unit, were received by Ayatollah Montazeri in Qom today. According to the Central News Unit, they briefed the ayatollah on latest developments in the battlefield and on the activities of the corps' liberation movements unit in identifying and supporting Islamic liberation movements.

Expressing his appreciation for these efforts, Ayatollah Montazeri said: In the post-revolution era the deprived and oppressed peoples as well as liberation movements throughout the world have demonstrated extraordinary predilection and attention for the Islamic revolution and the secret of its success, crystalized in the leadership and the path of the imam of the nation.

In view of this, nonetheless, this need is not adequately met, despite the need for an insitution to identify and support, both psychologically and financially, such movements. This failure is due to the fact that the officials concerned were, unfortunately, preoccupied with the affairs of the state.

While commending the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps for supporting liberation movements within the scope of its limits, Ayatollah Montazeri pointed out that matters related to movements should be dealt with under the supervision and guidance of the committed clergy, cooperation of the corps and through establishing coordination with the Foreign Ministry. We then asked the supervision of the liberation movements unit to draw up a plan and a draft constitution by consulting the representatives of the corps and the Foreign Ministry to organize the liberation movements unit and then advise him accordingly. He also asked him to take over the responsibility for the unit's ethnical and cultural matters and for the proper supervision of its affairs within the context of Islam until a final decision is made by the Majlis.

CLANDESTINE REPORTS 273 ARMY OFFICERS ARRESTED

GF281830 (Clandestine) Free Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1500 GMT 28 Nov 82

[Text] The antinationalist so-called Islamic regime has arrested 273 officers of the Iranian army. According to a report by our correspondent, this is a new plot by the regime against Iranian nationalists. The order for the arrest of this group of officers was issued secretly by the executioner of the unjust army courts, Reyshahri, who labeled it "top secret and immediate."

Our correspondent, quoting very reliable sources, adds: The secret order has been issued for the arrest of Iranian army officers under the false allegation of contact with the Tudeh Party. The Iranian Tudeh Party -- whose main figures, Nureddin Kianuri and Ehsan Tabari, have escaped -- has been the target of the anger of the Islamic Republic regime for some time.

An earlier report had publicized the arrest of Ehsan Tabari in Rasht. He is the theoretician of the communist Tudeh Party and until lately was the author of the program "World in Revolution" for the propaganda machinery of the so-called Islamic regime of Khomeyni.

According to our reporter, the regime lately has intensified its waves of arrest and suppression and has been attributing this to two groups, Baha'is and Tudeh Party. According to the same report, irrespective of the silence maintained by the antinationalist regime of the mullahs, this report concerning the arrest of 273 officers of the Iranian army is completely accurate. This is being carried out as part of the plot for the destruction of the army and its replacement with a corps of mercenaries.

NVOI ON LACK OF FREEDOM FOR REVOLUTIONARY FORCES

TA231526 (Clandestine) National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1730 GMT 22 Nov 82

[Unattributed commentary: "Testing the Tested Is a Mistake"]

[Excerpts] Dear compatriots: Without respect for the political freedoms of individuals, parties and revolutionary organizations committed to the Islamic Republic of Iran, whether doctrinaire or nondoctrinaire, attaining complete independence and establishing social justice are not possible. This is a fact that all acknowledge.

Unfortunately, the Islamic leadership has not had any success in connection with the establishment of the rule of law and observance of the legitimate freedoms of revolutionary parties and organizations faithful to the imam's and the revolution's genuine line. On the contrary, the politically narrowminded, the superficials, the monopolists and the masked and unmasked foes of the revolution and the imam's line, by ignoring the law, by monopolism and by taking away the possibility of any sort of expression of opinion from the revolutionary dissenting forces loyal to the imam's and the revolution's line, have had considerable success in connection with violating legal standards and nonobservance of the Constitution's principles.

One day in the course of a speech, a Majlis deputy justly said: What renders the revolution vulnerable is not the danger of internal and external counterrevolution, but the manner of operation and ignoring the law's sovereignty.

Recently, here and there, one hears certain statements from some officials, or quotes from them, which are totally contrary to the guidelines of the imam of the nation and all our country's high-ranking officials in connection with the needs to establish the law's sovereignty and respect for the freedoms of revolutionary dissenting parties and organizations. Since lack of respect for the legal freedom of the people and revolutionary dissenting parties and organizations creates a great danger for all true forces of the revolution, we consider it appropriate to once again repeat the views of the leader of the revolution and imam of the nation and all the country's senior officials in this respect.

Unfortunately, despite all these guidelines, confirmations and assurances, there exist certain forces, individuals, trends and wings, even in the upper echelons of the Islamic leadership, who either analyze and interpret these statements and guidelines the way they like on the basis of prejudice and under the impact of previous intimations, or who in general do not feel bound and obliged to implement them.

This manner of action by some officials and government figures is not only worrisome; it is seriously dangerous and calamitous. Independence, freedom and social justice are the basic slogans of our nation's glorious revolution and these three together have a vital and organic link. If henceforth, the political and social freedoms of revolutionary committed parties and organizations, regardless of their philosophical views, come under attack, not only will we not achieve complete independence and social and Islamic justice, but we will lose this very independence that we have gained as well. Experience and history repeatedly have affirmed this fact. If certain persons believe in another experiment, they should be told that testing the tested is a mistake.

NVOI WARNS AGAINST 'STICKING ON LABELS'

TA251959 [Editorial Report] The clandestine National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran at 1730 GMT on 25 November in a commentary entitled: "Sticking Labels Is the Most Basic Political Weapon of the Great Satan and Its Iranian Agents," says: Today even the authorities and government figures of the Islamic Republic confirm that world-devouring America and its Iranian agents and lackeys for many years have been scaring the people with the danger of communism.

Thus, they have been able: first, to some extent, to prevent the people from struggling against them; and second, to deal hard blows to the genuine popular struggles. We have numerous examples in our homeland's contemporary history to confirm this indisputable fact. During the postrevolution period, one cannot show any positive measure by the Islamic leadership that has not been opposed by certain groups such as the hojjatiyeh association, the compromising liberals, the superficials, the monopolists and the pseudo-Muslims. In struggle against this or that positive measure of the Islamic Republic they raised and continue to raise the issue of communism. "The fact is that anticommunism is the most important political and ideological weapon of U.S. imperialism and its agents and mercenaries everywhere, particularly in our revolutionary Iran."

In his famous 4 August interview, Hojjat ol-Eslam Kho'ini in analyzing this fact said: They founded a straw man by the name of communism and by this means they scared every nation and government with this danger. Other government figures and officials of the Islamic Republic also have issued warnings in this connection and have uncovered these ruses by world-devouring America and its agents and mercenaries. They have stated that one should not fall into the trap of the ploys of the great satan and the opponents and foes of the revolution, that one must not fear being labeled and that one should strive to perpetuate and expand the imam's and revolution's popular and anti-imperialist line. The wide spectrum of the foes and opponents of this line has proved its enmity and opposition to the imam's line by resorting thousands of times to sticking on labels. By taking advantage of positions that they occupy in government organizations and the revolution's institutions, on the one hand, they have prevented the approval in the Majlis of fundamental laws to the benefit of the million-strong masses, such as the land reform law. On the other, they have prevented the implementation of laws passed by the Majlis such as the law of nationalization of foreign trade. At the same time, these steadfast foes and opponents of the Islamic Republic, by resorting to those very labels, to pseudo-Islam and blackmail have not been negligent in suppressing the true forces of the revolution and sincere followers of the imam's and revolution's genuine line. Amid such conditions, the duty of every individual, every organization committed to the revolution, particularly the Islamic leadership, is relentless and irreconcilable struggle against this wide spectrum of the foes and opponents of the Islamic Republic.

PLO

Rejection of Jordan, Egypt Contacts -- The Palestinian Popular Struggle Front, the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine-General Command and As-Sa'iqah condemned the formation of a joint Jordanian-Palestinian committee, describing it as "a response to U.S. plans and schemes," Damascus radio reported. They also strongly condemned PLO contacts with the Egyptian Government. Statements by the organizations reportedly stressed that PLO moves toward Jordan and Egypt contradict the policy laid down by the Palestine National Council and the PLO Central Council. According to the radio, Fatah Central Committee member Nimr Salih also denounced the establishment of the Jordanian-Palestinian committee as a step toward implementing U.S. President Ronald Reagan's plan and as a "deviation from the pan-Arab and Palestinian consensus." He emphasized the need to deter all forces which are trying to drag the Palestinian Revolution "into the U.S. trench."

PLO Offices in Jordan, Helsinki -- A committee has been formed under the chairmanship of PLO Deputy Military Commander Khalil al-Wazir to undertake an "important and extensive" reorganization of the PLO offices in Jordan, KUNA reported, citing Palestinian sources. In another development, PDRY leader 'Ali Nasir Muhammad denied reports of a cooling of relations between the PDRY and the Soviet Union and asserted that there are no Soviet military bases in South Yemen. In a statement to Kuwait's AS-SIYASAH reported by KUNA, the PDRY leader affirmed that the only bases the Soviet Union has in the PDRY are its economic and social projects along with the expertise it is offering the country.

[Joint statement issued at end of Foreign Minister Sahibzada Yaqub Khan's visit to Iran 20-22 November -- quotation marks as published]

[Text] Islamabad, Nov 22: Iran and Pakistan have reaffirmed their resolve to expand collaboration in the economic, cultural and technical fields and have stressed the common bonds of religion, culture and history which are the abiding basis of close relations between the two sides.

In a joint communique, issued today, both sides emphasised the need of unity among Muslim countries to meet the challenge from hostile forces.

On Lebanon, both sides strongly condemned criminal aggression in Lebanon by the Zionists and the ruthless massacre of Palestinians in refugee camps. It was the duty of the ummah to see the rights of Palestinians are restored, the communique stressed.

Both Pakistan and Iran noted that the policy of non-alignment was in the best interest of inter-state peace.

The following is the text of the joint statement issued at the end of his visit:

"The Foreign Minister of Pakistan His Excellency Shahibzada Yaqub Khan, paid an official visit in response to an invitation extended by His Excellency Dr. 'Ali Akbar Velayati, the foreign minister of Islamic Republic of Iran, during his visit to Pakistan earlier this year, to the Islamic Republic of Iran from 20th to 22nd November 1982. He was accompanied by a three-member delegation.

The Pakistan foreign minister also called on His Excellency Hojjat ol-Eslam 'Ali Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani, the speaker of the Iranian Majlis, as well as His Excellency Mir-Hoseyn Musavi, the prime minister of the Islamic Republic of Iran.

The Pakistan foreign minister and his delegation held detailed discussions with the Iranian leaders on a number of subjects of mutual interest. This covered bilateral matters as well as regional issues. These talks, which were held in an atmosphere of warm cordiality and deep understanding, revealed a wide degree of identity of views.

The two sides stressed the need for development of unity among all Islamic countries to meet the challenge from anti-Islamic forces.

The two sides strongly condemned the criminal aggression in Lebanon by the Zionists and their supporters and in particular the ruthless massacres in the Palestinian refugee camps in Sabra and Shatila. They stressed that it was the duty of the Islamic ummah not to rest till the inalienable rights of the Palestinian people had been restituted.

The two sides noted with satisfaction that they were both adhering to a policy of non-alignment which was in the best interest of peace and stability. Both were opposed to any foreign intervention in the Persian Gulf region and believed that the security of the Persian Gulf was a matter of exclusive concern for the littoral states.

Both sides stressed the common bonds of religion, culture and history which provided an abiding basis for developing very close relations between the two brother countries.

The two sides reaffirmed their resolve to expand their collaboration in the economic, cultural and technical fields. They were confident that the forthcoming visit of the Iranian commerce minister to Pakistan would provide an important opportunity for enhancing bilateral collaboration in various fields.

The Pakistan foreign minister expressed his deep gratitude to his Iranian counterpart for the warm hospitality extended to him and his delegation throughout their stay in Iran. This was a token of the abiding friendship existing between the two fraternal countries."

The Foreign Minister Sahibzada Yaqub Khan was given a warm send-off by the Iranian foreign minister, Dr. 'Ali Akbar Velayati, when he left Tehran for New York this morning, says a message received from the Iranian capital.

FOREIGN GROUPS AIDING SEPARATISTS TO BE PROBED

BK280835 Hong Kong AFP in English 0755 GMT 28 Nov 82

[Text] Colombo, Nov. 28 (AFP) -- The government is to investigate the activities of two foreign "social service" organisations for possible links with the militant separatist Tamil movement, press reports said today.

The government will inquire into the activities of a Scandinavian-based organisation, indentified as "Red Barna" by THE ISLAND newspaper, which undertakes community development work in eastern Sri Lanka where there is a sizeable minority Tamil population.

Meanwhile, the weekend newspaper alleged that Red Barna was found to be carrying out subtle sabotage against the government's development projects.

The other organisation, named by THE ISLAND as the "Gandhian Movement," is active mainly in northern Sri Lanka, the heartland of the Tamil separatist movement.

The two organisations became the subject of a government probe after Home Affairs Minister K.W. Devanayagam had raised the issue at a high level meeting.

One of the groups involved primarily in rehabilitation work had very close links with the separatist movement, THE WEEKEND reported.

This organisation which is said to be funded by church organisations and from abroad is also believed to have benefited from funds channelled to it by the separatists themselves, the newspaper said.

Several farms run by this organisation had come under close surveillance and had been searched on several occasions by the security forces after it was revealed that they had provided hideouts, supplies and assistance to militants being investigated by the security.

This organisation is also said to have brought down groups from various foreign organisations and given highly biased accounts of alleged suppression of minority groups in order to raise funds abroad, THE WEEKEND said.

The Scandinavian-based organisation is alleged to be directly backed by a militant separatist group, according to THE WEEKEND, and recruits youths only from the north for its projects in the east.

KHOMEYNI CALLS FOR MORE 'PIETY' IN OFFICIALS

LD021210 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 2 Dec 82

[Text] During a meeting at Hoseyniyeh Jamaran this morning, the imam of the nation, referring to the blessings bestowed upon the Iranian nation by Almighty God, graciously said that all major powers of the world and their agents have joined hands from a military and propaganda point of view and they are all working against this oppressed nation that has risen for the sake of God. Nevertheless, God has given a kind of power to this nation that enables it to foil all these conspiracies.

Addressing the Friday imams of Hamadan, the leader of the Islamic revolution emphasized the effects of piety and graciously said: Invite people to be pious. In the first sermon of Friday prayers, it is necessary to invite the people to be pious and, God willing, it will be effective and will continue to bring divine mercy upon our nation.

The imam of the nation also emphasized that piety is necessary for everybody and especially for the officials in charge of the country's affairs. If those who manage affairs lack piety, their behavior will affect the rest of the country and, God forbid, will ruin it.

Referring to the fact that the people's commitment is the main reason for our victory, the hope of the world oppressed commented about the elections for the Council of Experts: You gentlemen should take part in these elections and should also invite the people to participate. Voting for these elections is the same as voting for Islam.

Describing the need for planning and stressing that the clergy should observe various planning programs, the founder of the Islamic Republic graciously said that it would be impossible to administer the country without planning. Those who are experts in political, Islamic and economic issues, should carefully investigate and jointly plan in order to pave the way for the development of the country toward the targets.

Referring to the fact that a group of corrupt individuals have begun muttering because they see that they have lost control of the government and the pious individuals have taken over, the imam of the nation emphasized that today we have a hard-working government that is busy serving the people.

DEPUTY MINISTER NOTES INCREASED OIL PRODUCTION

LD021158 Tehran IRNA in English 0939 GMT 2 Dec 82

[Text] Tehran, Dec 1 IRNA -- In spite of the vain attempts by the Iraqi fighter planes to bomb Khark Island and the baseless propaganda of the enemies of the Islamic Republic of Iran, the export of crude oil from the southern ports and Khark Island has reached an average of 2 million barrels per day. This statement was made by Engineer Hasan Kheradmand, deputy oil minister of the Islamic Republic of Iran in an interview here today.

Pointing to the increased production of the country's refineries by 33 percent during the current year (as announced during war week) Kheradmand said that with the efforts of the loyal workers we succeeded in curtailing the ration of gasoline since 23rd Sept, and there are no limits imposed on the consumption in agricultural and transportation fields.

Continuing, the deputy oil minister said that few days ago, petrol ration had been increased to monthly 80 litres beginning 6th Dec, 1982. He further said that one million litres of oil will be given to distribution agents.

As regards liquid gas, Kheradmand added that the programme currently being employed will enable Esfahan refinery to increase its production beginning next month. He said that this will result in 300 tons of liquid gas being added to our state reserves and hence the quantity will be increased in the country. He also said that with the complete implementation programme in the refinery hopefully no more problems will be experience.

Concluding, the Deputy Oil Minister Kheradmand said that production and distribution of paraffin to distributing agents comparatively had been increased by 50 percent and expressed the hope that in the near future the distribution of this product will take place ordinarily and free without any limitations, "as we can see in some of the cities of our country."

SPEAKER CITES UNIVERSITY ENTRANCE RESTRICTIONS

LD031006 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0430 GMT 3 Dec 82

[Excerpts] According to IRNA, university chancellors, vice chancellors and officials in charge of student admissions met yesterday afternoon with Hashemi-Rafsanjani, speaker of the Islamic Consultative Assembly. During the meeting, one of the officials reported on the decisions made to reopen the universities and methods to be used for the admission of students next year.

Hashemi-Rafsanjani, describing the various effects of learning upon individuals and societies, said: As far as it it possible for us and as long as it does not lead to any corruption, we will propagate learning in the Islamic Republic in those areas where we are not restricted, such as primary schools and general knowledge courses. We will act in such a way that all people, without any exception, can make use of them. However, there are certain areas where we have limitations and where our capabilities are limited.

The Majlis speaker added: Society and people should accept the fact that at present we can only train a special group of people in our institutes of higher learning. However, God willing, in the future we will have greater opportunities. Therefore, we should adopt certain policies in this field so that according to this policy the vast sums spent on universities will be in accordance with the wishes of the people, the requirements of the revolution and the requirements of the ideology governing our actions.

Hashemi-Rafsanjani added: At the moment, there are two separate issues in higher education. One is about the selection of students. The second is selection for the future. [as heard] The other issue is about students who have attended universities before and who have not completed their courses. It should be pointed out that these two issues are separate from each other. The same is also true in a basic way and in other programs. Hashemi-Rafsanjani then added: Right now and very clearly I announce that our nation and our children should know that higher education imposes great expense upon the people. Therefore, from now on, the educational policies of our country toward new students is such that it will educate those who can in the context of this order and who will be useful to the people. We should educate those people in the universities who are in keeping with the ideals of this revolution and who can act according to it in the future.

Hashemi-Rafsanjani then referred to blasphemous and hostile groups in the universities. He said: The warring groups who opened fire on the people, who killed the children of the people and who forced the atmosphere of this country toward harshness and who showed in practice that they cannot be reformed -- these things are clear to all and to the members of their families. Only the courts can decide whether they are suitable to study. If there are other blasphemous minigroups, if there are certain elements who want to come to the universities and create disturbances and who want to again raise the problems of Kordestan, Gonbad and counterrevolutionary activities and act against the Islamic Republic, in the sight of God and in the eyes of our people who are engaged in so much self-sacrifice, we will not allow the resources and the property of the people to be put at the disposal of such elements or provide them with educational distinctions so that they can create trouble for the people.

Therefore, active members of minigroups who, while not engaged in armed struggle against us but who want to ruin the atmosphere of the universities and to prevent others from studying, are imposing these restrictions upon themselves. We prevent them from attending universities and we will not admit them until we are certain that they will not create disturbances. We announce this to the members of the families and to all the people.

MUSAVI ADDRESSES MARTYRS FOUNDATION 2 DEC

LD021152 Tehran IRNA in English 0941 GMT 2 Dec 82

[Text] Tehran, Dec. 1, IRNA -- Prime Minister Musavi said to the Martyrs' Foundation of Iran here today that his Cabinet took pride in serving the foundation and would not spare any effort for responding to its needs.

Musavi who was speaking at the session of the third seminar of the heads of the foundation said that martyrdom excels any other value in a Muslim community and reminded that in his opinion the first and foremost responsibility of the foundation was to uphold the religious and spiritual value of "martyrdom" which has been the ultimate goal of Muslim fighters throughout the Islamic revolution.

The prime minister also praised the superintendent of the foundation, Hojjat ol-Eslam Karrubi as "one of the pioneers of the June 5, 1963 movement (led by Imam Khomeyni) and a combatant revolutionary...."

In his speech before the prime minister, Hojjat ol-Eslam Karrubi said that the foundation's staffers were mainly from among the relatives of martyrs and noted that they were better than anybody else privy to the spiritual needs of the bereaved relatives of the martyrs.

In a 12-point resolution read toward the end of the session, the personnel of the foundation declared their pledge of allegiance to the leader of the Islamic revolution and also voiced their readiness to go to the battlefronts of the Iraqi-imposed war. They also called on the Supreme Judicial Council to adopt a more relentless approach to the "mercenaries of the West and East" and stamp out these elements once and for all.

PRESIDENT RECEIVES MOBILIZATION OFFICIALS

LD302352 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 2030 GMT 30 Nov 82

[Excerpts] According to the Central News Unit, the officials in charge of the oppressed mobilization bases of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps from all over the country, who have come to Tehran on the occasion of mobilization week to take part in a 3-day seminar, today met with President Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i.

During this meeting, the official in charge of the oppressed mobilization unit of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, Salek, first presented a report to the president, pertaining to the ahcievements of this unit since its establishment.

Afterward Khamene'i analyzed revolutions in different countries during the present century and the distinctions between them and the Islamic revolution. Referring to the popular nature of the Iranian Islamic revolution, he said: In our country, no group stratum or particular party can claim the revolution belongs to it. The victory of our revolution was made possible by the people.

The president added: Today we have more than 6,000 bases of resistance, 9,000 resistance groups, more than 400,000 battle-hardened men and more than 2.5 million trained personnel. These figures are hard to believe for a world that stands afar and doesn't understnad the realities of our society and assesses problems by ancient criteria. Still, they find it hard to believe that it is possible to have 2.5 million men who are alert and ready to defend their revolution, homeland, society, principles, values and ideology. They cannot understand this. The world cannot understand the epic that you people, young and old, have created.

Referring to the miscalculations of the world powers in connection with various issues including the Iraqi-imposed war on Iran, the president said: After 2 years and several months since the start of the imposed war, the result become clearer every day. When you visit the battlefronts these days, you can see that the battlefields are full of committed forces who have the necessary equipment. If they lacked equipment, they captured it from the enemy and used it against him.

Referring to the power of the faith of the combatants of Islam, Khamene'i said: Your faith, granted to you by God, will bring victory against all enemies. The enemy is unable to fight against this power and cannot resort to anything to save itself from this (?bottleneck).

At the end of his remarks, the president emphasized the links and further cooperation between the resistance groups and the clergy: Strive to maintain a real, accurate and permanent link between yourselves in mosques and resistance centers. Make this one of your main objectives.

Arab Committee

The Arab League delegation held "friendly, harmonious" talks on 6 December at the Great Hall of the People in Beijing with PRC Premier Zhao Ziyang, Foreign Minister Wu Xueqian and other Foreign Ministry officials, XINHUA reported. The premier told the Arab delegation that the PRC supports the Fes summit plan and urges the UN Security Council and all "peace-loving countries" to support it too. In the afternoon the Arab delegation met with CCP General Secretary Hu Yaobang, who also emphasized China's support for the Arab people, another XINHUA report stated. Zhao Ziyang hosted a banquet for the Arab League delegation in the evening, according to XINHUA.

PLO

PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat met in Riyadh with Saudi Deputy Prime Minister Prince 'Abdallah and also held a separate meeting with the deported mayors of Hebron and Halhul, who recently met with U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz, according to SPA and Algiers Voice of Palestine radio. In a statement reported by SPA, 'Arafat stressed that the PLO has "special and privileged relations" with Jordan and that any rapprochement between two Arab sides is in the interest of the Arab nation and will strengthen the Arab struggle. Meanwhile, Radio Monte Carlo said intensive PLO-Jordanian meetings have been underway in Amman to draft a plan for a Jordanian-Palestinian confederation and to reach agreement on the formation of a unified Jordanian-Palestinian delegation to participate in any Middle East peace negotiations. The results of these meetings will be submitted to the 11 December higher Jordanian-Palestinian committee meeting so that King Husayn can take a unified Jordanian-Palestinian viewpoint to Washington on 21 December, the radio said. Earlier, in an interview reported by KUNA, 'Arafat's adviser for international affairs, 'Isam as-Sartawi, denied that the PLO Central Council (PCC) rejected President Ronald Reagan's Middle East peace plan, asserting that the PCC merely criticized the plan and that it is the Palestine National Council which has the right to accept or reject it.

However, Syrian media continued to carry statements by Palestinian officials denouncing both the Reagan plan and the proposed Jordanian-Palestinian confederation. SANA reported that Ahmad al-Yamani, a Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine official who is also a PLO Executive Committee member, stated that the PCC both condemned and rejected the Reagan plan. According to Damascus radio, seven Palestinian organizations issued a statement opposing current attempts to "distort" the Palestinian struggle and rejecting "capitulatory" schemes "as well as any authorization given to any individual or side to speak on behalf of the Palestinian people, regardless of the status of this individual or side." The statement, which was issued in Tripoli, presumably Lebanon, by representatives of the PLO office, the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine-General Command, As-Sa'iqah, the Popular Struggle Front, the Fatah Movement, the Palestinian Revolution Committees and the Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine, also rejected any discussion of a union with "this or that state" before the establishment of a Palestinian state. It likewise condemned the Reagan plan and stressed that armed struggle is the main way to achieve complete victory.

An Amman radio commentary said the PLO factions which have issued statements that do not conform to the PLO stand have very little influence and find it difficult to adopt an independent position because of their "known connections and circumstances." The radio deplored efforts to undermine Palestinian unity and replace the PLO. However, Damascus radio's Palestine broadcast claimed that the United States and its "agents" are attempting to destroy Palestinian unity by dragging the PLO rightwing toward bargaining positions that will widen the gap with the leftwing.

Iran-Iraq War

"Highly placed" Gulf diplomatic sources claim Iran has presented a three-point plan to resolve the Iran-Iraq war, KUNA revealed. The plan reportedly calls for settling land and water territorial disputes, concluding a nonaggression pact, and guaranteeing war reparations to Iran. KUNA's sources stated that countries in the Gulf region are holding intensive consultations on the plan and that the Algerian and UAE presidents are expected to begin mediation efforts this month.

Lebanon

At a meeting between U.S. Assistant Secretary for Near Eastern Affairs Morris Draper and President Amin al-Jumayyil and other Lebanese officials, the Lebanese side defined the minimum Lebanon will accept in withdrawal negotiations with Israel, Beirut radio reported. Lebanon is prepared to prevent attacks against Israel from its territory and is also willing to overcome all formalities in order to facilitate the negotiations, the radio said, but it cannot accept Israeli demands that could jeopardize Lebanon's unity or its relations with the Arab world.

Israel

The gunmen who shot Ambassador to Britain Shlomo Argov on 3 June used weapons supplied by the military attache of the Iraqi Embassy in London, HA'ARETZ claimed.

Egypt

The prosecutor demanded the death sentence for 276 members of the fundamentalist Al-Jihad group on trial for attempting to overthrow the government in October 1981, AFP reported.

OPEC

Saudi Arabia's Minister of Petroleum Shaykh Ahmad Zaki Yamani asserted that his country will defend the current OPEC pricing and accepts "no negotiation" in the matter, KUNA reported citing THE SAUDI GAZETTE. Yamani claimed he was wrongly quoted as saying Saudi Arabia would be prepared to discuss lowering the price.

MINISTER DISCUSSES SETTLEMENT PROSPECT

PM021003 Paris L'HUMANITE in French 1 Dec 82 p 7

[Yves Housson report]

[Excerpt] The Democratic Republic of Afghanistan is in favor of a "political settlement without preconditions." At a press conference in Paris yesterday, Afghan Education Minister Fakir Yaqubi reaffirmed, in terms devoid of ambiguity, his government's desire to succeed in restoring a normal situation in his country and in the region.

With that in mind, Fakir Yaqubi recalled, "we have made sound, constructive and realistic proposals several times (in May 1980 and August 1981). We are proposing bilateral or trilateral negotiations with Pakistan and Iran, which could take place under UN auspices." "We are ready," the minister added, "to start preliminary talks."

However, the path to that settlement is not easy. Initial contacts were made in Geneva last June between Afghan, Pakistani and Iranian representatives, under the aegis of the United Nations. "That is a first step, but a great deal still needs to be done," according to Fakir Yaqubi, who appealed for "good will from our neighbors."

In any case, the Kabul authorities believe a solution would emerge more quickly if the counterrevolutionaries ended their activities that they are able to conduct, the education minister stated, from "85 training camps on our borders," and with U.S. imperialism's support. However, after being "dispersed," the counterrevolution is now indulging in "acts of terror." Witness the bomb attack last Wednesday on a building in the capital which destroyed 37 stalls and caused injuries.

As for Soviet troops, Fakir Yaqubi once again explained that their presence would no longer be justified once the reasons for it had disappeared: "guarantee of independence, and of territorial integrity, and an end to the interference in internal Afghan affairs," which had motivated the appeal to the USSR at the end of 1979. He also rejected, as the Soviets themselves had done, the Americans' allegation that chemical weapons are being used by the Red Army.

10,000 Tribesmen To Join

LD040222 Kabul Domestic Service in Pashto 1530 GMT 3 Dec 82

[Text] The (Achekzai) and (Nurzai) tribes of Qandahar Province are preparing to introduce 10,000 of their sons into the border militia to safeguard the homeland and defend the April Revolution.

A spokesman of the border force command reports to BAKHTAR that at a meeting held in (Espeen-Boldak) District on 30 November, after the speech by the border brigade commander and secretary of the party committee -- who explained the decree of the Revolutionary Council Presidium on the formation of border militia -- about 10 of the leaders of the (Achekzai) and (Nurzai) tribes spoke in turn. They expressed resolute support for the Revolutionary Council decree and they said they are prepared to include about 10,000 of their sons in the border militia in the realization of this decree.

The report adds that at the end of the meeting, a resolution signed by 54 of the tribes' elders was issued. The resolution mentions that they will prepare the list of battery, company and battalion commanders of the border militia for 6 December.

ATOMIC ENERGY HEAD DISCUSSES FUEL AGREEMENT

[Atomic Energy Commission Chairman Dr H.N. Sethna interview with K.C. Khanna, editor of THE ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY OF INDIA -- recorded -- date not given]

[Text] [Question] Mr Sethna: While you deserve happiest congratulations for signing the agreement with the French for the supply of nuclear fuel for the Tarapur plant till 1993, the public is a bit perplexed as to why did the French first agree, then raise objections and finally agree.

[Answer] Well, first of all I would like to point out that this was a team effort and the one advantage, if you want to call it that, the Indian side had was that the talks were taking place in India, in Delhi. So, we were able to have the advice of our prime minister right through and also of our external affairs minister, and that helped us a lot.

Now, coming to the second part of your question as to why France had first insisted on certain conditions which were beyond the 1963 agreement, I think it was more of a misunderstanding in the sense that in all contracts for the supply of enriched uranium for Tarapur, the French Government had to follow what is called the London Club rules. But in the London Club rules there is a clause which says that if it is an old contract, an old agreement, then the London Club permits that the sale agreement stands. Now it is up to the country which is supplying the material to work out its differences with the rest of the members of the London Club. The point at issue was...[interrupted by questioner]

[Question] Are you saying in effect that the French Government took a lot of time to negotiate the agreement with the rest of the members of the London Club, because as far as we are aware the French Government never consulted any other member of the London Club.

[Answer] No, they have to be sure within their own bureaucracy and the government that what they were doing was right. That is to say they were taking up an agreement which had been signed in 1963. They cannot possibly apply the rules which apply now in 1982. This actually took some time.

[Question] Now going back to the beginning, the problem arose in the first place because the U.S. Government (backed out) on a contractual commitment which had a force of a treaty. They were bound to supply us nuclear fuel for the (?functioning) of the plant and this agreement implied that they will give us the rest of the fuel in the quantity that is needed to run the plant to capacity and at the time that it is needed. They delayed and delayed. Do you think, in this respect, we were wise or we were unwise not to terminate the contract long ago?

[Answer] Termination of any agreement which has the force of a treaty, as you said, has many ramifications. [Words indistinct] ramifications in the sense that one has to look at the whole gamut of the Indo-U.S. relations, not merely at Tarapur. And if you look at that, after all the Tarapur fuel as such per se was worth about a few million dollars, nothing very much, and to create problems would have been felt, [sentence as heard] I do not think it would be diplomatic enough to have a sort of break on a thing like this. It was best that we talked and now, of course, the solution is there, so I think everybody is happy over it.

[Question] Forgetting the overall relationship for a moment, would it have been better from the point of view of the development of nuclear energy and energy itself, after all we have been running the Tarapur plant at below capacity for some time now?

[Answer] Yes, but supposing we had gone in for an alternative? There were two alternations for us. One is that we buy enrichment from somewhere else. That would mean a new contract, a new arrangement, a new agreement with the IAEA.

[Question] Was it not easily available?

[Answer] No, no, wait a minute, that would mean again that the safeguards would be in perpetuity. That is whether the agreement is there or not, the safeguards would continue on the produced plutonium. That is the first alternative.

The second one is: If we had run it on the mixed oxide, we had enough from the (?irradiated) fuel we could have run the reactor for about 5 to 6 years, not more. And then what could we have done? So, we have to take an overall view. The plutonium from Tarapur and [word indistinct] from Tarapur meant that we would use it for (?inside) Tarapur, for the next 5 or 6 years. After that there were two alternatives open to us. We can use Rajasthan plutonium or some other plutonium. But to burn plutonium in a thermal reactor, to use it in a thermal reactor is not the most efficient way of using plutonium. Plutonium is best used in a fast system. That much is certain. So, whenever we are ready with the mixed oxide plant, and we will, I hope, sometime later on put in a few bundles of mixed oxide to [words indistinct] in a Tarapur-type reactor with all the, shall I say, problems which are inherent in any power station being run in India at present. [Words indistinct] great fluctuations and the whole host of other things, so the fuel sees many shocks. Now, we have to run it under those circumstances. [Words indistinct] of oxide uranium in research on developing our mixed oxide fuel as well as a plant and equipment to manufacture it.

[Question] Now we are going to use it only for experimental purposes?

[Answer] No, no no, no. We will use that in the mixed oxide plant, if available, also for making mixed oxide fuel for fast reactors. It is a plant which can handle anything from Tarapur to a fast breeder reactor [FBR]. We have a lot of elasticity in that plant.

[Question] So, it will not be a waste?

[Answer] Oh no, definitely not and I remember this much that we built it at a time and at a price where, you know, every year there is an escalation of about between 5 and 10 percent. So, I think we have done the right thing in doing it now.

[Question] Homi, are you confident that the French are reliable suppliers? Are they more reliable or are they not likely to be as unreliable as the Americans were? After all, the FBTR [fast breeder test reactor], they are under contract to supply us fuel for FBPR -- the fast breeder reactors. For 2 years they have not done so. Our reactor is ready to go but for want of the fuel it is not running, it is lying idle.

[Answer] No, I would not say that. Let me divide the question into two parts. First of all, we should talk about the Tarapur business. I will go into the FBR later on. But as far as Tarapur is concerned, you must remember that the (Urodict) plant has got tremendous capacity and may not shut down at the moment because there were too much of the enriched stuff with them.

[Question] Yes.

[Answer] So, I don't think that we will have any problem in getting enriched uranium which is only, about what, maximum 2.67 percent enriched mix up to 1993. But, coming to FBR, you know, we want a stuff which will be 86 percent which is equivalent to 96 percent enriched and that is a different story.

[Question] Yes, that is a different story, all right. But, they were under contract and they have (?not acted) on it.

[Answer] Well, shall I say, the final approval did not come through, let us put it that way. And the prices were pretty steep.

[Question] All right, you insist on being diplomatic tonight. But, nonetheless, you have to be congratulated for pulling off this deal which was very difficult.

[Answer] I did not pull off any deal; we just worked in a normal way.

[Question] But with the help of the External Affairs Ministry, in this case.

[Answer] And everybody -- prime minister, the External Affairs Ministry, the prime minister's principal secretary, the Cabinet secretary, all of us were in it together.

[Question] Thank you Homi.

ZIA MESSAGE ON PALESTINIAN SOLIDARITY DAY

GF031510 Karachi DAWN in English 29 Nov 82 p 1

[President Ziaul Haq message on 28 November International Day of Solidarity With Palestine]

[Excerpts] Islamabad, Nov 28 -- "The International Day of Solidarity with the Palestinian people has assumed this year greater significance in view of the recent barbaric Israeli aggression against Lebanon and the Palestinian people and the carnage visited upon unarmed Palestinian men, women and children in the refugee camps of Sabra and Shatila. The atrocities perpetrated against the Palestinian people and the continuing sufferings to which they have been subjected for over three decades, constitute a stigma which shames mankind.

"The Israelis have failed in their sinister attempt to eliminate the aspirations of the Palestinians by seeking to liquidate the Palestine Liberation Organisation. The indomitable Palestinian people, however, under the dedicated leadership of the Palestine Liberation Organisation, have, through the heroism of their brave freedom-fighters, emerged yet stronger and are, in fact, more determined than ever to attain their final goal.

"On this day the government and people of Pakistan reaffirm their pledge to stand firmly alongside their Palestinian brethren in their valiant struggle against the forces of oppression and injustice. We reiterate our commitment to a just and lasting solution of the Palestinian problem, which can only be achieved on the basis of complete Israeli withdrawal from all occupied Arab territories, including Al-Quds ash-Sharif and the full restriction of the inalienable national rights of the Palestinian people and the right to a state of their own in Palestine under the leadership of the Palestine Liberation Organisation.

"The international community has time and again pronounced itself on these basic issues and affirmed that Palestine continues to be the core of the Middle East problem. In the wake of the gruesome tragedy in Lebanon, we call upon the comity of nations to exert the necessary pressure on Israel to vacate its aggression so as to ensure that right prevails and that the injustices committed against the people of Palestine are finally redressed."

NEPAL

CONGRESS PARTY HOLDS NATIONAL CONFERENCE

[By Kedar Man Singh]

[Text] Kathmandu, Dec. 3 (AFP) -- The banned Nepali Congress Party, formerly headed by the late government leader B.P. Koirala, has just ended a three-day national conference here by calling for reconciliation between the outlawed party and the crown.

The conference has also set in motion economic and organisational programmes aimed at making the reconciliation "a success".

The party has expressed its wish to cooperate fully with the government in improving the country's deteriorating economy.

Among cooperative measures to be implemented by the party is helping the government food distribution machinery in areas of scarcity, as last summer's drought on food shortages in 63 of the kingdom's 75 districts.

Over 40,000 metric tons of food supplies have been donated by various countries to meet Nepal's shortages.

Kathmandu authority had recently forbidden the Nepali congress from holding a public meeting here, but had allowed the just-ended conference to take place without interference.

The ban on all political parties, enformed in 1960, is still going on 22 years later.

Addressing the conference, K.P. Bhattarai, acting president of the outlawed party, stressed the importance of reconciliation between the democratic forces and the crown for the greater good of king, country and people.

Mr. Bhattarai said the outlawed party had no quarrel with the king, nonetheless it would never surrender to the party-less panchayat (legislative) system.

He then went on to detail the party's organizational plans and programs to some 500 cadres and observers attending the conference from various districts of the kingdom.

Also addressing the conference were Ganesh Man Singh, a senior party leader, and Girija Prasad Koirala, brother of the late Koirala and party general secretary.

Mr. Koirala urged "unity" among party rank and file and dedication in the fight for the restoration of "full fledged democracy" in the country.

KUNA REVEALS IRANIAN PLAN TO RESOLVE WAR

LD061136 Kuwait KUNA in English 1019 GMT 6 Dec 82

[Text] Kuwait, Dec 6 (KUNA) -- Iran has presented a three-point plan for resolving its 27-month conflict with Iraq and discussions are under way between Iran and countries of the Gulf region on details of the plan, it was reported Monday.

According to highly-placed Gulf diplomatic sources, the plan calls for an agreement on settling border problems and outstanding disputes between Iran and countries of the Gulf resulting either from the war with Iraq or from other land or water territorial disputes.

Conclusion of a non-aggression pact and commitment to international conventions prohibiting non-intervention in domestic affairs of states of the region.

And finally, an agreement guaranteeing war reparations to Iran in compensation for the destruction of her economic institutions and oil installations.

The sources said that the Iranian plan, the first of its kind, envisages a halt to the war with Iraq to be within the context of a more comprehensive agreement with all the Gulf states, particularly the member-states of the Gulf Cooperation Council, which can collectively guarantee its implementation.

An earlier agreement signed by Iraq and Iran in Algiers in 1975 was revoked unilaterally by Iraq at the beginning of the conflict.

The sources added that Iran hopes by concluding such collective agreements with the Gulf states to ensure a relative state of internal stability during the coming stage so as to embark on domestic reconstruction and to ensure safe passage through common waters and sea lanes between Iran and the Gulf states.

The Iranian peace plan, according to the sources, is the focus of current intensive consultations between countries in the region and both Algeria and the UAE are expected to play a major role in the next few weeks to bring close the various views and peace proposals made either by Iraq or the states of the region.

According to recent press reports, the presidents of Algeria and the UAE will mount a fresh bid to mediate in the Gulf conflict and Iran was reported to have agreed to join Iraq in accepting the new mediation attempt. Earlier ones by the Islamic Conference Organization, the Non-alignment Movement and other unilateral peace undertakings had stumbled against Iran's adamant demands for war reparation of 150 billion dollars and the overthrow of Iraqi President Saddam Hussein. The sources concluded that the Algerian and UAE presidents will begin visits this month to Baghdad, Tehran and Gulf and other Arab capitals to set in motion the drive for peace in the oil-rich Gulf region.

CLANDESTINE CITES BAZARGAN ELECTIONS 'AMNESTY'

GF070606 (Clandestine) Free Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1500 GMT 6 Dec 82

[Text] Until the formation of the phony Council of Experts, Mehdi will have amnesty on his life. According to a report by the clandestine Voice of Iran transmitter, the regime of mullahs, in order to maintain a calm atmosphere during the elections of experts and avoid any incidents, has ordered a 2-week amnesty for Mehdi Bazargan. However, it is not clear what will be the destiny of the prime minister of Khomeyni's interim government at the end of these 2 weeks after the formation of the infamous Council of Experts. The clandestine Voice of Iran transmitter, which has been very poorly heard in some parts of the country for the past several nights, has so far announced the opposition to and a boycott of the phony Council of Experts elections by a number of nationalist Iranian groups.

Mendi Bazargan, Khomeyni's former prime minister, is a staunch opponent of the elections of experts but the regime of mullahs has not permitted him or his colleagues to issue any statements.

PAPER VIEWS RAFSANJANI, MONTAZERI DISAGREEMENT

WA071000 Nicosia O AGON in Greek 11 Nov 82 p 3

[Text] According to our exclusive information, Iranian circles are keeping under wraps an affair that threatens the unity of religious people; they are doing their utmost to maintain complete silence on the issue.

More specifically, this question is related to new differences between Ayatollah Hoseyn Montazeri (one of the most important likely successors to Ayatollah Khomeyni and who resides in the sacred city of Qom, using it as headquarters for his operations) and Hojat ol-Eslam Rafsanjani, president of the Iranian parliament.

Students, who receive religious instruction under Montazeri's guidance, recounted that the roots of these differences are old and deep and that they were revived because of Montazeri's desire to attribute a dangerous role to Ayatollah Shari'atmadari in the organization and orientation of some of the Armenians who have come from Europe to conduct hostile action against Turkey. This would absolve the Iranian Government of any responsibility in the matter since Shari'atmadari would appear to be in charge of the undertaking, giving evidence of his ambitious goals in Turkey, which would lead the Turks to break off their close relationship with him.

Montazeri believes such a role would not propel Shari'atmadari into the limelight, as Rafsanjani seems to think; because such an operation is considered one of the undisclosable secrets never to be revealed and, if it ever is, then responsibility will be ascribed to Shari'atmadari.

On the other hand, Rafsanjani and Montazeri have come across a written report from the office of Imam Khomeyni, explaining why these ayatollahs are choosing to rely on the Armenians instead of the Muslim Turks in provoking disturbances against the Turkish Government. Specifically, this report mentions:

"Iran must be the strongest country in the area, stronger than all of its neighbors in every possible way. At this stage, we must instigate trouble and disturbances against the Turkish unbelievers without relying on our brother Muslim Turks so that Turkey will not suspect us, especially at this time."

The students under Montazeri further note that this issue does not constitute the essential difference, which is mainly related to Khomeyni's succession. They have reported that Rafsanjani is accusing Ayatollah Montazeri of not having broken off relations with Shari'atmadari and that Montazeri perhaps is thinking of some serious role for Shari'atmadari in Iranian politics. However, Shari'atmadari would first have to break off ties with Turkey.

Saudi Arabia's Foreign Minister Prince Sa'ud al-Faysal stated that the delegation achieved "extremely positive" results during its visit to the PRC, Riyadh radio reported citing remarks the minister made to the Pakistani news agency. However, Syrian Foreign Minister 'Abd al-Halim Khaddam told Damascus radio that although the delegation will meet soon to assess the results of its contacts and to submit a detailed report to the Arab countries, the group's contacts yielded no new developments and there is no reason to call for an Arab summit.

100 DIE DURING 'HEAVY SHELLING OF VILLAGES'

BK071722 Hong Kong AFP in English 1707 GMT 7 Dec 82

[Text] Islamabad, Dec 7 (AFP) -- At least 100 civilians died during heavy shelling of villages surrounding Kabul by Soviet-Afghan forces in the past two weeks, according to Western diplomatic sources and information from resistance fighters.

More than 50 were killed during a raid on three villages north of the capital on November 22, which was among several raids carried out by MiG fighter jets and Soviet helicopters. Later the same day troops smashed down doors and ransacked houses, taking radios, jewelry and all objects of value.

The sources said the raids followed the same pattern of shelling heralding the arrival of convoys of armoured cars and troops, and were intended to spread confusion among the rebel bases and recruit any available able-bodied men.

Villagers whose homes had been destroyed were being forced to seek shelter in Kabul or flee to Pakistan. This continual exodus was seen here as weakening the mujahideen resistance, which relies on the local population for food.

Other similar raids were reported in the Paghman region, west of Kabul, and around Jalalabad to the east, where resistance, according to Pakistan-based resistance circles, is strong. The mujahideen fear that if these lightning raids continue all winter, they will be forced to restrict their activities to the capital.

But in the Kandahar region they carried out two spectacular attacks on military convoys last month, according to diplomatic sources. In one ambush on the road to Herat, 20 kms (12 miles) west of Kandahar, a column of 30 armoured cars was destroyed.

In Kandahar, the southern capital, the mujahideen have been stepping up their guerrilla operations against military posts inside the city. Only a year since the Soviet raided raided rebel strongholds in the heart of the city, the resistance fighters seem to have regrouped and are putting government troops on the defensive.

There is fighting every night and the rebels captured a "substantial" number of Afghan officers during November, said diplomatic sources.

Meanwhile in Kabul bomb attacks have been steadily increasing over the past month, with several explosions last week, said the diplomatic sources.

Breaking their costomary silence, the Afghan authorities have given maximum publicity to some of the explosions which claimed lives, and to the arrest and execution of those responsible, described variously as anti-social elements and counter-revolutionaries.

105 CIVILIANS 'BURNED TO DEATH' IN MID-SEPTEMBER

BK071507 Hong Kong AFP in English 1449 GMT 7 Dec 82

[Text] Islamabad, Dec. 7 (AFP) -- Soviet authorities burned to death 105 Afghan civilians including old people and children hiding in an underground irrigation canal in mid-September, a three-man commission of the Russell Tribunal has concluded.

A number of witnesses, interviewed by the commission during a secret visit to Afghanistan from November 26 to December (?4) said the 105 civilians had been discovered hiding in the underground irrigation canal near Padkhwab-e-Shana village, 60 km (36 miles) south of Kabul, by Soviet soldiers on September 13.

The Russians reportedly dammed up one end of the canal, causing the water to rise, then injected an inflammable substance. An enormous explosion ensued, which burned everyone inside to death, the commission reported.

Commission members Michael Barry, Ricardo Fraile and Michel Baret visited clandestinely the site of the reported massacre on the night of December 3 and found the canal wall blackened, apparently by an inflammable substance.

Local witnesses said they waited until the next day, after the departure of the Russians, before entering the canal and retrieving the bodies.

The Russell Tribunal, which looks into allegations of human rights abuses, plans to hold an exposition on Afghan war crimes in Paris from December 16 to 20.

OFFICIALS HOLD TALKS WITH IRANIAN MINISTER

GF050628 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0430 GMT 5 Dec 82

[Excerpt] According to a Central News Unit report, 'Asgar-Owladi, commerce minister of our country, who is at present visiting Pakistan as head of a delegation, yesterday met with Hamid Habib, Pakistani minister of foreign trade [name and title as heard], and members of the Union for Foreign Trade in Pakistan and held talks with them.

In this meeting, the Pakistan minister for foreign trade praised the achievements of the Islamic revolution in Iran and the Iranian trade policy regarding Muslim and Third World countries. The Pakistan minister for foreign trade with regard to the progress made in trade exchanges between Pakistan and Iran said it is possible that at times the standards of goods may not be as had been desired. However, it is being stressed to the Pakistani exporters that their standards should conform with the standards stipulated in the agreements.

At this point, 'Asgar-Owladi, our commerce minister, explained the purpose of the visit of the Iranian economic delegation to Pakistan and said that the visit had been satisfactory. He also said that there are no problems in Iranian-Pakistani trade relations.

'Asgar-Owladi in reference to sale of oil to Third World countries who are in need of oil, while clarifying the proposals regarding an Islamic common market, said that with regard to an Islamic common market, there have been repeated discussions but little action.

Trade Agreement Detailed

GF031457 Karachi DAWN in English 30 Nov 82 p 12

[Text] Iran has placed orders totalling Rs. 1400 million for various Pakistani goods this year following the long-term bilateral trade agreement between the two countries in April.

Informed sources told DAWN that confirmed letters of credit for Rs. 795 million had already been received by Pakistani exporters from Iranian private sector importers.

Pakistan has exported 50,000 tons of wheat to Iran, shipments of which are currently in progress, while under the agreement 100,000 tons of sugar, another 50,000 tons of wheat, 50,000 tons urea fertiliser, 45,000 tons of irri rice, 100 million metres of textile, 2,000 tons of cotton yarn, 4,000 tons of carbon black and 20 million metres of tarpaulin are to be exported.

Iran has so far placed orders for cotton yarn (Rs.324 million), cloth (Rs. 242 m), papersacks (Rs. 50.8 million), canvas/cotton cloth (Rs. 48 m), leather (Rs. 33 m), wool (Rs. 35 m), besides other goods in varying quantities.

The Iranian minister of commerce, Mr. Habibollah 'Asgar-Owladi, arrived in Islambad yesterday to review the progress of the bilateral agreement.

Pakistan has to import a minimum of 500,000 tons of crude oil and sources said shipments had started in August last at a rate of 10,000 barrels per day. The imports could be doubled once the international complications involved in oil trade were resolved, they said.

The two countries have already evolved a sound mechanism to regulate the trade. The State Bank of Pakistan and the Bank of Markazi Iran have opened special dollar accounts and have exchanged loans of ten million dollars cash (Rs. 127 million at current exchange rate) to maintain the trade balance. The loans carry a six per cent per annum fixed interest rate.

Trade between the two countries was heavily tilted towards Pakistan in the last three years with Pakistan exports totalling Rs. 2.32 billion in 1980/81 and Rs. 531 million up to March this year.

Transport Agreement Considered

GF061734 Karachi DAWN in English 5 Dec 82 p 1

[Text] Iran is ready to sign a special transport agreement with Pakistan which will allow Pakistani exports to send their cargo right up to Tehran via the land route. Iranian Deputy Commerce Minister 'Ali Naqi Khamushi said here yesterday.

He told a gathering of Pakistani exporters that such an agreement could be reached whenever the Pakistan Government so desired. "There are no problems on our side. You have only to send a responsible official delegation to Tehran and it could be signed", he said responding to questions from the exporters.

Mr Khamushi, who is the deputy leader of a 22-member delegaton to Pakistan to review the progress of the special trade pact signed in April this year, which envisages $250 million trade each way, later told DAWN that it looked difficult to meet the target this year because both the countries had to overcome initial problems and difficulties.

"We, however, hope that Pakistan would become a major trading partner with the passage of time when both the business communities get to know each other well."

The Iranian minister said Pakistan had agreed to produce sugar of special specifications for Iran and a delegation would visit Pakistan within a couple of weeks to finalise the details.

The Pak-Iran trade agreement provides for export of 100,000 tons of sugar to Iran this year but because of different specifications, Iran has not as yet started importing the commodity. Mr Khamushi told the exporters that after the revolution in Iran a serious effort was being made to convert the Iranian society from highly consumer oriented to one of austerity based on the Islamic way of life.

"This has shifted the direction of our imports from the modern Western industrial countries to our Muslim brothers and neighbours", he said.

He complained that Pakistan, despite having a diverse industrial base, had done very little to explore the Iranian market. "I for myself did not know the Pakistani potential of producing engineering goods until I visited the Pakistan pavilion in New Delhi earlier this year. But in the Tehran trade fair last September the Pakistani pavilion was only 250 meters large," he said. This, he stressed, was due to an information gap and more frequent exchange of trade delegations could largely remove this hurdle.

The vice chairman of the export promotion bureau, Mr Mohammed Yusuf, informed the meeting that in the next Tehran fair Pakistan would not only have a pavilion equal to the one it had in New Delhi, but a single-country exhibition could also be arranged before that time. He also attended a luncheon hosted by the Federation of Pakistan Chambers of Commerce and Industry earlier in the day.

LD071756 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 7 Dec 82

[Communique No 1,145 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In his exalted name. The situation at the battlefronts of the imposed war during the last 24 hours are hereby brought to the attention of the Muslim nation. A sporadic exchange of fire continued in battles on the western fronts of the country yesterday. Thank to the fire of the powerful combatants of Islam on the Sumar fronts, two mortar launchers and one machinegun of the Saddamists were destroyed and a number of their personnel were either killed or wounded.

Our combatants on the Qasr-e Shirin and Naftshahr fronts also opened fire on the enemy, setting one of their ammunition depots on fire and destroying several weapon bunkers and observation posts along with the troops deployed in them.

A sporadic exchange of fire also continued on the southern fronts. While consolidating and guarding their own defensive positions, the combatants of Islam returned the fire of the Saddamist mercenaries. By halting enemy movements and silencing their fire, our forces inflicted losses and damages on them.

During exchanges of fire on the Abadan and Khorramshahr fronts, our combatants returned enemy fire and pounded Saddamist positions on the other side of the Arvand Rud. The enemy fire was silenced and some losses were inflicted on them. Yesterday, the Saddamist criminals also shelled some districts of Abadan and Khorramshahr with their long-range artillery.

During the past 24 hours, several intruding planes of the aggressive Iraqi Armed Forces tried to violate the airspace of several regions in the western parts of the country. However, the enemy planes were forced to flee by the tactics of the fighter planes of our Air Force and by the fire from our air defense units.

KHOMEYNI MESSAGE ON COUNCIL OF EXPERTS ELECTIONS

LD071934 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 7 Dec 82

[Excerpts] In connection with the Council of Experts elections, Imam Khomeyni, leader of the revolution and the founder of the Islamic Republic of Iran, has sent the following message:

In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. As I have pointed out before, the people are free to vote for suitable persons. Nobody has the right to force anybody to vote. I hope the noble people of Iran will pour into the polling stations on the day of the election with a common aim and cast their votes. This is an important, divine deed which the corrupt ones oppose most -- and that is due to its importance.

It is necessary to point out something which is often heard. That is, God forbid, that during their election campaigns some candidates might bring down or insult others. In this connection, I should point out that such actions -- especially by candidates -- would be tragic for Islam and the Islamic Republic today.

I ask God Almighty for greatness for Islam and Muslims and everlasting glory for the great nation of Iran.

LIBYAN'S AL-'UBAYDI ARRIVES TO DISCUSS RELATIONS

GF071808 Tehran IRNA in English 1642 GMT 7 Dec 82

[Text] Tehran, Dec. 7, IRNA -- The Libyan Foreign Minister 'Abd al-'Ati al-'Ubaydi and Information Minister ('Abd ar-Rahman Shalqam) arrived here today at the head of a 10-man delegation. They were welcomed at the airport by Foreign Minister Velayati and Minister of Ershad-e Islami (Islamic Guidance) Hojjat ol-Eslam Mohammad Khatami.

Head of the delegation, Al-'Ubaydi, told IRNA that the trip took place at the invitation of his Iranian counterpart to discuss mutual relations and to follow up the letter of understanding signed during the visit of Prime Minister 'Abd as-Salam Jallud here in May.

He concluded that we are trying to expand the brotherly relations between Libya and the Islamic Republic of Iran, adding that Libya viewed Iran as a strong fortification against imperialism in this region of the Islamic world.

Speaking about Libya's stand on the participation of France as an observer in the non-aligned summit meet to be held in New Delhi, he said that with regards to the role France played in the Atlantic Ocean and in the light of the fact that France was considered a big power we would prefer it would not attend the summit.

Yet, he continued, the issue had still to be consulted with our friends in the Non-aligned Movement who are against the movements partiality and its being under domination of the superpowers.

Meets With Velayati

GF080843 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0430 GMT 8 Dec 82

[Text] 'Abd al-'Ati al-'Ubaydi, secretary of the Committee for Foreign Liaison of our brother country Libya and the information and culture minister, together with an accompanying delegation, last night met and held talks with Messrs Velayati, minister of foreign affairs, and Khatami, minister of the Islamic guidance, and other Iranian officials.

In the meeting, Velayati stated: It is a pleasure for us to have good brotherly relations with the Islamic and revolutionary country of Libya; these relations increase day by day. Velayati added that the number of plots of the enemies of Islam and the Muslims is so great that the Muslims cannot ignore them and they must unite or else they will become weaker day by day against the enemy of Islam, which is a united front of infidelity and atheism. At the end, Velayati said the Muslims should be aware that the only axis that can save them is the axis of Islam.

'Abd al-'Ati al-'Ubaydi, while thanking the minister of foreign affairs and the minister of Islamic guidance of the Islamic Republic of Iran, then said: Our nation and revolutionary leadership value the lofty leadership and magnificient revolutionary roles of your leader, His Eminence Imam Khomeyni. He further emphasized: The Islamic brotherhood has tied us together and enabled us to coordinate and to adopt a firm stand against the countries that have broken from Islamic and Arabic traditions and have joined the stands of imperialism and Zionism. We also think as you do that nations -- whether Arabs or Iranians or Turks -- must assemble around the axis of Islam.

At the end of this meeting, political, cultural and technical committees were formed to discuss cooperation between the two countries.

VELAYATI MEETS SAHARAN COUNTERPART 4 DECEMBER

GF041700 Tehran IRNA in English 1635 GMT 4 Dec 82

[Text] Tehran, Dec. 4, IRNA -- Foreign Minister Hakim Ibrahim of the Sahrawi Arab Democratic Republic said today that the attack by Iraqi forces on the Islamic Republic of Iran should be analysed within the context of global U.S. conspiracies.

Speaking in a meeting with his Iranian counterpart, Dr. 'Ali Akbar Velayati, he said that, in reality this war has been imposed on the Islamic Republic of Iran with the joint planning of the U.S. and the regional reactionary governments.

Ibrahim also said that his government tried to counter the conspiracy by the U.S., France and the reactionary countries aimed at sabotaging the success of the conference of the Organisation of African Unity. He said his country's delegation tried to counter this conspiracy by withdrawing voluntarily from the conference. But again we saw that their (the reactionary regimes) excuse this time was the reactionary regime of Chad thus resulting in the defeat of the conference.

Foreign Minister Velayati during the meeting said that the Islamic Republic of Iran believed that if the Muslims adopted a policy of reconciliation they would only face abjectness and contempt. It is a mistake to think that the Satans topped by the great satan, the U.S., would cease their plots against the Muslims if they adopted a policy of reconciliation.

He added that all movements in the region which are fighting against the U.S. and the reactionary rulers should allow pure Islam to be the motivating factor in their struggle.

Concerning the U.S. inspired Moroccan regime, Velayati said that King Hassan had made Morocco into an important base for the U.S. and it was through his regime that the U.S. suppressed the justice-seeking struggles of the Saharan people as well as the people of Morocco. He said that the Sahrawi Arab Democratic Republic should expand and strengthen its cooperation with the Moroccan people in order to bring an end to King Hassan's rule.

Sahrawi foreign minister arrived here this morning.

[Text] Twenty members of the Islamic revolution guards from Iranshahr last night called on Hashemi-Rafsanjani, speaker of the Islamic Majlis.

According to an IRNA report, at this meeting, the commander of the Islamic revolution guards of Iranshahr outlined the social and economic situation in Sistan va Baluchestan Province. At this point, Hashemi-Rafsanjani referred to the strategic importance of Sistan va Baluchestan for the enemies of Islam and the revolution and said that because in this region both Sunni and Shi'ite factions live side by side, the Western nations and Russia thought of this place as fertile ground for sowing discord among the people. So the leftists with the backing from the Russians and the rightists with backing of the Western powers invested their energies into this region. However, in view of what you have experienced, both Western and Eastern plots have been defeated.

Hashemi-Rafsanjani with regard to the active work of the Islamic forces in this region said: If the hezbollahi and crusading forces had not taken prompt action in Sistan va Baluchestan and had not educated the people, the situation might have been very different. However, the vigilance of young men like you prevented a very dangerous situation and you should know that you have done a very great task indeed and that you have defended a very important position for us. Although Sistan va Baluchestan is obviously not a warfront. In fact, this region is a very important front. If, God forbid, something unpleasant happens there, it would become a great headache for the Islamic Republic and the revolution. Therefore, your presence, as the men who work for God and your own convictions, and not for money or power, rule or influence, your services are very valuable.

Hashemi-Rafsanjani also spoke of the hardships of this region: We are fully convinced that Sistan va Baluchestan from the point of view of interest is a region needing attention as the people of this region have a long history of hardship and have been the oppressed ones throughout history. And, if we are human, if we are Muslims, and statesmen, we must do something to improve the conditions in this region.

The speaker of the Majlis then referred to the current programs of the government for the Sistan va Baluchestan region saying, the Islamic Republic must make a greater investment of capital into the region, and in the budget of the current year a greater sum already has been allocated for development of this region. And apart from this, a 20-year development plan has been envisaged for this region that will include the building of piers on the banks of the (Azad) River and the development of roads. In the future, Sistan va Baluchestan will realize its real value. It is essential that much more work should be done in this region than has been done so far.

Hashemi-Rafsanjani with regard to the need for complete security in the region said: In that region is a battlefield against counterrevolutionaries, smugglers and dangerous thieves. The East and West have their eyes on this region and you, who have been successful in defeating most of their plans in the region, should not allow them to scheme or operate there. You should consider yourselves as at the sharp end of a point.

The Majlis speaker in conclusion told those present: You can assure the people that the state officials have not forgotten Sistan va Baluchestan and will never forget it.

MAJLIS SPEAKER EXCLUDES ISRAELI, RSA RELATIONS

WA061200 Tehran SOBH-E AZADEGAN in Persian 20 Nov 82 p 12

[Hojjat ol-Eslam Rafsanjani speech at University of Tehran on 19 November]

[Excerpts] Right now there is a great shortcoming in our society. However, in view of the present conditions and prevalence of accomplishments, the limit of possibilities is beyond that for a group of humans like us. You think our revolution has been completed and right now after the revolution we are reaping the fruits of the revolution. However, we are still in a state of revolution and we don't know when this revolution will reach its final results. Stability of the revolution is fully felt. A number of people thought the revolution ended with the fall of the shah and his replacement by the revolutionary government and might have expected that after the fall of the shah we should have all the impacts we expected and the slogans we shouted during the revolution would come true. These people thought our only obstacle was the shah. However, we also were fighting against America, Western exploitation, and the criminals who were governing us. The shah was the first conquered. The second bulwark was liberalism. America thought it could continue its presence in Iran under the cover of liberalism. The third bulwark, more dangerous than the second, was the leftwingers and the pseudoleft who, by means of revolutionary slogans, took advantage of the great stratum of young people. Thus, the conquest of this bulwark was more difficult; the mines planted in this bulwark still remain there.

Inside our country today, no decisions or steps, however large or small, can be approved and put into action under influence or force from outside the country. This independence and sovereignty are the most important values of the revolution. The policy of neither East nor West exists in all respects of Islamic Republic of Iran society.

There are Eastern and Western currents in our country that are using every opportunity to create such an atmosphere. Sometimes they say we have become friends with Turkey and Pakistan; they say the policy of neither West has been abandoned. And when a group of us attended the ceremonies of Brezhnev's funeral they said the policy of neither East was abandoned. The policy of neither East nor West is not for cutting off relations with East or West; Islam wants no such thing.

Relations call for certain conditions such as mutual respect, mutual rights, and other diplomatic formalities which should be practiced. However, Islam does not permit us to become attracted to an alien and atheistic nation like the Soviet Union or a colonialist and aggressive nation like the United States and place ourselves under this or that banner. We could have relations with all these countries on the basis of preserving independence and mutual respect -- except Israel whose existence is illegal or South Africa which is racist, cruel, and imposed on the backs of the blacks who are the majority. Attending ceremonies for countries' leaders is traditional and a diplomatic formality; these things do not take place without consulting the imam. These moves are to isolate us, which is treason, and our nation should take care to be aware of the movements inciting domestic current of the left and right in this problem and should not be affected by these suggestions.

KHOMEYNI DISCUSSES 'PROBLEM OF AGRICULTURE'

LD041220 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 4 Dec 82

[Text] 'Abdollah Nuri, the imam's representative at the reconstruction crusade, together with the members of the central council of the reconstruction crusade were received this morning by Imam Khomeyni, leader of the revolution and founder of the Islamic Republic of Iran.

During the audience, the imam's representative introduced the members of the central council of the reconstruction crusades and reported to the imam of the Islamic nation on the present situation in the crusade, its activities in various fields, including the development of the countryside, rendering assistance to the warfronts and the reconstruction of the country. He then presented the imam of the Islamic nation with a number of statistics on the work carried out by the crusade and its war activites and the constitution of the reconstruction crusade. Imam Khomeyni then read a speech: In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. Thanks to the issues reported by yourselves and others a great many acts of treachery perpetrated against this country and its people are being exposed with regard to the extent of the efforts carried out to prevent us from achieving anything, to bar the way to the brains that could have worked and attained scientific progress and to destroy our agriculture. You can see for yourselves how much of the country's land still remains unused and how much of the same resources, such as the waters of the Karun River, are being wasted.

Under the guise of wishing to have progress and industrializing our realm, the former regime resorted to agrarian reform as a pretext. Their problem was like than of a crow that wanted to learn the way a partridge walked but in the process forgot the way it walked itself. God willed and wrested the realm from their hands and the problems and decisions fell into the hands of the people themselves.

It is good and correct for you to say that there is some coordination in the work being carried out. This is because as long as the affairs are not run on a social basis and all individuals do not have a single course and aim, the tasks in hand will not make any progress. Today all our people wish to serve Islam and their country.

We see that at the same time that this country fell into our hands, we did not make any progress but the men therein have been transformed into ardent and active men. This is why we can carry out the tasks by ourselves. Although the United States does not want us to work and does not let us work, we and our nation, however, with the succor of the Almighty, should do something to prevent the United States from being an obstacle. Toward this end, it is essential for individual to acquaint themselves with the sciences, provided, of course, that these sciences serves the cause of the people. At any rate, our responsibilities are many and we ourselves should develop our realm. If we were to fail to carry out this task, we would fail in our thanksgiving to God.

The problem of agriculture tops all other issues in our country. Thank God that the realm from the standpoint of natural resources is doing very well. It is endowed with good water and land and its inhabitants are aware and are thinking of agriculture. The government should encourage and strengthen them and place the necessary facilities at their disposal.

I am grateful for the hard work being carried out by the gentlemen present. However, the main thing is that this hard work is being rewarded by God and the service to this people and particularly the country folk will not be in vain and you should endeavor to strengthen the spirit of faith in those individuals with whom you come in contact with the help of the clergy and sermons.

When the people's faith is strengthened all things are easy. For instance, how much hard work has this very reconstruction crusade carried out in the war! This is because of the serious way in which our young people think that the country is theirs and work for the cause of God. When they think this way, all work they are doing will make good progress. Things should not be such that if you were to discover a shortcoming or if a difficulty beset your work you should become downhearted. Continue your work.

I pray for you all and hope that God Almighty will graciously grant you success in serving these needy people, a fact which is to him tantamount to the greatest act of worship. Peace and God's mercy and benedictions be upon you!

Lebanon

Ghali Visit -- After meeting with President Amin al-Jumayyil, Egyptian Minister of State for Foreign Affairs Butrus Ghali said in remarks broadcast by Beirut radio that the message he conveyed to Al-Jumayyil had affirmed Egypt's support for Lebanon, for the withdrawal of all foreign forces and for the consolidation of reconciliation in Lebanon. Ghali said he would convey a reply message from Al-Jumayyil to Egypt's President Husni Mubarak. Egyptian sources cited by Radio Monte Carlo disclosed that Egypt will respond to any request by the Lebanese Government for rebuilding Lebanon or providing the help of Egyptian experts in all fields of training. In remarks broadcast by Beirut radio, Prime Minister Shafiq al-Wazzan said Ghali's visit aimed at exploring the possibility of Egyptian assistance to Lebanon at all levels in face of the current impasse over negotiations with Israel.

The Egyptian delegation, which included Foreign Ministry First Under Secretary Usaman al-Baz as well as Ghali, subsequently flew to Jordan, INA radio noted.

Security Situation -- IDF and Lebanese Army representatives have concluded that a shooting incident in Beirut in which an IDF soldier was wounded and two Lebanese soldiers were killed was a tragic accident, IDF radio reported. A "comprehensive investigation" conducted by both sides found that the clash occurred when a Lebanese soldier accidentally fired at an IDF vehicle; the Israelis thought they were under attack and returned fire, killing two Lebanese. This conclusion coincided with the account of the incident provided earlier by the IDF spokesman in a statement reported by IDF radio. However, Beirut radio asserted that the clash started when Israeli vehicles ignored Lebanese attempts to prevent them crossing a private Ministry of Defense road. The Lebanese were obliged to open fire, the radio said, and a 15-minute gun battle ensued.

Meanwhile, the IDF enforced strict security measures in Sidon following the discovery of the bodies of two IDF soldiers, Beirut radio reported. The Israelis detained many people in their hunt for fedayeen in the area, the radio said. The radio also reported that 5 people were killed and 60 were wounded in further factional clashes in the northern city of Tripoli. The clashes continued on 9 December, the radio noted.

PLO

Relations With Syria -- While addressing Palestinian fighters in Algeria, Fatah Central Committee member Salah Khalaf strongly attacked Syria and vehemently defended PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat, Radio Monte Carlo revealed. Khalaf criticized Syria for not providing the agreed upon 40,000 troops for the war in Lebanon and claimed that even though Pakistan placed its air force and all of its capabilities at Syria's disposal, the offer was not used, the radio added. Khalaf asserted that Algeria had also offered its assistance through Syria.

The rift between Fatah and Syria is widening, according to Jerusalem radio. With the assistance of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine-General Command and As-Sa'iqah, the Syrian Army recently imposed harsh restrictions on Fatah members in northern Lebanon and Al-Biqa', the radio reported.

'Arafat to Jordan -- The Amman daily AR-RA'Y reported on 9 December that PLO leader Yasir 'Arafat is expected to arrive in Amman "next Saturday."

Israel

HA'ARETZ published details of 35 new urban settlements planned for the West Bank. The settlements, which will be established by political, religious and private organizations, will comprise 22,500 apartments and accommodate 70,000 settlers.

Jordan

Amman television announced on 7 December that its transmissions can now be seen in "northern Palestine," southern Syria, Al-Biqa' and southern Lebanon as a result of the opening of a new relay station.

Iran-Iraq War

Mir-Hoseyn Musavi, Hashemi-Rafsanjani Remarks -- Following the 8 December Cabinet meeting, Iranian Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi asserted in an interview with Tehran radio that Iran has the power to attack Iraq along the entire length of its common border and "shall do so at the right time" in order to "deal the final blows." Questioned on foreign reports that Iran is preparing a new peace proposal, the prime minister said: "Nobody in Iran has any knowledge of this news in any depth." Anyone who has new proposals should contact Iran, but "bringing the same old message" cannot be in the interests of regional peace, he stressed.

Majlis Speaker 'Ali Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani likewise said in an interview with the radio that since Iran's announcement that no one should come to Iran to mediate unless they have fresh proposals, "we have not been inconvenienced any further." Asked about procedures for returning very young Iranian POW's, he said Iran would welcome their return under International Red Cross auspices and noted that the authorities have asked mobilization centers and the Guards Corps not to send children below the age of consent to the front.

Military Activities -- More than 120 Iraqis were killed in operations on various fronts on 7 December, a military communique broadcast by Tehran radio reported. Iraqi traffic was halted on the Al-Faw-Basra road and Iranian forces consolidated their positions while expanding their activities on every front, the communique claimed. A military communique transmitted by INA reported that 52 Iranians were killed on various fronts during 7-8 December clashes.

EDITORIAL ON ERSHAD'S RECENT PRC VISIT

BK091158 Dhaka THE BANGLADESH OBSERVER in English 6 Dec 82 p 5

[Editorial: "Bilateral Relations"]

[Text] Chief Martial Law Administrator [CMLA] Lt General H.M. Ershad returned home Saturday completing his 6-day official visit to China.

The CMLA described his visit as "successful and satisfactory." The frank and fruitful talks he had with top-ranking Chinese leaders included nearly all bilateral, regional and global issues of interest to Bangladesh and China, and the unanimity of views characterising the exchanges marked not only the background of traditional friendship and mutual understanding between the two countries but also pointed to the way such ties would develop in the days to come.

Commenting on such prospects, General Ershad observed that he and his country had full "trust in China" and that the latter had assured all possible help to Bangladesh "in times of need." In fact over the past years a viable base of cooperation and friendly relations has been built up between the two countries through reciprocity and understanding in diplomatic and other areas.

The CMLA's 6-day visit, devoted to meaningful exchanges and discussion of problems, both internal and external, has gone far to strengthen that base and opened new vistas of more expansive cooperation and bilateral action in economic and other fields.

The pragmatic aspect of the exchanges is reflected in such agreements as relate to the formation of a joint economic commission and the soft-term loan ($12.5 million) promised by China to Bangladesh. It need hardly be said that China, one of Bangladesh's neighbours in this region and one of the most technologically advanced countries of the same, is in a position to help, both by cooperation and example, the on-going development process of Bangladesh. And the restrengthened relations between the two countries augur remarkably well for all time to come. In the economic field particularly, the scope and opportunity is immense for joint ventures and exploration and exploitation of the hitherto untapped and ill-used resources of the country. Chinese expertise and cooperation, once made available for such purposes, particularly along technological lines, are expected to be one of the most important contributions to the economy of Bangladesh.

In such contexts General Ershad disarmed possible fears of any unfavourable impact on his country's relations with her other neighbours, nor, as he visualised, could these developments in China-Bangladesh relations stand in the way of friendly relations with India, nor prejudice a just and amicable settlement of outstanding issues, including Farakka, with the latter. These assurances were given by him in the course of his answers to questions from newsmen on his arrival at the Zia International Airport.

The CMLA also referred to Bangladesh's diplomatic stance in regard to such problems as Middle East, Afghanistan and Kampuchea. The Kampuchea issue received special mention as Bangladesh accorded recognition to the Democratic Government of Kampuchea and decided to establish diplomatic relations with it. This was done, as he explained, in accordance with the principles on which Bangladesh's foreign policy is based.

To symbolise the growing process of relations between the two friendly countries a viable symbol has been proposed by the CMLA, namely, a "monument of friendship"; which is obviously designed to emphasise the dimensions of increasing bilateral friendship between Bangladesh and China and the latter's assurances of continuing support and assitance to Bangladesh and its socioeconomic development.

IRANIAN ENVOY ON FURTHER OIL SUPPLY, GULF WAR

GF041158 Karachi DAWN in English 3 Dec 82 p 7

[Text] Islamabad, Dec 2 -- Mr 'Abbas Zamani Abu Sharif, Iranian ambassador, said here on Wednesday that Iran would be happy to supply more crude to Pakistan after the current agreement for supply of 10,000 barrels per day ended on expiry of one-year period.

The ambassador was asked to comment on reported OPEC statement complaining against low prices being charged by Iran for crude exports. Iran and Pakistan, Mr Abu Sharif said, were brothers and the price of commodities were not all that important while meeting each other's needs.

The ambassador addressed a press conference which was originally called for the visiting Iranian commerce minister, Mr Habibollah 'Askar-Owladi. Mr 'Askar-Owladi, who spent the whole day visiting the Afghan refugee camps near Peshawar, was, however, unable to address the press as he was reportedly indisposed on return from Peshawar later in the evening.

Mr Abu Sharif, who was in Tehran during the visit of Pakistan's foreign Minister Sahabzada Yaqub Khan, for talks with the Iranian foreign minister, Mr Velayati, said that Pakistan's foreign minister had held talks on international matters of mutual interest and bilateral relations. The visit was fruitful and likely to strengthen relations between the two countries, he added.

About the Iran-Iraq war, Mr Abu Sharif said that Iran was still engaged in ousting the aggressor forces which were entrenched on high mountains in Iranian territory. For that reason Iranian forces were at times obliged to cross into Iraqi territory and surround the mountains in order to force the agressors to vacate their positions, he said. It was important to identify the aggressor and arrange for compensation for losses suffered by the people through destruction of cities and villages, before peace could be restored in the area.

SRI LANKA

PRESIDENTIAL SECURITY TIGHTENED; SHOOTINGS CITED

BK040818 Hong Kong AFP in English 0754 GMT 4 Dec 82

[Text] Colombo, Dec, 4 (AFP) -- Security was tightened in the east coast where President Junius Jayewardene was due today, following yesterday's theft of a large quantity of detonators from government stores in Batticoloa, police announced today.

Road blocks were set up and vehicles were searched by the police. Army units moved in to secure the area where President Jayewardene is to address a rally on the December 22 national referedum.

The theft of over 800 detonators from the Highways Department was thought to be the work of militant Tamil Separatists agitating for an autonomous Tamil state of "Eelam".

Meanwhile, in the north, a politician of the ruling United National Party (UNP) was shot and seriously wounded by five youths also suspected to be Tamil separatists, published reports said today.

The politician, S.C. Chandrasekeran, was admitted to the hospital with gun shot wounds in the stomach. He was shot in his residence by five youths arriving on bicycles.

Another northern politician was shot dead by a group of youth who had arrived on bicycles last month, a hallmark of separatist operations.

In another development in the north the body of a 30-year-old man shot through the head was found yesterday some 14 miles from the northern capital of Jaffana.

The dead man, Karthigesu Velyuthapillai, had previously been in police custody for militant activities.

Police believe him to be a victim of a continuing war between the two separatist groups, whose leaders were involved in a shoot-out in Madras, South India, earlier this year.

MAJLIS SPEAKER CONFERS WITH LIBYAN OFFICIALS

GF090828 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0430 GMT 9 Dec 82

[Text] According to IRNA, 'Abd al-'Ubaydi, secretary of the Libyan Foreign Liaison Committee, and that country's minister of information, in continuation of their visit to our country last night met and conferred with Majlis Speaker Hashemi-Rafsanjani.

Our country's Foreign Affairs Minister Velayati and Libyan Ambassador in Tehran Sa'd Mudbir also were present at this meeting.

'Abd al-'Ubaydi first conveyed the friendly message of Colonel al-Qadhdhafi to Hashemi-Rafsanjani and emphasized the increased cooperation in different fields between his country and the Islamic Republic of Iran. He said: We are prepared to have continuous cooperation with you against the imposed war and the plots of the reactionary Arab countries. We are convinced that the aim of this war imposed on the Islamic Republic of Iran was simply to struggle against the Islamic revolution and to halt its export outside the borders. This war was started by America and the reactionary Arabs, but we will remain on the side of right.

The secretary of the Libyan Committee for Foreign Liaison, while discussing internal conditions in Iraq, said: We are certain Saddam is unable to resist any new Iranian blows and attacks and the hatred and [word indistinct] of the nation of Iraq for Saddam's regime has reached such an extent that it is prepared to get rid of the domination of this infidel regime which is attached neither to the Islam religion nor the Arab nation. The secretary of the Libyan Foreign Liaison Committee added: The least retaliation for Saddam, who has caused so much bloodshed is his annihilation. With regard to this imposed war, we are prepared to stand by the side of the Islamic Republic of Iran by all possible means.

At the end of his talk, he extended an invitation to the Majlis speaker to visit his country.

Hashemi-Rafsanjani then expressed gratitude for the stand of the Libyan Government on the Zionist regime of Iraq's invasion of the Islamic country of Iran: In the current year after the revolution, we have seen your country and your leader stand beside us always and one of the marks of this company is the public disgrace of Saddam in his claims that this war is a Sunni-Shi'ite and Fars-Arab conflict.

The Majlis speaker then pointed out the instability of the Zionist government of Iraq: The current days are indicative of Iraq's political and military situation, which proves that Saddam and the Ba'thist regime of Iraq are not able to continue their rule. We prefer that the Ba'thist regime be annihilated so that the nation of Iraq can get rid of the burden of this infidel party. Also, it must be proved to the world that the war criminal will face his fate.

The speaker of the Islamic Majlis, at the end of his address to the secretary of the Libyan Foreign Liaison Committee, stated: We are hopeful that constructive and definite executive measures can be taken in the political, economic, cultural, and military fields. Thus, I propose that a definite committee be formed to adopt joint policies for the development of practical scopes.

PRIME MINISTER COMMENTS ON PEACE PROPOSAL

LD081336 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 8 Dec 82

[Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi interview with unidentified correspondent at the end of the 8 December Cabinet session -- recorded]

[Excerpts] [Question] Mr Musavi, what issues were discussed and what decisions were made in today's Cabinet session?

[Answer] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. In this session, the elections were discussed again. Reports were submitted from various parts of the country, showing the preparedness of the people to participate in the elections.

[Question] Since the elections for the Council of Experts and the Majlis are to be held soon, do you have a message to the nation in this connection?

[Answer] Our great nation always has performed its duty in sensitive situations and with its actions has disheartened the enemies. The Council of Experts election is a great step for the establishment and strengthening of the system of the Islamic Republic. Naturally, our alert and aware nation will perform its divine duty and thus dishearten our enemies. We can see extensive efforts in Western mass media to undermine the election; this shows the importance of forming the Council of Experts. Even before it is formed, our enemies are frightened and disheartened. Naturally, with the formation of this council, many of the plots of the superpowers and their lackeys throughout the world will be neutralized and the continuation of this revolution and its Islamic identity will be guaranteed, God willing.

[Question] The next OPEC session will be held soon. What are the Islamic Republic of Iran's plans for that conference?

[Answer] Usually in OPEC conferences, we defend the rights of the oppressed, be they oil exporters or consumers. We declared from the start that safeguarding the Islamic revolution is the most important issue for us. We are certain that all America's efforts are directed at destroying the Islamic revolution. The (?realization) of this principle certainly would affect our decisions, our stand regarding price, the level of oil exports and so forth.

[Question] Foreign mass media have made comments on the war -- that Iran is preparing a new peace proposal. Do you have any comments on this?

[Answer] We have read these reports. The interesting point is that nobody in Iran has any knowledge of this news in any depth. We do know under what pretext these matters are raised: It is probably to put pressure on us in the struggle against the Ba'thist, 'Atlaqist regime or to weaken our resolve to crush the aggressor. We have repeatedly declared that such propaganda would have no effect on our course of action. Regarding peace delegations, we have said if they have new proposals for the realizations of our conditions and rights, they could contact us. Comings or goings bringing the same old message cannot be in the interests of peace in the region.

[Question] Iraq again yesterday bombarded one of our cities and killed or injured a number of people. What are the future plans of the combatants of Islam to crush the Iraqi Government and how far will they advance?

[Answer] Iraq recently made another mistake and let in a number of foreign reporters. They reported on the hopelessness of the internal situation of Saddam's regime.

We have our own plans. We have the power to attack Iraq along the whole length of our common border. We shall do so at the right time and shall deal the final blows to that regime, God willing.

[Question] Thank you.

RAFSANJANI ON SUPREME DEFENSE COUNCIL SESSION

LD082318 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 2030 GMT 8 Dec 82

[Excerpts] The Supreme Defense Council met this evening under the chairmanship of Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i, president of the republic and president of the Supreme Defense Council.

Participants in this session were: Hashemi-Rafsanjani, the imam's representative on this council; Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi; Brigadier General Zahirnezhad, chief of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran; Defense Minister Colonel Salimi; Mohsen Reza'i, commander in chief of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps; Rafiqdust, minister of Islamic Revolution Guards Corps; Sham'khani, deputy commander of the Guards Corps; and Kharrazi, supervisor of the war propaganda headquarters.

During this session, latest reports from the battlefronts and sociopolitical developments in the region were studied. The meeting discussed the requirements of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran; future operations were reviewed and the necessary decisions were made.

At the end of the meeting, our correspondent was granted an interview by Hashemi-Rafsanjani:

[Begin recording] [Question] Mr Hashemi, what issues were raised and what decisions were made in tonight's session of the Supreme Defense Council?

[Answer] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. Normally, we try to arrange for the Supreme Defense Council to meet once a week. Of course, some weeks we may hold more than one session and other weeks we may not have any urgent issues to discuss. We review current war issues, the army's requirements, political developments relating to the war and the like and make decisions. As usual, tonight the situation on the fronts, the situation in Kordestan, future operations, requirements and purchases were discussed and an interesting report was submitted by the defense minister on the successes achieved in the field of repairing precision war equipment. That was all.

[Question] As you know, the city of Gilan-e Gharb has been bombed by the Iraqi Ba'thist regime. Could you tell us whether this issue was raised in this session and also your opinion on this matter?

[Answer] It was not particularly a topic for discussion but Iraq's phony, harassing and showy operations were discussed in general. Iraq cannot normally do anything on the ground. When it receives a blow, it is compelled to have some news for the people, the people of the region, (?the reactionaries) and so on. Thus, it attacks a city or, it it can, it attacks a ship or carries out the kind of actions it has carried out so far. Of course, we have made a decision as to how to respond so that the Iraqis will not want to do this sort of thing any more.

[Question] Representatives of the Iraqi POW's have had a meeting with you. Could you tell us what issues were raised in this meeting and what their demands were?

[Answer] I suppose the relevent news has been reported. The main thing they had to say was that a large number of POW's are prepared to cooperate with the Islamic Republic.

They said: We are a large force here; it is a pity that this force is unused. Give us something to do, some technical job or some military work on the front. Of course, we said: As far as we are concerned, according to international regulations, we are not allowed to use prisoners on the front or to keep them in war zones. We cannot do this but if the Iraqis want to [word indistinct] their forces and to use them against Saddam [words indistinct] within the framework of international regulations [words indistinct].

[Question] Was a decision made on their working in industrial enterprises or whether they will do ordinary jobs?

[Answer] We have not made a decision yet. Of course, taking everything into account, I think if they want to do something, it would be logical to use this great force either inside the camps or nearby.

[Question] There has been some talk in connection with the mediation efforts of Algeria and the United Arab Emirates. Will you please tell us what is our position with regard to this issue and what stand should the people adopt?

[Answer] No particular question was raised. Fortunately, since the day we announced that no one should come to Iran for mediation if they have no fresh proposals, we have not been inconvenienced any further. Well, there has been no fresh proposal. Therefore, no one has come and no question has been (?raised on mediation).

[Question] About the handover of the very young Iranian POW's, Iraq has announced that it is ready to return them to Iran via the Socialist state of France. Would you please tell us whether the Supreme Defense Council has decided in this connection and, in general, what will our position be with regard to this issue?

[Answer] This is another demagogical step taken by Iraq. It is lying. Previously a question was raised about exchange of POW's families. We prepared ourselves, established a headquarters and planned a program, but the Iraqis departed from the idea. And now they have made this remark and particularly have suggested France. They want to make some concessions to France because that country has given more help to Iraq recently. They want to give good marks to France as a mediator. This is the task of the Red Cross, which is usually in charge of such matters. We know France has no good intentions and is hoping to take propaganda advantage of this problem. Therefore, we said: If Iraq has made such plans, then it can go through the Red Cross and we will welcome the idea. Why should we not welcome such an idea? But is is a lie; Iraq is telling lies. It wants to raise the issue of children being sent to the front. Well, you are aware that in Iran, as the imam has mentioned and I also said during Friday prayers, we have asked the mobilization centers and the Guards Corps not to send children below the age of consent to the front. Sometimes, they (?might) follow their father or a (?guardian). I do not know if such persons have been taken prisoner. Iraq once again has raised the point that children are sent to the fronts in Iran.

[Question] About the operations of the U.S. Rapid Deployment Forces in the region and their secret arrival in the region, what is your (?interpretation)?

[Answer] Well, it is a clear (?interpretation): Every time the U.S. agents in the region are panic-stricken, the United States tries to boost their morale. This is the way to boost their morale. This is their weapon for a rainy day. This is one of the United States' very clumsy deeds.

A superpower degrades itself so much in order to frighten the Islamic Republic of Iran. It thinks the Islamic Republic can be frightened with such deeds. It is staging a maneuver (?near) our country. What could the United States, with all its forces, do in Vietnam? What have the Soviets achieved next door in Afghanistan? Will we be frightened by such maneuvers? We also announced earlier that we prefer to engage directly with the United States. We would rather face them ourselves instead of encouraging the Iraqi Muslims or Muslims from other countries to fight against the United States. When our nation began its struggle against the United States, it prepared itself for such deeds. We are prepared for everything. The United States' past record in Vietnam, El Salvador and other places shows that its moves will not frighten the combative people of the world. [end recording]

LD081726 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 8 Dec 82

[Communique No 1,146 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. The strong combatants of Islam are continuing their efforts to route and annihilate the aggressive enemy on all battlefronts. In the Moharram operational zone and the southern fronts yesterday, as a result of our units' fire 8 enemy trenches, 1 106-mm rifle emplacement and 1 observation tower were destroyed and 120 Iraqi soldiers were killed. Enemy vehicular traffic also was halted on the Al-Faw-Basra road.

The coastal units of the Gendarmerie of the Islamic Republic of Iran opened fire on enemy position on the other side of the Arvand Rud. They destroyed several weapon emplacements of the Ba'thist mercenaries and killed or wounded a number of troops.

In the Muslim ibn 'Aqil operational zone and on the western fronts, sporadic exchanges of fire were going on. The Saddamist forces suffered the following logistic losses: destruction of five mortars and two personnel carrying vehicles; one enemy tank damaged; and one trailer carrying ammunition set on fire.

Our combative units on every front are consolidating and stabilizing their positions, expanding their activities, still holding the initiative, and enjoying fire superiority.

[Signed] The Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran

IRAQI SHELLING OF SAR-E POL-E ZAHAB CITED

LD081724 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 8 Dec 82

[Text] IRNA reports that the aggressive enemy yesterday pounded Sar-e Pol-e Zahab with long-range artillery for 1 hour. The enemy shelling was so intense that members of the reconstruction crusade, who are rebuilding the city, were unable to remain in the city. For the umpteenth time, the aggressive enemy has moved its artillery and katyushas in the Tang-e Hammam and (Tang-e Bishegan) to shell Sar-e Pol-e Zahab and prevent reconstruction work in the city.

It should be pointed out that the proud city of Sar-e Pol-e Zahab is being shelled at a time when the mouthpieces of Baghdad's regime claim they have fully withdrawn from the territory of our Islamic homeland.

CLANDESTINE REPORTS ROK EXPERTS IN SHIRAZ

GF261754 (Clandestine) Radio Iran in Persian to Iran 1330 GMT 26 Nov 82

[Text] According to reports reaching Radio Iran, the representatives of the National Resistance of Iran movement in Shiraz have informed us that more than 100 Korean petroleum and petrochemical experts sent by the ROK are living in Shiraz so that they can increase the production of the Shiraz petrochemical complex by repairing the installations and, by March 1984, reach the level of its pre-revolution output.

In lieu of this service and assistance to the Islamic Republic regime by the ROK, the pro-U.S. affiliation of which is obvious to all, the Islamic Republic regime has reciprocated by signing two agreements for the sale of its oil to the tune of 25 million barrels for 1982-83 and 40 million barrels for 1983-84 with the ROK. Thus, the ROK will have access to oil at low prices.

He added: China can cooperate with the Islamic Republic of Iran, as an Islamic independent country, in various fields. MIDDLE EAST AND SOUTH ASIA REVIEW

Iran-Iraq Conflict

The Iraqi Navy and Air Force destroyed three naval targets in the Khowr-e Musa area, an Iraqi Armed Forces communique broadcast by Baghdad Voice of the Masses radio announced. The Iraqis had attacked seven Iranian ships heading toward the port of Bandar-e Khomeyni, the communique said. Meanwhile, Tehran radio reported that the Iranian Government has decided that Iran's National Insurance Company will insure all vessels that frequent Iranian ports against possible war damage.

Iran

The nation began voting for the Council of Experts with "overwhelming enthusiasm and fervor," Tehran radio claimed. Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni himself went to vote near his Jamaran residence "with firm and confident steps," the radio said.

Israel

Relations With Lebanon, U.S. -- Amin al-Jumayyil can be Lebanon's president if he signs a peace agreement with Israel, but otherwise he will be president of his palace only, Defense Minister Ari'el Sharon told Jewish leaders in New York in remarks reported by Jerusalem radio. Claiming that the United States is impeding and restricting the achievement of a peace treaty between Israel and Lebanon, Sharon criticized some elements in the U.S. Administration for trying to revive the PLO with "artificial respiration" and for attempting to persuade Egypt and Jordan that the PLO is vital for achieving a solution to the Middle East crisis.

A senior Israeli official cited by DAVAR indicated that Israel is maintaining its demand that Lebanese-Israeli talks be held in Jerusalem because it objects to U.S. concern for Saudi feelings over the issue. The "crisis of credibility" in Israel-U.S. relations is caused not by Israel's position but by "the process of Bechtelization" which U.S. foreign policy is currently undergoing, the official contended. However, Jerusalem radio reported that Israeli Foreign Ministry officials have expressed reservations about Israeli criticisms of U.S. officials, particularly Secretary of State George Shultz. Asserting that such attacks originate in Prime Minister Menahem Begin's office, the officials said Israel should avoid a crisis in relations with the United States.

Begin's Future, Letter to Commission -- Prime Minister Begin told the JEWISH CHRONICLE's foreign editor that he will continue in office, despite his wife's death, because "it is my duty toward my people," THE JERUSALEM POST reported. Meanwhile, ITIM published the text of Begin's letter to the commission of inquiry into the Beirut massacre; the prime minister announced that he will not use his right to interrogate witnesses and present evidence.

New Party -- Former Defense Minister 'Ezer Weizman has revealed that he intends to establish a new party to run in the next Knesset elections, Jerusalem radio reported.

Lebanon

Factional clashes continued in Tripoli and four Syrians were killed when their vehicle was ambushed outside the city, according to Beirut radio reports. Jerusalem radio's Arabic service said Palestinian fighters from Fatah staged the ambush in response to Syrian harassment of Fatah in northern Lebanon. Inside the city most establishments went on strike on 10 December to protest the recurring violence, Beirut radio noted.

The radio also reported further clashes between Christians and Druze in the Ash-Shuf hills. Meanwhile, Voice of Lebanon radio warned that an "unhealthy substance" has been deposited in the waters supplying the Ash-Shuf and 'Alayh areas.

PLO

PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat chaired a meeting in the YAR of the PLO's Supreme Military Council, San'a' Voice of Palestine radio reported. A number of important military issues were discussed. According to San'a' radio, the YAR capital will shortly host a PLO meeting aimed at bolstering Palestinian unity.

Arab Diplomacy, Inter-Arab Affairs

Morocco Talks -- Moroccan King Hassan II received Britisn emissary Lord Chalfont, who conveyed Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's desire to find a solution to the dispute over the Arab seven-member committee's visit to London, Rabat radio reported. Earlier, King Hassan met with Saudi King Fahd ibn 'Abd al-'Aziz, Riyadh radio noted.

Syrian View on Fes Plan -- Syrian Foreign Minister 'Abd al-Halim Khaddam stated that attempts to reconcile or blend the Fes summit resolutions with President Ronald Reagan's peace plan would be tantamount to abandoning the Fes proposals and would be a step backward, the London-based daily ASH-SHARQ AL-AWSAT reported. The Fes resolutions are the "red line" from which there must be no retreat and which must not be abandoned, Khaddam asserted.

Arab-Egyptian Relations -- Iraqi President Saddam Husayn announced in a message to the Arab Strategic Studies Center that Iraq looks forward to the restoration of Egypt's "natural influential role" in the pan-Arab movement. The message, which was broadcast by Baghdad Voice of the Masses radio, affirmed that Iraq is eager to redouble its efforts to remove obstacles hampering attainment of this goal.

Meanwhile, after returning to Cairo from Jordan, Egyptian Minister of State for Foreign Affairs Butrus Ghali submitted a report to President Husni Mubarak on the outcome of the Egyptian delegation's discussions with Lebanese leaders, Cairo radio reported.

Saudi Arabia

A Riyadh radio commentary stated that while the Kingdom does not consider itself obliged "to establish any relations," the possibility of studying "any plan for future cooperation with any country" will remain open.

FINANCE MINISTER RETURNS FROM MOSCOW TALKS

LD100524 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1600 GMT 9 Dec 82

[Text] Finance Minister Abdol Wakil today returned to Kabul from Moscow. The finance minister had gone to Moscow at the invitation of the USSR minister of finance for a friendly and official visit and for talks about the extension of financial and economic cooperation between the DRA and USSR.

GROUP REPORTS ON SOVIET USE OF CHEMICAL WEAPONS

NC091711 Paris AFP in English 1700 GMT 9 Dec 82

[Text] Paris, Dec 9 (AFP) -- An investigating team returning from Afghanistan said today it appeared as though Soviet forces had used chemical weapons there, but warned it was difficult to obtain sure proof.

Sent by the Peoples Permanent Tribunal, a continuation of the Russell Tribunal on Vietnam and South America, the investigators said signs "tended" to confirm the use of chemical warfare, but emphasized the difficulty in obtaining evidence.

The tribunal is scheduled to hold its second session here from December 16 to 20. During its first session in Stockholm in May of 1981, the tribunal qualified Soviet intervention in Afghanistan as an aggression.

During a press conference today, members of the tribunal's investigating team spoke of mass evacuation of Afghan villages following bombing by Soviet aircraft.

They also cited eyewitness accounts of an incident last September in which a hundred villagers were said to have been burned alive in an irrigation ditch by Soviet soldiers. The witnesses, interviewed by the commission during a secret visit to Afghanistan from November 26 to December 4, said the 105 civilians had been discovered hiding in the underground irrigation canal near Padkhwab-e-Shana village, 60 kms (36 miles) south of Kabul, by Soviet soldiers on September 13. The Russians reportedly dammed up one end of the canal, causing the water to rise, then injected an inflammable substance. An enormous explosion ensued, which burned everyone inside to death, the commission reported. Commission members Michael Barry, Ricardo Flaile and Michel Baret visited clandestinely the site of the reported massacre on the night of December 3 and found the canal wall blackened, apparently by an inflammable substance.

(In Peshawar, Pakistan, resistance sources said a young rebel leader was killed Tuesday during an attack on a government outpost in the eastern province of Nangarhar.)

KARMAL ON HUMAN RIGHTS DECLARATION ANNIVERSARY

LD101050 Kabul BAKHTAR in English 0432 GMT 10 Dec 82

[Text] Kabul, Dec. 9, BAKHTAR -- Following is a message by Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA CC and president of the Revolutionary Council of the DRA, on the occasion of marking 34th anniversary of the universal declaration of human rights:

At this time when the countries of the world celebrate the 34th anniversary of the universal declaration of human rights, I have the pleasure to present on behalf of the Central Committee of the PDPA, the Revolutionary Council of the DRA and on my own, our best and sincere felicitations and wishes to all the people of Afghanistan especially to workers, peasants and other working people whose human-rights were trampled upon for years on end by the despotic past regimes for satisfying their inhuman whims and caprices.

The victory of Sawr Revolution which is a turning point in the prideful history of our dear revolutionary Afghanistan declared for the first time the respect for the real rights for the people of the country and its new and evolutionary phase further paved the grounds for the granting in practice the human rights and the protection of all the accepted and legal freedom and provided their confirmation in the fundamental principles of the DRA.

For the first time in history of the DRA, real equality between brotherly nationalities and tribes residing in Afghanistan and equality of rights between men and women were declared, ensured and were put into effect. Today, all noble sons of all the nationalities residing in our united country, Afghanistan, participate in the administration and execution of party and state affairs of the country.

Similarly, women side by side with men are taking part in the construction of a blossoming Afghanistan and hold important party and state posts.

The DRA for the first time in the history of the country approved the most important treaties such as the international convenant on the civil and political rights, the international convenant on the economic, social and cultural rights and proposes to join in the signatories to these convenants. Afghanistan is also considering to ratify other important convenants such as the convention on the removal and eradication of crimes of apartheid, and a number of other conventions are under consideration.

It should be said with utmost regret that despite [words indistinct] 34 years since the adoption of universal declaration of human rights the broad masses of many regions, and the nations of the world are still languishing under the oppression and tyranny of the imperialist and racist countries. Millions of workers and peasants and artisans are being ruthlessly exploited by those who wield power and wealth in countries ruled by imperialist and reactionary regimes.

During the current year, thousands of militant Palestinians and the defenceless men, women and children of Lebanon were the victims of the savage and inhuman attacks by Zionists and their reactionary accomplices. The tragic memory of the massacre at Sabra and Shatila camps will permanently keep in sorrow the conscience of the progressive humanity.

The militant peoples of Namibia are still living under the oppression and tyranny of the racist regime of Pretoria and numerous militants such as Nelson Mandela have been inhumanly tortured behind the bars of the fascist regime of South Africa.

The heroic fighters of the National Liberation Front of Farabundo Marti and other fighters of the cause of freedom and human rights in the countries of Latin America and Caribbean region are under inhuman oppression and torture and are calling for the support of the justful and right world.

While declaring our deep respect to the universal declaration of the human rights and other convenants and declarations and while taking practical all-sided and firm steps towards their strict implementation, we are hopeful that practical measures will be taken in all the countries of the world for paying respect to the high position of man, especially of the working man so that all individuals of our planet may be able to live in peace and tranquillity enjoying full human rights.

Similarly, we declare once again our support for the effective and constructive efforts of the United Nations, the Commission on Human Rights, the progressive and peaceful forces for the creation of a world society in which the human rights would be ensured.

BK100911 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0830 GMT 10 Dec 82

[Text] The prime minister has again said that India believes in avoiding war and resolving differences through negotiations. But, she said, this does not imply slackness in preparedness. Mrs Gandhi was speaking in Dehra Dun today at the golden jubilee parade to mark the completion of 50 years of the Indian Military Academy.

Mrs Gandhi said keeping pace with time is essential for progress in any sphere, more so with regard to defense. She said rapid induction of science and technology and overall changes in society require increased awareness by the officers cadre in the management of human and material resources.

Mrs Gandhi said the setting up of the academy was a landmark in the history of the country and right from its inception the institute has held fine traditions and a record of exemplary services. Since independence our forces are manned and led entirely by our own people and they have earned respect for their conduct both in war and in peace.

The prime minister commended the role of the Army in the Asian games and said our Armed Forces have always come forward in times of need. They have demonstrated their dedication in removing the sufferings of the people during national calamities. They also set an example of a mini-India and play the role of national integration.

Among those who witnessed the parade were the defense minister, communications minister, deputy defense minister and the governor of Uttar Pradesh. Later, the prime minister released a postal stamp to commemorate the occasion.

MONTAZERI MEETS WITH JOINT STAFF OFFICIALS

LD091426 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 9 Dec 82

[Text] According to a Central News Unit report, the chairman of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran, accompanied by officials of the various bureaus of the Joint Staff, yesterday met with His Great Eminence the Grand Ayatollah Montazeri in Qom. He reported on the situation at the fronts and on recent developments.

The Grand Ayatollah Montazeri, while praising them and praying for the victory of the fighters of Islam on all fronts, then said the sensitive nature and importance of the elections to the Council of Experts can be seen in the stands adopted by the enemies of Islam abroad and their hostile propaganda through the Zionist loudspeakers. They do not want these elections to be held with the same grandeur and glory as previous elections. They are frightened of the people's commitment and their timely decisions. However, our aware and alert people will turn their hope into despair through their mass participation in the election of experts.

Citing His Holiness 'Ali, may God's peace be upon him, about the importance of the Armed Forces and the need for strengthening them and paying more attention to them, the Grand Ayatollah Montazeri said that after the success of the revolution alien hands and dependent groups tried to destroy the armed forces from a quantitative point of view and to weaken them from a qualitative point of view and to prevent the young Islamic Republic from having a powerful and well-equipped army. However, the awareness and the timely decision of the great leader of the revolution neutralized this conspiracy. His Great Eminence the Grand Ayatollah Montazeri emphasized that the commanders and army chiefs should increase their contacts with the NCO's and soldiers and should be better informed of internal developments in the Armed Forces through their constant supervision. They should be closely informed of the difficulties, problems and shortages of the lower ranks and should take revolutionary steps.

Finally, the Grand Ayatollah Montazeri offered guidelines on the need for great coordination in allocating the facilities to various fronts and preventing the disorderly and disproportionate distribution of those facilities.

LD091726 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 9 Dec 82

[Communique No 1,147 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. Our dear compatriots hereby are informed of the sacrifices rendered by the combatants of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran during yesterday's battles in the imposed war.

On the Marivan Front, the Islamic combatants' effective fire inflicted losses and casualties on the Saddamist forces in the (Hargineh) region, destroying enemy positions and killing or injuring several enemy personnel.

On the Qasr-e-Shirin and Sar-e Pol-e Zahab fronts, the Islamic combatants halted the Saddamist forces' fire, destroyed five enemy foxholes and bunkers, and killed several Iraqi personnel.

On the Sumar front, army combatants, using artillery fire against enemy positions, set on fire a number of Iraqi forces' vehicles and inflicted extensive damages on them. Our forces also destroyed four Iraqi light and heavy weapon bunkers.

Exchanges of fire continued on the Abadan and Khorramshahr fronts in the last 24 hours and our forces returned enemy fire on positions on the other side of the Arvand Rud, destroying a number of Saddamist forces' weapon positions and observation posts and killing several Iraqis.

The cities of Abadan and Khorramshahr yesterday were still under the Saddamist mercenaries' long-range artillery fire, which resulted in losses and casualties.

Exchanges of fire continued on other southern fronts and the Islamic combatants, while defending and consolidating their positons, have the enemy's positions and units under their constant artillery and other heavy weapons fire. While they controlled the Saddamist forces' moves and activities, they inflicted losses and casualties on the enemy through their retaliatory actions.

The Saddamist forces' air violations yesterday were repulsed by the selfless personnel of the Air Force and the fire of the air defense units of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran; the invading enemy aircraft were driven away.

During this meeting -- also attended by Foreign Minister Velayati, Presidential Adviser Mir Sali, the Iranian ambassador to Libya, the Libyan ambassador to Iran and a number of officials from both countries -- the Libyan foreign minister expressed support for Iran's initiatives for ousting the regime occupying Jerusalem for international assemblies. He stressed the dependence of the shaky regime of Iraq on U.S. imperialism. He said: Every defeat inflicted on the Ba'thist regime of Iraq is, in fact, inflicted on America. The defeat of Saddam's regime would be the best present that could be given in place of the blood of the martyrs who have given their lives in this confrontation.

Referring to the soulless bodies [as heard] of the reactionary governments in the region, the president then said: These are systems that are not built on the will of their people. He added: Today, we feel stronger than ever in face of the shaky regime of Iraq. God willing, final victory will be ours.

On now to neutralize U.S. imperialist plots, Khamene'i said: With their resistance to the plots and underhanded actions of America, Muslim nations should show that it is possible to fight them.

VELAYATI WARNS NICARAGUAN COUNTERPART AGAINST U.S.

[Message from Foreign Minister 'Ali Akbar Velayati to Nicaraguan Foreign Minister Miguel d'Escoto Brockman -- date not given]

[Text] In the name of God. Your Excellency Mr Miguel d'Escoto Brockman, foreign affairs minister of Nicaragua: As you already know, U.S. President Ronald Reagan, who is continuing his tour of several Latin American countries, aimed at preparing fresh conspiracies for the suppression of the Central American peoples' liberation campaigns, is currently touring that region. [as heard]

In view of the great satan's policy of aggression and hegemony, the Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran has no doubt that the aim behind Reagan's tour of Central America is to intensify pressure on and threats against the struggling people and Government of Nicaragua and to suppress the liberation movements and struggles of the oppressed people of that region. U.S. imperialism's devious tactics in proposing deceitful economic projects and offering support for the lacky and unpopular regimes in the countries of that region are a design for the realization of that statanic aim.

While condemning the ruling American circles' devious conspiracies and reiterating the support of the people and Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran for the struggles of the Nicaraguan Government and people in their campaign against the United States and its mercenary agents in that region, and also supporting the liberation movements in that region. The Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran is sure that those seeking liberation in those countries will destroy U.S. imperialism's bases of hegemony and exploitation through their unity, solidarity and struggle.

Hoping for the victory of the oppressed over the oppressors.

TEHRAN FRIDAY IMAM ASSAILS U.S. MANEUVERS

GF101058 Tehran International Service in Arabic 0922 GMT 10 Dec 82

[Arabic sermon delivered by acting Tehran Friday Imam Ayatollah Musavi-Ardabili, during 10 November Friday prayers at Tehran University -- live]

[Excerpt] At a time when Saddam is continuing his aggression, reports are being circulated about fake U.S. peace plans. As we announced earlier on various occasions, we will not quit defending our Islam, our holy places, our revolution, the soil of our homeland, until we have recovered all of our rights and have taught the perfidious enemy a lesson, so that this enemy and its like will not dare to carry out any aggression against the peoples.

Today we face Iraq stringently, and we feel that we have more strength than at any time before to direct heavy blows against the rulers of Baghdad and their lords. The rulers of Iraq will not make use of all this economic, military, political, and press media aid. All these conferences, meetings, and suspicious visits will not change anything about their fate.

We will also not be worried about all these maneuvers undertaken by U.S. imperialism in the Persian Gulf, as well as in Somalia. These maneuvers are going on in two countries whose governments are regarded as agents of the archsatan. Moreover, the formation of the Rapid Deployment Force -- which took place after the victory of the blessed Islamic revolution in Iran -- implies the weakness of the United States, its collapse, and its defeat before the will of the peoples. [The United States] has only one option, which is the implementation of the law of the jungle, assailing the peoples and carrying out such hopeless (?adventures) which were unveiled by the peoples.

We did not fear the United States when it ruled Iran during the days of the buried shah, so we kicked it out. Today we face the United States through its agents in the region -- Zionism and reaction.

We wish we could confront it directly (?as we confront) Satan. [Words indistinct] in God and human beings, for what is better than defeating it and thus achieving victory or martyrdom? The rulers of the region have to be aware of the great danger threatening Islam and the Muslims. It is regretful that some of the Arab politicians say that the United States is the only power that prevents aggression against this sensitive region, that is, the Persian Gulf region. Who carries out aggression against the Gulf region and the Middle East, and provides all the arrogant with weapons and capabilities? The only power is the power of Islam. The audacious combatants counted on the children of the people to be able to expel the aggressors, as we did in Iran against Saddam, the infidel, and his aggressive force.

Peace be upon you.

FBIS DAILY REPORT

MIDDLE EAST AND SOUTH ASIA REVIEW

Lebanon

Draper, Habib Efforts -- U.S. Deputy Assistant Under Secretary of State Morris Draper arrived in Beirut on 14 December, Beirut radio reported. "Informed sources" expressed satisfaction with the continuing U.S. efforts and affirmed that it has become possible to reach practical results if Israel acts in a well-intentioned manner, the radio added. Noting that U.S. envoy Philip Habib is expected to arrive in Israel on 15 December, another Beirut report expressed the hope that the two envoys' work will lead to limited withdrawals.

Habib may succeed in securing the 15-km withdrawal of Israeli, Syrian and Palestinian forces as an initial phase, unidentified press reports cited by Beirut radio indicated. However, the Tel Aviv daily HA'ARETZ cited "senior political sources" in Jerusalem as saying that there are no early signs that the United States intends to effect a "disengagement of forces" in Lebanon. THE JERUSALEM POST stated that even if Israel and Lebanon reach an agreement on security in southern Lebanon, an IDF withdrawal could be "remote" because Syria shows no signs of wanting to leave.

Tripoli Situation -- Former Prime Minister Rashid Karami chaired a meeting in Tripoli convened to discuss methods of dealing with the situation in the area, Beirut radio reported. Members of the delegation that visited Damascus on 13 December attended the meeting and reported that a "Syrian envoy" will soon arrive in Tripoli to meet with local leaders and study the situation, the radio added.

Armed clashes resumed in Tripoli on 14 December between Lebanese groups and the Arab Deterrent Forces, Baghdad Voice of the PLO radio reported. Beirut radio reports noted that the situation in Tripoli was tense, and that intermittent, sometimes violent, clashes occurred in some areas.

'Alayh Situation -- Although a Beirut radio report that the curfew in 'Alayh was lifted, shops were opened and the international highway was opened in both directions. The clandestine Radio Free Lebanon reported that "substantial caution" prevailed in the area following the injury of two Christians, an incident "which forced the Lebanese Forces to respond by firing." The Socialist Party center in Hayy al-Balakin was fired on and some of the building's occupants were injured, the radio added.

Israel

Defense Minister Ari'el Sharon asserted that although Israel has no intention of annexing "Judaea and Samaria," it will continue to establish settlements there, Jerusalem radio reported. He called Israeli security and settlements in Judaea, and Samaria "basic rights" and added that the current government will continue to implement its settlement policy. Sharon insisted that the settlements will prevent any possibility of establishing a "second Palestinian state -- second to one that exists already in Jordan," another Jerusalem radio report stated.

Egypt

President Husni Mubarak met with FRG President Karl Carstens and Chancellor Helmut Kohl on 14 December in Bonn to discuss both bilateral and international relations, particularly Middle East issues, MENA and DPA reported. In a speech delivered at a luncheon hosted by Carstens, the text of which was transmitted by MENA, Mubarak stated that Egypt welcomes an active European role in the Middle East and is pleased that the FRG has called for immediate Israeli withdrawal from Lebanon.

PLO

Amman Meetings -- A press statement issued by the higher Jordanian-Palestinian committee following meetings held 13-14 December in Amman declared that the committee members agreed to continue moving together politically on all levels based on a commitment to the Fes summit resolutions and to marshall all resources in order to regain Arab and Palestinian rights, Amman radio reported. PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat termed the committee's discussion "constructive and fruitful," another Amman radio report stated. Radio Monte Carlo noted that the "new strategy" devised by the committee is aimed at bringing international initiatives and the Arab peace plan closer together.

'Arafat Interview -- PLO leader Yasir 'Arafat told the Kuwait daily AS-SIYASAH that the PLO rejects "all U.S. and Zionist plans and initiatives headed by the autonomous rule and the Camp David accord," KUNA reported. The PLO leader denounced these plans as attempts to shatter Palestinian unity. 'Arafat also noted that the recent meetings in Aden were some of the most important Palestinian meetings and will have "tangible, positive" results.

Diplomatic Recognition -- Bolivia has granted the PLO office in La Paz full diplomatic status, Baghdad Voice of PLO radio reported.

Inter-Arab Affairs

PLO-Ba'th Meeting -- 'Abdallah al-Ahmar, assistant secretary general of the Arab Socialist Ba'th Party, met with Palestine National Council Speaker Khalid al-Fahum in Damascus on 14 December to discuss the latest Middle East developments, Damascus radio revealed. The two sides stressed the importance of Syrian-Palestinian relations and emphasized the need to continue the joint struggle to establish Palestinian rights, the radio added.

Saudi-Syrian Talks -- Saudi Arabia's King Fahd will soon visit Syria in an attempt to settle differences between Syria and Iraq, KUNA reported citing the Kuwait daily AL-ANBA'. Political sources told AL-ANBA' that the talks would include discussion of Syrian-Palestinian relations, the seven-member Arab League delegation's recent visits as well as possible Syrian assistance in effecting the withdrawal of Israeli forces from Lebanon. Informed Saudi sources expect the "anticipated and important visit" to take place as soon as the Saudi monarch returns from his current private visit to Spain, the same KUNA report stated.

Gulf Affairs

GCC Justice Meeting -- During a 2-day meeting in Riyadh, GCC justice ministers agreed on the framework and general principles for basing their countries' judicial systems and legislation on Islamic law, KUNA reported. Experts from the six member countries' Justice Ministries will meet to put the agreement into practice, KUNA added. Noting that some Gulf countries have implemented "cosmetic measures" such as banning Christmas and New Year parties in order to conform with Islamic laws and traditions, IRNA asserted that these decisions were made because the Muslims in the Gulf have been strongly influenced by the Islamic revolution in Iran.

YAR Earthquake -- YAR Prime Minister 'Abd al-Karim al-Iryani announced that 142 towns and villages were damaged and over 2,000 people are known to have been killed or injured in the 13 December earthquake that struck Dhamar Province, Aden and San'a' radios reported. The seismic center in Djibouti registered four earth tremors from 1215 to 1730 on 13 December; the initial tremor registered 6 and the three subsequent tremors each registered 5.4 on the Richter scale, San'a' radio reported.

PDRY Student Protest -- A statement issued at a youth rally held in Aden to protest U.S. military exercises in Oman and Somalia condemned the exercises and asserted that the Gulf has become a primary target of U.S. imperialism, Aden radio reported. One youth leader accused the United States of mounting the exercises in respnse to the recent successful meetings PDRY and PLO leaders held in Aden, the radio added.

RAO COMMENTS ON MIDDLE EAST, AFGHANISTAN

PM141037 Cairo AL-AKHBAR in Arabic 8 Dec 82 pp 1, 10, 12

[Report on interview with External Affairs Minister Narasimha Rao by Maha 'Abd al-Fattah in New Delhi -- date not given]

[Excerpts] Indian External Affairs Minister Narasimha Rao has asserted: We will work for all parties to be present at the negotiating table, and that includes the PLO.

He denied that India intends to introduce a new initiative. However, he expressed the hope that the forthcoming nonaligned state's conference would find a formula or a way that would lead to the participation of all sides, including the PLO, in the negotiations.

The Indian external affairs minister confirmed strong and continuous relations with Yasir 'Arafat. He said Chairman 'Arafat wants a peaceful and just settlement.

Rao emphasized that his country did not condone violence -- not even as a countermeasure to violence. He said India supports a peaceful settlement provided it is based on self-determination, a Palestinian state, and the peaceful coexistence of all sides.

Referring to Israel's attitude, he said Israel has devised special laws for itself to the exclusion of international law. He added that Israel has been able to do that for two reasons: the power at its disposal and the support of a superpower. (He means the United States.)

On the Iraqi-Iranian war, he said reports reaching him did not indicate an early end to the war, which has developed into a war of attrition between the two sides. He said this is one of the main topics before the nonaligned conference and a solution from outside the movement was difficult.

On Afghanistan, he said India believes foreign interference in Afghanistan should be halted before the Soviet Union is asked to withdraw its forces. In other words, "a constructive dialogue" between Pakistan and the Afghan Government would end what he described as "foreign interference," and then the Soviet Union could be asked to withdraw its forces from Afghanistan. He said he hopes the current UN efforts will bear fruit until the nonaligned conference is held.

The interview broached other subjects such as the [Nonaligned] Movement's philosophy and development. This led to a discussion on the means of defending Gulf security and India's views regarding new political methods and changes, such as the Rapid Deployment Force. He clearly stated that defense is the responsibility of the states concerned and that the security of the Gulf is the responsibility of the Gulf states. He then suddenly asked: Defending the Gulf against whom? He emphasized that these matters should be kept as far away from superpower interference as possible.

RAHIM VIEWS NONALIGNED MOVEMENT, FOREIGN TIES

BK130905 Delhi ISI Diplomatic Information Service in English 0834 GMT 13 Dec 82

[Text] Minister of State for External Affairs A.A. Rahim has said that in spite of "some ideological differences" among nonaligned countries the movement retains its "vitality, importance and relevance". In an interview with WEEKEND REVIEW published in New Delhi on December 12 Rahim said although there was "an unfortunate" conflict between the two nonaligned countries namely Iran and Iraq, it was significant that both had agreed to the mediatory role of the nonaligned nations committee of four of which India was a member.

Asked about the visit to India of Egyptian President Husni Mubarak and the Franco-Egyptian proposals on West Asia, Rahim said the proposals, like others on West Asia, had "elements" which could lead to a durable solution of the crisis. Egypt was "increasingly realising" the importance of returning to the Arab fold and was interested in "reasserting" its traditional role within the Nonaligned Movement, he said.

On Indo-Soviet relations, Rahim said the change of leadership in the Soviet Union would not affect relations between the two countries which were "time tested and based on mutual benefit."

Following Mrs Gandhi's visit to the United States there had been an improvement in the "atmosphere of Indo-U.S. relations," he also noted.

The minister said the establishment of a joint commission following the official level talks between India and Pakistan would give "an impetus" to consideration of Pakistan's no-war pact and India's treaty of friendship proposals. He said India was "prepared in principle" to discuss the Kashmir issue with Pakistan in terms of the Simla Agreement.

CPI SAYS U.S. CENTRAL COMMAND THREATENS PEACE

BK101724 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 10 Dec 82

[Text] The Communist Party of India has deplored the U.S. move to form a new central command covering the Indian Ocean area. In a statement in New Delhi, the party's Central Secretariat said this will increase a threat to peace in the region.

BK101726 Hong Kong AFP in English 1648 GMT 10 Dec 82

[Text] New Delhi, Dec. 10 (AFP) -- The pro-Moscow Communist Party of India (CPI) today attacked the U.S. decision to launch a new central command for its Rapid Deployment Force saying it was a threat to peace, independence and security in the Mideast, Gulf and Indian Ocean.

"It is a most blatant declaration of U.S. imperialist intentions to intensify its aggressive activities against the countries of this region, including our own, the CPI Central Secretariat said in a statement here. It added the move was "in the name of safeguarding the so-called U.S. interests in this region and under the pretext of meeting the fictitious Soviet threat."

The U.S. decision had to be seen, the statement continued, in the context of the growing militarisation of the military dictatorship in Pakistan and the continuing American-backed Israeli aggression against Lebanon, the PLO and other Arab countries.

It urged Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government to strongly denounce this move and mobilise opposition to it among countries in the region.

PRIME MINISTER CAUTIONS AGAINST REGIONALISM

BK131720 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 13 Dec 82

[Excerpts] The Congress, led by A.K. Anthony, in Kerala today formally merged with the Congress-I at a function in Cochin this evening. Blessing the unity of both the Congresses, Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi said this should bring greater stability, progress and prosperity to Kerala. She said that Congress stands firmly for the unity of the country. If we do not maintain the unity, we will not be able to defend our freedom. We stand for democracy and secularism, she added.

The prime minister said that some people are encouraging regionalism in the country for political reasons by misleading people. She cautioned that any type of regionalism is as big a danger as threat from outside.

Referring to the reported statements made by some Communist Party of India-Marxist (CPI-M) leaders that she is exploiting threats to the country, Mrs Gandhi said she had always expressed her anxiety and concern over this. Though India always stands for peace, in the present situation we cannot slacken our efforts to meet any eventuality. Our expenditure on defense is the lowest in the world.

With today's merger, the Congress-I has become the largest single party in the 140-member Kerala Assembly with 34 members.

MRS BHUTTO CRITICIZES ZIA IN PARIS INTERVIEW

PM141121 Paris LE FIGARO in French 11-12 Dec 82 p 3

[Interview with Pakistan People's Party Chairman Nusrat Bhutto by Claude Lorieux in Paris -- date not given]

[Excerpt] Mrs Bhutto thinks Ziaul Haq and his aides have been violating the 1973 Constitution since they came to power: "They have, therefore, committed treason. When the time comes, they will be judged according to the law and Constitution and not, of course, according to my personal opinions."

In her view, it would be wrong to regard Ziaul Haq's long stay in the United States and Canada (9 days) as a sign of the regime's stability. "That is an illusion. He is living from day to day trying to deceive everybody. He is not concerned with the country's future." She listed the measures taken against the trade unions, university teachers, and lawyers. "There is also malaise within the army. People resent Ziaul Haq for having diverted Pakistan from its normal functions," Mrs Bhutto explained, recalling that in Pakistan "nobody has ever seen a colonel or a captain carry out a coup d'etat. It is always the chief of staff...." However, Ziaul Haq apparently has the confidence of the hierarchy.

The real threat to the country's stability lies elsewhere. "If elections are not held soon (Ziaul Haq plans to hold them in 2 or 3 years' time -- LE FIGARO editor's note) Pakistan will explode," the Pakistan People's Party [PPP] chairman stated, stressing the tensions in Sind Province ("they want their own state, like Bangladesh"), in the Northwest Frontier Province ("many problems with the Afghan refugees, murders .."), and in Baluchistan. "The Baluchis are demanding their provincial rights: It will not be possible to appease them by constructing roads for army vehicles to use!"

Separatism, she revealed, is a "political problem, and Ziaul Haq is not a politician. His method is to beat people. My party will be able to tackle it. It is necessary to follow the Constitution that gave autonomy to the Baluchis."

Negotiating with Kabul

Mrs Bhutto also disagrees with President Ziaul Haq on the Afghan crisis. She accuses him of "using the refugees and rebels to strengthen his own position and to obtain aid from the West (F-16 aircraft money, wheat), just as he is using Islam to control Pakistan's people." To settle the Afghan problem it will be necessary to have "an elected government, which alone will be able to talk to the Soviets and the Afghan authorities."

However, in keeping with the line laid down by the Islamic conference, Ziaul Haq has always refused to negotiate with [Afghan President] Babrak Karmal, which would amount to recognizing his legitimacy. "But," Mrs Bhutto protested, nobody hesitates to talk to Ziaul Haq, who has not been elected; he is scum [in English] so what is the difference?" But isn't that a betrayal of the 3 million refugees installed in Pakistan? "No," Mrs Bhutto replied. "We say, as Ziaul Haq does, that the refugees should be repatriated in honorable circumstances."

This is a difficult debate and one in which the PPP, if it returns to power, will not be able to ignore the reactions of the rebel troops installed on its territory, as the PLO formerly was in Jordan!

'Ali Bhutto's widow was harsh on the subject of the attitude adopted by Reagan who, after Deng Xiaoping and Andropov, is elevating the international stature acquired by Ziaul Haq by receiving him. "The Americans, who believe in democracy in their country, ought to have the same criteria for other countries. They ought not to support a man who is ruling by tank, gun, and stick."

VENEZUELAN OIL MINISTER ARRIVES 14 DECEMBER

LD141200 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 14 Dec 82

[Text] The Central News Unit reports that Calderon Berti, Venezuelan minister of energy and mines, arrived in Tehran today for preliminary talks in connection with the OPEC session. He was welcomed by Oil Minister Gharazi and an Iranian oil delegation. Berti, who heads the Venezuelan delegation at the OPEC session, has already held similar talks with several OPEC oil ministers including those of Kuwait and Algeria.

While in Tehran, he will hold talks with Oil Minister Gharazi and other members of the Iranian delegation to the OPEC session with regard to the forthcoming OPEC meeting. The OPEC oil ministers' conference will convene in Vienna next Saturday and will discuss the issues of production levels, oil prices, the question of oil quality pricing applicable to some member countries and the election of a new secretary general.

Calderon Berti Comments

GF141641 Tehran IRNA in English 1605 GMT 14 Dec 82

[Text] Tehran, Dec 14, IRNA -- Venezuelan minister of energy and mines, Humberto Calderon Berti said here today that it is to the best interest of OPEC members that oil prices be stabilised by a common pricing system.

Calderon Berti who is here for talks with Iranian officials in anticipation of the OPEC conference in Vienna next week, said that OPEC would be wise to stand by the present 34 dollar per barrel price and that in his view a hike in oil prices would not be reasonable under the present circumstances. Berti noted that in his opinion OPEC members would be better advised not to increase their oil production in order that a slump in price of oil may be prevented. He observed that in his judgement oil prices should be stabilised for at least the next two years.

In an official announcement published here three days ago the Islamic Republic voiced its support for retaining the present prime rate of 34 dollars per barrel.

Prior to his arrival here, the Venezuelan minister had met and talked with officials in Algeria, Saudi Arabia and Kuwait.

Gharazi Remarks

LD141832 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 14 Dec 82

[Text] Petroleum Minister Gharazi, with regard to the Venezuelan minister of energy and mines, said: The proposals Iran made 1 year ago for controlling oil production by OPEC gradually are being considered by OPEC members and some changes have occurred in the views of those who opposed this view at the beginning. He added: The Venezuelan oil minister believes that in order to support producers and consumers and to regulate the situation in OPEC markets, he should place the question of production at the top of his policies.

Gharazi also said: The base price of $34 for every barrel of oil should not be threatened. We hope the question of controlling the amount of oil produced will be given top priority in the questions facing OPEC because, in this way, OPEC's views on prices also will be satisfied.

'COSMETIC' ISLAMIC LAWS IN GCC COUNTRIES SCORED

GF141658 Tehran IRNA in English 1640 GMT 14 Dec 82

[Text] Tehran, Dec 14, IRNA -- On the prompting of the Persian Gulf Cooperation Council (PGCC), a number of its member countries have undertaken cosmetic measures to implement Islamic laws and traditions in their communities.

Kuwait announced Monday that it will join the UAE and Dubayy in banning all Christmas and New-Year parties in order to conform with Islamic traditions.

However, it was not clear whether the ban would also be carried out in these countries' palaces where heads of state hold their lavish private parties as well.

Authorities have also not mentioned the fact that such laws prohibiting parties did not suddenly come into existence nor did they state what prompted them to implement them this coming Christmas.

The regional rulers have apparently made this decision citing reports from the PGCC's intelligence source that the Muslim people of their countries have been strongly influenced by the Islamic revolution of Iran and therefore steps had to be taken in order to stir optimism concerning the rulers faith in Islam and its divine teachings.

But on the other hand these tactical policies are becoming apparent at a time when these rulers have not been able to convince the people about their recognition of the Zionist regime in the anti-Islamic Fes resolution, and they have not stated an acceptable reason for their humiliating reaction towards the Zionist intolerable aggression against the Palestinian and Lebanese Muslims.

What could be further stated in this connection is that this sudden announcement can only be viewed as a reaction to the people's awareness of their Islamic identity caused by the Islamic revolution of Iran. Moreover the recent developments in the region are reminiscent of the last few months of monarchical rule in Iran when the shah appointed Sharifimami as prime minister and forced him to announce a ban on gambling and casinos in order to pacify the people's demand for an Islamic revolution.

If implementation of Islamic laws were approved by the regional rulers then we would have witnessed a campaign against all symbols of Western and other un-Islamic manifestations in order to create the grounds for the establishment of a true Islamic society. In addition, the rulers should also lead honourable lives according to the teachings of Islam instead of corrupting themselves and wasting the peoples God-given resources and wealth on imperial palaces and ultra-expensive Western resorts.

In another development, it is also interesting to note that the Malaysian Government also announced similar measures Monday. It proposed a law banning public kissing, bench cuddling, and indecent clothing. The law would go into effect next year if approved.

IRAQI OIL INSTALLATIONS DAMAGED 13 DECEMBER

[Text] Iraq's petrochemical installations in the vicinity of Al-Basra yesterday became the target of Islam's artillery and suffered extensive damage.

They prevented the enemy from carrying out combat engineering activities. On one front of this region, our combatants hit two vehicles carrying enemy troops and destroyed several Saddamist bunkers and weapons emplacements. During these operations, more than 10 Saddamists were killed.

In the Paveh and Marivan sectors, our forces defended their own positions and opened fire on positions of the Saddamist troops. Thanks to artillery fire by the Ground Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran on Iraqi positions in the Tutman region of Iraq, several enemy trenches and foxholes were destroyed and their artillery fire was silenced.

Exchange of fire continued in the Moharram operational sector and was more intense in the Sharhani region. Our warriors opened artillery fire on enemy positions and fortifications in this sector and defended the regions under their own protection.

[Text] Zahedan, Dec 12, IRNA -- 12 joint Soviet-Afghan forces killed, 21 others injured and two tanks destroyed during a clash between Afghan Muslim mojahedin and the joint forces in Tulak Governorate, central Afghanistan.

According to reports reaching this Sistan va Baluchestan capital, in another confrontation in Sang-e-Sefid village in the same governorate, Afghan mojahedin killed eight joint forces while injuring two others and seizing seven Kalashnikov guns.

In another development, two Muslim mojahedin who had fled a joint forces military barracks in Moqor, Zabol Province, talked to IRNA on internal situation in Afghanistan, the unquestioned authority of Soviet military advisers there and the torture they had tolerated.

They said that they had been tortured through electric shocks and had been kept in a cold storage for 24 hours in order to confess. But, they added, with the help of Almighty God, they tolerated all the hardship thus the aggressive forces were convinced that they were not among the so-called "bandits". They were then sent to a military garrison under the pretext of receiving military training where they could manage to flee in spite of armed guards and mine fields protecting the area.

They also referred to the expansion of corruption inside garrisons and added that old men of 65 years had been forcefully summoned to barracks for military training while the lackey Afghan regime had declared that men up to 40 years old had been summoned for reserve forces.

Commenting on the statements of an Afghan military official to the effect that his country should either belong to those chanting Allah-o-akbar (God is great), Muslim mojahedin; or should be completely controlled by the government, the two mojahedin noted they would struggle until the last drop of their blood with Eastern and Western aggressors.

They emphasised that they would fight for the hoisting of Islamic banner in Afghanistan and by resorting to the slogan neither East or West, they would continue the revolutionary move of Muslim people in Afghanistan.

[Unattributed commentary: "A Fact That Is Not Difficult To Comprehend"]

[Text] Dear compatriots: The Afghan problem is among the problems that the imperialists' propaganda media have been focusing attention on for a long time. Their aim is to mislead public opinion with regard to the real nature of the Afghan revolution and to prevent its final stabilization and consolidation. Naturally, the question is why does U.S. imperialism persist to such an extent in its propaganda, plots and conspiracies against Afghanistan? To understand this, one should seek the main reasons in the roots of U.S. imperialism's policy regarding Afghanistan.

U.S. imperialism, which during the era of the domination of the annihilated shah's sinister regime had transformed Iran into its military base against the Soviet Union, tried to link Afghanistan as well to its anti-Soviet chain. Mohammad Reza, the subservient lackey of the U.S. imperialists, tried to dissuade Afghanistan from the neutral policy it had adopted and to lead it into the trap of imperialist plots. As a result of the critical conditions that developed in Afghanistan at that time, Afghanistan's progressive forces succeeded in overthrowing the monarchical regime in that country and Mohammad Davoud, by exploiting his previous liberal record, came to power. But later, it became obvious that he was fulfilling the role that the Americans had assigned him. Mohammad Davoud concluded secret agreements with the shah of Iran and the shah promised he would put about $2 billion at Mohammad Davoud's disposal. In return, he assumed the task of suppressing the Afghan freedom-seekers. However, the democratic forces of that country, under the leadership of their Khalq Party, preempted and overthrew Davoud's government. Since that time, the Afghan revolution and the government which came to power as a result of its victory have had their ups and downs. On the whole, however, his revolution dealt a heavy blow to U.S. imperialism and foiled its aggressive plans.

The root of America's conspiratorial policy must be sought in this important factor, which is that Afghanistan has come out of the sphere of domination and influence of imperialism led by America.

Now there is not the slightest doubt that despite the problems which the counterrevolution dependent on America has created, Afghanistan has created, Afghanistan has taken the correct path with a hopeful and bright future. It is precisely for this reason that the imperialists have become furious and alarmed at the consolidation and expansion of Afghanistan's revolutionary movement.

Ziaul Haq's Pakistan, which is dancing to the tune of the U.S. imperialists, is also frightened because the presence, consolidation and strengthening of a progressive revolutionary country whose every effort is being exerted toward the progress and development of the country, the welfare of the people and the liberation of the masses from the backwardness of the ages will shake the foundation of Ziaul Haq's dictatorship.

America cannot remain indifferent to this problem, the reason being that Pakistan has immense importance in world-devouring America's strategic plans for maintaining the domination of U.S. monopolies in this region. For this reason, Pakistan is howling against the Afghan revolution, is equipping the Afghan counterrevolution with U.S. arms and is trying by all means to destroy the Afghan people's revolutionary movement, or at least prevent its expansion and perpetuation.

Pakistan is not alone. Countries such as Saudi Arabia, Egypt and Turkey are participating in these imperialist plots against Afghanistan. Doesn't the fact that countries such as Saudi Arabia, Egypt and others, whose dependence on the U.S. imperialists is brighter than the sun, have risen against the revolution and revolutionary government of Afghanistan suffice to understand the true essence of this revolution? Isn't it sufficient for us to consider that all the world's progressive forces and countries such as the Soviet Union, Vietnam, Cuba and socialist countries, the countries of the Arab steadfastness front such as Algeria, Syria, Libya, the Palestinian movement, and the Polisario movement, which are in the anti-imperialist front, support and back the movement of the people of Afghanistan and its government? These same countries also have supported and sincerely endorsed the Iranian revolution.

What is taking place in Afghanistan by the counterrevolution is also occurring in Iran. Assassinations, killings, planting of bombs, Muslim pretensions, clamors about lack of freedom and about repression -- all these phenomena in Iran and Afghanistan pour out from the same mint and arsenal of U.S. imperialism. However, the firsthand plotters of America in Iran have achieved such success that they are able to pass off the forged coin of their mint about Afghanistan as a current coin in the view of some government figures, and to separate the two popular and anti-imperialist revolutions of the two peoples of Iran and Afghanistan, which in principle are in the same front.

The situation has reached such a stage that while disseminating various reports, which are all fabricated by the propaganda media of imperialism against Afghanistan, the JOMHURI-YE ESLAMI newspaper translated and published items full of lies and slander from such periodicals as [name indistinct] international about the massacre of the Muslims by the Russians in Afghanistan and Ethiopia. Such newspapers as JOMHURI-YE ESLAMI, by publishing such baseless items which are identical to the items that U.S. newspapers and magazines shamelessly publish at the same time about Iran and its so-called fascist government, wittingly or not fall into the trap of deception of imperialist mass media and pour grist into the enemy's mill. Indeed, how can bloodsucking imperialism which is nurtured from the blood of the people in Iran and other countries be a source of evil, corruption and the foe of Islam in our country, and in another country -- Afghanistan -- be a source of blessing and abundance and the defender of Muslims? This is a fact the comprehension of which is not difficult for wealthy minds although acknowledging this bitter fact is perhaps difficult for those who want to divert public opinion from the U.S. danger.

16 DECEMBER 1982

Lebanon

Tripoli Cease-Fire -- After meeting with a Syrian delegation headed by Syria's foreign and defense ministers, former Prime Minister Rashid Karami announced that the Syrians and the Tripoli coordination committee had agreed to implement an immediate cease-fire and then attempt to gather weapons and withdraw all armed persons from the city. In his remarks, which were broadcast by Beirut radio, Karami praised Syria's assistance but noted that his talks with the Syrian officials were "frank." Beirut radio subsequently reported that the cease-fire appeared to be holding. Before the Syrian delegation's arrival, the security situation in the city had "exploded," Voice of Lebanon radio reported; more than 20 people were killed and some 50 others were wounded.

Diplomatic Contacts -- President Amin al-Jumayyil sent a personal envoy to President Hafiz al-Asad and also contacted the Syrian leader by telephone, according to Damascus television and Beirut radio reports. The conversation between Al-Jumayyil and Al-Asad was "cordial," the radio said, and the latter expressed "understanding" for the views Al-Jumayyil expressed on troop withdrawals and the Tripoli situation. Nevertheless, the clandestine Radio Free Lebanon reported that Al-Jumayyil asked Al-Asad to stop "transgressions" and to be ready to withdraw Syrian troops from Lebanon.

U.S. Assistant Secretary of State for Near Eastern Affairs Morris Draper informed Al-Jumayyil and Prime Minister Shafiq al-Wazzan of new U.S. proposals aimed at reactivating contacts and achieving the imminent withdrawal of foreign forces from certain areas, Beirut radio reported.

Ash-Shuf Situation -- The joint Druze, Christian and IDF committee established to supervise the recent security agreements in the Ash-Shuf met in 'Alayh, Jerusalem radio reported. Both the Druze and Christians submitted lists of violations of the agreement by the other side. Earlier, the IDF spokesman announced in a statement broadcast by IDF radio that three IDF soldiers were wounded when an IDF ammunition truck caught fire in the area.

Israel

The chief of staff, the commander of the Northern Command, the head of the IDF's Intelligence Branch and the defense minister's aide all want to testify again before the commission of inquiry into the Beirut massacre, Jerusalem radio reported. On the other hand, Prime Minister Begin, the defense and foreign ministers, the head of Mosad and Brigadier General Yaron do not want to testify again, the radio added.

Egypt

Mubarak on Recognition -- The PLO should recognize Israel, but if this step is not reciprocated by Israel or the United States, then the PLO should withdraw its recognition, President Husni Mubarak declared in an interview with the FRG weekly DER SPIEGEL.

Mubarak in Europe -- After leaving the FRG, President Mubarak stopped over in Vienna for talks with Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky and then flew to Bucharest, where he was received by Romanian President Nicolae Ceausescu, according to reports by Vienna and Bucharest radios.

Torture Charges -- Muslim extremists charged with attempting to overthrow the government alleged that three of their codefendants were tortured to death during police questioning, AFP reported.

Inter-Arab Affairs

PLO Central Council member Nabil Sha'th told the Amman daily AD-DUSTUR that any result achieved by the Higher Jordanian-Palestinian Committee that would serve joint action would be extremely important in realizing Palestinian objectives. However, a statement issued by the Palestinian Popular Struggle Front claimed that the results of the committee's recent meetings in Amman were intended to satisfy U.S. demands that a Jordanian-Palestinian bond be established in a federation framework, thus excluding the possibility of establishing an independent Palestinian state, something which cannot be accepted by the Palestine National Council (PNC), SANA reported. Fatah Central Committee member Nimr Salih asserted that the statement the committee issued leaves no room for doubt that there is a frank, public acquiescence to the U.S. peace plan, Damascus television reported. Salih urged the Palestinian people to move from negotiations to action capable of deterring the U.S. plan.

Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine Secretary General George Habash called for confronting the "liquidation projects" and strengthening Palestinian unity, KUNA reported, citing an interview with the Kuwait daily AS-SIYASAH. The PNC would reject the Reagan peace plan, Habash declared. Habash told Algiers radio that while he did not minimize the importance of political action, he is "fully convinced" that it would be impossible for the Palestinians to achieve their rights solely through political action.

Iraq

A car bomb exploded near the INA offices in Baghdad, killing six people and injuring others including several INA employees, an Interior Ministry spokesman announced in a statement reported by INA.

Iran

Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni issued an "important message," the text of which was broadcast by Tehran radio, reminding all officials of the need for the Islamization of all government institutions, particularly the judicial system. The message stated that Islamic laws must be legislated and enforced before other bills so that the nation feels secure and peaceful during the current time of stability and construction. The president of the Supreme Court and the prime minister are dutybound to prevent enforcement officers from violating the law and are required to establish trustworthy councils throughout the country to whom the nation can refer any complaints about official actions, the message added.

Iran-Iraq War

Unlike Iran, Iraq is "fully prepared" to accept any mediation or peace delegation, Baghdad radio's Persian service noted. The radio cautioned that Iraq's peaceful policy should not be considered a sign of weakness and declared that since one side has announced its readiness to resolve differences and to study the reasons the war began, the other side should take action to prove its good will, "if it has any," to end the war.

Afghanistan

Quoting two senior officials from the DRA secret police who recently defected to Pakistan, Karachi radio revealed that the Soviet Union formulated a plan some time ago to divide the DRA and annex some of it to the USSR. However, one of the officials said the Karmal administration finally rejected the plan because of opposition from the anti-Karmal faction in the PDPA.

LAWYERS EXPRESS CONCERN OVER MARTIAL LAW

GF151348 Islamabad THE MUSLIM in English 10 Dec p 8

[Bureau report]

[Text] Lahore, Dec 9 -- While expressing concern over perpetuation of martial law and suspension of fundamental rights the convention of lawyers representatives had made it clear that their struggle was not against any individual or institution but for restoration of civil rights, establishment of rule of law, repal of all "oppressive" laws and bringing into being a constitutional government having the mandate of the people of Pakistan.

The convention, which was spread over two sessions, was participated by presidents and secretaries of bar associations, from all over the province. The convention was helf under the auspices of the Punjab Bar Council and was chaired by Chaudhury Mohammad Farooq, vice chairman of the council. As many as 24 speakers including members of the Punjab Bar Council expressed their views on a number of subjects.

Four resolutions were unanimously adopted by the convention concerning restoration of the 1973 constitution, indpendence of judiciary, judicial system and lawyers-litigants relationship. While describing continuation of martial law as "most unfortunate" and "undesirable", one of the resolutions urged its immediate lifting and restoration of federal democratic system embodied in the constitution "in the interest of Pakistan". It also emphasized holding of genreal elections and transferring of power to the people's representatives "for salvation of the country."

Calling for the establishment of rule of law and constitutional government, the resolution observed that the will of the people was the only legitimate sanction in Islam behind enactment of all laws, and as such the present regime, being unrepresentative in character, had no mandate in effecting any changes in the basic laws and institutions of Pakistan. The 1973 constitution also provided for bringing existing laws in conformity with the injunctions of Islam.

The resolution also warned against steps to stifle the authority and functions of judiciary and asserted that a strong and independent judiciary was the "ultimate arbiter and guarantor of civil rights and liberties."

The other resolution, while asserting that the introduction of provisional constitution order [PCO] 1981 has done "incalculable harm" to independence of judiciary and enforcement of rights of the citizens of Pakistan, urged withdrawal of the PCO and repeal of all laws, regulations and orders which directly or indirectly tendered to curtail the jurisdiction of superior courts. The resolution also demanded abolition of trials of civilians by military courts, providing opportunity to every citizen of proper legal assistance and leaving all fundamental changes in law to future elected parliament.

Yet another resolution asserted that the present judicial system was in no way opposed to Islamic injuctions and that the 1973 constitution could resolve repugnancy, if any, between the existing laws and the injunction of Islam. The resolution expressed the view that delay in imparting justice, was owing to working of governmental agencies responsible for framing, drafting and enforcement of laws, the prosecution agencies and the law departments, besides niggardly salaries and shortage of presiding officers and their staff.

The fourth resolution adopted by the convention declared that relationship between lawyers and litigants was sacred and privileged and any effort to intervene therein was bound to adversely affect the overall interests of the legal fraternity and litigants.

A number of speakers took exception to lawyers in the federal council and asked them to "come back in the community" by the last day of the current month. They lauded unity in the legal fraternity and proposed convening of such gatherings more frequently and even on district level, to "further mobilize" the community.

Presidents and secretaries of a number of bar associations presented reports on their activities and also pledged to carry out the decisions taken by the Punjab Bar Council and the coordination committee of all Pakistan bar councils conference.

KHOMEYNI ISSUES MESSAGE ON ISLAMIZATION

LD152258 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 2030 GMT 15 Dec 82

[Text] An important message has been issued by Imam Khomeyni, leader of the revolution and founder of the Islamic Republic of Iran, in connection with the need for the Islamization of all government institutions, particularly the judicial system, and the need to replace the satanic laws of the former regime with God's laws of the Islamic Republic regime. The text of the message:

In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. Following the reminder of the need for the Islamization of all government institutions, particularly the judicial system, and the need to replace the satanic laws of the former oppressive regime by God's laws of the Islamic Republic regime, a reminder should be issued to all officials. It is hoped that, God Almighty willing, they will pay attention to these reminders and accelerate their implementation.

1. The legislation of laws of shari'ah and their approval and notification must be carried out with due accuracy and speed. Laws regarding judicial matters, which are known to the public and are more important, must be placed before the other bills so that the affairs of the judicial power cannot be delayed or put off and so that people's rights cannot be violated. Notification and enforcement of these laws also must be placed before other matters.

2. Actions dealing with the competence of judges, prosecutors and courts must be carried out with accuracy and speed so that the course of affairs will be divine and in accordance with shari'ah and so that the people's rights will not be violated. Also, matters dealing with the competence of other officials and authorities must be carried out with total impartiality, without delay and without creating puerile problems, which are sometimes said by extremists, so that while corrupt individuals are purged, useful and effective individuals are not put aside under vain pretexts. The criterion is the present deeds of individuals, overlooking certain mistakes which they have made during the former regime unless by true evidence it is known that they are still corrupt and saboteurs.

3. Islamic qualified judges, both in the Justice Ministry and in revolution courts, must issue Islamic verdicts with independence and power and without consideration to any official. They must continue their important work throughout the country without negligence or delay. Officers in charge of notification and enforcement and others connected with this matter must follow their verdicts by faithful notification, enforcement, and interpretation so that the nation can feel judicially secure and that under the rule of Islamic justice their lives, properties, and dignity are safe. They must feel that the execution of Islamic justice is not confined to the judicial power and its apparatus but that other institutions of the Islamic Republic regime -- including the Majlis, the government and its apparatus, the military and security forces, the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, the revolution committees, the mobilization and the others -- are also seriously involved and that no one is allowed to treat people in a non-Islamic way.

4. No one is allowed to arrest or summon anyone without a judge's order, which must be in accordance with shari'ah standards, however short the period of detention may be. Arrest or summons by force is an offense and is reprehensible by shari'ah.

5. No one is allowed to usurp anyone's movable property or anyone's rights or to impound or confiscate unless by order of the shari'ah judge and after careful investigation and shari'ah proof of the order.

6. No one is allowed to enter anyone's house, shop, or personal place of business without the owner's permission or to arrest anyone or to pursue or detain anyone in the name of uncovering an offense or sin. No one is allowed to insult anyone or to carry out non-Islamic or inhumane actions or to eavesdrop on anyone's telephone conversations or to listen to recordings in the name of uncovering an offense or a place of crime for uncovering a sin or offense, however great the sin may be. No one may pry into people's secrets or spy on other people's sins or disclose others' secrets to even one person. All these are sins and offenses and some of them, such as talk of corruption and sin, are among the major sins. Anyone who commits the aforesaid offenses will be considered an offender and liable under shari'ah limits.

7. The aforesaid forbidden matters are not applicable to cases connected with conspiracies and minigroups opposing Islam and the regime of the Islamic Republic, which gather in safe hideouts in order to overthrow the Islamic Republic regime and to murder crusading and innocent people in the streets, and in order to plot sabotage and corruption on earth and to fight God and the prophet. They must be dealt with everywhere -- in all government institutions, judicial systems, universities, faculties and other centers -- decisively and severely but with full caution and in accordance with the prosecutors' and courts' orders. Violation of shari'ah limits is not allowed even in the case of such plotters, even though there must not be any negligence or delay. Officials must do nothing beyond their duties, which are confined to punishing plotters in accordance with stipulated regulations and shari'ah.

It is reminded with emphasis that if, in the course of discovering hideouts and centers for espionage and corrpution against the regime of the Islamic Republic, the officers should enter somebody's house or place of work by mistake and if they see means of pleasure, gambling or corruption or other deviations such as narcotics, they are not allowed to disclose the matter in front of others because the talk of corruption is a large mortal sin and nobody is allowed to insult a Muslim's dignity and to violate shari'ah standards. They must only carry out the duty of prohibiting crime as stipulated in Islam and are not allowed to arrest, detain, insult or beat up the house's owners or residents.

Violation of divine limits is a transgression and could be punished by censure or even retribution. Those who are proved to be professional suppliers or distributors of narcotics among people are considered corrupt on earth and distributors of corruption on earth and (?disturbers of peace); their assets must be confiscated and they must be handed over to the judicial authorities. No judge is allowed to issue an edict that gives an officer the right to enter people's houses or workplaces that are neither hideouts nor places for other conspiracies against the regime of the Islamic Republic. Anyone issuing or executing such an edict legally will be prosecuted in accordance with shari'ah.

8. His Excellency Hojjat ol-Eslam Musavi-Ardabili, president of the State Supreme Court, and his excellency the prime minister are religiously dutybound to prevent the aforesaid matters quickly and decisively and are required to set up trustworthy and reliable councils throughout the country in the offices of governors-general, governors, and district officers. The nation must be advised to refer their complaints about violations and transgressions by enforcement officers against their rights and properties to these councils. These councils must report the results to the abovenamed gentlemen and by referring the complaints to responsible authorities and pursuing the matter, transgessors must be punished in accordance with shari'ah laws and censure.

We must all know that after the establishment of the rule of Islam and the stability and power of the regime of the Islamic Republic, with the approval and blessings of God Almighty and with the attention of His Holiness Khatam al-Owsia va Baqiyatallah and the unprecedented support of the beloved and committed nation for the regime and the government, it is not acceptable or tolerable that in the name of revolution and under the pretext of being revolutionary, Heaven forbid, that somebody should be oppressed or that measures contrary to divine laws and the great Islamic ethics should be carried out by individuals who are ignorant of spiritual matters.

From now on, which is the time for stability and construction, the nation must feel at peace and secure and must continue its work without worry. It must be assured in every aspect and must consider the great Islam and the Islamic government to be its supporter and must know that judicial power is in service of the nation in connection with legal cases and the enforcement of Islamic laws and regulations. The nation must know that military and security forces, the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, and committees support the country's peace and security. These matters are everybody's duty and putting them into practice will cause God's satisfaction and the world's happiness. Violation of them will cause omnipotent God's anger, the other world's agony, and this world's prosecution and punishment.

I beg merciful God to guard us against all mistakes and deviations and to approve the Islamic Republic and to connect it to the world rule of Qa'im al-Muhammad, may peace be upon him and his scion.

[Signed] Ruhollah Musavi Khomeyni, 15 December, 1982

KHOMEYNI 'GRAVELY ILL;' SWISS TREATMENT LIKELY

GF151650 (Clandestine) Free Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1500 GMT 15 Dec 82

[Text] There is a strong rumor circulating among patriotic Iranian circles both at home and abroad that Khomeyni is gravely ill and in bed. Our correspondents in France and Switzerland have reported a strong possibility that he will be taken abroad. It has been said that he will be treated in a hospital in Switzerland.

The same reports indicate that a place already has been reserved for Khomeyni in a Swiss hospital. Medical sources in Switzerland have given this news to correspondents, adding: Should Khomeyni's condition worsen, and if he is transferred abroad, he will be treated in this [name not mentioned] hospital.

We remind you that when Khomeyni first came into power and the wave of terror and suffocation expanded in Iran, which led to the escape of our compatriot doctors, he announced that ill people should be treated in the country and not abroad. Two years ago, when his condition was bad, a group of Swiss and Spanish doctors and specialists visited his bedside in Tehran.

We reported last week that the level of uric acid in Khomeyni's body has gone up, intensifying his heart and blood ailments. Khomeyni's heart is checked several times a week and massaged in the Queen Mother Heart Hospital; he also receives kidney dialysis.

The following is the list of candidates who were elected for the Islamic Consultative Assembly in the western cities of Iran.

IRNA COMMENTS ON ELECTIONS, 'COUNTERREVOLUTION'

LD152118 Tehran IRNA in English 2019 GMT 15 Dec 82

[Text] Tehran, Dec. 15, IRNA -- December 10 was seemingly inauspicious for the counterrevolution in Iran. On the surface, the odds promised them to see the realisation of a dream which they judged would portend the falling of the Islamic system in Iran in a not-too-distant future. They were baffled. The millions of Iranians who went to the polling stations for electing the 83 members of the Experts' Assembly on that day defied earlier calculations by the counterrevolution.

The extremely cold weather in many parts of the country, the falling snow, as well as blocked roads in mountainous areas, during voting hours must [word indistinct] many a voter in normal conditions. It did not. Voters took to the streets braving freezing temperature, and even threats by the counterrevolution: the Democrats, the outlawed Mujahideen Khalq Organisation (MKO) and monarchists. In a show of bravado they killed two people in a remote road, on the eve of the elections. Kumeleh and "Democrat" gunmen also raided a polling box on the same night and at a close [word indistinct] martyred seven others. They retreated after 11 of their gunmen were killed and another 13 injured. They also detonated two concussion bombs, and abducted one person on the same night which almost sums up their subversive operations on that eventful night.

Whatever else they might have done, before or during the elections, could (?not possibly) have proved earlier forecasts by (?many of) the foreign media. Those of the foreign broadcasts which appeal to counterrevolution in Iran, (Persian language services of the B.B.C., VOA, "Radio Israel", and Deutsche Welle, and some regional broadcasts) anticipated a very limited turn-out at the elections.

In an interview here today President Khamene'i said that until early today about 15 million ballots had been counted and read. In all probability the nation-wide turn-out at the December 10 elections was higher than it was at the April 1, 1979 plebiscite whereby the Islamic Republic was established. In Sanandaj, Mahabad, Saqqez, and Baneh, the predominantly Kurdish areas of the country the marginal [word indistinct] is in sharp contrast with the earlier expectations of the counterrevolution. The Friday elections naturally have far-reaching implications in shaping the future of the Islamic Republic. But the elections have already brought a more immediate result: a losing face for the counterrevolution.

LD151748 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 15 Dec 82

[Communique No 1,153 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. The situation on the fronts of the imposed war is hereby brought to the attention of the beloved compatriots:

Sporadic fighting and exchanges of fire continued yesterday on the western fronts. In the Muslim ibn 'Aqil operational zone, the heroes of Islam opened heavy artillery fire on enemy positions and put out of action two tanks and one vehicle of the Saddamist forces, killing or wounding more than 15 Iraqi soldiers.

On some of the Salehabad fronts, the combatants of Islam carried out a series of strikes and suprise operations, killing two Saddamists and seizing one RPG-7, one Kalishnikov and one radio set.

On the Qasr-e Shirin and Sar-e Pol-e Zahab fronts, the combatants of the Ground Forces pounded enemy positions and destroyed one 106-mm rifle and several slit trenches and foxholes of the Saddamist mercenaries, killing or wounding a number of their servicemen.

In the past 24 hours, the strong combatants of Islam on the southern fronts returned fire on the positions of the Iraqi forces and silenced their artillery and heavy weapons fire, defending and further consolidating their defense positions.

On the Abadan and Khorramshahr fronts, the warriors of Islam, consisting of the heroes of the Navy and the Gendarmerie, brought the Saddamists' fortifications and positions on the other side of the Arvand Rud under fire, stopped the movements of the Iraqi forces on the Al-Faw-Basra axis and destroyed one truck, one 106-mm rifle, four observation posts, and several heavy machinegun trenches and foxholes. They also killed or wounded a number of their servicemen.

In the past 24 hours, an intruding enemy aircraft appeared over the southern area but it was forced to flee by the measures of an air defense unit of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran.

IRNA REPORTS IRAQI CASUALTIES ON WESTERN FRONTS

GF151740 Tehran IRNA in English 1725 GMT 15 Dec 82

[Text] Bakhtaran, Dec. 15, IRNA -- Twenty six Iraqi soldiers were killed or wounded as the Islamic combatants attacked the enemy positions in one of the western fronts and seized some Iraqi weapons and a wireless set over the past 24 hours.

Artillery fire exchanges persisted in most of the western fronts with the Iranians holding the upper hand during the same time.

The Iraqi forces lost one 106-mm gun and several bunkers [words indistinct] vehicle in these battlefronts.

Meanwhile, all enemy forces' activities were checked as their positions in the Iraqi regions of Panjwin, (Biareh) and Tutman came under the Iranian artillery fire which destroyed seven Iraqi bunkers with their occupants over the preceding 24 hours.

'MILITARY TRAINING' AGREEMENT SIGNED WITH USSR

NC141235 Paris IRAN-E AZAD in Persian 4 Dec 82 pp 1, 2, 5

[Text] IRAN-E AZAD's issue No 126 published, for the first time, the text of a secret military agreement between Iran and the Soviet Union "for sending Soviet military experts to Iran" which the Islamic Republic greatly feared would be published. IRAN-E AZAD's authentic report on this received great attention from the international press and political circles and many of the world's newspapers and radios carried articles on this agreement and discussed the impact of Iran's gradual fall into the lap of the Soviet Union and its satellites. The widely-circulated Paris magazine L'EXPRESS devoted a full page to this and published parts of the agreement.

Issue No 126 made reference to the existence of another military agreement between Iran and the Soviet Union "for military training." Because of the limited size of our newspaper, we cannot publish the text of this agreement. However, we are publishing a photocopy of a page of this agreement and will tell our readers and world public opinion what the agreement contains.

According to Agreement 1-12442 between "the main administration for engineering of the Soviet State Committee for Foreign Economic Relations and the National Defense Ministry of the Islamic Republic of Iran," which was signed on the basis of articles and of the bilateral agreement on military cooperation dated 20 May 1982, Iranian military personnel will be sent for a full training course to Soviet military academies and schools. Before starting their training, the military personnel should learn the Russian language in the Soviet Union for a period of 8 months to 1 year.

According to one of the paragraphs of Article 1 of the agreement, in contrast to the Soviet military and experts assigned to the Islamic Republic, the Iranian military personnel will be sent to the Soviet Union "without their families." Iranian military personnel will be recommended to the Soviet military engineering administration by Khomeyni's Ministry of Defense, which will give a full description of the personnel. Soviet officials will announce their acceptance or nonacceptance of each recommended candidate.

On the basis of Articles 4 and 5 of this agreement, Iranian military personnel will not be allowed to wear their Iranian uniforms during the training period and they will be provided -- if requested by the Islamic Republic's Defense Ministry -- by the Soviet officials "with civilian clothes or military uniforms similar to that worn by other foreign military students in the Soviet Union." At any rate, "these uniforms should not carry any distinguishing mark."

Although the text of Agreement 1-12442 makes no mention of the courses to be taught Iranian military personnel in the Soviet Union, nevertheless Article 7 speaks of courses on heavy artillery and missiles as being among the agreed upon branches. "At the end of every yearly quarter and upon completion of studies, the two sides will prepare the necessary report on the training carried out, the quantity of material, targets, missiles and ammunition used. These reports should conform to attached forms 1 and 2 and be signed by representatives of the two sides. The reports will be the basis for payment for the training carried out as per the present agreement."

The following articles state that all expenses for Iranian military personnel -- round trip travel expenses to the Soviet Union and expenses for "Soviet employees of the anti-aircraft missile force travel to artillery fields for drills and back to the training centers" -- will be undertaken by the Defense Ministry of the illegal regime.

Article 12 states: Payments foreseen in this agreement will be made by the Defense Ministry in U.S. dollars. This will be carried out by opening an account crediting the main engineering administration in the Central Bank of Iran, Tehran, and in the form of irrevocable letters of credit valid of 72 days. The amount of the letters of credit will be specified in an appendix to this agreement. These letters of credit will be issued within 30 days after the expiry of the related appendix, with documents to be sent through the Foreign Trade Bank of the Soviet Union with the right to transfer the sum to a bank in a third country.

Article 13 of this agreement states: "During their stay in the Soviet Union, the ministry's personnel will be subject to Soviet laws and will respect Soviet customs. They will abide by living and relocation regulations concerning foreign nationals in the Soviet Union and will observe the necessary directives and discipline in the miliary training centers.

Military personnel can be dismissed from the training centers on the following grounds with travel and baggage expenses to their country to be paid by the ministry:

-- Noncompliance with living and relocation principles on Soviet territory;

-- Nonobservance of social order and internal regulations in the training centers and failure to complete the necessary training programs;

-- If it is deemed that the student cannot continue studies on health grounds.

In all the above cases, which result in the dismissal of Iranian military personnel from the training centers, the representative of the ministry in Moscow will provide the necessary information by giving the reasons for the dismissal to the proper officials.

Article 19 states: The agreement will be valid for 3 years and "after the agreement expires with the taciturn agreement of both sides, this agreement will be renewed yearly. This will continue as long as neither side has given notice in writing 6 months prior to the termination."

The agreement, in 20 articles, is signed by both sides.

In IRAN-E AZAD's issue No 91 dated 9 January 1982, we quoted SOBH-E AZADEGAN newspaper of 21 December 1981, which reported that the illegal Government of the Islamic Republic had presented a bill to the clerical Majlis for approval, requesting the authority to employ 95 foreign experts to serve in the National Defense Ministry. We are publishing a photo-offset of this report as well as of the SOBH-E AZADEGAN article. Now, with the revelation of the military agreement of 20 May 1982 on the basis of which Agreements No 1-12441 and 1-12442 were signed, one can clearly conclude that the nationality of the said "foreign experts" reported by SOBH-E AZADEN is Russian and that 95 of them have been to our country.

Also, in the same issue, the text of "Supplement 1 to Agreement 1-12442" which has been classified as confidential is yet another document proving the usurping Islamic Republic's great military dependence on the Soviet Union. According to this document, two Iranian military personnel were sent for a course in radio engineering -- wireless transmitters and receivers -- RJ-23 from 1 August 1981 to the Soviet Union's higher military signal command in Ulyanovsk.

Dear compatriots, by revealing documents on the military dependence of the Islamic Republic on the Soviet Union, IRAN-E AZAD proves the baselessness and falseness of the bloodthirsty Khomeyni regime's claims of "nonalignment" and nonreliance on the East and West.

The existence of such sincere relations shows that one should not consider the extent of the infiltration by the Tudeh Party, the Cherikha-ye Feda'i-ye Khalq or the Mojahedin-e Khalq in the various echelons as the only yardstick to measure the increasing danger of Iran's fall into the lap of international communism. By using Marxist-Leninist economic and social methods and despite its Islamic "facade," the usurping Islamic regime actually has handed over our country to the Eastern bloc.

Communist countries are plundering Iran's national resources; they are plundering our oil at the cheapest prices in return for useless articles of inferior quality and high prices. They are giving arms to both Iran and Iraq and helping to further destroy both countries and their populations.

Wherever you are, try to inform the world of this document and of other documents revealing that Iran is being economically plundered by the Soviet Union and other socialist countries. Our Iran is passing through a very critical period. But the greatest danger is the danger of the regime's further inclination to the left or the infiltration and full domination in Iran by the abject communist system. Let us do our very best to struggle against world communism and its internal and foreign spies and followers.

17 DECEMBER 1982

Israel-Lebanon

Sharon's "Breakthrough," Talks With Habib -- After a series of secret talks with Lebanese officials, culiminating in a 16 December visit to Beirut and the Ash-Shuf region, Israeli Defense Minister Ari'el Sharon returned to Jerusalem to inform U.S. presidential envoy Philip Habib that Israel and Lebanon have achieved a "breakthrough" in the negotiations, Jerusalem radio reported. Israel and Lebanon have formulated a joint working paper that will serve as a basis for continued mutual dialogue and in which Lebanon gives its assent to the main points of the security arrangements and normalization demanded by Israel; henceforth, Israel attaches no decisive importance to the issue of the venue for the Israeli-Lebanese talks, the radio added.

Asserting that Sharon wants to prove to the United States that Israel and Lebanon can reach agreement on the normalization of bilateral relations without U.S. mediation, Jerusalem television said Philip Habib will nevertheless be needed to shuttle between Jerusalem, Beirut and Damascus to secure agreement on the evacuation of foreign forces. In his meeting with Sharon and Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin, Habib presented the new U.S. proposals on this issue, the television noted. According to Jerusalem radio, Israel is opposed to the U.S. proposals for an initial IDF withdrawal on all fronts.

Earlier, during his brief visit to Lebanon, Ari'el Sharon indicated that the Israeli-Lebanese talks were no longer stalled when he announced in an IDF radio interview that direct security-political negotiations between Israel and Lebanon are "very close." In a similar vein, Prime Minister Begin told the World Zionist Congress in Jerusalem that there are grounds for hope that Israel will reach a full peace agreement with Lebanon, according to remarks broadcast by Jerusalem radio. IDF radio said Washington is now Israel's preferred venue for the Israeli-Lebanese talks, though a different solution would also be possible.

U.S. Military Base in Lebanon -- The United States intends to establish a major military base in Lebanon after the evacuation of foreign forces, the Tel Aviv daily YOMAN HASHAVU'A reported. Lebanese President Amin al-Jumayyil favors the proposal, the paper said, and Israeli officials believe the plan for a base is the underlying reason for U.S. insistence on a total IDF evacuation of Lebanon.

Lebanese-Syrian Contacts -- Syrian President Hafiz al-Asad sent President al-Jumayyil a reply message expressing satisfaction and happiness with the contents of al-Jumayyil's earlier message and agreeing on the importance of continuing the contacts and coordination between the Syrian and Lebanese leaderships, Voice of Lebanon radio reported. Al-Asad's reply to his Lebanese counterpart was delivered by the Lebanese special envoy, whose meeting with the Syrian leader was characterized by a "positive and extremely amicable atmosphere," according to Radio Monte Carlo's Louis Faris, quoting "informed sources."

Lebanese Security Situation -- Despite the recent cease-fire announcement, further clashes erupted in the northern city of Tripoli, causing a number of casualties, Voice of Lebanon radio reported. The fighting reportedly occurred soon after a higher coordination committee meeting that was not attended by the Popular Resistance, which is an anti-Syrian faction. Meanwhile, the clandestine Radio Free Lebanon reported that Socialist and Communist gunmen killed a Christian woman and wounded three men in an ambush in the Ash-Shuf hills. However, the clandestine Voice of Arab Lebanon radio blamed the continuing explosive situation in the Ash-Shuf on the "intransigence" of the Christian militias toward any solution that does not affirm their control over the area. Reporting from the south, the radio also claimed that the leader of Maj Sa'd Haddad's militias in An-Nabatiyah was killed by a car bomb. However, Haddad's command subsequently denied that the person killed belonged to Haddad's forces, Jerusalem radio reported. In another development, a parliamentary deputy narrowly escaped assassination in Beirut, according to the Voice of Lebanon.

Unconfirmed Syrian-IDF Clash -- Although Radio Monte Carlo reported that Israeli and Syrian forces in the Al-Biqa' Valley exchanged artillery fire for several hours on 15-16 December, monitored Lebanese media did not mention any such incidents.

PLO

Tunis Meeting -- PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat will preside over an Executive Committee meeting in Tunis to discuss results of talks held by the Higher Palestinian-Jordanian Committee in Amman, Baghdad Voice of PLO reported.

DFLP Position -- The Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine (DFLP) approved the PLO leadership's policy of establishing normal relations with Jordan and forming the Higher Jordanian-Palestinian Committee, DFLP Political Bureau member Abu Layla said in an interview with Radio Monte Carlo. However, the DFLP does not believe that President Ronald Reagan's peace plan constitutes a serious and immediate basis for finding a political solution to the existing crisis, Abu Layla added. Asked about Palestinian-Syrian differences, the DFLP official said these differences cannot possibly affect the "profound strategic alliance" between Syria and the Palestinian Revolution and do not require mediation by a third party.

Jordan

While the coming talks between King Husayn and President Reagan will be "extremely important," Jordan should not be held responsible for the fate of the Reagan plan, the Amman paper AR-RA'Y affirmed in an editorial reported by Amman radio.

Iraq

The "Supreme Council of the Islamic Revolution in Iraq" announced that Iraqi mujahidin were responsible for the bomb that "completely destroyed" the INA building in Baghdad, according to Tehran radio's Arabic service. In a related statement reported by IRNA, the mujahidin said a vehicle loaded with explosives was smashed into the building, causing an explosion that killed or wounded "hundreds" of Iraqi officials.

However, INA continued to transmit, and President Saddam Husayn and other officials visited the INA offices, according to reports by Baghdad Voice of the Masses radio and INA itself.

Afghanistan

Soviet Airstrikes -- Soviet planes recently bombed rebel positions in Paktia Province, killing or wounding some 26 mujahidin, AFP reported citing Afghan sources in Islamabad.

Kabul Tremor -- A strong earthquake shook Kabul and adjacent provinces early on 16 December, BAKHTAR reported.

YAR Earthquake

The toll from the earthquake in Dhamar Province is now 1,448 dead and 1,489 injured, Prime Minister 'Abd al-Karim al-'Iryani announced in a statement reported by San'a' radio. He said 253 towns and villages have been destroyed and up to 400,000 people are homeless.

GUERRILLA POSITIONS IN PAKTIA 'HEAVILY BOMBED'

BK170045 Hong Kong AFP in English 0030 GMT 17 Dec 82

[Text] Islamabad, Dec. 17 (AFP) -- Soviet war planes heavily bombed anti-communist guerrilla concentrations in eastern Paktia Province last Tuesday, killing at least 12 mujahedeen and wounding 14 other Moslem fighters, the rebel-run Afghan Islamic Press (AIP) reported yesterday.

The massive bombing raids followed reports from Western correspondents who secretly visited parts of Paktia Province last month that Afghan rebels were preparing for an offensive against Dargai District, near Khost. The guerrillas had captured Lieza, 15 km (9 miles) southwest of the provincial capital Khost, they said after the clandestine visit.

The Soviet bombing raids set afire seven mujahedeen tents, so that ammunition burned and some explosions occurred, causing unusually high rebel losses, AIP added. The agency said the casualties included the guerrilla group leader, who was a member of the Peshawar-based resistance organisation Hezb-e Islami Afghanistan, headed by Mohammad Yubis Khalis.

The leader, Mohammed Anwar, is the third commander Hezb-e Eslami has lost within one month. Khalis group men, who are reportedly active in Nangarhar Province, also suffered severe losses last month when the Soviet troops pounded their main centers, Tura Bura and Khogiani, in that province. The agency said the area's chief commander, Fatehulla Haqqani, "miraculously escaped" the raids.

The agency said the same day, Moslem rebels attacked a 30-vehicle convoy carrying ammunition to Bari military post, near Khost. The guerrillas killed or wounded five soldiers and destroyed two tanks and one military truck in that ambush, it said.

Meanwhile in Kabul, Jaji tribesmen staged a protest strike last Monday, suspending transport and closing down shops to protest against the regime's new conscription laws, AIP said. About 200 shopkeepers suspended business in Shoba Bazaar, Kalachi and Jada Maiwand in downtown Kabul, demanding repeal of the new draft laws, which withdrew concessions enjoyed by the Jaji tribesmen belonging to Paktia. Western diplomatic sources said this week that the regime had reached a compromise on the issue after several similar strikes in past few months.

The tribesmen hailing from Paktia Province were exempted from conscription during exiled King Tahir Shah's time. But the current Afghan regime, concerned over large-scale defections, modified the rules -- making it compulsory for Jaji tribesmen living outside Paktia Province to join army service. This caused unrest among people residing in Kabul, it said. Jajis want their men living outside their hometown also to be exempted.

'COUNTERREVOLUTIONARIES CRUSHED' IN SAMANGAN

AFP INTERVIEWS SECRET POLICE DEFECTOR 17 DEC

BK170145 Hong Kong AFP in English 0022 GMT 17 Dec 82

[Text] Peshawar (northwest Pakistan), Dec. 16 (AFP) -- The former deputy head of Afghanistan's secret police, General Ghulan Siddiq Miraki, told Agence France-Presse here today from his Pakistani exile that the Kabul administration employed 25,000 secret agents, including those infiltrated into Iran and Pakistan.

The general, who claims he all along worked for the Afghan fundamentalist Islamic opposition, said the Soviet Union had lost more than 40,000 men since its intervention in Afghanistan two years ago, and that unspecified number of East German, Bulgarian, Cuban and Vietnamese military were fighting alongside them.

General Siddiq made international headlines earlier this week with statements to Britain's BBC that Moscow planned to annex all or part of Afghanistan.

In today's interview, the general specified that the late Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev, according to "high-level Afghan and Soviet sources in Kabul", planned incorporating Afghanistan into the Soviet Union last spring. In the face of the stubborn resistance to Babrak Karmal's Kabul administration, the general went on, the Kremlin later envisioned annexing only Afghanistan's eight northern provinces and pulling out of the rest of the country. This solution was still being considered by Moscow, the general asserted.

These eight provinces, according to General Siddiq, cover about a third of the country and are rich in mineral resources, including traces of uranium discovered by Soviet prospectors in Bradsham.

As to the Afghan secret agents, the general said they were organized on the lines of the Soviet Union's K.G.B., led by Soviet generals, and trained in special academies in Moscow, Tashkent in Central Asia, or Kabul.

The general's figure for Soviet losses was seen by observers as way beyond Western estimates, which have been on the order of 15,000 against his 40,000.

The general discounted persistent rumors that Moscow wished to replace Mr Karmal, but said that his rule was increasingly resented by several factions supporting Premier Soltan Ali Keshtmand, because Mr Karmal had not acceded to his post through any party election.

GENERAL ERSHAD ADDRESSES NATION 16 DECEMBER

BK170804 Dhaka Domestic Service in Bengali 0100 GMT 17 Dec 82

[Excerpts] Chief Martial Law Administrator [CMLA] Lieutenant General H.M. Ershad has declared his government is firmly determined to hand over power to the people's representatives by peaceful means.

Addressing the nation over radio and television last night, he said: We don't want to continue martial law forever. What we want is the welfare of the masses and revival of the sovereignty of the people. The CMLA said the present government seeks to introduce a democratic system that will be a real democracy and will ensure the country's overall development.

Referring to the initial reorganization of the administrative structure at the police zone level, the CMLA said that, with the direct participation of the people in the administration, a process of democratization will be introduced, leading to the establishment of a future democratic system. General Ershad said that, with the implementation of the revolutionary programs for improving the destiny of the general masses, the transfer of power to the people by peaceful means will be made effective. The CMLA said preparations for voters' lists will begin next month for holding elections to the union and police zonal councils sometime toward the end of next year. After that, there will be elections for district councils followed by elections at the national level.

Referring to the economic situation, the CMLA said that, to make the current complicated taxation system reasonable, new taxation laws will be introduced and [words indistinct] are being implemented for increasing investments and production in industries. The rate of inflation successfully has been brought under control and the prices of commodities in the open market gradually are becoming stable. He said the second 5-year plan is being amended to prepare a midterm assessment and to initiate work on the drafting of the next plan.

The CMLA said that, to become self-sufficient in food in 2 years, the present government has given priority to all areas of agriculture and made several arrangements in this regard. The target for this year's agricultural credit has been fixed at 8 billion taka and the system of sanctioning credits has been simplified. He said 7 million acres of land will be brought under cultivation by 1985 and a 2-year program to supply high-yield varieties of paddy seeds to this land also has been undertaken. SIKH VETERANS REFUSE TO SUPPORT AGITATION

[By Dilip Ganguly]

[Excerpts] New Delhi, Dec 17 (AFP) -- Retired Sikh soldiers today rejected an appeal by Sikh leader Harchand Singh Longowal to joint the drive for autonomy for the Sikh state of Punjab.

"It will be a sad day for ex-servicemen, a disciplined and non-political section of the society, if they are corrupted for political purposes," chief of the Punjab's ex-soldiers association Maj Gen Rajeswhwar Singh Sohal said. In a statement issued in Chandigarh, the capital city Punjab shares with Hindu-dominated Haryana State, the retired general said he had appealed to all former Sikh soldiers to reject the call. "We refuse to be exploited by political parties," he said.

"A few persons who have been voicing support are doing the greatest damage and disservice to the ex-servicemen and their cause," the statement said. It referred to the claims by the Sikh party, Akali Dal, that many prominent retired Sikh officials including an Indian Army general were supporting the present agitation.

The appeal from Mr Longowal came on Tuesday when he dispatched identical letters to former Sikh soldiers asking them to join hands with the party and to fight the Federal Indian Government. "The Sikhs are in great difficulty at present...we are in need of your service and cooperation at this time of great turmoil", Mr Longowal's letter said.

Federal officials had voiced concern at the call by Mr Longowal, who last week reiterated that protests would escalate unless Prime Minister Indira Gandhi accepted Sikh demands.

Maj Gen Sohal said "our politikisation will inevitably affect the serving personnel whose morale, discipline and leadership will be undermined....It will also seriously affect the resettlement of former soldiers, recruitment policy of the federal government and the security of the nation."

"It will tarnish the glorious traditions of the soldiers of Punjab", he said.

The statement was signed by several officials in the ranks of brigadiers, colonels, and majors.

BK161149 Karachi Domestic Service in English 1005 GMT 16 Dec 82

[Text] President Mohammad Ziaul Haq has said his visit to Canada is aimed at promoting bilateral relations still further. Addressing a largely attended gathering of overseas Pakistanis in Ottawa last night, he said Pakistan and Canada have a joint trade and economic council and we will see how best the two countries could increase their bilateral relations through increased trade.

The president described his visit to the United States as very successful and according to his expectations. This, he added, would have a beneficial effect on Pakistan. It was a result of the successful foreign policy pursued by his government.

About the acquisition of nuclear technology, the president said Pakistan was working on a modest nuclear program with the sole objective of using it for peaceful purposes. Pakistan, as a developing country, has the right to acquire this technology as it was essential to meet the growing needs of energy for development and progress. At the same time, Pakistan is a peace-loving nation and stands for peace in the region and the world at large.

Referring to Kashmir, the president said Pakistan stands for solving the issue peacefully within the framework of UN resolutions and in the spirit of the Simla Agreement.

President Mohammad Ziaul Haq said his government wants that English should be retained in addition to the national Urdu language in order to ensure the country's progress in science and technology. Arabic should also be retained in view of Pakistan's close relations with the Arab brethren as well as to comprehend the holy Koran. Radio Pakistan's representative, in a dispatch from Montreal, says the president was repeatedly cheered by the large audience during his hour-long address which included a question-and-answer session.

THE MUSLIM REPORTS DIFFERENCES WITHIN MRD

GF151210 Islamabad THE MUSLIM in English 11 Dec 82 p 6

[Bureau report]

[Text] Karachi, Dec. 10 -- The differences among the components of MRD [Movement for Restoration of Democracy], other than Pakistan People's Party, are surfacing again with allegations and counterallegations.

In a recent statement, the secretary of information of National Democratic Party [NDP], Abid Zubairi, accused Khwaja Khairuddin of being inefficient and incapable for the post of secretary general of MRD.

In a rejoinder the secretary of Karachi Muslim League (Khairuddin group) Ishrat Ali Nagori, said that everybody knew Mr. Zubairi "politically stands no where".

When contacted Ghulam Mustafa Jatoi and Sardar Sherbaz Mazari both regretted this attitude within the MRD and asked the leaders to avoid expressing their personal likes and dislikes in public. Sardar Mazari is understood to have taken Mr Zubairi to task for issuing such a statement against Khwaja Khairuddin.

When contacted Mr Mazari said that as far as NDP was concerned Khwaja Khairuddin was unanimously elected secretary general of MRD and the party had no complaint against him.

Mr Jatoi said that in the next meeting of MRD he would ask the members to desist from issuing this sort of statement against each other. "The differences could be discussed and thrashed out within MRD".

Khwaja Khairuddin when contacted refused to say anything. "If I have to say anything I would talk to Sardar Mazari. He is the head of the party not Mr Zubairi", he said.

PETROLEUM MINISTER COMMENTS ON OPEC ISSUES

LD161850 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 16 Dec 82

[Text] On the eve of the OPEC petroleum ministers' meeting in Geneva, Petroleum Minister Gharazi, who will lead Iran's delegation to the gathering, held a news conference today and answered questions from foreign and domestic journalists regarding the regulation of OPEC oil production, oil prices and the election of a new OPEC secretary general.

According to our correspondent, with regard to fixing quotas for OPEC oil production, Charazi said: A year and several months have passed since Iran proposed an OPEC production ceiling. Now, some of the OPEC members who had previously rejected the idea of quotas are defending it. He added: We hope that quotas will be allocated logically, proportionate to populations, to the extent of resources and to the currency and material needs of each member country. According to this principle, those countries having a lower population and higher income are required to reduce their quotas and those with larger populations and lower incomes should increase their quotas.

Regarding Iran's oil production quota, the petroleum minister said: If the principles for setting quotas are taken into consideration, Iran's quota should be over 3 million barrels a day while, today, we do not need more than 3 million barrels a day.

Regarding the official oil price of $34 per barrel, he said: Over 78 years, 30 billion barrels of oil have been exported from Iran at low prices. The economies of the European countries were built on cheap oil. In our opinion, oil prices must be fixed on the basis of substitute forms of energy. Thus, although Iran supports the $34 price for crude, it does not consider this a fair price.

Regarding the election of a new OPEC secretary general who, according to the OPEC constitution, should come from Iran, Gharazi said: Now, 22 years after the formation of OPEC, it is Iran's turn to present a secretary general to OPEC for the second time. During the conference, I will introduce five of our brothers to OPEC. They are aware of the situation regarding oil resources and are experienced in oil issues. We hope to run OPEC and its institutions in the interests of the oppressed and to help solve OPEC's problems.

The petroleum minister and the members of Iran's delegation left Tehran for Vienna this afternoon to take part in the OPEC petroleum ministers' conference. This conference, which was supposed to have been held in Nigeria, will meet in Vienna on Saturday following requests from several OPEC member countries.

[Communique No 1,154 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. We humbly express condolences in connection with the anniversary of the martyrdom of the eighth bright star of the firmament of the imamate and sainthood, the sentinel of right and truth, the holy 'Ali ibn Musa ar-Rida -- may peace be upon him! A resume of combat operations during the past 24 hours:

An exchange of fire continued yesterday throughout the country's western fronts. In the Muslim ibn 'Aqil operational zone, our combat units opened fire on enemy positions, destroyed one tank and one of their vehicles and damaged two armored personnel carriers and one mortar launcher.

By opening antibattery fire on the enemy's artillery and mortar positions on the fronts from Sar-e Pol-e Zahab to Naftshahr, the heroes of Islam's army silenced the aggressors' heavy weapons fire. One enemy motor park also was set ablaze and several squad and one-man fire trenches of the Iraqi forces were destroyed.

During an exchange of fire in the Marivan region, a number of Iraqi installations, weapons and squad trenches were destroyed and a number of Saddamist troops were killed, thanks to the intense heavy weapons fire of Islam's combatants.

Whie returning enemy fire in the Moharram operational zone and on the country's southern fronts, Islam's proud heroes defended their own positions. In the Abadan region, thanks to fire opened by our own units, a number of mercenary squads and one-man fire trenches and several of their vehicles were destroyed. A number of the enemy's troops also were either killed or wounded.

The city of Abadan yesterday came under sporadic enemy fire. As a result of mortar strikes, three buildings were destroyed and one of our compatriots was wounded.

During the past 24 hours, several raiding enemy aircraft appeared in the skies of the southern and western border regions. However, thanks to the vigilance and timely fire opened by our antiaircraft units, the enemy planes were forced to flee before carrying out their missions.

SPEAKER MEETS 'JERUSALEM BATTALION' COMMANDERS

GF170622 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0430 GMT 17 Dec 82

[Excerpts] The commanders of the Jerusalem Battalion of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran, accompanied by Colonel Sayyad-Shirazi, commander of this reserve force, last night met Islamic Majlis Speaker Hashemi-Rafsanjani.

During this meeting, Col Sayyad-Shirazi explained the selection of commanders for the Jerusalem Battalion: These people have been handpicked from among combat troops fighting on the frontlines and all of them have been present on the front right from the beginning of the war. They also have a very high ideological level. He added: These commanders are also conversant with fighting fascists and the moral aspect of the popular forces. They have the necessary qualities needed for this responsibility.

Hashemi-Rafsanjani then expressed his appreciation of the troops who have fought at the fronts for months: The formation of the Jerusalem Battalion is the forging of a natural, selected link between the Armed Forces and the people and one of the most essential political, religious and military tasks.

The Islamic Majlis speaker stressed the need for greater vigilance on the part of the combatant forces. In his address to the Jerusalem Battalion commanders, he said: Our aim, motto and the banner of our revolution and your call to the truth, justice, Islam and nobility have many enemies in the world and we cannot rest assured that in the future enemies will not create problems for us.

In another part of his speech to the commanders of the Jerusalem Battalion, the Islamic Majlis speaker said: The Koran says we must always be prepared so that enemies will be afraid of us. We hope our alertness will prevent wars. The very presence of the people among you and your presence among the people and such projects as the establishment of the Jerusalem Reserve Force, which is a very significant one, can intimidate our enemies so that not even the thought of imposing another war will enter anyone's head.

Hashemi-Rafsanjani added: The world will see that the Islamic Republic does not utilize its forces for aggression, however strong it may be. The smallest of states in our vicinity, the same states with populations of a few hundred thousand in the Persian Gulf, who are blatantly engaged in assisting our enemy and are providing it with ports, routes and propaganda, will see that we believe in forgiveness. However, preparation is a necessity and the only way to guarantee security of our youth and our nation is that we should be strong. And one of the steps for this purpose was the formation of this Jerusalem Battalion.

FREE VOICE OF IRAN ON SOVIET PLANS FOR AZARBAYJAN

GF151803 (Clandestine) Free Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1500 GMT 15 Dec 82

[Excerpt] Compatriots, you are listening to the Free Voice of Iran. Dear listeners, the Free Voice of Iran wants liberation and independence for Iran and in this endeavor, warns both Eastern and Western superpowers that Iran belongs to the Iranians and any attempt to divide Iran will result in a crushing response from the nation.

A prime example of such attempts recently was shown by the new Soviet leadership cadre. As you know, Geydar Aliyev, member of the Politburo of the Communist Party and deputy Soviet premier, has asked for the unification of the Soviet and Iranian Azarbayjans.

To achieve this goal, the Communist Tudeh Party and its traitorous radio, which is broadcasting its programs from Baku, have begun new efforts and have announced the formation of a new democratic organization similar to the one of Gholamyahya and Pishevari. Such satanic (attempts?) are against the sovereignty of Iran and endanger the national unity of Iranians; many Iranian organizations and groups, freedom-seeking Iranians and especially writers, Armed Forces members, both in Iran and abroad, have become our allies. A number of opposition activists have asked us to warn the Iranian nation and announce our support for national struggle for the freedom and independence of Iran.

20 DECEMBER 1982

Lebanon

Israeli Position on Negotiations -- The Israeli Government approves the document which was formulated during contacts between Lebanon and Israel and in accordance with which bilateral negotiations will take place, the Israeli Cabinet secretary announced in a statement broadcast by Jerusalem radio after the 19 December Cabinet meeting. Israel will shortly appoint its representatives to the negotiations and the venue will be determined in contacts between the Israeli and Lebanese Governments, he added. Affirming that the document approved by Israel was agreed on with "authorized representatives" of the Lebanese Government, the radio said it provides for ending the state of war between Israel and Lebanon and for normalizing relations through agreements on trade and the prohibition of hostile propaganda and economic boycotts. It also stipulates that Israel will establish a liaison unit in Beirut to discuss the various moves between Israel and Lebanon, the radio added. Earlier, THE JERUSALEM POST described the document as "an agreement in principle" which is not yet formal or signed. Citing sources close to Israeli Defense Minister Ari'el Sharon, THE POST said Israel has now agreed to a partial military withdrawal in Lebanon before the start of negotiations with the Lebanese Government. The IDF will withdraw to Ad-Damur and the Syrians will pull back from their remaining positions in the Lebanese mountains to the Al-Biqa' Valley; the Lebanese Army and multinational force will fill the gap. Reporting on the possible withdrawals, Jerusalem radio said Israel and Lebanon have apparently agreed that the PLO evacuation will take place at the same time as the Syrians' withdrawal, and not before it as Israel had earlier insisted.

Lebanese Position — Lebanon welcomes Israel's relinquishment of its demand to hold the negotiations in Jerusalem and its approval of some of the ideas that U.S. presidential envoy Philip Habib carried from Lebanon, official Lebanese Government sources cited by Beirut radio announced on 19 December. However, some remaining obstacles and difficulties must be overcome by the liaison committee, they said. The sources added that Israeli media reports of Ari'el Sharon's meetings with members of the Lebanese Government, of an Israeli-Lebanese agreement on partial withdrawals from Lebanon and of an Israeli-Lebanese working paper are merely "reports which Lebanon refuses to discuss, since the Lebanese Government's position is clear and firm and based on the Lebanese working paper and the principles announced by Lebanese quarters." Earlier, Lebanese Foreign Minister Elie Salim asserted that Sharon did not meet with any member of the Lebanese Government and that "there was no prior agreement between Israel and Lebanon," the radio reported. Nevertheless, he said Lebanon is prepared to hold talks with Israel, if the latter is ready to negotiate through the tripartite committee on the basis of the agenda adopted by the Israeli Cabinet. Lebanon wants to expedite the talks, he added, because any delay will have negative and perhaps dangerous effects on its internal political situation.

After meeting with U.S. envoy Habib on 17 December, Lebanese President Amin al-Jumayyil expressed satisfaction with Habib's efforts and method of conducting the negotiations, Voice of Lebanon radio noted. In remarks broadcast by Beirut radio, Prime Minister Shafiq al-Wazzan likewise said that what Habib told the Lebanese gives rise to hope, Habib returned to Israel the next day and met with Prime Minister Menahem Begin and Ari'el Sharon shortly before the 18 December Israeli Cabinet meeting, according to Beirut and Jerusalem radio reports.

Syrian Military Situation -- Israeli artillery cannot hit Damascus, but if the IDF hits Damascus with long-range missiles Syria will use similar missiles to hit Tel Aviv, a Syrian military official announced in a statement reported by the London based magazine AL-MAJALLAH. In a press statement published by the Kuwaiti paper AR-RA'Y AL-'AMM, Syrian Information Minister Ahmad Iskandar said Syria is strengthening its forces in preparation for "the forthcoming battle" with Israel depsite the fact that it went to war in Lebanon knowing that the "strategic imbalance" favored Israel -- with the result that Syria lost 5,000 soldiers as well as aircraft and equipment worth "billions," KUNA reported.

Security Situation -- The Syrians suffered a number of casualties when an Arab Deterrent Forces (ADF) truck was ambushed near Tripoli on 17 December; Voice of Lebanon radio said six ADF men were killed but Ihdin Radio of Free and Unified Lebanon said none were killed and two were wounded. Two people were killed and four were wounded by renewed sniper fire in Tripoli on 18 December, Beirut radio reported. Fighting also continued in 'Alayh where Druze Socialists attempted to penetrate the sector held by the Christian Lebanese Forces, according to 19 December Voice of Lebanon radio reports. The IDF intervened to put an end to the fighting early on 20 December, Jerusalem radio reported. A Lebanese Army convoy heading eastward to the Al-Biqa' was meanwhile caught in the Druze-Christian crossfire and four soldiers were killed, Beirut radio said.

West Bank

A Nabulus student was killed when Israeli border police fired to disperse an 18 December demonstration against the curfew imposed on Malatah refugee camp, IDF radio reported.

PLO

Tunis Meeting -- PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat chaired an Executive Committee meeting in Tunis on 17 December to discuss the latest Arab and international developments concerning Palestinians, particularly the results of the recent Palestinian-Jordanian talks, Baghdad Voice of PLO radio reported. The committee formed to hold a dialogue with the Syrians reported on the current state of bilateral relations, KUNA revealed. Baghdad Voice of PLO noted that the Executive Committee will make "important decisions" concerning the problems it discussed.

'Arafat Interview -- In an interview with the Beirut daily AN-NAHAR AL-'ARABI WA AD-DUWAL, cited by QNA, the PLO leader declared that while there are negative aspects in the Reagan peace proposal, he agrees with Reagan's description of the West Bank and Gaza Strip as occupied territories which should be vacated, with the point concerning settlements and with the "positive" point that Jerusalem is subject to negotiations. On PLO-Jordanian relations, 'Arafat stated that even though the PLO and Jordan have separate ideas about the proposed confederation, there are no major differences between the Palestinian and Jordanian conceptions of foreign and defense policies. The PLO leader's security adviser 'Atallah Muhammad 'Atallah told Egyptian Foreign Minister Kamal Hasan 'Ali that agreement has been reached on everything except the points concerning military force and foreign representations, MENA reported.

Damascus Meeting -- Chairman of the PDRY Supreme People's Council Presidium 'Ali Nasir Muhammad arrived in Damascus on 19 December and held two closed sessions with Syrian President Hafiz al-Asad to discuss bilateral as well as regional relations, according to Damascus radio reports. Palestinian-Syrian relations were the "core" of the discussions, Radio Monte Carlo claimed.

USSR Comment -- Director of the Soviet Institute for Oriental Studies Yevgeniy Primakov termed the Jordanian-Palestinian talks a "positive factor" and stated that the PLO's efforts to solve the issue with Jordan must not face any obstacles from anyone, Beirut radio reported citing the weekly magazine MONDAY MORNING.

Inter-Arab Affairs

Libyan Meeting — Libyan leader Col Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi sent a telegram to the leaders of the Arab Steadfastness and Confrontation Front countries inviting them to meet in Libya soon to discuss the current situation in the Arab world and to agree on a "comprehensive strategy" to deal with problems, JANA revealed on 17 December. The Libyan leader sent a similar message to the leaders of the Palestinian Resistance and Lebanese Nationalist Movement, calling for an "urgent meeting" in Libya and stressing that any delay in holding the meeting would enable the enemy to overcome the two groups' unity, another JANA report stated. Libyan opposition movements and popular formations were invited to convene "an urgent national meeting" in order to discuss the same issues, according to another JANA report.

Boycott Lifted -- The Arab League lifted its boycott of 32 companies which have broken trade relations with Israel and which have pledged to apply the league's boycott rules, AFP reported.

Arab Radio -- The Arab Broadcasting Union decided to establish a radio monitoring center in Amman, Jordan, and a program and news center in Algiers, KUNA reported.

Iran-Iraq War

Iraqi naval forces sank four Iranian civilian and military targets in the Khowr-e Musa area near Bandar-e Khomeyni in the northeastern gulf on 18 December, a military communique broadcast by Baghdad radio claimed. The communique warned that any naval target discovered in this "prohibited area" will meet the same fate.

OPEC Meeting

At the OPEC oil ministers' annual meeting being held in Vienna, Saudi Arabia faces mounting pressure to reduce its share of OPEC's total production quota, informed sources told AFP. Iranian Oil Minister Mohammad Gharazi stressed that while maintaining OPEC production at the present level is a decisive factor, "slight adjustments" in the distribution quotas should be made so that the output of the "largest produce" is limited to 5 million barrels per day (MBD), APS reported. Gharazi told Tehran radio that Iran wants a 3.2 MBD production quota. OPEC's "unjust policy" in distributing shares has led to the current world oil crisis, Tehran radio asserted. Iran supports a more just redistribution of shares based on realistic measures, the radio added.

Saudi Minister of Petroleum and Mineral Resources Ahmad Zaki Yamani said that his country "is not currently prepared to reduce the volume of its production," KUNA reported. He criticized OPEC countries that are giving discounts and using other price-cutting tactics to exceed their production quotas and warned that the Kingdom's support for the current pricing is conditional on the restoration of price and production discipline, another KUNA report said citing an interview with the MIDDLE EAST ECONOMIC SURVEY. Noting that Iran produced almost twice its quota and reduced its oil prices, a Riyadh radio commentary declared that this stand was harmful to all OPEC countries and must be dealt with stringently.

Morocco

Relations between the government and the popular opposition forces have recently improved, according to political observers in Babat cited by KUNA. The improvement is attributed to King Hassan's intention to resolve the Western Sahara dispute, to remove restrictions against the Socialist Union Party and to reestablish diplomatic relations with Algeria, KUNA added.

DOST COMMENTS ON RELATIONS WITH NEIGHBORS

["Talk" by Foreign Minister Shah Mohammad Dost -- live or recorded]

[Excerpts] The national and democratic April Revolution is the legal result of a long, relentless, and diffcult struggle by the workers of our beloved homeland Afghanistan to break the chains of (?slavery) and to eliminate feudal oppression and cruelty, moneyleaders, [word indistinct] corrupt democrats and the backwardness of centuries.

The central core of PDPA and DRA foreign policy, as affirmed in the report by esteemed Comrade Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA Central Committee and president of the DRA Revolutionary Council, is determining the nature of our foreign policy [words indistinct]. In regulating foreign affairs and carrying out activities in this field the PDPA and DRA Government believe profoundly that national sovereignty, independence, economic development and prosperity of the working people of Afghanistan [words indistinct].

The strengthening of friendly relations with the Soviet state, founded by V.I. Lenin, is one of the important principles of the PDPA and DRA Government's foreign policy and the fundamental factor in defending the great gains of the April Revolution and its new development stage. The DRA's relations with the USSR, which have passed the test of time, are making and will make successful all-round progress in the interests of the people of our countries and parties. Our relations with the USSR (?confirm) our traditional national policy. The victory of the April Revolution, in particular its new development stage, has developed our relations to the highest level.

We have similar friendly relations with the countries of the socialist camp [words indistinct]. Our relations with the great country of India have always been friendly and cordial, and are deeply rooted in history. We attach (?great value) to further progress in our relations and cooperation, and we believe profoundly that these relations are in the interest of the people of both countries and have a great impact on maintaining peace and security in the region and the world. A valuable place in our country's foreign policy is given to the serious observance of the principles of the UN Charter. [passage indistinct] We (?base) and develop our relations with all countries on the basis of respect for sovereignty and national independence, territorial integrity, equality of rights and nonaggression and noninterference in internal affairs. Our the struggle of all peace-loving countries for the common cause of peace, disarmament, an end to the arms race, the prevention and elimination of nuclear and mass destruction weapons and for (?peace and friendship), social progress against imperialism, colonialism, neocolonialism, (?chauvinism), hegemonism, racism, apartheid, aggression, and war.

The [word indistinct] of the PDPA action program in the area of foreign policy and international relations is based on principles which are implemented in practice by our revolutionary party and government.

These principles, which have passed the test of time and which have been approved by (?life), are the principles of peaceful coexistence with countries of different social and political systems, the policy of positive and active nonalignment, internationalism and solidarity, and friendship with the great country of the Soviet Union and other contries of the socialist family. Our country deals with international problems on the basis of these principles, and it is precisely because of this that the DRA continues to deal flexibly and realistically with the situation around Afghanistan to work for a solution to the region's problems. We believe profoundly that our foreign policy completely corresponds with the interests of the people of the region and the world and with maintaining peace throughout the world.

Our revolutionary party and government indefatigably endeavor to strengthen the unity of the three revolutionary forces of our times -- the worldwide system of socialism headed by the Soviet Union, international workers movements, and the national liberation movements of Asia, Africa and Latin America.

The foreign policy of the PDPA and the DRA today enjoys great respect and prestige internationally and the [word indistinct] of international imperialism headed by U.S. imperialism, Chinese hegemonism and all circles of international reaction for the isolation and seclusion of the DRA has been leveled to the ground. At present our country has diplomatic relations with more than 60 countries. [Word indistinct]of world public each day know more of the felonious, antipeace, and aggressive policies of imperialism and their collaborators.

The DRA and the working people of our beloved country have made and will make serious efforts to improve relations with Islamic countries, and will strive to improve relations in the interests of the Islamic masses of Asia and Africa and the peace and progress of mankind.

With regret we observe that the military Government of Pakistan, contrary to accepted norms and laws of international relations, contrary to the will and desires of the resolute majority of the workers of that country and expressing no inclination for reducing tension, maintaining longstanding peace and establishing goodneighborliness, has turned a blind eye to accepting realities in the DRA. (?As a result) it has been unable or unwilling to normalize its relations with the DRA.

Intervention, including armed intervention, is continuing from Pakistan (?soil) against the DRA. The undeclared war against our country, whose organizers must have been convinced of its complete failure and defeat, has gained new dimensions. International imperialism headed by U.S. imperialists has not abandoned its striving to exploit the so-called Afghan problem to intensify international tension.

The DRA, confirming the principle of goodneighborliness, has continuously endeavored to establish friendly and normal relations with neighboring countries; with attention to this principle and in accordance with the principles of peaceful coexistence and observing the principles of the UN Charter which outlaw the use of force, the DRA has strived to solve disputes by political discussion and peaceful means. In securing this desire, the DRA has undertaken great historic initiatives. The proposals dated 14 May 1980 and 24 August 1981, which demand discussions and ways with (?new means) to solve the problems concerning Afghanistan, have been put forward specifically, with flexibility and realism, and are distinguished examples of the DRA's good intentions. We believe profoundly that based on the proposals of 24 August 1981 we can solve the problems of the region in the interest of the people, countries, and peace in the region and the world.

In the (?new) process of solving the problems concerning Afghanistan the DRA, maintaining its principled stand, has shown the necessary flexibility. We have announced several times and are still announcing that we want to normalize and even make friendly our mutual relations with our neighbors Iran and Pakistan based on good will, reasoning and wisdom, and constructive discussion. In this respect our country has not spared and will not spare any efforts. We hope the authorities in our neighboring countries will show similar good intentions for solving problems in the region, because the continuation of this situation cannot be reconciled with the process of peace in our region and the world.

The DRA believes that raising the so-called Afghan problem — which in reality does not exist and is a ridiculous and unfortunate invention of the enemies of peace and social progress -- in the UN and other international organizations and keeping it artificially alive will not help solve the region's problem. From these unreasonable actions only international imperialism headed by U.S. imperialism, and reactionary forces of the region and the world will profit. The DRA resolutely believes that the only way to reach a proper and reasonable solution to the situation around Afghanistan will be through direct talks with neighboring countries.

Recent developments in our region have increased the anxieties of peace-loving forces. The increase in supplies of advanced and modern U.S. weapons and ammunition to Pakistan and the transformation of this country into an arms depot will largely endanger peace and security in the region. History shows that this matter cannot be a factor of stability for a regime. As a peace-loving country, the DRA believes that maintaining the cause of permanent peace is the basic problem of our era. We believe that securing the proposals of the Soviet Union approved at the 26th CPSU Congress announcing the eighties as the decade of peace, can safeguard mankind from the dangers of nuclear war and maintain permanent peace. The DRA not only approves these proposals, but resolutely struggles for their realization in its foreign policy activities.

The DRA believes that the policy of positive and active nonalignment with a further increase of its anti-imperialist content will be able to play a vital role in preserving international peace and security. Our country consistently and widely supports the Nonaligned Movement of which it is a founder, and will struggle against any plot to separate and isolate this movement from its natural ally — the worldwide system of socialism headed by the Soviet Union. The DRA welcomes the conference of heads of states and governments of nonaligned countries to be held in New Delhi; in accordance with its principled policy it will support the holding of this conference and will actively take part in the work of this important international conference.

The DRA respects the role of the United Nations in preserving world peace and security, pays its necessary share for the activities of this credible international organization and resolutely supports it. The DRA will support the struggle of developing and less developed countries for the creation of a new and just international economic order to end the discrimination and inequality which has been imposed by imperialist countries. [word indistinct] in the area of international economic relations on the above countries and will play its part for the realization of this wish. Afghanistan as a land-locked country seriously wants the availability of transit and transportation facilities along with the above countries.

In accordance with its principled policy the DRA Government has restored and revived the confidence of the workers of the country and has inflicted fatal blows to counterrevolution. In this way the DRA has been able to give a necessary answer to the criminal plots of imperialism and reaction in the international (?arena).

Today, thanks to the principled and scientifically prepared policy of the PDPA and the DRA, the worldwide front for defending the revolution of Afghanistan is reaching new dimensions, and respect for the the prestige of the DRA has widened. The struggle continues and we are moving surely forward to greater victories and to new horizons. Let our enemies know that our revolution is invincible and irreversible. Thank you.

HINDU-MUSLIM CLASHES IN PADRA 'UNDER CONTROL'

[By Dilip Ganguly]

[Excerpt] New Delhi, Dec. 18 (AFP) -- Hindu-Moslem riots spread to another town in the northwest Indian coastal state of Gujarat today, forcing the authorities to restrict public assembly and to ask for police reinforcements.

Indian news agencies reported clashes in Padra town, 20 kms (12 miles) from the riot-torn city of Baroda where at least 13 people have been killed and over 150 injured in rioting since Monday.

Authorities laid a ban on the carrying of arms and the public assembly of more than five people in the city, United News of India (UNI) news agency said.

Mobs broke open shops in Padra and set them on fire after looting them late last night. Policemen who rushed to stop the violence were attacked with stones and soda-water bottles, the agency said.

The police then opened fire in self-defence, UNI said quoting a police spokesman in the state capital Ahmedabad.

Additional police contingents were rushed to the areas, UNI said adding that the situation there was "under control."

The communal violence in the state is causing concern in the Indian capital, observers noted, as federal Interior Minister P.C. Sethi announced last night that he would go to visit Gujarat on Monday.

A ministry spokesman said the state government, run by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's Congress (I) Party, had been assured of all federal help in dealing with the rioters.

Mr Sethi will be accompanied by federal Defence Minister R. Venkataraman, the spokesman said.

In Baroda, more people were arrested today, bringing the number of arrests since Monday to 160. Tension was still evident in the affected areas despite army patrolling, a Press Trust of India (PTI) report said.

ZIA: ARMED FORCES MUST HAVE STABILIZING ROLE

BK181150 Karachi Domestic Service in English 1005 GMT 18 Dec 82

[Excerpts] President General Mohammad Ziaul Haq has said the enforcement of nizam-i-Islam [Islamic system] will lead the country toward its destined goal of a true Islamic welfare state. Addressing a large gathering of the Pakistani community in Ottawa last night, he enumerated the various steps that are being taken by the government for the introduction of Islamic democratic system in the country with a view to ensuring a stable and effective government.

The president said that the vicious circle of civilian rule and its interception by martial law had to be broken. He said he was of the view that the armed forces must have a role under the constitution to give stability to the elected representatives. He said the armed forces of a country are designed for two purposes. Firstly, to give protection to the security of the country, safeguard its geographical borders, and to protect it from outside aggression. Secondly, an equally important role was to safeguard the country's ideology and give it internal stability as well as save it from internal disorder. The Pakistan Armed Forces are doing no more than this.

President Mohammad Ziaul Haq assured the overseas Pakistanis that all sensitive installations, including those for the peaceful nuclear program, are fully safeguarded. There should be no cause for anxiety on this account.

LAWYERS URGE PARTIES TO UNITE, END MILITARY RULE

BK1815603 Hong Kong AFP in English 1540 GMT 18 Dec 82

[Text] Karachi, Dec 18 (AFP) -- Armed police surrounded the city courts here today as lawyers held an all-Pakistan convention inside the court compound to denounce military rule and demand restoration of democracy under the 1973 constitution.

The convention, attended by over 1,000 lawyers, called upon the military regime of General Ziaul Haq to annul martial law and hold general elections under the 1973 constitution which has remained suspended since July 1977.

After holding the elections, the military should go back to its barracks and transfer power to elected representatives of the people, a resolution passed unanimously said.

A presidium of seven heads of various bar associations from all over Pakistan chaired the one-day convention, which concluded peacefully after hearing fiery speeches against the military regime and passing strongly critical resolutions.

Police armed with anti-riot weapons waited outside the court compound but did not disrupt the convention, held in open defiance of martial law regulations which ban all forms of political activity.

There were stern warnings from the district administration. But Mr Farooq Naik, the secretary of the Karachi Bar Association which hosted the convention, said, "We are determined to face the consequences."

A resolution carried unanimously at the convention said Pakistan was passing through the "worst period of its history" and was in the grip of a military dictatorship which enjoyed no support from the people.

The people were completely denied of all fundamental human rights and the military junta had no intention of parting with the power it had seized in a coup on July 5, 1977 overthrowing the civilian government of executed former Prime Minister Zulfiqar Ali Bhutto, the resolution said.

The lawyers convention totally rejected the proposed constitutional role for the army. Such a role would amount to depriving the people permanently of their right to govern themselves through their elected representatives, it added.

The convention appealed to all political parties in the country to come forward in launching a movement for the restoration of democracy and terminating military rule.

It also called for the restoration of the independence of the judiciary and the judicial powers curbed by the martial law regime.

The convention demanded release of all political detaines of the martial law regime, including Miss Benazir Bhutto, the eldest daughter Mr Bhutto, as well as retired Air Marshal Asghar Khan, a former commander-in-chief of the Pakistan Air Force, and Mr Abdul Hafeez Lakho, president of the Karachi Bar Association.

It called for freedom of the press and an end to press censorship.

Some arrests were expected of the organisers of the convention here tonight, official sources said.

RAFSANJANI: START OF NEW STAGE IN REVOLUTION

LD171630 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 17 Dec 82

[Excerpts] The acting Friday imam of Tehran, Hojjat ol-Eslam Hashemi-Rafsanjani, delivered the prayer sermons at Tehran University today.

In the second sermon, the acting Friday imam of Tehran said: Today the most secure island of stability in the region has been created by the Islamic revolution. The most important foundation strengthing this society is its Islamic and popular basis. As the government is Islamic the people are with it, and the Islamic beliefs of the people are the most important factors strengthening the revolution. The victory of the revolution was achieved under the shadow of its Islamic slogans, which enjoyed the support of the people. In the early days of the revolution the people joined the revolution and took part in the referendum with a special outlook. Then, at a certain stage, the support of the people declined. In Bani-Sadr's election, instead of 20 million, 14 million took part and, immediately after that, in the Majlis elections, about 11 million people took part. However, once again this support has begun to rise; in the presidential elections of the martyr Raja'i it went up and in the presidential elections of our Brother His Excellency Hojjat ol-Eslam Khamene' it went even higher. In the recent elections it went still higher and we have reached the same level as at the height of the support of the people in the early days, with this difference: In the early days the support was to some extent emotional. However, today the people know what they want. It is of great value to know why that curve came about.

During the first 8 months of the government, the people began to have doubts. The government of the liberals and the ascendance of the leftists created doubts. The people felt that they had taken part in the struggles but a number of people who were governing the country did not act very much in accordance with Islamic principles, and that leanings toward America and the West still continued. The same people who were outwardly Muslims and took part in prayers had aspirations that could be satisfied in places like Sweden and Switzerland. They were not engaged in a serious struggle against corruption, usury, and deviations. We passed a law about the unused land. Some people would go and confiscate people's orchards. They attacked people's homes or occupied hotels. The people noticed that there was no financial justice. All this provided a weapon for a number of naive or satanic clergymen who realized that they had not taken part in any struggle, that their fellow seminarist the Grand Ayatollah Montazeri became the hope of the imam and the ummah, while they did not even become the hope of their own mosque.

They engaged in mischief making. The capitalists also found a good outlet and started to incite and create mischief through these gentlemen and to agitate the public. The people saw that the liberals were in power, that America was returning, that there was a great deal of traffic to and from the American Embassy, that the radio and television engaged in leftism, that the press was attacking the revolutionary organizations and the clergy, that arts and letters were as they had been and that some revolutionary organizations were even violating people's property. When Bani-Sadr was elected the situation reached its worst stage.

After the Majlis elections, due to an offensive taken by the Islamic line of the imam, the American den of corruption and the universities were closed down. The Majlis started an offensive against liberalism and the elements responsible for propagating Western and Eastern civilization and culture; and the people were gradually encouraged.

At this point, the opponents also started their counterattack in the form of terrorism against the imam's line; and the great martydoms and losses which we endured were due to this fact. In this way, the feelings of the people toward supporting the revolution, which had been weakened, were once again aroused. The cabarets were closed down; the wine-making and wine-selling centers were closed down; loose women were rounded up in the streets and were reeducated in guidance centers; the beaches, which were centers of corruption, were closed down; revolutionary organizations, excesses, and unnecessary purges were harnessed; the usurers were destroyed. In this way, the weapon was removed from the hands of the deceived clergymen and the people noticed that the direction of society was Islamic. They became hopeful about the future of this revolution. In this way, the counterrevolutionary motives were also being weakened.

The counterrevolutionaries imagined that through assassinations they could make the people leaderless and confused and could bring them under their control; or that through forcing the government to act harshly and attack people's homes they could find a good excuse for creating an unfavorable atmosphere. They were to some extent successful in brutalizing the government and in assassinating the leading figures. However, all this was temporary and today they have been suppressed. They were the ones who started violence. They carried out all these assassinations, tortures, and bombings but they did not succeed in creating a wave of opposition among the people. By realizing the facts and by chanting the slogan that the armed hypocrites should be executed the people countered the wishes of the counterrevolutionaries.

The closure of the universities was another excuse used by the counterrevolutionaries. They wished either to set up bases in the universities or force them to be closed so that they could say that this government was against learning. However, they were kicked out and tomorrow the university will be reopened in ceremonies on this very spot. The people of the world realized that the government is not against learning and universities, but rather it is against corruption and sabotage.

Today, due to a lack of motive the counterrevolutionaries are forced to lie. For a few days they said that the people did not take part in the voting; but a few days later this lie was exposed. Today, the expansion of learning and activity in the schools and universities is better than in the past. The government is not the government of the mullahs. The people themselves demand the presence of the clergymen. The direction is clear and the lines are well-defined. They made a lot of noise in the world hoping that the people would not take part in the elections. Your participation in the elections, the fact that you spent a few hours in the voting lines neutralizing this propaganda was one of the things that warmed the hearts of the prophet and the lord of the age. The day after the elections, when I met the imam, I found him happier than ever. He said our people are a very good people.

Mr Hashemi-Rafsanjani added: They tried very hard to prevent holding the elections to the Council of Experts in a dignified way. They said it would weaken the leadership, that they wanted to appoint a successor to the imam; but the imam himself neutralized this conspiracy.

Continuing his second sermon, the acting Friday imam of Tehran referred to the recent important and historic message of the iman of the ummah and said:

[Begin Hashemi-Rafsanjani recording] You who are serving in this country: Open your ears. Think about the words of the imam and the tone of the imam's message, and think about the reason why this message has been issued.

With our new move [the elections to the Council of Experts] we demonstrated that the country is stable; that there is no need for fear; that the war, the economic boycott, terrorism, incitements, and propaganda not only have not been able to shake these people, they have even made them stronger. The high number of votes demonstated this.

How should we treat these people now? A country that is so consolidated, which at a time of war takes part in such elections and engages in reconstruction, is that country any longer in need of us violating the shari'a, the Koran, the law, the morality, and Islamic kindness and mercy in order to strengthen the revolution? There is no need for this. The imam has isolated the counterrevolutionary minigroups. They fall into a separate category and they will be dealt with accordingly. However, there is no need for incorrect behavior toward the vast masses of the people who went to the polling booths of their own volition. Even those who did not go, we have the same regard for them. The time has come to give people assurance and serenity. All the prerequisites are here for not disturbing anyone, and for allowing anyone who does not commit an offense to stay in this country, to live here, to be comfortable, and to feel secure. You should know that even if everything exists in this country, if the people are not confident and are not serene, and fear that their telephones will be bugged, that they will be attacked in their homes without any reason, that people compile dossiers on them without any reason, that their children are arrested in the schools or expelled for no reason, that the workers are expelled from their jobs without any reason, that their legal rights are violated, if people do not feel confident and if they do not feel secure it is like inviting guests, cooking the best meals, but putting broken glass in the food.

You took part in a revolution to release the people from the yoke of tyranny of the Pahlavi government. You have released them from Satan, from American influence. For the sake of the revolution you adopted some harsh measures, and those measures were necessary; even now, in some cases, they are still necessary and should be carried out. However, we should reach a stage when these people will feel completely confident that so long as they do not violate the laws, no one will violate their rights.

Due to the fact that our position has now been consolidated, those who wish to serve the republic should do so with wisdom and with principles. Searching people's homes is forbidden. You revolutionary organizations, security officials, except in cases of terrorism you are not allowed to search for people's faults, search their files, search their homes, search their working premises, find faults in people in order to disgrace them. This cannot be done any longer. This is a sin. You cannot spread corruption any longer. Those stages are now passed. The purging committees should pay heed. The imam has clearly said that if someone did something wrong during the time of the shah or the time of Bani-Sadr he should not be punished forever for the wrong which he did at that time.

The universities that are being reopened should pay attention not to expel people's children for minor reasons or no reason at all. Try them once more; once more give them the opportunity to become normal now that they see that the country is quiet and that everything is normal.

Let the people feel secure. We wish to create a society in which everyone who has not committed an offense is not afraid of anyone. Of course, those who have committed offenses should be very frightened. They should be afraid of our justice, not of any violation of justice.

The imam's decree does not exempt those who commit offenses today. I ask the people to make dossiers on those who are committing offenses today.

Don't go after the SAVAK agents any more. SAVAK is dead and the SAVAK agents are gone. Some of them come and serve in this society. At the moment, you should go after those who are committing offenses today.

This message of the imam is the start of a new chapter. It places our history at the beginning of a new movement. One should pay less or no attention to what has gone before, but should pay more attention to the present and the future. Unnecessary disturbances should be eliminated and the people should be able to live under the banner of Islam, Koranic justice, and the law. [end recording]

GOVERNMENT DENIES INVOLVEMENT IN INA BOMBING

LD201022 Tehran IRNA in English 0913 GMT 20 Dec 82

[Text] Tehran, Dec. 19, IRNA -- The Foreign Ministry of the Islamic Republic today refuted Iraqi allegations of Iran's involvement in the bomb explosion at its news agency, INA.

The Foreign Ministry statement said that by these allegations the Iraqi Ba'thist regime seeks to deny the existence of internal opposition by the deprived Muslim people of [word indistinct] nation.

The statement further said that by blaming Iran the murderous Iraqi regime seeks to mislead world opinion especially the media about the ever-increasing opposition to Saddam's regime in an attempt to camouflage (?and) justify the ruthless suppression which is to follow.

MOJAHEDIN-E KHALQ STATEMENT ON KHOMEYNI DECREE

GF171930 (Clandestine) Free Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1500 GMT 17 Dec 82

["Text" of statement issued by the Mojahedin-e Khalq Paris office 17 December]

[Text] Khomeyni, in his message yesterday to the prime minister and the chief judge, issued orders against illegal arrests, the control of telephone communications, surveillance, and detention of people. However, he made exceptions in the case of surveillance against resistance groups.

Such statements by Khomeyni merely show his foolish search for a way to check the rapidly spreading unrest that is the result of savage general oppression, illegal arrests, total control of homes, and control over people in various cities, tapping, and recording of telephone conversations, and widespread spying in the streets.

These measures are intensely and widely practiced in Tehran and other cities and have robbed the people of all privacy and security. However, the truth is that despite all Khomeyni's false propaganda inside and outside the country, which he is spreading to preserve his regime, the Iranian people hate the regime. The mullahs have no strength for any kind of reforms or for the slightest withdrawal from their policies of oppression, torture, and executions. The regime has no formula against the internal unrest that could help them preserve the regime.

TEHRAN ASSAILS 'UNJUST' OPEC PRODUCTION POLICY

GF192022 Tehran International Service in Arabic 1730 GMT 19 Dec 82

[Unattributed commentary]

[Text] The unjust policy which OPEC adopted in distributing production shares has led to the current world oil crisis. The great surplus in the international market and the decline of prices resulting from this surplus are two natural results of the policy the organization adopted during the last period. Shares were distributed in a way that led to the current world crisis.

To (?give an example) of the unjust policy of distributing shares, we will mention the following fact: OPEC set its daily oil production limit at 17.5 million barrels and this figure was distributed within the 13 oil-exporting member countries in the organization in a way that does not harmonize with social and economic conditions. Saudi Arabia, for example, had a daily share of 5.5 million barrels per day. This means that the rest of the shares, 12 million barrels, are distributed among the remaining 12 countries in a way that does not meet the requirements of these countries.

As a result of this policy, production did not stop at a certain limit. On the contrary, it increased considerably. Last August, production reached 18.2 million barrels per day. British oil circles estimated OPEC's overall production at little more than 19.5 million barrels per day and that it would reach 21 million barrels per day during the last 4 months of 1982. This steady increase in production is a natural result of the unjust policy. This policy led to low prices and the increase of international energy reserves.

The question is: How did the problem reach this point? When imperialist energy-consuming circles wanted to lower oil prices and deal an economic blow to the progressive countries in the world, they asked the Saudi regime to increase production in a way that would create an oil surplus in the market. The Saudi regime implemented this order and thus its production exceeded 14 million barrels per day and it maintained this production level for more than 2 years, thus creating a great surplus in the world's oil. This surplus escalated the indignation of free countries in OPEC which called for a drop in production to offset the surplus [words indistinct].

Thus, because of this (?humane) policy, (?Iran has been accused) of (?violating) OPEC's resolutions at a time when there were many countries in the world which acknowledged the just stand of the Islamic Republic and also admitted the unjust distribution of members' shares in view of the adopted policy.

During the current OPEC meeting, the Islamic Republic will carry its humane message to all the organization's members, to await a confirmation of justice by the redistribution of shares based on realistic measures.

The petroleum minister of the Islamic Republic of Iran has set four main considerations on the distribution of shares:

1) The oil reserves of these countries: Countries which do not possess certain reserves cannot be allowed to have a large production level because this would be disastrous for the peoples of these countries.

2) Population density: A country which has a high population density is in need of better services and more oil production.

3) The quantity which this country used to export in the past.

4) The country's need for hard currency.

This is the solution: Redistributing shares based on certain scales and not on the basis of the imperialist desire of making some countries rich and others poor. The solution is that the organization has to free itself from the outside influence which affects decisions and recommendations through agents like the Saudi regime.

RAFSANJANI CRITICIZES ARMS SUPPLIES TO IRAQ

LD201312 Tehran Domestic Service in Pesian 1030 GMT 20 Dec 82

[Excerpt] This morning the Majlis held an open session chaired by Speaker Hashemi-Rafsanjani. The speaker talked about the missile attack on Dezful by the Iraqi Zionist regime. He said:

[Begin recording] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. Our people have already heard about Saddam's vicious missile attack on Dezful. We have witnessed similar crimes by the Saddamites quite often during this war. The point is that every time the result of such crimes has been demonstrated to Iraq, Saddam has failed to learn the lesson.

This latest crime shows several points quite clearly: One is that Saddam is lying when he claims to be seeking peace. Every time he resorted to similar crimes in Arvaz, Dezful, or towns in the western part of the country, our combatants avenged the crimes on the battlefields. Consequently, such acts culminate in adverse results for the Iraqis. This latest incident is no exception.

Another point which should be mentioned: The superpowers, both Western and Eastern, are also lying when they claim they are trying to establish peace, because it is impossible to make use of such sophisticated weapons without having prior permission from the source supplying them. When these sophisticated weapons are supplied to moribund Iraq, it shows that they do not wish it to be able to continue the war. [sentence as heard] This is the point we have already realized. Consequently, we declare to the world that both Saddam and the Eastern and Western superpowers are lying when they claim to be seeking peace.

Another pont which the world, particularly the Iraqi people and the Muslims of the region, must be reminded of is that such crimes, rather than intimidating our nation, always tend to motivate it, even the inhabitants of Dezful. We have already seen this town suffer more from these missiles than any other town during this war, yet it has demonstrated more resilience and greater pride in resisting Iraqi bombings. This latest incident is no exception. [end recording]

62 DEAD, 287 WOUNDED IN 19 DEC ATTACK ON DEZFUL

[Text] Following missile attacks at 1745 and 1800 yesterday by the Saddamists using long range, surface-to-surface missiles, scores of men, women, children, young, and old from the heroic and Muslim people of Dezful were buried under tons of rubble in two crowded city locations near the old hospital. As a result of this savage attack by Saddamist mercenaries, up to 0730 this morning 62 people were martyred and 287 wounded have been extricated from the debris. Also 120 residential houses, 380 shops, and 28 vehicles were damaged by about 50-100 percent in the war waged by Saddam against unarmed Dezful civilians.

Minutes after the attack relief workers began their efforts to free bodies from the rubble. A report indicates that the second missile attack by Saddamist mercenaries happened at a time when a large number of Dezful citizens had gathered in the place where the first missile landed, to help the relief workers. According to this report, by 0900 this morning a large number of those martyred and wounded in this incident were rescued and taken to city hospitals or other treatment centers in Tehran. The same report indicates that, because of the intensity of the bombing, the bodies of many of the martyrs were blown to pieces and are unidentifiable. The Khorasan Governorate General announced today as a day of public mourning all over the province and a public mourning holiday in Andimeshk and Dezful.

MIDDLE EAST AND SOUTH ASIA REVIEW

22 DECEMBER 1982

Lebanon

Lebanese-Israeli Negotiations -- The Lebanese Government has learned from the U.S. envoy that Israel has expressed readiness in principle to start negotiations with Lebanon "shortly, perhaps before Christmas," Prime Minister Shafiq al-Wazzan announced in remarks reported by Beirut radio. However, he admitted that he did not know the specific date or venue for the start of the talks. Earlier, President Amin al-Jumayyil reviewed the Lebanese working paper for the negotiations in consultation with a number of former prime ministers, the radio noted.

Khaldah in Lebanon and Qiryat Shemona in Israel are the "preferred venues" for the Israeli-Lebanese negotiations, THE JERUSALEM POST reported. According to THE POST, Israel's Foreign Ministry Director General David Kimche is likely to be Prime Minister Menahem Begin's choice to head the Israeli delegation.

Sharon on Lebanon Agreement -- The political arrangement with Lebanon will provide for: abolition of the state of war, open borders and permanent Israeli representation in Beirut until a peace treaty is signed, Israeli Defense Minister Ari'el Sharon told the Knesset's Foreign Affairs and Defense Committee in remarks reported by Jerusalem radio. Israel will have three early-warning stations, he revealed, and only Lebanese military forces will be permitted in the 45-km border zone. He stressed that the withdrawal of forces will begin only when IDF soldiers captured by the Syrians and Palestinians are returned. The defense minister also criticized the United States for attempting to slow the pace of the negotiations in order to tie both the talks and Israel to President Ronald Reagan's peace plan.

According to IDF radio, Sharon also told the committee that there is a good chance that the Syrians will agree to carry out the first stage of the withdrawal of foreign forces, which will include the evacuation of all the "terrorists" from Lebanon.

Syrian Withdrawal -- Lebanese sources cited by the Kuwaiti paper AL-QABAS claimed that in his recent message to President al-Jumayyil, Syrian President Hafiz al-Asad adopted this new stand after receiving assurances from Al-Jumayyil that Lebanon will not conclude a unilateral peace treaty with Israel and will not accede to Israel's desire to control security in southern Lebanon, the sources said.

Military Situation -- Two IDF officers were killed and three others were wounded when their jeep hit a mine on a dirt road near Kamid al-Lawz in the Al-Biqa' Valley, Jerusalem radio reported. Noting that the IDF is investigating whether the mine was freshly planted, the radio said the "terrorists" rather than the Syrians were probably responsible for the incident, which was intended to heat up the eastern sector and thwart the imminent agreement on troop withdrawals.

West Bank

"Judaea and Samaria" are nearing a "point of no return," in which no plan for the area outside the framework of the autonomy plan will be feasible, Defense Minister Sharon told the Knesset's Foreign Affairs and Defense Committee in remarks reported by IDF radio. He revealed that 14 more Nahal outposts will shortly be established in the area.

PLO

'Arafat Envoy in Algiers, Moscow Visit -- After meeting with the Algerian foreign minister, the PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat's personal envoy to Algeria, Nabil Sha'th, said the PLO leadership decided to hold the forthcoming Palestine National Council session in Algeria because of the "distinguished strategic relations between militant Algeria and the Palestinian Revolution," Algiers Voice of Palestine radio reported. According to Baghdad Voice of PLO radio, Sha'th was carrying an "important" letter from 'Arafat to the Algerian leaders. Meanwhile, Palestinian sources in Damascus stated that 'Arafat will visit the Soviet Union in January 1983, KUNA reported.

FILASTIN ATH-THAWRAH Commentary -- Without mentioning Syria by name, a FILASTIN ATH-THAWRAH editorial reported by Baghdad Voice of PLO radio said those who grant themselves the right to issue a statement on behalf of five Palestinian organizations, "a statement which was in turn denied by those organizations," will not hesitate to issue statements containing more "lies and impudence." Deploring Arab regimes which criticize the United States vociferously while concurrently trying to build bridges with Washington, the PLO paper said the Palestinians had hoped that Arab rulers "very close" to the Palestinian-Israeli war would have been able to overcome their "unsound circumstances" and enter the battle, despite the military risks. Unfortunately, they did not enter the fight and the Beirut battle was fought "by the Palestinians and the Lebanese alone," the paper contended. FILASTIN ATH-THAWRAH also deplored "spectator regimes" which are robbing PLO military forces of their freedom of movement and are intercepting and confiscating arms supplies to the fedayeen in an attempt to contain the Palestinian Revolution.

Egypt

The PRC delegation led by State Council Premier Zhao Ziyang met with an Egyptian delegation led by President Husni Mubarak for talks which lasted 3 and 1/2 hours, MENA reported. During the talks the two leaders agreed to extend their 1976 trade and payment agreement to December 1983, another MENA report noted. Egyptian Defense Minister Field Marshal 'Abd al-Halim Abu Ghazalah revealed that the PRC has sent Egypt spare parts for F-6 military aircraft and will send parts for the F-7, which will be assembled in Egypt; the F-6 and F-7 are similar to the MiG-19 and MiG-21 respectively, MENA noted. "Official" talks on bilateral relations are scheduled to begin on 22 December at ministerial level, another MENA report stated.

Iran-Iraq War

Reaction to Dezful Attack -- Following a meeting with Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni, President 'Ali Khamene'i told IRNA that Iraq's continuous air and rocket attacks against Iranian civilians have disproved Baghdad's alleged concern for a peaceful settlement to the Iran-Iraq war. The president called the rocket attack against Dezful "a barefaced outcry for war" that could only provide Iran with additional incentive to continue the conflict, IRNA added. He claimed that Iranian forces will soon be capable of stopping the Iraqis from using long-range weapons against Iran, Tehran radio reported. Iranian Ground Forces Commander Col 'Ali Sayyad-Shirazi asserted in an ETTELA'AT interview cited by IRNA that Iraq would soon receive an answer for its attack on Dezful.

Tariq 'Aziz Comments -- Iraqi Deputy Prime Minister Tariq 'Aziz claimed that his country has "billions of dollars" with which to purchase arms and recently signed a contract with a French company to buy sophisticated weapons, INA reported citing an interview with the Paris daily LE FIGARO. 'Aziz asserted that Iraq would continue its diplomatic efforts to end the war, but declared that the fighting cannot be ended unilaterally.

Iran

Government forces cleared 24 villages in western Iran of "counterrevolutionaries" on 19 December, according to Tehran radio. Another Tehran report claimed that the "overwhelming majority" of members of Komeleh and of the Union of Communist Fighters outside Kordestab were arrested during recent operations in Tehran, Tabriz, Ahvaz, Esfahan and northern Iran.

MUJAHIDIN LEADER VIEWS PEACE TALKS, U.S. POLICY

GF211958 Jidda AL-MADINAH in Arabic 20 Dec 82 p 13

[Interview with Borhanaddin Rabbani, chairman of the Islamic Union of the Afghan Mujahidin and its Military Committee, by AL-MADINAH correspondent 'Abd ar-Rashid Indijani -- date and place not given]

[Excerpts] [Question] The Russians are talking about a peaceful settlement of the [Afghan] issue. What is your opinion regarding such a settlement?

[Answer] We see signs that the Soviet Union is striving to resolve this problem peacefully or to find a way out of this problem and bring about a formula of settlement that will allow it to maintain its pride and self-deception. We have not objection, but on condition that our rights are first of all guaranteed.

[Answer] What was reached in Geneva is not worth mentioning. We believe that any meeting which does not include all the concerned parties, the Soviet Union and the Afghan resistance, cannot achieve success.

[Question] U.S. President Reagan has allowed the selling of grain to the Soviet Union and has lifted the embargo imposed on the USSR because of its intervention in Afghanistan. Does this mean a slacking up on the U.S. stance?

[Answer] Our experience with the United States has been very bad and successive U.S. presidents have adopted dramatic, vague and insincere stands. What is really surprising is that at a time when a number of the congressmen have called for the U.S. Administration to support the Afghan mujahidin, we find that President Ronald Reagan has lifted the grain embargo on the Soviet Union. Regrettably, the U.S. stands, in general, are not new.

[Question] There are widespread reports that there are differences among the commands of the Afghan resistance. What is the nature of these differences?

[Answer] No, thank God, there are no differences. The differences were in the resistance leaders' views, but now there are no such differences.

DEFENSE MINISTRY DIRECTOR GENERAL DEFECTS

BK221022 Karachi Domestic Service in English 1005 GMT 22 Dec 82

[Text] Director General in the Afghan Defense Ministry (Brigadier Engineer Abdul Mannan) has defected and crossed over into Pakistan. He said in a radio interview that 99.9 percent of the people of Afghanistan were behind the Afghan mujahidin. Even those in the Karmal forces and other government departments have full sympathy for the cause of the mujahidin. The Afghan official said the Afghan Army, which had been raised to 180,000 after the coup during the Taraki regime, had now been depleted and reduced to 20,000 only as most of the soldiers have either deserted or joined the mujahidin or have been killed in the war. He said the Soviet troops have now realized that they were fighting an endless war in Afghanistan as the Afghans were determined to resist the occupation force.

BK220018 Karachi Domestic Service in Urdu 1500 GMT 21 Dec 82

[Text] According to reports from Afghanistan, 30,000 political prisoners are imprisoned in 13 Kabul jails. Sources, quoting the superintendent of the central jail and those in charge of the investigation division of the Karmal administration's secret service KHAD, said that 13 jails are filled with people opposing the Karmal administration. They said 85 special teams of Soviet and Karmal administration officials have been appointed to investigate the prisoners.

A senior official of the Karmal administration's secret service KHAD, (Lt Gen Ghulam Siddiqui Miraki), who recently defected and crossed over into Pakistan, said in an interview that the Karmal administration does not enjoy the people's support, because it was established with the help of a foreign power. He said the Karmal administration does not exist in the real sense, because thousands of its military personnel have joined the mujahidin. However, there are a small number of military personnel present in Kabul who have remained attached to the Karmal administration by force. He said the economy of Afghanistan has been ruined because the military operations have badly affected agriculture and trade.

FOREIGN SECRETARY VIEWS COMING TALKS WITH INDIA

BK211716 Karachi Domestic Service in Urdu 1500 GMT 21 Dec 82

[Text] Foreign Secretary Niaz A. Naik, leading a three-member delegation, will leave for New Delhi tomorrow to hold talks with his Indian counterpart. The visit is in pursuance of the joint press statement issued following the meeting between President Mohammad Ziaul Haq and Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi in New Delhi last month. The foreign secretary told newsmen in Islamabad this afternoon that it is hoped that during talks on 23 and 24 December they will reach a mutually agreed text for setting up a joint commission. He said both sides expect to exchange views on the Pakistani draft of a nonaggression pact and India's draft of a treaty of friendship, peace and cooperation. He said it will be our endeavor to clarify our position to India and understand India's viewpoint so we can reach a mutually agreed settlement to remove apprehensions of both countries and create an atmosphere of trust and confidence for the promotion of good neighborly and friendly relations.

The foreign secretary said the president's talks with the Indian prime minister on the 1st of last month had greatly helped to further improve bilateral relations between two neighboring countries and promote and consolidate mutual understanding and cooperation. Their talks yielded positive results which will help in making further progress in bilateral matters.

Answering a question, the foreign secretary said we have already told India that their draft of the treaty of peace and friendship contains certain elements which create many difficulties for Pakistan. That is why in the coming talks we will give particularly greater attention to matters on which there are marked differences in the stands and views of the two countries.

The foreign secretary said as far as bilateral matters are concerned, whether in connection with disputes or differences of opinion, Pakistan's stand is that any agreement between two sovereign and independent nations should not in any way affect their obligations and responsibilities under the UN Charter. He said the signing of the nonaggression pact between India and Pakistan would not in any way affect existing obligations under the Simla agreement with regard to Jammu and Kashmir.

Answering another question, the foreign secretary said that the foreign ministers of India and Pakistan will head the proposed joint commission. Important sectors that are included in the commission by the two sides include economy, trade, health, telecommunications and tourism. The joint commission will have authority to appoint subcommissions for various sectors. The commission will meet once a year, alternately, in Islamabad and New Delhi.

The foreign secretary said both sides will take advantage of this occasion to review matters pending settlement in connection with the agreement reached during the meeting of the counsellors on detainees of each country in another country. There are 300-400 detainees of each country in another country.

When asked to comment on THE WASHINGTON POST's report that India has prepared a preemptive strike plan against Pakistan's nuclear installations, Niaz A. Naik said that the Indian foreign secretary has already issued a statement categorically refuting this report. However, he said, no country remains unconcerned about the security of its important installations.

The foreign secretary said that after talks in New Delhi they would be paying a day's visit to Bombay where they propose to establish a consulate general.

ZIA'S U.S. VISIT CALLED 'GREAT SUCCESS'

GF201302 Karachi DAWN in English 16 Dec 82 p 1

[Text] Montreal, Dec 15: At the end of President Ziaul Haq's busy and crowded programme of visit to the United States, sources close to the leading members of his entrbuage are showing robust enthusiasm over the end-results of his important diplomatic endeavour, as they confidently take a long-term measure of the new relationship with America.

According to these sources, the immediate aims of Pakistani moves have already been ahcieved:

A) The Reagan administration has been able to absorb and agree with most of the Pakistani ideas on points of bilateral, regional and international issues. This exercise has further reinforces USA's firm intention to "to prove itself a reliable and consistent partner". As a result, there is now an identity, or a similarity, of approach to such problems as in Afghanistan, Iran, the Middle East and India.

B) What eventually turned out to be a technical hitch over the delivery of the first batch of F-16's is over.

C) The American media, in spite of its characteristically provocative stance, has had by now ample opportunities of being exposed to the basic concepts and philosophy, as well as the determinant realities, of Pakistani policies and the operational strategy regarding various internal and external problems. It can no longer plead any kind of misinformation or lack of well-documented data. The same goes for the numerous private institutions which influence decision-making or the planning and execution of policies in their visible or invisible ways. The president spent much of his time on them.

The approach adopted by the president's entourage in regard to the third point (C above) was practical and simple. We could not hope to change the reality of the powerful lobbies (such as Jewish, Indian etc.) which are traditionally not very sympathetic to us. But these could be indirectly influenced by a direct projection of our points of view to them.

Then there ar quite a number of impartial and objective Americans who are likely to sympathise with our views if they are properly approached and briefed. Thousands of Pakistanis (many of them American citizens now) living in the U.S. could be crucial in this drive. Keeping this in view, the president has attended meetings of Pakistani associations or their groups wherever he could. The response has been encouraging and the leader members of the entourage are looking forward to the day we would have our own bases of influence in this great country.

After the president's successful meetings with the Senate and House committees, the U.S. Administration has committed itself to carry through the five-year aid and military-sales package. Even if, due to some internal political developments, the Congress blocks appropriation in the current fiscal year, the administration has given firm assurances that it will take requisite measures, which it is entitled to take under the Constitution, to keep the programme going and unaffected by such temporary setbacks on the Capitol Hill. Agreements on the implementation of the programme in 1982 fiscal year have already been signed in Washington. Some accords relating to 1983 fiscal year have also been signed, while others are going through the normal process of active preparation.

The following have been the other areas of achievements, according to these sources:

1. The bogey of reservations on account of the form of the government-in-charge at Islamabad has been laid for ever. This has made no difference to President Reagan, the administration or other relevant groups.

2. There is agreement and identity of views among American decision-makers that the UN-sponsored three-way talks for the political resolution of the Afganistan issue is the best option available now.

3. Americans have been amply reassured that the president's talks with the new secretary-general of the Soviet Communist Party, Mr Yuriy Andropov, has not affected out new partnership with America. There are no misgivings on this score now.

4. There is greater understanding in Washington now that Pakistan's view that the only hope of progress for a solution of the Middle East problem lies in a fusion and balancing of the Arab consensus at Fes and the Reagan plan.

5. Last but not the least, there is enthusiastic and effusive appreciation of the performance of Pakistan's economy under the policies framed by the present leadership in Islamabad. Pakistan is once again being cited as a model for other Third World countries.

According to sources in close touch with the Pakistan-American talks, President Ziaul Haq's visit which concluded on Tuesday, has been a great success and the objectives set for the visit have been fully achieved.

Firstly, the American Administration has been apprised of Pakistan's point of view on regional and global issues and the administration largely agrees with the Pakistan's perceptions.

Secondly, certain potentially controversial issues have been sorted out to mutual satisfaction, including some technical questions about the F-16.

Thirdly the large Pakistani community, which is influential and patriotic, has been acquainted with Pakistan's point of view on various issues and the progress made by the country in different fields.

Islamabad has been further assured that U.S. relations with India will not be permitted to impinge on Pakistan-U.S. relations. United States will never pressurise Pakistan out of consideration for India.

The sources have underlined the fact that during President Ziaul Haq's meetings with President Reagan or other members of administration or congressmen in the Senate and House Foreign Affairs Committees, no questions were raised about the internal affairs of Pakistan and no reference was made to the form of government. On the contrary, deep satisfaction was expressed about the stability achieved by Pakistan in a turbulent region and the economic progress made by Pakistan over last five years was warmly lauded.

The president's convincing projection of Pakistan's position on nuclear non-proliferation, the peaceful nature of her own nuclear programme, and Islamabad's all-out effort to curb the drug traffic appears to have made an impact on congressmen and the news media. This is illustrated by the fact that neither of the issues figured in the president's last public appearance at the World Affairs Council luncheon, whereas in the early days of the visit they dominated his meetings with the representatives of the news media.

President Ziaul Haq's eloquent presentation of Islam including its economic and judicial systems, also evoked a favourable reaction. In fact, the organizers of the functions held in his honour showed deep deference to Islamic sensitivities and no alcoholic drinks were served.

Sources in the Pakistan delegation said that the president was particularly satisfied with the meetings he had with Pakistani nationals in the course of his tour. The president answered a number of questions in order to remove their misgivings. An overwhelming majority of Pakistanis endorsed his policies and programmes.

In a message radioed from his special plane on his departure for Montreal, President Zia adequately summed up his U.S. visit. He said that this exchange of views with President Reagan had underlined "the convergence of their perceptions" on a number of issues of mutual interest.

PRIVATE SECTOR URGED TO JOIN DEFENSE PRODUCTION

GF211010 Islamabad THE MUSLIM in English 29 Nov 82 pp 1, 8

["Private Sector's Induction in Defense Production Urged" by Azhar Masood]

[Text] Wah Cantt, Nov. 28: The chairman joint chiefs of staff committee, Gen. Iqbal Khan, has urged the private sector to participate in the nation's defence production industry saying, "The presence of private sector on the national defence industry would enable the country to meet the ever-increasing demands, otherwise the defence industry and technology would continue to lag behind".

Inaugurating a three-day seminar on defence technology here this evening, Gen. Iqbal Khan urged the planners of the defence industry to identify those areas where the investment from the private sector was needed. "The entrepreneurs should also be impressed upon to incorporate the defence needs in their overall plan", he added.

The seminar is being jointly organised by the Pakistan Ordance Factories Board [POF] and the Institute of Engineers of Pakistan.

Gen. Iqbal Khan said the establishment of few defence industries in isolation could not possibly meet the requirements of the armed forces. "Although we have a number of commercial industries in the private sector, yet not many defence-oriented industries have been established in this sector", he further commented.

Gen. Iqbal Khan stated that the days of cheap and easily accessible technology from abroad are over, particularly in the case of defence technology which is not only very expensive and difficult to acquire but also has numerous political constraints.

A former president of British Ordance Board and a former NATO expert on anti-tank missiles, Maj. Gen. (retd) Hamilton Jones was the second speaker. He read a paper, "European and U.S. Ammunition Facilties, Attack of Armour, Tungsten Long Rod Penetrator Technology. Maj. Gen Jones was of the view that heavy tanks were still the answer to the development of anti-tanks systems. He also enlightened the audience on the research on new anti-missiles techniques. Later during the tea session Maj Gen Jones told this correspondent"Exocets pose no more threats to the grey fleets -- we have developed a system to destroy low-cruising missiles."

During the second session which was chaired by the chairman of Pakistan Atomic Energy Commission, Munir Ahmad Khan, papers were read by Mr Saleem, head of the Suparco [expansion unknown], on "Weapon Systems"; by NATO's expert on small arms, Wolfgang Dieter Katzmaier, on "NATO Standardised Weapons and Caseless Weapon System"; by the managing director of POF, Gadwal M. N. Gill, on "Ballistics for Small Arms Ammunition"; and by Mr Bashiruddin on "Guidelines for Writing Quality Assurance Manual."

Concluding the second session, Munir Ahmad Khan said science has still not been inducted into Pakistan as a part of its culture. He said the defence was a dynamic subject. It need proper attention and a country like Pakistan can merely depend on its indigenous resources to meet its defence requirements.

The chairman of the PAEC [Pakistan Atomic Energy Commission] stated that it was very difficult for Pakistan to acquire modern and high technology. "The transfer of technology having all kinds of strings is still inaccessible", he added. Giving the examples of Korea and India and referring to Pakistan's geopolitical position, Mr. Munir said "high technology was the only solution and in my personal opinion we should mainly rely and make efforts to develop the best laser system for the different defence needs."

Earlier in his key-note address the POF Board chairman, Maj. Gen. Talat Masood, spoke of the success of the first seminar on defence technology held last year. He also dwelt at length on the importance and significance of the seminars on defence technologies.

JOINT STAFF ON IRAQI FIRING OF CHEMICAL SHELLS

LD211824 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 21 Dec 82

[Communique No 1,159 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. Exchanges of artillery and heavy weapons fire continued yesterday between the combatants of Islam and the Saddamist mercenaries on the country's western front, and these were more intense in the Muslim Ibn 'Aqil operation zones.

According to reports the Iraqi forces suffered the destruction of two command vehicles, one tank and a number of dead or wounded on the Bakhtarian border fronts. On the Marivan front the heavy artillery fire of the ground forces of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran pounded the enemy's fortifications and positions in the (Kani Eskan) area and prevented its movements and activities, killing a number of the Saddamist mercenaries.

At 1945 on 19 December the criminal Saddamist mercenaries, contrary to international laws and standards, fired chemical shells of a nausea-creating type at one of the Naft-e Shahr regions.

On the southern fronts the powerful combatants of Islam continued to consolidate their defense positions and simultaneous with consolidating and guarding their defense positions and areas they returned the Saddamist forces' fire. Sporadic exchanges of fire are continuing in these regions.

On the Abadan front the heroes of the gendarmerie opened fire on enemy positions on the other side of the Arvand Rud, silencing the fire of the Saddamist forces, preventing their traffice on the Al-Faw-Basra road, destroying five slit trenches and foxholes of the Iraqi forces and killing or wounding a number of them.

On 19 December several Iraqi mercenaries' patrol groups tried to penetrate our combatants' positions on one of the southern fronts; but the combatants of Islam, who are ready to sacrifice their lives, bravely and with the utmost vigilance foiled their movements and killed four of the enemy servicemen, forcing the rest to flee.

Yesterday a number of intruding aircraft of the aggressive Iraqi Army intended to violate the airspace of several western and southern regions of the country; however they were prevented from penetrating and were forced to flee by the tactical measures of the fighter aircraft of the Air Force of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the air defense units' fire.

PRESIDENT: IRAN WILL STOP IRAQI MISSILE ATTACKS

LD211550 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 21 Dec 82

[Excerpts] President Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i was received by Imam Khomeyni, the leader of the revolution and the founder of the Islamic Republic of Iran, and reported on different current affairs of the country, including domestic and foreign policies and the Zionist enemy's missile attack on Dezful. At the end of the meeting Khamene'i talked to our correspondent about the issues raised at his meeting with the imam. We will now listen to this interview:

[Begin recording] [Correspondent] The inept enemy, after its repeated defeats by the combatants of Islam on war fronts, attacked Dezful with missiles 2 days ago and killed a number of defenseless citizens. As head of the Supreme Defense Council would you please give us your view of this incident?

[Khamene'i] We have something to say to our own people and something else to say to those responsible for this crime and supporters of [word indistinct]. To our own people we bring the good tidings that their steadfastness on the war fronts has caused the inept and weak enemy to satisfy its hidden complexes and anger by acts of cowardice such as we have seen many times before: firing missiles at people, killing or wounding hundreds of people, demolishing houses and damaging property.

I should also give the people the good news that our movements and our offensive will, God willing, soon reach a stage that will stop the enemy from firing at us with long-range weapons and we will not allow the enemy to threaten our border towns with its long-range firing capabilities.

GROUND FORCES COMMANDER REACTS TO DEZFUL ATTACK

GF211840 Tehran IRNA in English 1647 GMT 21 Dec 82

[Text] Tehran, Dec 21, IRNA -- The blood of the (Islamic) combatants in the fronts is boiling from this vicious action (the missile attack on Dezful) by Saddam and everyone is prepared for a widespread and all out attack (against Iraq), said Ground Forces Commander Colonel Ali Sayyad-Shirazi in an interview published today.

The Persian daily ETTELA'AT quoted him as saying that the Islamic forces should advance to a point where they could stop the missile attacks and that point was up to Iraq's western borders, because of the missiles long distance range.

He said that Iraq would receive an answer for its attack on Dezful's residents soon, but we have to continue keeping our patience and tolerance in order to reach a logical plan.

Sayyad-Shirazi said that the Islamic forces fought for God, and in a war in the path of God, one's feelings should not be instigated by such incidents. However, he added their actions will emphasize on this point that until the enemy has not been completely brought down, we would not have security, he said.

He added that the situation in the fronts was good and that the Islamic forces were making efforts to prepare for a future operation which would be widespread and all out, insha'allah.

The Iraqi missile attack on Dezful Sunday martyred more than 62 civilians and injured 285 others, while causing extensive damage to hundreds of shops and homes.

MINIGROUP MEMBERS ARRESTED, EQUIPMENT IMPOUNDED

LD211914 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 21 Dec 82

[Statement by the Central Staff Command of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps -- date not given]

[Text] Following successful mopping-up operations against the filth of outlaws in Kordestab carried out by the combatant heroes of the Hamzeh ash-Shohada base, may peace be upon him, operations were carried out with total success in cooperation with the Hamzeh base for the destruction of the Komoleh minigroup and that of the Union of Communist Fighters in Tehran, Tabriz, Ahvaz, Esfahan and in the northern parts of the country; this resulted in almost the overwhelming majority of the members of these two criminal minigroups being arrested outside Kordestab and all their supply lines and hiding places discovered and impounded, the details of which are as follows:

More than 50 safe houses were discovered. Two hundred and forty-six members and active organizational supporters of the two groups, including a member of the Central Committee and all cadres and members of the Komoleh central organization in Tehran were arrested. One of the arms caches of the Komoleh minigroup and two printing and publication centers of this pro-U.S. minigroup were discovered and impounded.

Six cover shops used as communications centers and for the printing and duplication of intergroup documents were discovered. Large numbers of transportation vehicles, including one 10-ton truck, several cars, one of which contained about 30 weapons, grenades and other ammunition were found, and several motorcycles were discovered and impounded. Also discovered were large quantities of equipment and facilities for forging documents, including false seals for identity cards, certificates, national service completion documents and passport, which the mercenary Komoleh minigroup used to allow capitalists and counterrevolutionaries to leave the country illegally, for which they received 100,000 tumans [1 million rials] for each person who exited.

Large quantities of arms and ammunition, including large numbers of Uzi machineguns, Kalashnikovs, G-3's, a number of Colts, large quantities of bullets, together with handgrenades, TNT, detonators, and large sums of cash were discovered. A number of printing and duplicating machines, including typewriters, stencils, photo stencils and photocopying machines were discovered and impounded.

Following these operations, the Komoleh's organizational links with the disgraceful and abortive Nozheh coup d'etat [during Bani-Sadr's rule] were discovered, and this together with the financial, weapons and medical assistance received by this minigroup from such countries as France and Iraq demonstrated the close links between Western imperialism and pseudoleftist minigroups which are plotting against Islam and the Islamic revolution.

In conclusion, the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, in accordance with its Islamic tasks and duties, once again warns all the members of such counterrevolutionary minigroups that are waging war against God to break out of their organizational strongholds and open their eyes to reality, and thereby return to the embrace of Islam and the Islamic Republic.

Lebanon-Israel Negotiations

Agenda -- "Some progress" was made during the first round of talks held in Khaldah, but attempts to reach a consensus on an agenda and the order in which the topics will be discussed were unsuccessful, Beirut Voice of Lebanon and Jerusalem radios reported. However, the Israeli Foreign Ministry spokesman told Voice of Lebanon that the talks were held in a friendly, optimistic atmosphere. The second meeting will take place, as scheduled, on 30 December in Qiryat Shemona, another Voice of Lebanon report stated.

Lebanese Meetings -- At a meeting of the political operations room, which was chaired by President al-Jumayyil and attended by high-ranking government officials and the Lebanese representatives at the negotiations, it was noted that the Lebanese delegation had frankly and clearly defined what the government wants to achieve at the talks, Beirut radio affirmed. A "responsible source" told the radio that the government will not relinquish the basic principles with which it entered the negotiations.

Lebanon's Parliamentary Foreign Affairs and Expatriates Committee unanimously agreed to support the government's stand at the talks and the committee's chairman urged all Lebanese to support the government during the current negotiations, Beirut radio reported.

Security Situation -- Lebanese Prime Minister Shafiq al-Wazzan called for a united stand to face the dangers of fragmentation and voiced regret over the internecine strife and lax security in a number of Lebanese areas, Beirut radio reported. The clandestine Radio Free Lebanon claimed that the Progressive Socialist Party was responsible for recent attacks on the army and internal security forces in Khaldah, 'Alayh, and Ash-Shuf and asserted that the official statements the party has issued in support of the government are "mere slogans" intended to cover up their aggressive actions. Citing several attacks allegedly perpetrated by the Socialists and the movement of arms in the Al-Musaytibah area, the Voice of Lebanon asserted that the Socialists are apparently determined to "poison" the Beirut atmosphere and transfer the strife elsewhere.

Two Progressive Socialist Party members were killed on 27 December during an attack on the party's headquarters in Beirut, the clandestine Voice of Arab Lebanon radio claimed. The radio asserted that a member of the Phalangist Party fired on Progressive Socialist Party leader Walid Junblatt's house on 28 December.

PLO Affairs

'Arafat-Kreisky Talks -- Although Jerusalem radio cited a PLO representative's confirmation that the PLO is indirectly negotiating with Israel on various issues, including the possible exchange of prisoners, a high-ranking Palestinian official who attended the recent meeting between PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat and Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky denied that the main purpose of the meeting was to discuss such an exchange, KUNA reported. However, the official stated that Kreisky did broach the subject, and 'Arafat confirmed that the PLO would like to have another prisoner exchange with Israel, KUNA added.

In an interview with Vienna radio, Kreisky stated that he was mediating as a humanitarian gesture and not as a favor for any government, although he understood that the prisoners' families had requested his assistance with the knowledge of the government. A source in the Austrian chancellor's office told Jerusalem radio that despite Israel's criticism of the chancellor's Middle East policy, "when the Israelis need us, they know when to come and ask for help."

Egyptians, Palestinians Freed -- As a result of efforts made by the Egyptian Foreign Ministry, 10 Egyptians and 3 Palestinians detained in Israeli prisons have been released, Cairo radio reported. Twenty-one Egyptians held in the Al-Ansar camp in southern Lebanon will be released soon, the radio said.

REAGAN STATEMENT ON AFGHANISTAN CRITICIZED

LD281902 Kabul Domestic Service in Pashto 1600 GMT 28 Dec 82

[Text] By making a provocative statement against the DRA yesterday, Ronald Reagan, the White House boss, once again revealed that the United States is the principle promoter of the undeclared war against the DRA. This statement reveals that the United States doesn't intend to stop supporting the Afghan counterrevolutionary thieves and continues to interfere in DRA domestic affairs to create obstacles in the (?revolutionary process) in our country.

Yesterday's slanderous statement by Mr Reagan did not hide that the United States wants to topple the legal DRA Government and replace it with counterrevolutionary servants who have been trained by the CIA and are in the (?arms) of the Islamabad generals. By so doing, the United States wants to establish a regime (?subservient) to its interests.

This statement by Reagan, which is far from a statement that would be made by a responsible political leader, attempts once again, by alleging the use of chemical weapons in Afghanistan by the DRA Armed Forces and the Soviet Union's limited military contingents, to (?distort) the true intentions of the United States and the true essence of the provocative policy of this country against our homeland and revolution. Despite all statements and confessions of the press and political personalities of that country and clear expressions by prominent people, including the 4-member group of UN experts, rejecting this slanderous allegation, Mr Reagan still stubbornly insists that (?he is right). Stubbornness and shamelessness is the age-old policy of U.S. imperialism.

Let's see why Reagan and his administration repeat these claims again and again. One reason is as Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA Central Committee and president of the DRA Revolutionary Council, in Moscow said: The United States itself committed crimes by using chemical weapons in some parts of the world, particularly Vietnam. This fact has now become a psychological complex that comes out in the form of the poisonous propaganda against the Soviet Union. The fact is that only chemical weapons made in the United States have been used -- by the counterrevolutionary mercenaries -- against innocent Afghan people. Two years ago, the DRA Armed Forces seized some (?CA117), a type of this fatal weapon, made in America, and put it on display before the press and other mass media. In fact, Mr Reagan and his administration (?embark on such allegations) to cover its crimes against the people of Afghanistan and to unleash a lunatic arms race.

Mr Reagan's statement reveals that he and his government apparatus do not intend to stop the killing and bloodshed in our country. It clearly was declared in Mr Reagan's statement that U.S. imperialism (?supports and instigates) its criminal servants, who, to maintain the interests and to carry out the policy of the United States, disrupt peace and tranquillity in our country, kill innocent people, set fire to mosques, hospitals, and schools, and try in vain to turn back the wheel of history and plunge our free and revolutionary country into the centuries [words indistinct].

As a matter of fact, Reagan's statement tells the Afghan counterrevolutionaries that [words indistinct] and indicates that he is their partner in murder and crime.

According to the confessions of the U.S. press, the Reagan government has intensified interference in DRA domestic affairs. Recently, the WASHINGTON POST wrote that the Reagan administration has increased military aid to the Afghan counterrevolutionaries, including [word indistinct] weapons, by over 200 percent in the current year.

The U.S. press has (?emphasized) that the responsibility of transporting these fatal weapons, which are sent to our country to kill innocent people, rests on the CIA's shoulders The U.S. press clearly has revealed that U.S. military aid to the Afghan counterrevolutionaries has reached more than $200 million. According to recent reports, the number of CIA agents training Afghan counterrevolutionaries in 80 camps in Pakistan is increasing.

Ronald Reagan's slanderous statement attempts to raise the morale of the Afghan counterrevolutionary bands, whose backs have been broken by the crushing and heroic blows of the DRA Armed Forces and people, and to further encourage them in their crimes against the Afghan people and revolution.

In his shameful statement, Ronald Reagan spoke about the peaceful solution of the situation around Afghanistan. However, he has forgotten that imperialism itself and the White House boss himself us all possible means to try to create obstacles to finding a peaceful solution to the situation around Afghanistan. To increase its military presence in this part of the world, U.S. imperialism needs to maintain (?tension) in the region.

It is not without reason that a few days before the United States' formation of the military command for Western Asia [as heard], which will replace the Rapid Deployment Force of that country, the rulers of the White House unleashed a new wave of shameless, poisonous propaganda against the DRA, an example of which is the recent statement of the White House boss. It is regrettable that (?Reagan) embarks on such groundless. hollow, and irresponsible allegations from the platform of the U.S. Presidency. One reason for such claims is that opposition to Reagan's home and foreign policies is increasing. Reagan embarked on such ridiculous allegations to prevent the opposition of the U.S. people against Reagan's lunatic arms race policy and the daily increasing unemployment and poverty in the United States. It is not without reason that these days U.S. imperialism and its NATO partners all have unleashed slanderous propaganda and intensified lies against the DRA. The war machine of the United States and its NATO pact partners is operating all over the world, including Afghanistan, fueled with the blood of millions.

At the present time, international imperialism needs further blood to intensify its arms race. The people of revolutionary Afghanistan severely condemn this shameless statement of the White House boss and consider it a high point in imperialist interference in the domestic affairs of the DRA and the continuation of the undeclared war.

Let Reagan and people like him do anything they want: The caravan of our revolution is forging ahead, with the help of the Afghan free masses, without delay. Revolutionaries have seen many enemies like Reagan.

NDP LEADER OBJECTS TO ALLEGED ARMS ISSUANCE

[Excerpts] Khan Abdul Wali Khan, leader of the defunct National Democratic Party (NDP), has alleged that arms bound for Afghanistan are being issued to university students and that prohibited arms obtained from foreign countries are being issued to officials of the Jama'at-e Islami (JI) Party. Khan Abdul Wali Khan made this charge during a meeting with a JANG correspondent, saying that because of this, the country is being led down the path of violence.

Khan Abdul Wali Khan said the government should disclose how many prohibited bore machineguns and Russian-made rifles have been issued to Jama'at-e Islami Party officials under licenses and explain why these people are allowed to carry arms openly despite martial law. He asked: Why have these people been given permission to carry arms openly despite martial law regulations against this?

Under martial law regulations, people are even prohibited from carrying a knife with a blade more than 4 inches long. Khan Abdul Wali Khan said the speed at which the country is being led toward a civil war will have dangerous results.

Referring to President Ziaul Haq's recent visit to the United States, he said: Even before he went, the country had become involved in many difficulties on the international level, which shows that the country is being led toward confrontation.

Jama'at-e Islami Refutation

GF280902 Karachi JASARAT in Urdu 24 Dec 82 p 1, 10

[Correspondent's report]

[Excerpts] Lahore, 22 Dec -- The spokesman for the defunct Jama'at-e Islami [JI] Party has issued the following statement:

The leader of the defunct National Democratic Party (NDP) and his information secretary, in their recent allegations, have accused the Jama'at-e Islami of obtaining the "contract" for the supply of blankets to the Afghan refugees and of obtaining licenses for arms. The allegations prove that neither Khan Abdul Wali Khan nor his father nor the majority of their party members have any interest in the survival of Pakistan. They also have no sympathy for the 3 million Afghan refugees in the country. On the contrary, they are ready to welcome their foreign masters at Pakistan's borders.

These people, after losing the support of the Pashtun people and to save their dying political party, and in their eagerness to save their very leadership, have adopted the path of lies and ignomy. Despite their long anti-Jama'at-e Islami propaganda, they have succeeded in convincing neither the nation nor the inhabitants of the Northwestern Frontier Province of their politics. This has unnerved them.

As for their statement regarding the obtaining of permission by Jama'at-e Islami to supply blankets to the Afghan refugees, it would be enough to say that after seeing their lack of interest in helping the Afghan refugees, the JI began searching for funds within the country and outside Pakistan and employed hundreds of its workers in providing relief and aid to the Afghan refugees.

Seeing this, the NDP leaders, to hide their chagrin, began accusing the JI and attacking its moral and humane motives. The blankets supplied by the JI to the Afghan refugees are donated by philanthropic people who fear God and believe in the life to come.

As far as the allegation regarding the issuance of arms is concerned, the people of Pakistan know well the elements and their patrons who are busy destroying the integrity of Pakistan or who are preparing and implementing terrorist plans and schemes. Whether the nation can ignore the terrorists sent to Kabul for training, who belong to the Movement for the Restoration of Democracy (MRD), of which the NDP is a member. It is Khan Abdul Waki Khan whose efforts result in transporting the terrorist elements in the MRD to Kabul for training in subversion. Can the NDP and the MRD deny having made arsenals of the country colleges and the universities?

These new mirages are fitted with Exocet missiles, giving the Pakistani Air Force the capability of extending effective support to the Navy.

The air chief said Pakistan is a defender of peace because it believes peace is in the best interest of all countries, especially developing countries. However, he said, strength is the best guarantee for peace, whereas weakness encourages aggression.

GUARDS COMMANDER ON ACTIONS AGAINST OPPOSITION

GF282025 Tehran IRNA in English 2020 GMT 28 Dec 82

[Text] Tehran, Dec. 28, IRNA -- Mohsen Reza'i, commander of the Islamic Revolutionary Guards Corps (IRGC) of the Islamic Republic of Iran, in a press interview here today talked about the country's activities in Kordestan Province and elsewhere in the country as well as the Iraqi imposed war and the latest message of Imam Khomeyni and how it affects the IRGC.

Mohsen Reza'i said Operation Martyr Ashrafi Isfahani against the anti-revolutionary groups such as Munafiqeen (MKO), Toofan, Komaleh and Sahand was highly successful. He said that in this operation 100 MKO members were either arrested or killed while some of them managed to flee to Kordestan.

The IRGC commander said that 70 percent of the Sahand group had been crushed (either killed or imprisoned). He said that this group is comprised of some students and instructors from the University of England and Zionist elements who had recently commenced operations in Tehran. He said the Komaleh group, active in Tehran and Kordestan, has been practically destroyed.

Mohsen Reza'i further said a document found in a raided hide-out of the outlawed MKO reveals its links with the Ba'th Party of Iraq, commencing in 1982. He said Saddam's advisor in a meeting with MKO members pledged and delivered arms, ammunition, medical supplies, food and cash.

The IRGC commander said that the Toofan group had also received crippling blows as a result of Operation Martyr Ashrafi Isfahani and we are able to reopen the Piranshahr-Sar Dasht axis.

The 83 years old Friday prayers leader, Ayatollah Ashrafi Isfahani who was also the special representative of Imam Khomeyni to Bakhtaran Province, was martyred in a terrorist grenade explosion at the city's Jame Mosque during the Friday prayers ceremony at Oct. 15th.

He also said that in the Hamzeh Seyyed as-Shohada HQ. operations, 324 counter-revolutionaries were killed, 212 arrested and 410 wounded. Also a large quantity of ammunition was seized. This operation against the anti-revolutionaries involved the Gendarmerie, the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and about 10,000 volunteers from Kordestan Province.

On the recent 8-point decree of Imam Khomeyni, Mohsen Reza'i said that this message of the imam had a great influence on the IRGC, and seminars will be held to make a more detailed study of the imam's message.

The unprecedented enthusiasm of our people for participating in the war, forced us to establish a system for enlistment.

Our forces deployed in Lebanon against the Zionists are at present in a state of training and publicising and have not interferred in the internal affairs of Lebanon, and condemning the Ba'labakk affair last month even the Lebanese authorities have denied Iranian combatants' involvement, he said.

Mohsen Reza'i on the unity week said that our Revolutionary Guards Corps hoped that in spite of all the plots by the superpowers we will be successful in raising the standards of our Islamic Republic to the highest level possible in order to annihilate Saddam and his likes.

KHOMEYNI STRESSES INVESTIGATION OF OFFENSES

LD281400 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 28 Dec 82

[Excerpts] Imam Khomeyni this morning received the members of the headquarters for the the enforcement of the imam's decrees: Supreme Court President Musavi-Ardabili, Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi, State Inspectorate Chairman Mahaqqeq-Damad, Administrative Tribunal Chairman Emami-Kashani, and Minister of State Aqazadeh.

According to our correspondent, the members discussed the imam's eight-point decree during the meeting. Imam Khomeyni, addressing them and the country's officials, then said:

[Begin recording] In the name of God, the merciful, the compassionate. I must tell you gentlemen that what you are doing, investigating the question of offenses that may have been committed by prosecutors, judges, and so forth or within government ministries and departments, is a matter of religious imperative. Decisive and unswerving action must be taken. We cannot tolerate (?anyone) who claims to be a member of the Islamic Republic or a judge who [words indistinct] to set a town on fire, while we remain silent. Similarly, assuming a prosecutor has committed acts in contravention of the religious tenets, are we to remain silent again? From now on, silence is pointless.

You gentlemen must seriously think of setting up a court to investigate offenses and judges who commit offenses as well as anyone else, anywhere, who has committed an offense. Once it is established that the accused has actually committed an offense, the responsible officials should replace them immediately, or within 3 days at the latest. If the responsible officials delay or give excuses and refuse to do the job, then you gentlemen, the commission responsible for investigating this matter, are allowed to choose replacements for them. You are allowed to do this independently. No procrastination is allowed.

On the other hand, the whole issue should be investigated properly to prevent wrongdoing to anyone, God forbid. We must make the load of tyranny lighter. All over the country, people are sometimes subjected to cruelty and we must remove the load of this tyranny and cruelty.

If certain individuals, out of self-interest, try to create a certain climate or try to telephone here and there -- once this is established, they will be considered to be acting contrary to Islamic criteria and against Islam. I declare to the nation that anyone resorting to such practices should be dealt with as wrongdoers. Such individuals must not be admitted to any position a rational person is to hold. Consequently, these people must be reported in order to be prosecuted.

While Islam is trying to do things, trying to eliminate oppression, it may face someone engaged in creating a certain climate or refusing to comply with certain instructions. What this means is that these people do not want to promote Islam. The very minimum response to this is [word indistinct] to flog them. The maximum response is to [words indistinct]. No one anywhere in the country, no religious judge, is allowed to tender his resignation without justification or to try to create a certain climate. If he tries to create a climate, it shows that he himself is suspect and he must be summoned. However, if he does not consider himself competent enough, then he must admit to this, saying I am not competent and cannot comply. Once this person is dismissed, then within a maximum of 3 days a replacement must be found.

At any rate, no hesitation is justified in the work in which you are engaged. This commission, which has been assigned to deal with the issue, should not hesitate. On the other hand, it should not resort to extreme measures. Neither is allowed. This is not a question to be treated in a hesitant or joking manner.

In any case, this is an important issue; it involves the prestige of Islam and the Islamic Republic. It is not a joke. It will not do to see someone in a town committing so much crime and then see a person helping him out. This will not do. These latter people must abandon this practice, lest they too become suspect. I pray for your success; I hope you will carry out your tasks seriously [words indistinct]. I hope you will set up the aforementioned court -- a proper court -- to settle these problems. Once a complaint is lodged against an individual, whoever he is, he must be summoned. If the complaint is justified, then the case must be tried. If the accused man proves innocent, then he should be set free to attend to his job. Otherwise, he should be punished in accordance with religious laws, be it flogging, punishment, or retribution.

Anyone who tries to create a certain climate will suffer from it himself. We will announce this to the people. We will make it public if anyone creates a climate, refusing to do his job. This is actually worse than what the hypocrites are doing, for the latter are not resorting to creating a climate which is Islamic. [as heard]

What they want to do is to create a climate contrary to Islamic precepts. Therefore, they are one with the hypcrites. God bless you all. [end recording]

LEADERS COMMENT ON REOPENING OF UNIVERSITIES

Montazeri Message

LD182348 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 18 Dec 82

[Excerpts] Ceremonies were held at Tehran University to mark the reopening of universities. The ceremonies began this afternoon with a message from Ayatollah Montazeri. According to the Central News Unit, after recitations from the holy Koran, Ayatollah Montazeri's message was read by his representative, Hojjat ol-Eslam Dorri Najafabadi:

In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. The Muslim and diligent nation of Iran, students and noble professors -- may God assist you all -- on the eve of the third anniversary of the cultural revolution and in connection with the phased reopening of the universities and Imam Khomeyni's important and historic message, I deem it necessary to draw the attention of our brothers and sisters to certain points:

1. We are all aware that, under the corrupt former regime, universities and the culture dominating them were one of the manifestations of Western colonialsm. After the victory of the great Islamic revolution and our nation's political and military victory over the enemy, launching a revolution in culture and the system governing the universities was a timely necessity recognized by the great leader of the revolution. [sentence as heard] After the closing of the universities by committed and Muslim students, the leader of the revolution issued a decree to launch the cultural revolution and appointed a headquarters for this purpose. Although responsible officials have taken effective steps and although our revolutionary students and committed professors have been able to reach praiseworthy results during this period, the reality, as the imam has mentioned, is that a fundamental and complete revolution in all aspects and branches of our culture might take many years. Subjective plans and projects far removed from practicality do not help us to reach our main goal. Instead, we should deal with problems realistically, using an objective approach to achieve an objective rather than a subjective revolution.

For the cultural revolution headquarters to fulfill its set aims, it should increase its cooperation with committed theologians who are in line with the Islamic revolution. It also should use the existing substantial forces and the teachers of religious seminaries as a strong backing for the continuation and advancement of the cultural revolution.

2. The great importance attached to gaining knowledge, learning up-to-date sciences in Islam, and reaching scientific self-sufficiency is quite obvious to our dear students and university staff. Our committed and revolutionary youths realize that without suffering the hardship and difficulty of acquiring knowledge and sciences, this liberated country cannot rid itself of scientific and industrial dependence. Thank God, the country of Iran is rich in water and land resources and needs only expert, specialized, and committed forces.

3. We all heard the imam's recent important and historic message. We should all try to understand the spirit of this message and prepare the grounds for its fulfillment. In this message, his excellency does not consider the observation and implementation of justice restricted to the judicial system and draws the attention of other organizations to this important duty.

In each organization, if any official commits an act in contradiction to Islamic justice and principles, other officials should warn him and report the act to higher officials to be dealt with according to law. What causes more diviations from the path of justice within organizations is the abnormal extremist approach in selecting personnel and in evaluating their acts and behavior. There are times when a person is employed because his is a revolutionary stand without paying attention to his moral and religious stand. In this way, untrustworthy people might be appointed to sensitive jobs. There are times when a person's religious belief and ideology are considered to such an extreme extent that some opportunists, pretending to be ideologically committed and to accept the principle of clerical rule and Islam according to the chief theologian, succeed in securing key posts for themselves without having the necessary competence and knowledge. Such opportunists, in effect, then rid themselves of all the competent, religious, caring, and unpretentious persons, not forgiving them the slightest error.

The imam, may God extend His shadow, in his recent message clearly stresses that if a person's honesty, competence and loyalty has been proved, he should not be put aside because of a trivial mistake committed under the previous regime or under the present circumstances.

The country's judicial system is dutybound to act decisively and to punish the culprits without any bias. If the judicial system follows the points stressed in the imam's recent message, no doubt, public trust in the implementation of justice and increasing social security would be ensured.

4. His excellency, the president of the Supreme Court of the country and the prime minister who are responsible for following up and implementing the imam's recent message are expected, in view of the imam's emphasis, to appoint delegations made up of unbiased and honest persons, chosen with the approval of the esteemed Friday imams and the imam's representatives in provincial towns. They also are expected to take the necessary steps to ensure that the contents of his excellency's messages are implemented as soon as possible. I pray to Almighty God for the victory of the combatants of Islam, long life for the great leader of the revolution, success for the Islamic government in serving the noble nation and meeting shortages, and success for all brothers and sisters in carrying out their Islamic duties. Peace be upon you, 18 December 1982.

Khamene'i, Musavi Remarks

LD190032 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 18 Dec 82

[Excerpts] According to our correspondent, on the occasion of the reopening of universities, a message from President Khamene'i was read at Tehran University. The message refers to the fact that the universities, once closed by the mighty Hezbollah nation to purge them of the filthy traces of Western, Eastern, and satanic ideas and to keep out the anti-Islamic elements and counterrevolutionaries are now being reopened by this very nation to admit committed and responsible university staff and students.

The message explains the plots hatched by counterrevolutionaries to prevent the triumphant progress of cultural revolution, their resistance to the closure of universities, and the propaganda from imperialist and Zionist networks, alleging the closure of (?centers) of science and technology in the Islamic Republic of Iran. The message adds: Those who were under the impression that knowledge, technology and culture were inaccessible, except through reliance on the West or the East, have now realized that once again this nation, oblivious to claims by [word indistinct] pretenders, have found its own path and is moving toward its final goal.

The presidential message then says: Evidently, the cultural revolution will not be fully realized in one or even a few years. Today, no one expects a [word indistinct] and hundred percent Islamic university. However, everyone expects the university to move toward this goal.

Marking the same occasion, Prime Minister Musavi referred to the fact that the saga of the closure and reopening of the universities is tantamount to the saga of the revolution, the saga of an upheaval in our society's standards and one of a long struggle by our nation. The prime minister alluded to the motivations behind the establishment of universities in our country and the efforts made to foster alienation between universities and the people. He stressed that no evil power ever announces treachery, colonialism, and exploitation as its intention. It instead enters the arena claiming to promote justice, science, and knowledge. The prime minister gave an account of the universities' fate during the dark years of cultural colonialism: It is for this very reason that the cultural revolution and the expulsion of counterrevolutionaries and foreign agents from universities acquire great significance, since culture enjoys a very fine authority and is extremely sensitive.

Khomeyni Speech

LD191816 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 19 Dec 82

[Ayatollah Khomeyni speech to revolution guards commanders at the Jamaran Mosque in Tehran on 19 December -- recorded, duration 47 minutes]

[Excerpts] Since the universities have been reopened, will be reopened, I would like to explain to you the effects of imported culture on our society -- what we should do to remedy such effects and what should be our course of counteraction.

I will start with the Armed Forces and explain to you the effects of imported culture on the Armed Forces, on government organs, on practically all our society. At the time of Reza Shah, it used to be claimed that the Armed Forces were the most powerful institution of the time, more powerful than at any other time in Iranian history. I want to tell you a piece of history that I do not think any of you are old enough to have witnessed and felt! When the armies of England and the Soviet Union were at war with Germany and its allies, Britain and the Soviet Union constructed roads and the railway in Iran before hand to use them for war purposes. Later, simultaneously, in 1 hour they invaded Iran. The minute the British and the Soviet forces entered Iran's frontiers, a chaotic situation prevailed in the Iranian Armed Forces. It was claimed that the Iranian forces resisted the invading forces for 3 hours. When Reza Shah later questioned the forces about their short resistance, the reply was that the earlier claim that the forces had resisted for 3 hours was not correct. In fact, the minute the invading forces entered Iran's territories, the Iranian forces fled.

Practically all commanders packed and fled Tehran to hide in safe places outside Iran. This was the state of affairs of Iran's Armed Forces and other law enforcement forces -- the Gendarmerie and the police. Their tasks were to suppress the people. They took over lands in Mazandaran Province. The power of the army and other forces was translated into bringing pressure on us -- on the people, the nation, especially on the clergy. However, these forces' resistance to the British and Russian forces, who were not at war with us, but wanted only to cross and invade Iran, was zero.

One should compare that situation with today -- with our dear guards, our Armed Forces, our Gendarmerie, and our police forces. What made the situation change? A change from the previous situation in which people were silent against arms to the situation today in which our youths stand against America and chant slogans and say, Death to the United States. The point is that such a change appeared in the army, such a change appeared in the revolution guards. The youths who did not think in such terms before the revolution, they never thought about war, warring, and having a military attitude to earn honor among their own people, to protect them.... What is the difference between these two periods?

This change in the situation is the outcome of a different culture. Our culture has changed. The language of our culture has changed from that existing in the past. Starting from universities, government departments and the Armed Forces to the Gendarmerie and all other institutions, down to the masses, particularly the youths, you will realize the effects of an imported culture on each of these institutions.

A society, like an individual, will not think of finding a doctor to cure it as long as it does not feel that it is sick or on the verge of death. Our previous society did not personally feel that it was sick. [Words indistinct] it took for granted that it was healthy and prayed that it would have the shadow of his majesty over its head, believing that the Armed Forces would protect it and so on. Even when it knew it was sick, there was no doctor to cure it because those in power were not doctors. They were criminals giving people poison instead of medicine.

Had the university been culturally Iranian -- a university not modeled after imported culture -- then its products would have been different. Let's examine those who were graduated from the previous universities and poured into and toward England, France, and the United States. What did they learn at those universities and what did they bring back with them?

Those who were graduated from those universities, who completed their studies abroad, and who returned home were the same people who became ministers and formed the major part of the Majlis deputies. What did those ministers and deputies do in Iran? What were their surprises for Iran? All their efforts were aimed at satisfying the British and then the Americans in the land. At their head were, first, Reza Shah and then Mohammad Shah, both trying to satisfy the British and the United States. Why? Because if these outsiders were not satisfied, then Iran's leaders would have been eliminated. When a person is selfish and wishes to remain in power, then that person is not bothered with his nation.

The 400,000-strong Armed Forces created by the previous regime was not a force that could have shown any resistance. The training given to that armed force was not such to resist. The extent of welfare among Armed Forces personnel left no room for any sacrifices for either an individual or their country. At that time, the task of defending rested with the people -- the same situation as today.

I already have told you how the Armed Forces did not resist at all and revealed how basically the Armed Forces were empty. Today, you can compare the situation. You can see how the Armed Forces, the guards and the mobilization forces are fighting. These youths have been resisting the Iraqi forces for more than 2 years. It is not the factor of nationalism that has transformed them. Those gentlemen who believe all these successes are the result of nationalistic fever are making a mistake. They don't comprehend the situation. If they could understand, they would have not been in that state of affairs. It is faith that has transformed our Armed Forces. Armed Forces personnel or revolution guards who pray in their bunkers can resist like a lion.

It is the culture of Islam, not the national or imperial culture, which has brought people to support the Armed Forces in the war with Iraq. The latter culture existed before, but the people's support was not in existence.

What creates a nation is the correct culture. What makes a university useful and productive for a nation is the content of a university, not its individual lessons. Industry minus faith will lead to corruption. Science minus faith also leads to corruption. The more knowledge, the more corruption. The dwellers of hell have (?sought asylum) there because of the stink of learned men. A person who has faith will be supported by God, by the prophet and by Islam. If skill is not accompanied by faith, the former becomes dangerous. If there are skills in a country not accompanied by faith, then those skills will lead that country to death, to dependence. We had so many experts in every field in the past regime. What did they do for this nation? They took the people back, making them dependent -- everything and everyone became dependent. Whoever was named they said we have to go to Europe. They used to take our youths for training, but they were not giving them any training. They used to take them away, make some of them corrupt, teach them a series of incomplete lessons and, in the middle of the way, leave them alone and send them back home. They played with us, with our people, and with our country.

They told our people of their promise of a great civilization. Not only did we not achieve the promised great civilization, they caused our decline to the extent that everything of ours became dependent on foreigners. They robbed us of all our wealth.

Those who left plundered all the banks. Those who fled left our banks with so many debts that it will take many years to recover. This was the result of the nonexistence of a culture imbued with faith. There was no faith among the society, among the merchants, among the people in the streets or among the universities. Wherever or whoever was beneficial or effective they (?corrupted) it most.

Thanks to God, He gave His blessing to this nation. He made all of you change and you were revolutionized by Islam. Our youths were saved from that cesspool and entered into an Islamic and humane atmosphere, standing against both West and East. They have nothing of which to be afraid....

You should remember that colonial policy always has been to create divisions among people. Such policy always has been to stage a coup d'etat within a country and to create divisions internally. These forces are still at work and will never give up.

Our nation should remain awakened. Our Armed Forces also should remain alert. Our revolution guards, our committees, mobilization forces, and tribal forces must all remain awakened. They should realize that whenever there is an opposing murmur, there is background to create an issue. Now that the university has been reopened, our youths should realize there might be hands that will still try to give the wrong impression of daily affairs and try to mislead you. The first time you hear a misleading assertion from a professor or an undergraduate, you should immediately report it. Thus, the whole issue will be stopped.

A country with faithful people can never create foreign temptation. Why? Because it would be realized that such temptation will result in more losses than gains. Look at Afghanistan. Its communists, its government, are against their people. Even the limited number of people who are for the people -- for Islam and who have pursued Islamic principles -- have been resisting the Russians more than 1 year [as heard] so far and have made the Soviet Union regret what it has done. One of the Russian officers who fled said that so far 30,000 Russian military personnel have been killed in Afghanistan. The Russians have come to realize that somewhere they cannot enforce something that is not accepted by the nation. Even under circumstances in which the government of that nation and its blasted party are also in favor of the Russians.

PAPERS VIEW SOVIET OCCUPATION OF AFGHANISTAN

SOBH-E AZADEGAN

GF251142 Tehran International Service in Arabic 0800 GMT 25 Dec 82

[From the press review]

[Text] SOBH-E AZADEGAN today editorially commented on the anniversary of the Soviet Army's loathed occupation of Islamic Afghanistan. The editorial said in part: Today the military occupation of the Soviet Red Army -- which the Soviets call the People's Liberation Army -- rudely concludes its third anniversary at a time when it is harming the struggling Muslim Afghan people. Three years have passed while the oppressed Afghan people live under the heel of the Soviet military. Not a day passes without those who claim to defend the rights of people and to be the defenders of the working class shedding the blood of the Afghan people.

Despite all the propaganda circulated by the comrades in Iran and all around the world and the claims of the communist government in Russia, the goals seem clear. Moreover, the two superpowers participate in the process of sucking the blood of people with no difference but in name.

The paper continued editorially: Russia is following the U.S. steps in Vietnam -- aggression and military interference and the most serious crimes in the world. Moreover, the Vietnamese people only reaped destruction, death, cluster bombs, and napalm bombs -- thousands of those killed were children, women and old men -- in addition to the serious scandals that took place.

Today, let the comrades who claim that their big idol, Moscow, is the defender of the rights of the people be silent, since the military occupation of Afghanistan has added to this superpower's shameful record -- which includes Poland, Czechoslavia, Hungary, and other East European countries. This new shame defames the government which calls itself supporter of the world's people.

JOMHURI-YE ESLAMI

GF281330 Tehran International Service in Turkish 1830 GMT 27 Dec 82

[JOMHURI-YE ESLAMI 27 December editorial: "Afghanistan Awaits an Islamic State"]

[Excerpts] Today is 27 December, the day which marks the third anniversary of the thrust the Soviet Red Army made into Afghanistan -- which is a part of the sacred land of Islam -- and the subsequent commencement of the brave resistance and struggle of the oppressed but courageous Afghan Muslims. The Soviet attack on Afghanistan has been more violent than the bloody attacks of Genghis Khan, the destructive nature of Alexander the Great, and the conspiracies hatched on Afghan soil by British imperialists.

However, just as their predecessors stood up bravely against these aggressors in the past and foiled and crushed their attacks, the Muslim Afghan people today are defending Islam and Islamic lands against the vampiric blood-dripping boots on the mountains and in the deserts in a legendary way, giving a very rare example of resistance and devotion to the path of God and to the pure (?reflection of the prophet). The oppressed Muslim Afghan people are writing a legend based on faith and Islam by confronting one of the most powerful armies of global imperialism -- a legend being written at the expense of hundreds of thousands of martyrs and wounded, homeless, and loitering people.

The struggle is escalating in waves and the powerful war machines of the imperialist power and its agents and servants in Afghanistan are sustaining heavy blows in the face of this faith. Because of this, they have moved to change their former decisions to look for a political solution with a view to escaping from this battlefront.

Cities have been reduced to ruins and cemeteries because of the Soviet Red Army units. Fields have been destroyed and green vineyards have dried up. Elsewhere in the world, it is impossible to observe the depth of the tragic incidents, crimes, and massacres committed in Afghanistan. The people of this country, who have been hung on the iron hooks of the socialist atheists, are a truly oppressed people who endeavor to keep alive their aspirations. This is confirmed by authentic reports.

Regrettably, however, among the noise of other developments in the world, the imperialist media organs either pay only lipservice to such reports or regard them as nonexistent. This land is whispering numerous facts into the ears of humanity. Regrettably, however humanity is not hearing what is being whispered.

This is due to the fact that the mass media belonging to the two imperialist camps have turned themselves toward their own common interests. Thus, they are processing news reports only on the basis of their vested interests.

It is because of this that irrespective of the fact that the truth about Afghanistan carries the cries of a community which has stood up to voice its innocence, the world media either prefer to remain silent or move to consider their interests in accordance with those of a superpower or with those of a rival superpower.

The ugliness of this aggressive policy has dealt heavy blows to the Soviets who also have observed that the path leading to victory on the Islamic land of Afghanistan has been sealed off. Because of this, the Soviets have been moving in the course of the past few months in the direction of engaging in a number of political activities with a view to finding a so-called solution to the question of Afghanistan. The activities of the UN secretary general and the work of the trilateral Geneva conference are among these activities.

The Geneva conference was convened by the UN secretary general's representative and those of Pakistan and the puppet Babrak Karmal government. However, the Islamic Republic of Iran responded to an invitation to participate in the conference by stating that it will not take part in such meetings unless the forces occupying Afghanistan are withdrawn and elections are held for the establishment of a government based on Islamic justice and meeting the aspirations of the Afghan people and unless an authentic Afghan representative chosen by the Muslim Afghan people participates in the talks.

This statement by the Islamic Republic of Iran again confirms the uncompromising stand of the Islamic revolution in its foreign policy. It is our conviction that the revolutionary Muslim people of Afghanistan will be victorious in their just struggle. This is due to the fact that this Muslim community has based itself on delivering, enlivening, and educating Islamic foundations. It also cherishes faith in martyrdom. Because of this fact, the members of this community will not allow any force or any atheist views to establish themselves and [word indistinct] in Afghanistan.

The Soviet politicians and their puppets in Afghanistan must understand this fact well and realize that apart from the withdrawal of all foreign forces from Afghanistan and apart from the Afghan people running their own country, no political or military change will terminate the Islamic struggle of the Afghan people. Likewise, no conference or meeting will be able to produce any result. The struggle of the revolutionary Muslim people of Afghanistan will continue until victory is achieved.

Henceforth, the ranks of the Afghan freedom fighters will be strengthened compared to the past for the achievement of victory. The chanting of slogans such as neither East nor West will continue in the future as an indication of rejection of both camps of the imperialist forces in the world. The Afghan people thus will bring grandeur to their Islamic land in accordance with the lofty order of Islam. Undoubtedly, such days will come and the Muslim Afghan people will force Eastern imperialism to its knees. Let's repeat that today Afghanistan is awaiting an Islamic regime.

MIDDLE EAST AND SOUTH ASIA REVIEW

Lebanon-Israel Talks

Qiryat Shemona Talks -- The second round of talks opened in Qiryat Shemona, Beirut radio reported. Although Beirut radio noted that Israel continues to be "vehement" on the normalization of relations while Lebanon insists on the withdrawal issue, Jerusalem radio declared that Beirut and Jerusalem have decided to give the talks "a chance." If progress is made during the 30 December talks, deliberations will be continued at Qiryat Shemona on 31 December, Jerusalem radio revealed.

Prior to attending the second session, the Lebanese delegation met with President Amin al-Jumayyil and other government officials as well as U.S. envoy Morris Draper to discuss efforts being made to agree on an agenda, Beirut radio reported.

The Israeli delegation was expected to hold similar discussions with Prime Minister Menahem Begin, according to the Tel Aviv daily DAVAR. An Israeli Foreign Ministry spokesman strongly denied reports that any decision had been made to make Israel's position on normalization more flexible, Jerusalem television reported.

Arab Support -- Lebanon is not willing to deviate from the Arab world's consensus by signing a written agreement on relations with Israel, Jerusalem radio pointed out. Lebanon wants Arab support and its firm stand at the negotiations is intended to notify Israel of Lebanon's concern for its position in the Arab world as well as its concern for domestic unity, according to Beirut radio reports. The Lebanese Cabinet has sent three parliamentary delegations to various Arab capitals to explain the issues concerning the Lebanese situation, Beirut radio reported.

Security Situation -- There was renewed tension in the Tripoli area, Beirut radio reported. A committee met in the north on 29 December to discuss methods of preventing further deterioration and sent committee representatives to the areas of the clashes to try to calm the situation, Ihdin Radio of Free and Unified Lebanon reported. Beirut radio reported that the situation was generally improved on 30 December.

The Progressive Socialist Party accused Phalangist gunmen of killing seven people near Kafr Matta, the clandestine Voice of Arab Lebanon radio reported.

PLO Affairs

'Arafat Interview -- PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat declared that there should be a committed Arab position toward Egypt because Egypt shoulders a huge responsibility in building Arab strength, MENA reported citing an interview with the Cairo weekly magazine AL-MUSAWWAR. The PLO leader urged Egypt to take a dramatic step that would restore the Arabs' "psychological equilibrium." Asserting that he will never forget Egypt's compassion toward the Palestinians during the siege of Beirut, 'Arafat denied that his visit to Egypt is dependent on prior conditions.

Syrian Meetings -- A Palestinian delegation led by Palestine National Council Chairman Khalid al-Fahum began a series of meetings with Syrian leaders to discuss developments in the Middle East, according to Aden Voice of Palestine radio.

Afghanistan

Afghan guerrillas were reportedly assisted by Soviet guards during a recent successful attack on an airfield in Afghanistan, the BCC World Service reported. The guerrillas claim they have been gaining support from the guards, who are said to be from the predominantly Muslim republic of Uzbekistan, the radio added.

Iran-Iraq War

The Islamic Good Offices Committee recently announced an "improved" initiative to solve the Iran-Iraq dispute and the plan is "about to achieve results" that would ensure both countries' acceptance, Riyadh radio revealed. Describing Iran as "in a position of weakness" because of both military and domestic losses, the radio urged the country to listen to the voice of reason and accept the new plan.

Zhao Ziyang Tour

PRC State Council Premier Zhao Ziyang and the delegation accompanying him met with Moroccan King Hassan II on 28 December in Marrakech, Rabat radio reported. The PRC premier declared that the talks had shown that both countries have identical views on international and bilateral questions, another Rabat report noted. The joint Moroccan-Chinese committee held its final meeting in Rabat on 29 December; both sides expressed satisfaction with the results they achieved in the political, economic, and social fields, the radio added.

U.S. 'UNDECLARED WAR' AGAINST DRA CRITICIZED

LD291830 Kabul Domestic Service in Pashto 1530 GMT 29 Dec 82

[Text] The April Revolution not only toppled exploiting and oppressive classes from their oppressive power, it evoked the bestial indignation of all imperialist countries and the world reactionary powers against revolutionary Afghanistan. From the very beginning of the revolution, the world imperialists and their collaborators, headed by world-devouring U.S. imperialism, on the one hand, unleashed an undeclared war against the DRA and, on the other hand, started a psychological war against our country through its large, poisonous propaganda machinery.

In all these subversive and interfering actions against our independent, nonaligned, and revolutionary homeland, Afghanistan, which take new shapes and methods from day to day, U.S. imperialism is always in the front.

U.S. President Ronald Reagan recently has revealed that his government will continue the undeclared war against the DRA. The White House boss once again called the mercenaries and counterrevolutioanry bandits -- those national traitors who sold out to imperialism -- Muslim mujahidin and praised and encouraged them by promising to continue to help them. However, it is clear to all that Mr Reagan makes his slanderous cries about defending Islam in Afghanistan at a time when he himself, by arming the Israeli Zionists, is committing unprecedented crimes against the Muslim people of Palestine and other Muslim people in the Middle East.

Mr Reagan criticizes the fraternal and selfless assistance of the Soviet Union to our people, who are facing foreign aggression, and calls it a Soviet invasion, while he himself now has a direct hand in the plundering, criminal wars against the people of Afghanistan, El Salvador, Nicaragua, Chile, Ethiopia, Angola, South Africa, and other emerging peoples. He thus tramples under foot their right to independence and national sovereignty.

In his speech, the boss of the so-called Free World once again repeated his groundless and hollow claims concerning the use of chemical weapons by the Soviet Union in Afghanistan. Despite the fact that these slanderous claims were rejected by authorized authorities and international experts, Mr Reagan still shamelessly tries to throw dust into the eyes of the people of the world and hypocritically tries to hide this clear fact from their eyes.

It is the United States who spreads and expands the production and stockpiling of chemical and bacteriological weapons and puts handgrenades containing chemical substances and other forms of chemical weapons at the disposal of mercenary bands who use them against the innocent people of Afghanistan.

During the dark reign of the Reagan administration, the subversive ideological activities of Washington against the DRA were increased considerably. The volume of the poisonous propaganda from the subversive Voice of America and other U.S. mass media concerning Afghanistan have been greatly increased.

Thus, the U.S. claim to support a political solution to the Afghan question is no more than an artistic deception by the U.S. imperialist monopolist radio. In fact, the irresponsible, hypocritical, and provocative statements by Mr Reagan are the last vain efforts in the scandalous and slanderous propaganda campaign against revolutionary Afghanistan. By making these scandalous statements, the U.S. imperialist foreign policy planners in Washington are trying, on the one hand, to justify their shameless armed interference and subversive activities against revolutionary Afghanistan and, on the other hand, to continue consolidating and strengthening their military bases in the Middle East, the Persian Gulf, Indian Ocean, Southeast Asia, North Africa, West Europe, and Central and South America.

However, Mr Reagan cannot shade truth with his fingers of slander and hypocrisy. Contrary to the groundless and hollow claims of Ronald Reagan, our policy and the humanitarian, progressive, and peaceful programs of the DRA Government not only enjoy the decisive support of all the toiling and Muslim people of Afghanistan, they also enjoy the resolute support and backing of the socialist countries, headed by the Soviet Union, all progressive mankind, and all peace-loving organizations and forces in the world.

The DRA Government, while totally rejecting Ronald Reagan's hollow and groundless claims about Afghanistan, consider it a categorical and shameless interference in its internal affairs and declares that, despite the armed interference and the hue and cry raised by U.S. publicity and its collaborators against our country, the toiling people of Afghanistan are striving without fear and with full confidence on the path that they have chosen and are building a new life in their country.

What can really be said about the hypocritical and deceptive claims of the Reagan administration concerning the so-called solution to the situation in Afghanistan? The DRA Government declares that the true path to solution to the Afghanistan question, as it has been outlined in the DRA Government's proposals of 14 May 1980 and 24 August 1981, can only be achieved through a complete halt to armed interference and the undeclared war against the DRA and respect for the national independence, national sovereignty, and territorial integrity of Afghanistan.

They should know in Washington that the people of Afghanistan will not, under any circumstances, surrender to imperialist pressures. The brazen (?invitations) to the continuation of the unjustified war against the people and Government of Afghanistan are the major obstacles to a peaceful solution to the question of Afghanistan. They cannot succeed in achieving their sinister designs this way.

BBC REPORTS GUERRILLAS HELPED BY SOVIET GUARDS

TA300625 London BBC World Service in English 0600 GMT 30 Dec 82

[Text] Afghan guerrillas are reported to have carried out another attack on an airfield in Afghanistan, the second such attack in the past week or so. According to Western diplomatic sources in Pakistan, the guerrillas were helped to cross a perimeter minefield by Soviet guards at the airfield at Bagram, north of Kabul. The guards were said to be from the predominantly Muslim Republic of Uzbekistan.

Correspondents say that if this is true, it adds weight to guerrilla claims that they have been gaining support from the Muslims in Soviet Central Asia. According to the Western sources, the raids caused considerable damage to aircraft and buildings.

REBEL LEADER CITED ON 22 DEC AIRPORT ATTACK

BK281719 Hong Kong AFP in English 1701 GMT 28 Dec 82

[Text] Islamabad, Dec. 28 (AFP) -- The commander of the Afghan resistance in the eastern Province of Ningarhar today claimed that his men successfully destroyed 10 Soviet helicopters and caused widespread damage to installations at Jalalabad Airport in a "spectacular attack" early last Wednesday.

Two days ago, several rebel sources said a group of 50 mujahedeen armed with rocket launchers and mortars raided the airport on the night of December 22 to 23 and caused heavy damage.

Various sources had reported then that three helicopters and four tanks were destroyed, but 60-year-old rebel leader Mawlawi Yunis Khalis said today that beside 10 helicopters, his guerrillas destroyed a radar station, observation towers and other installations.

Meanwhile, according to the Afghan Islamic Press (AIP) news agency, the new estimates came from a mujahedeen source in the Afghan Army. The informant, who reportedly works at Jalalabad Airport, was quoted as telling AIP that a group of rebels took a security cordon by surprise, "creating panic" among the soldiers. Over 100 government troops and airport guards were killed or wounded in the operation which, according to rebel sources, was planned for the eve of the third anniversary of the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

The attack on Jalalabad was so fierce that the airport would have fallen to the rebels "had the operation continued for another 15 minutes," the rebel news service said, quoting the eyewitness. It was not possible to obtain independent confirmation of the rebel claims.

Meanwhile, Soviet forces last week diverted a 300-vehicle convoy from Jalalabad to the fighting area in the Konar Valley, a vast part of which is reportedly in rebel hands. The fresh Soviet troops were seen leaving Jalalabad for Asmar via Surkhrud, the scene of major clashes last week.

PAPER SAYS MUJAHIDIN HAVE ANTIAIRCRAFT GUNS

[Correspondent's report]

[Text] Rawalpindi, 22 Dec -- Diplomatic sources in Islamabad have confirmed that the Afghan mujahidin guerrillas now have antiaircraft guns and antitank weapons to use in their freedom fight against the Soviet aggressors.

According to these sources, the mujahidin in the Hazaras region of central Afghanistan have already received such weapons and, in the light of this, the claim of the region's mujahidin that they have been shooting down Soviet gunship helicopters and Soviet aircraft must be true. According to these sources, the Soviet gunship helicopters are no longer formidable for the mujahidin. According to them, the mujahidin now control 24 of the 26 districts in the Hazaras region. Only Bamian and Chaghcharan Districts are outside mujahidin control. The Hazaras region is inhabited by Shi'ite Muslims who are somewhat influenced by the Iranian revolution. They have set up an administration in the 24 districts they control and collect taxes like any other administration. These taxes are given to the mujahidin. These people also have set up a shura assembly which regularly holds sessions. The resistance movement in the Hazaras region is headed by one Jaglan.

MUSLIM LEADERS CALL FOR END TO BLOODSHED

LD270848 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1600 GMT 26 Dec 82

[Message from the Department of Islamic Affairs, the Supreme Council of the Ulema, and religious leaders on the occasion of the birthday of the prophet Muhammad -- read by Mawlawi 'Abdol Wali Hojat, head of the Islamic Affairs Department]

[Excerpts] [Begin recording] In the name of God, the merciful, the compassionate. Muslim and brother compatriots: the working Muslims of the world are celebrating the auspicious birthday of the great messenger of Islam, Hazrat-e Muhammad, peace by upon him and his family.

Our Muslim and working people are making preparations to gloriously celebrate this auspicious day. We leaders of the Department of Islamic Affairs and of the Supreme Council of the Ulema and the religious leaders of the DRA commemorate this day and pray to Almighty God to keep all Muslims in His care.

You the workers of our free homeland, Afghanistan, are well aware that the national democratic April Revolution was brought to victory in accordance with the will of the God of universe and the demands of our people. It was brought to victory so the fruits of the labors of the people will belong to the people; so that they will live under new and prosperous circumstances and perform their religious rites and prayers in an atmosphere of freedom, so that the homeland will be transformed from the conditions of shameful backwardness into a prosperous country that can take its place in the ranks of the world's developed nations. And you, working Muslims, now have such a developed country.

The DRA, after the victory of the April Revolution, has taken and is taking frim steps on this great path. However, workers of our country cannot yet enjoy the full benefits of the revolution. Why? Because the enemies of our faith and homeland -- the British, the Americans, and the Chinese -- have deceived a number of our compatriots and, to establish their oppressive rule, armed them and infiltrated them to carry on a fratricidal war aimed against Muslims in our country. These deceived people don't allow humanitarian and lofty aims of the April Revolution to be put fully into practice. They do not allow people to benefit from the fruits of the revolution. Although these deceived people claim to be engaged in a holy war, what is it that they really do? We, the ulema and religious leaders of the country, ask you, Muslim compatriots, this question. They set fire to schools -- the learning institutions of your children; they destroy mosques -- the places of prayers, the house of God; they kill innocent people, the old, women and children; they destroy your bridges, roads, and highways and prevent you from living in peace.

Muslim brothers and faithful compatriots, such acts of the enemies of the April Revolution are not Islamic but are anti-Islamic. Their war is not a holy war, it is robbery, plunder, and the killing of Muslims. We the ulema and religious leaders of the country warn you about this path of sin. True Islam is not to be found among the British, American and Chinese satans. It exists here in your country, in your own homes. No action by the Democratic Republic of Afghanistan could be against the sacred religion of Islam. Islam is alive, thanks to Almighty God, in the homeland of your fathers and forefathers. Mosques, other places of worhsip, are open to all. The Muslims in our country perform their religious rites without any restriction and obstacles.

You Muslim and faithful compatriots, think sincerely about your homeland, your people, and your faith. Think about those deceived compatriots who have been ensnared in the traps of the enemies of Islam -- the British, the Americans, and the Chinese. We, as true Muslims, must think about our compatriots and the destructions of the homeland; we must guide these decieved ones away from the path of sin. All those who have been deceived should know that every bullet they fire sheds the blood of one of their compatriots, their Muslim brothers. Almighty God will not pardon their acts and they should fear the fire of hell which awaits them because of their sins.

How long is the fratricidal war of Muslim brothers going to last? And how long will they continue to prepare the ground for the British, American and Chinese hegemonists and their satanical servants?

We the ulema and religious leaders on the eve of this auspicious day once again call on them to end this fratricidal war! Enough of the bloodshed! Come and return to your homeland, to your homes. True Islam and religious leaders are to be found in your homeland. There is no danger to your faith and traditions in the Democratic Republic of Afghanistan. There will never be any danger to you. The national democratic April Revolution has been brought to victory solely for your prosperity. God be with you. Amen. [end recording]

SRI LANKA

BK231133 Colombo International Service in English 1045 GMT 23 Dec 82

[Text] The Sri Lanka voters participating in the first ever referendum yesterday decisively endorsed the extension of the term of the present parliament by a further 6 years under the fourth amendment of the constitution. Fifteen districts voted in favor of the proposal while seven districts voted against. The voting altered the customary pattern in the elections held since independence when no government in power has returned to office to serve an unbroked second term. Two months ago the presidential candidate from the ruling party was reelected as the executive president with an overwhelming majority. The referendum which followed also favored the government.

The total number polled (?from the land) approving the extension of the present parliament is 3,141,223; votes polled against are 2,605,983. This gives a clear majority endorsing the proposal for the extension of the life of the present parliament. The total number polled is 5,768,662.

The districts of Colombo, Gampaha, Kandy, Matale, Nuwara-Eliya, Matara, Digamadulla, Puttalam, Anuradhapura, Polonnaruwa, Badulla, Moneragala, Ratnapura, Kegalle and Kurunegala voted for the proposal. Several of these districts voted decisively in favor. The best figures were recorded in the districts in the hill country. The districts that voted against the proposal are: Kalutara, Galle, Jaffna, Hambantota, Wanni, Batticoloa and Tricomalee.

MINISTRY SPOKESMAN CONDEMNS LEBANON NEGOTIATIONS

LD292236 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 29 Dec 82

[Text] Commenting on the talks relating to the withdrawal of foreign forces from Lebanon, a Foreign Ministry spokesman told our correspondents:

Following months of massacre, plunder and aggression by the Zionist forces, the occupying regime of Al-Quds and the Lebanese Government finally have started their negotiations. He said: The presence of Zionist forces in Lebanon and the continuation of chaos and tension resulting from that presence seriously threaten the region's security, and are designed for the realization of Zionism's expansionist dreams. He said: We condemn those efforts and view them as a step toward promotion of the Camp David agreement.

So far, the occupying regime of Al-Quds has resorted to the creation of clashes and tension to justify the presence of its forces in the occupied Lebanese regions. And the great satan, America, also on the pretext of establishing peace and maintaining Lebanon's security, is trying to impose its presence on the deprived and Muslim people of that country, just as it has done in the Sinai.

The Foreign Affairs Ministry spokesman, in connection with the withdrawal of Syrian and Palestinian forces from Lebanon, pointed out: The presence of brother Syrians and Palestinians in Lebanon cannot compare with the presence of the Zionists and are only aimed at supporting the Palestine aspiration and the defense of the deprived people of Lebanon against the criminal Zionists' savage aggression. In our view, the Zionist regime, as it has shown in the past, will never give up its designs and will continue with the occupation of Lebanon despite withdrawal of all other forces.

Commentary on Talks

GF281920 Tehran International Service in Arabic 1815 GMT 28 Dec 82

[Unattributed commentary]

[Excerpts] Three parties met today to slay Lebanon: Israel, the United States and the Phalangist Party. Israel wants Lebanon to become a devoted friend of Zionism and its norther gate of peace and tranquillity. As for the United States, it wants Lebanon to become a bridge for the Arab leaders to cross to Israel. It had been the bridge used by the victorious Palestinian Revolution to cross to its real arena inside the occupied territory. The Phalangist Party, which sided with Israel -- indeed Israel was on its side, supplying it with money and arms during the past 7 years -- wants to pay Israel back.

These three met today so that each will pay the other what it wants. Lebanon will be the scapegoat. It will be the table divided by the three parties. Everyone is waiting to see what the United States, Israel, and the Phalangists will do. Everyone is waiting for the moment to execute Lebanon so that he can begin his role.

All are waiting for the decisive moment that will end the current talks among Israel, the Phalangist Party and the United States. King Husayn, for example, is watching events and developments and is pinning all his hopes on the current talks. He is one of those who are waiting for the execution of Lebanon to begin the role assigned to him.

The strangest thing reported by news agencies yesterday was the approval of the ruling regime in Baghdad of Jordan's entry into the capitulation negotiations similar to those of Camp David. It seems that the king of Jordan was in need of this approval by his partner in the conspiracy, Saddam Husayn. It also seems that without this approval, the shah of Jordan could not accept the principle of reaching an agreement with Israel because of the natural relationship between the two and the overlapping roles they are playing in the Islamic region.

Saddam's connection with Camp David is clear. It is he who paved the way for this agreement; he is also the godfather of the agreement concluded between Israel and As-Sadat when he, by declaring the war against the Islamic revolution in Iran, blotted out the negative impact of Camp David on world public opinion. The war has been going on to prepare the way for the second and third agreements that will involve all reactionary parties in the Islamic region.

The Camp David group decided to accelerate recognition of Israel; it decided to put an end to the conflict with Israel and to demolish what all Palestinian generations built through their blood and souls. It has been decided that they would invest Israel in the region and place on its head a crown decorated with the skulls of the children of Sabra and Shatila. They decided to take the sword from the Palestinian people's hand after they filled the hands of some leaders with dollars. They decided to take off the clothes of nationalism, pan-Arabism, and Islam to put on Israeli clothes. This is the ruler's decision.

As for the decision of Muslim peoples, we will hear it from the Palestinian people in the occupied territory who are still chanting "God is great." We will hear this decision through the sound of the bullets on every inch of Lebanon, which is still rejecting the decision of rulers and all Israeli-U.S. decisions.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE NO 1,167

LD291738 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 29 Dec 82

[Communique No 1,167 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. A number of Saddamist dupes last night attempted to infiltrate one of our combatants' defensive positions in a Moharram operational sector. However, their move was halted by the triumphant combatants of Islam with complete alertness and timely fire. The result was losses and casualties inflicted on enemy forces while enemy patrol elements were forced to retreat.

Sporadic fighting and exchanges of fire continued on the southern front during the past 24 hours. The combatants of Islam, continuing their defensive operations, brought enemy units and positions under constant heavy artillery fire, inflicting losses on the Iraqi forces and halting enemy movements and operations.

On the Abadan front, the valiant Gendarmerie returned the Saddamist forces' fire. Bringing enemy positions and bunkers under their fire, they destroyed light and heavy weapons emplacements, killing or injuring a number of Iraqi personnel.

On the western fronts, fighting continued during the past 24 hours in the form of exchanges of fire, these being more intense on the Sar-e Pol-e Zahab front. Enemy losses on this front included two vehicles.

In the Marivan region, the army combatants brought enemy positions in the vicinity of Panjwin under their fire, halting the Saddamist forces' movements and operations and inflicting blows on them.

During operations carried out by the valiant Kurdish tribesmen across the border, the combatants of Islam in a few hit-and-run operations inflicted the following losses and casualties on the Saddamist forces: destruction of 4 trucks and 1 command jeep; destruction of 1 106-mm fieldgun and 1 tanker; 50 deaths; and injuries to around 30 Iraqi Zionists.

The selfless combatants of the Air Force of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the air defense units repulsed all Iraqi violations of the country's southern and western frontier airspace during the past 24 hours.

GUARDS COMMANDER VIEWS SECURITY SITUATION, WAR

GF291254 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 29 Dec 82

[Excerpts] Mohsen Reza'i, commander of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, while talking to our correspondent, spoke of the work of the revolution guards in clashes with the counterrevolutionary and war-waging minigroups and about the future of the war.

[Begin recording] [Question] Please comment on security in Kordestan and throughout the country with regard to the recent decree of the imam and the clashes with these counterrevolutionary, war-waging minigroups.

[Answer] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. I praise the provider of the imam of the nation, the martyr-nurturing nation, and all Muslims of the world, and with greetings on the occasion of the unity week of the Muslims, which would, if God wills, be a rallying point for all the Muslims against America and Zionism.

With regard to the question of security during the past month, the Revolution Guards Corps, in the operations named after Martyr Atatollah Ashrafi Esfahani, carried out actions against certain groups of counterrevolutionaries. These operations were directed against such groups as the hypocrites, Toofan, Komeleh and Sahand.

I might as well mention that these operations against the hypocrites started 1 week ago throughout the country and, so far, (?good results) have been achieved and in accordance with the strategic plan that they adopted to leave Tehran and go to other towns or Kordestan or abroad. So far, the blow has been very effective. After the completion of these operations, we will report the results to the public. Other operations were carried out against the Toofan group in several important cities where it had bases. [Words indistinct] and we will inform the public of the statistics later.

Regarding the Komeleh and Sahand, the majority of them have been either arrested or annihilated. Komeleh was a group that established ties with the Ba'thist regime in the winter of 1981 and asked for arms and money. It received 100 million tumans, some (?TOW) missiles and other arms that clearly are outlined in the documents we have captured. Later on, Saddam sent them his special envoy stating that these arms will be sent to them (?in stages). A large amount of these arms and ammunition has fallen into the hands of the fighters of Islam. The operations against Komeleh were carried out in Tehran, Sanandaj, and other cities.

The other group is called Sahand, formed by a number of Iranian students in England under the direction of an individual named (David Yati), a university lecturer and Zionist, who came to Iran after training and started [word indistinct] at the start of the revolution. This group had some organization in Tehran, the north and other places and wanted to [word indistinct] and unite with Komeleh and gather the other defeated leftist forces together and start a movement against the revolution. Around 70 percent of its cadre and facilities and the shops they had bought in Tehran and other cities, their property, cars, and a quantity of arms, ammunition, TNT and several large trucks -- which they intended to fill with explosives -- have fallen into the hands of the fighters. We will inform the nation of the results in a comprehensive report.

As far as Kordestan is concerned, the Hamzeh garrison continues preparing for operations. Contrary to the claims by the Democrat radio, which had told the people of our Kordestan the garrison has been defeated, the garrison, which is currently preparing to form its various units, shortly will enter the theater and, God willing, will completely purge all of Kordestan.

As far as the decree by the imam of the nation dealing with the rights of the nation, whether moral, material, or otherwise, two dimensions have been looked at by the imam of the nation. One is in connection with the fight against the groups where no procrastination is allowed and all the nation and organizations must continue their fight against the counterrevolution with all their might. On the other hand, he ordered us to be careful to respect people's honor and not to enter any house suspected to be a communal house, which may cause financial damage or hurt honor. This must be according to shari'a decrees and with the order of the revolution court. God willing, this will be a decree by which we can eliminate the issue of counterrevolution faster and in a more exact fashion.

[Question] What steps have been taken for the final move in the war with the infidels and what is your answer to Saddam's missile attack against the heroic city of Dezful?

[Answer] Following the immense welcome of the people for the fronts, the capabilities of the fighters of Islam is at a very good level in order to reply in the war and to these barbaric attacks they recently made. God willing, they will be done one after the other. [as heard] As our nation knows, following the Ramadan operations, when we carried out operations in all the fronts, having achieved our political and military objectives, we are now preparing for a strong and decisive confrontation with the forces of Saddam in the near future. [end recording]

Therefore, the headquarters hereby announces that from today, Wednesday, 29 December, all branches of the foundation are dutybound to implement the decrees issued by the shari'a judges within 3 days. MUSAVI MEETS WITH GDR MINISTER 22 DECEMBER

[Text] Tehran, Dec. 23, IRNA -- The chemical industries minister of the German Democratic Republic, Guenther Wyschofsky, currently visiting here, said his government was precisely following Iran's political and anti-imperialist stance and highly valued Iranians' resistance.

The GDR minister, in a meeting with Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi Wednesday afternoon, said that in the same manner that Iran was being affected as a result of an economic siege by imperialism, his country was also faced with U.S.-made MX missiles in Western Europe.

In reply Musavi stressed that the presence of U.S. fleet in the Indian Ocean and the Persian Gulf was a plot against the Islamic revolution launched with the collaboration of reactionary states and lackeys of imperialism.

The Islamic revolution, he noted, due to keep common cultural roots among the regional states enjoyed a higher stance saying that hostility of Egypt, Jordan, Morocco and other regional reactionary regimes was a clear indication for their subserviency to the U.S. [sentence as received]

Musavi described the Soviet Union allegations on its fight against imperialism as "surprising" adding that at a time when Iraq was being supported by pro-U.S. regimes, still the USSR was sending arms to it. Military experts believe that missiles used in the recent Iraqi raid to Dezful, martyring a great number of innocent people, were manufactured in the Soviet Union, the prime minister said.

The Iranian nation, Musavi stressed, was prepared to the extent that it could overcome all these problems.

During the meeting, also attended by GDR ambassador to Iran Wolfgang Konschel, Iranian Minister of Industries Mostafa Hashemi and a number of economic officials, Wyschofsky presented a message from the GDR prime minister to his Iranian counterpart.

[Text] Following the signing of a protocol on economic issues between the Islamic Republic of Iran and the GDR, GDR Chemical Industry Minister Guenther Wyschofsky said in an interview with our correspondent: Through cooperation in the fields emphasized in the protocol, we can achieve good results because we have common issues. He added: Our nations have fought against warmongers for independence and peace. Therefore, all our forces can be used to strengthen the solidarity and relations between the two countries.

Referring to the visits by the German delegation to several factories in our country, the GDR chemical industry minister said: In your workshops, we noticed how workers confront technical and economic difficulties and carry out their duties.

Regarding the protocol signed between the two countries, he said: This agreement goes beyond the draft signed in the middle of 1982 in Berlin and it foresees cooperation in the fields of [word indistinct] industries, agriculture, chemical industries and building the required center and in other economic fields.

At the conclusion of this interview, the GDR chemical industry minister, declaring his country's readiness to put this protocal into practice, hoped that in the future the two countries would cooperate more closely in commercial fields and in the export of technology to Iran. He also hoped that the two countries' relations would further expand.

[Text] According to an IRNA report, the foreign trade under secretary of the Commerce Ministry was interviewed regarding the abrogation of the barter agreement between the Islamic Republic of Iran and East Germany, he said: Following the East German delegation's visit to Iran, which took place last week, the officials of the Industry, Commerce, and Oil Ministries and of the Central Bank of Iran, presented both the positive and negative aspects of the present barter agreement between the two countries. The German delegation agreed to sign a new agreement to increase trade. On 1 February 1983, the barter agreement between Iran and East Germany will be abrogated and a special account for commercial exchanges and the services between the two countries will be opened.

However, it is predicted that in the forthcoming year the Islamic Republic of Iran will export to East Germany goods valued at approximately $270 million. Of this amount, $56 million will be for nonoil exports; we will import goods from that country to the same value. Iran's imported commodities from East Germany will consist of basic materials and spare parts for industrial machinery. Commodities exported by Iran to that country will consist of agricultural produce, particularly dried fruit, ores, industrial products such as cranes for construction sties, buses, minibuses, springs, motorcycles, bicycles, clothing and shoes.

NVOI CRITICIZES MEDIA OVER AFGHAN COVERAGE

TA281624 [Editorial Report] The clandestine National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran at 1730 GMT on 27 December in a commentary entitled: "In the Islamic Republic News Should Be Reported Honestly to the People" says: Several days ago, it was announced that 4,000 deceived Afghan families returned to their homes in Helmand province. This was reported throughout the world.

However, amazingly, the Voice and Vision of the Islamic Republic, which disseminates various reports fabricated by news imperialism about Afghanistan and also the demonstrations of a handful of deceived Afghans and a group of Afghan counterrevolutionary mercenaries affiliated with CIA-fabricated organizations, kept silent in this respect. It did not want to reveal the truth to our homeland's people who want to hear the facts. Imam Khomeyni has said that in the Islamic Republic news should be reported honestly to the people.

Unfortunately, contrary to our expectation and hope, most realities are not only concealed from the people, but certain elements in the radio and television organization strive to distort the events, to falsify facts, and to slander our homeland's true friends on the international scene. The approach of the Voice and Vision of the Islamic Republic and of some licensed newspapers toward Afghanistan, which sincerely supports revolutionary Iran and which is the natural ally of our homeland in the struggle against imperialism, confirms this claim. For example, all are aware of the Islamic Republic's proposal to expel Israel from the United Nations, which received the positive votes of 10 countries besides Iran. The Voice and Vision of the Islamic Republic named nine of these countries but kept silent about the tenth, namely, the DRA. Noteworthy is that a number of so-called Islamic governments, such as Turkey and Pakistan, refrained from voting in favor of Iran's proposal. In this connection, too, the Voice and Vision of the Islamic Republic kept silent.

All these indicate that the appointees of Qotbzadeh and Bani-Sadr still control our homeland's mass media. It is contrary to ethical, human, and Islamic standards that some individuals in our country's propaganda organization pursue an approach that is totally inconsistent with all the principles of the constitution and the imam's line. Let all the blindhearted be aware that democratic Afghanistan can no longer be pushed under the boot of imperialism, headed by America, by any pretext or ploy, including the guise of the Islam of the Saudis and the Ziaul Haqs.

NVOI ASSAILS AFGHAN ANTI-SOVIET DEMONSTRATIONS

TA290625 (Clandestine) National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1730 GMT 28 Dec 82

[Unattributed commentary: "The New Plots of the Unexposed Qotbzadehs"]

[Text] Dear compatriots: The so-called demonstrations of a group of counterrevolutionary mercenaries and deceived Afghans along with the domestic Sha'ban bimokhs and the hojjats, and the assault on the embassy of our next-door neighbor the Soviet Union, have once again confirmed the bitter fact that a powerful wing in the Islamic leadership has seriously entered the arena to distort the revolution's face and the Islamic Republic of Iran, to isolate it on the international scene, and to implement Brzezinski's guidelines. The continuation of this situation could very likely cause unpleasant consequences for our emancipated homeland.

If we were to use as a basis for judgment the tone and interpretation of the reports disseminated by the Voice and Vision of the Islamic Republic of Iran about the demonstrations of a handful of heroin smugglers and killers, and some articles written by the journalistic Keshmiris in a number of licensed newspapers in this connection, we would certainly come to the conclusion that all the tumult and demonstrations had been planned in accordance with a specific plan, by a specific wing in the Islamic leadership and for the sake of specific aims. Without doubt, the aims of this clamor and provocations, above all, is the very thing that the imam of the nation repeatedly has emphasized, namely, they raise the name of the Soviet Union to negate America.

The aim is the very thing that Brzezinski recommended to the masked Qotbzadehs and to the hojjatis without the hojjat, who still are not few in institutions and government organizations, namely, one must do something so that relations between revolutionary Iran and the Soviet Union would be strained further and further.

The nature of the Afghan counterrevolutionary associations and minigroups who operate under the Islamic guise in our homeland and in Ziaul Haq's Pakistan is so obvious that it is impossible that officials of the Islamic Republic are not aware of it. Many times numerous shari'a judges and officials of our homeland's security affairs announced that the work of the overwhelming majority of these Afghan fugitives is smuggling heroin, opium, and foreign currency, and even establishing contact between the elements of the counterrevolution within the country and abroad. The shari'a judges, particularly in Khorasan, repeatedly have emphasized that in accordance with documents and evidence at hand, so-called Islamic and Afghan organizations have contact with the intelligence and espionage services of the United States and the West.

These same licensed newspapers of our homeland which published in great detail the report of the demonstrations by the heroin smugglers and the domestic Sha'ban bimokhs some time ago also published the interview of Hojjat ol-Eslam Mazari, leader of the Afghan (?Naft) Organization. With regard to the nature of the Afghan fugitive groups, Mr Mazari said in this interview: Of course, deviant groups who use the Islamic feature are not confined to the Sunni followers alone. Among them are both supporters of the West and believers. Today, the most tragic calamities of Afghanistan are due to these same deviant groups. Is this confession not enough for the country's authorities to understand the nature of these gangs dependent on the West?

In this same interview, Mazari said: Those who have received weapons from abroad and are fighting each other were from among the Khans. These groups engage in robbery and the government propagandizes that the Mujahidin are thieves.

Yes, these so-called Islamic mujahidin, gentlemen, not only engage in robbery in Afghanistan, set fire to mosques, schools and hospitals, and behead the imams of the mosques, but their task in our homeland, according to hundreds of reports published in these same newspapers, is robbery, smuggling, violating people's honor, spreading corruption and narcotics. These corrupt elements, under the support of a handful of pseudo-Muslims, ignorant superficials, outwardly CIA-fabricated Islamic associations such as the hojjatis and the unexposed Qotbzadehs, have gained the best safe haven in our country, both for spreading corruption and for implementing America's plan. It is not without reason that the tumult of the Afghan fugitive, counterrevolutionary and smuggling groups together with a handful of domestic Sha'ban bimokhs in Tehran and some of the other towns was disseminated in a favorable and supportive tone by imperialist mass media. Indeed, what a worse disgrace!

One day Colonel (?Bakhtegan), chief of the antidrug department, with regard to the open involvement of the Afghans residing in Iran in the smuggling of heroin and opium, said: These 2 million Afghan refugees, if I were to be very optimistic I must say that 200,000 of these refugees are smugglers who have a very active role in bringing narcotics into Iran.

Yes, it is they who, because of so wide and favorable facilities obtained in our homeland to commit various criminal acts, hold so-called demonstrations under the Islamic guise and the banner of the masked and unexposed Qotbzadehs and the CIA-fabricated hojjatis. In fact, were we to take away from these 2 million Afghans residing in our country the children, the aged, and the women, approximately what would remain is this same number of 200,000 smugglers whose demonstrations allegedly for the defense of Islam are recounted in great detail and with pride by some of the gentlemen.

Of course, one does not expect anything else from a handful of fanatic superficials, pseudo-Muslims and sanctimonious individuals, the hojjatis linked with the U.S. CIA, the masked Qotbzadehs, the journalistic Keshmiris and the local Sha'ban bimokhs. However, what do our homeland's realistic officials, who were aware of this antirevolutionary and anti-Islamic Republic of Iran, of this U.S. plot, say? Is support, even implicit support, for a handful of smugglers and a deceived group whose leaders are in the service of the espionage and intelligence services of America and its allies, who receive money from Saudi Arabia and weapons from America, who are supported by the Carters, the Reagans, the Saudis, the Ziaul Haq's and the Qabuses, not an insult to the revolution and distort the Islamic Republic of Iran's feature?

Doesn't giving a free hand to this counterrevolutionary and fugitive gang mean indirect implementation of Brzezinski's plan and guideline with respect to straining the Islamic Republic of Iran's relations with the northern neighbor, the Soviet Union, and isolating revolutionary Iran in the international arena? And is it appropriate to be harmonious with the painful cry of Mr Ma'adikhah who said: What can I do, I am involved with certain persons who in the name of hezbollah and Islam violate all Islamic regulations? What kind of a mockery have they created in the name of defending Islam? What are these acts created by vulgar people in this country?

USSR REPORTEDLY INTENSIFIES TROOP CONCENTRATION

GF281744 (Clandestine) Free Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1500 GMT 28 Dec 82

[Text] Our correspondents have reported that the Soviet Union has intensified its troop movements and concentration on its borders with Iran. These operations were increased during the past month since the intensification of Khomeyni's illness.

The reports indicate that behind-the-scene activities of the traiterous Tudeh Party has recently been expanded in the Islamic Republic and Baku radio has increased its propaganda attacks against the role of the United States in the region and some of the elements in the Tehran government.

Irrespective of recent verbal attacks by the officials of the Tehran regime against the Soviet Union, relations between the two countries remain the same and the Tehran regime continues to expand its relations with the communist government of the USSR.

RADIO IRAN VIEWS HASHEMI-RAFSANJANI'S 'POWER'

GF291750 (Clandestine) Radio Iran in Persian to Iran 1330 GMT 29 Dec 82

[Text] When we look at the position of Mullah Hashemi-Rafsanjani in the government of Ruhollah Khomeyni today and evaluate the great power that he has amassed in 1 1/2 years, we can more easily believe the rumors about Hashemi-Rafsanjani's role in the death of Mohammad Beheshti.

Of course, Hashemi-Rafsanjani's responsibility in the explosion at the Islamic Republican Party cannot yet be evaluated decisively, nor can we deny the allegations against him.

One fact, however, is certain. That is this mullah's continued ascent of power following Beheshti's death, considering the fact that he was relatively unknown up to that time. We can even go as far to say that his power is currently even more effective than Khomeyni himself. This is because, even though Khomeyni enjoys a special status which no one else in the regime enjoys, in action the real power lies in the hands of Mullah Hashemi-Rafsanjani instead of Khomeyni.

A review of Hashemi-Rafsanjani-Khomeyni relations reveals the many aspects of the tricky and deceitful nature of this ambitious mullah. Being aware that he will never be able to stand up to Khomeyni while he is alive and knowing Khomeyni's position, Hashemi-Rafsanjani with great cleverness has been able to carry out all his wishes behind the cloak of false desires of the imam and is like the spider that spins all its web with strength and calculation. He places his own chosen agents in powerful positions around Khomeyni and carries this task out with such skill and meekness that the imam of Jamaran has not for a moment had any doubt.

A look at the positions of power clearly shows that the majority of sensitive posts and effective organizations on which the government relies are either under the exclusive direction of Mullah Hashemi-Rafsanjani or are in his hands indirectly through his agents and appointees. However, the web that Mullah Hashemi-Rafsanjani has spun around Khomeyni and the organs of power are not really for the present. They are insurance for tomorrow. His ambitions are to attain power following the death of Khomeyni since he is well aware that as long as Khomeyni is alive no matter how powerful he become he will still be eclipsed by Khomeyni.

Therefore, what he is after is the total control of the regime after Khomeyni. He has concentrated all his effort today to achieve this goal. It is not without reason that he is doing his utmost to help Montazeri replace Khomeyni. He knows well that the presence of a new element, an idiot like Montazeri, in the role of the leader, or as they say velayat-e faqih, will enable him to capture the leadership whereas if the position of the leader falls in the hands of other crafty mullahs like himeslf then he will have a much bigger problem. This will cause a conflict of interest and create unavoidable clashes.

Under such circumstances, what is surprising is the influence of Hashemi-Rafsanjani on Khomeyni and Khomeyni's unawareness of Hashemi-Rafsanjani's webs and all the other organizations of the regime.

Informed circles believe foreign powers are not worried about the continued increase of Hashemi-Rafsanjani's power but are aiding him in this endeavor since they believe that a concentration of power in the hands of an element with whom they can reach an understanding is far more superior to a government in which power divisions can cause political chaos, dualism, and possibly uncontrollable moves, especially in a country like Iran which has such an important international position from the geographical point of view that the rights of its nation take a second position.

In all cases, what is certain is that the power struggle in the regime has not yet ended and we cannot under any circumstances forecast Hashemi-Rafsanjani as the winner since anything is possible in the chaotic situation in Iran. Experience has shown that those (?better) than Hashemi-Rafsanjani, like Mohammad Beheshti, took all their desires and ambition to the grave with them.
